Supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands—gives out bile, the body's laxative, helps stomach, kidneys and intestines to work properly. A mere bowel movement isn't enough. "Fruit-a-tives" made from fruits and herbs, will strengthen and build up your liver like nothing else will. You'll be amazed how well you are every morning. Try Fruit-a-tives. All druggists.

Max Schmeling Appears Ready For Louis Heavy Title Fight

Maxie's Great Pride Spurs Quest Of Crown He Lost—Money Means Nothing

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The purpose of the Schmeling-Thomas fight was to put der Schlager a little closer to the condition he wants to attain for his second meeting with Joe Louis next June. Consensus of opinion among the writers at the ringside was that Schmeling is as close to tip-top form as he'll ever get. And that is close enough, if you ask me.

There were rounds in the Thomas fight in which Max missed with rights and lefts. But, as he warmed up to his task, he improved his accuracy. Once or twice he seemed a little short of wind, but it was hardly noticeable, certainly negligible considering the all-around fight he made. At 32, a fighter can be excused for puffing a bit now and then.

Hits With Both Hands

Not once throughout the bout did Max deviate from the fighter he always has been, a clear thinker with confidence and determination. Also he displayed all of his old ability to take it. The old bird involoss pretty well. Thomas added a note that might be disturbing to the brains department of Joe Louis' staff when the Chicago fighter, following the bout, said, "Don't let anybody tell you Schmeling is a right-handed fighter. He can hit with that left hand, too." This is something I have maintained for several years, though some of my colleagues have laughed me down. The fact is, Schmeling hits so hard with that right of his that the lads do not see the damage his left inflicts.

Now that he is through with Thomas, Schmeling says he is ready for another fight, maybe a couple of them, before his projected June date with Joe Louis. He feels that he is not quite sharp enough yet for the Bomber. I'd be he tempted to argue that with him. If he steps into the ring against Joe in June in the same form he showed against Thomas, Joe's goose is cooked.

Schmeling has no worries. He is set for life financially. None of the harassments that contributed to Jack Dempsey's defeat at Philadelphia are part of Schmeling's life. Max himself says it was these worries that led to his defeat at the hands of Max Baer and his subsequent loss to Steve Hamas. But he is fixed now, and recovery of the heavyweight title is all he cares about. Schmeling has tremendous pride, and if he can stand before the world as the only heavyweight champion who ever came back, he will be satisfied and call it a day.

He Thinks, Too

Whatever his personal life is does not concern this writer. He may be a Nazi, and while I have no sympathy for Nazism, I like Schmeling. I like War Admiral, too. It is a pleasure to watch a superior artist perform, no matter if he does spend his evenings pushing baby buggies in front of street cars. Schmeling is the best heavyweight in the world, in my opinion. Not only for his physical qualities, such as endurance and punch, but because of his ability to observe flaws in others and to think out a way of beating his opponents.

Some of my colleagues are not enthusiastic about Schmeling's swift raids upon our supply of bucks. He dashes across the Atlantic, scoops up a few money bags and beats it back, buys up a couple of castles and sits back for a while. That's bad, of course, but the only way out of it seems to be along the line of development of another Schmeling in this country. Shall we bar Schmeling because he is a German? After all, it's the world's heavyweight championship he is after. And if he is the best fighter in the world, let him have it.

Joe Louis might not fare so well scooping up marks in Germany nowadays, and that's too bad, none will deny. It is unfortunate that political conditions cannot be adjusted to fisticuffs. Of course I'm for free trade.

Canada's Best

SYL. APPS

A year-end Canadian Press poll of sports writers throughout Canada has left Syl. Apps, centre star of Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team, with the proud distinction of being "Canada's outstanding athlete for 1937." Apps, a native of Paris, Ont., was a star in track, football, baseball and amateur hockey before turning professional with Toronto a year ago.

CLOSING EXTENDED IN CHURCH LEAGUE

Entry closing date in the Church Hockey league was extended Tuesday night to Monday, January 3, as several prospective teams asked for more time to consider entering or to obtain the necessary money. Thirteen teams are in now and the schedules open this Thursday evening at All Saints' rink, with these four games: Knox Bantams vs. All Saints, at six; All Saints Juveniles vs. Murray Street, at seven; St. John's Juveniles vs. Mark Street, at eight, and Murray Street Seniors vs. All Saints at nine.

Three teams entered in the senior section so far. Seniors are Murray Street, managed by Harry McNabb; All Saints, managed by Harold Charlton; George Street, managed by Lloyd Parnall; and but one junior entry was received, All Saints, managed by Gord Smith. The expected entry of St. George's Seniors failed. St. Pauls promised junior entry may add some older players and go senior. The junior division may be abandoned as there is a large Junior City League using many church players.

Five entered the juvenile section: Mark Street, managed by Carl Ferguson; Murray Street, handled by Stan. Gilleople; St. John's, with Bert Graham at the helm; George Street, piloted by Bert Hamilton, and All Saints, managed by Jack Platt. Entries are expected from St. Paul's and Park Street, with Trinity a possibility. Mark Street may play home games Tuesdays at the new Quaker rink.

Bantam teams and managers are: All Saints, George Beaudette; St. John's, Gord Clegg; George Street, Reg. Kingdon; Knox, Don Charlton. St. Paul's will enter while St. James may put in a team arranged by Jack English. The list of rules made up by the secretary was confirmed by the executive and the referees checked.

'SOLDIER' JONES HAS HIGH PRAISE FOR TED BROADRIBB

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP).—Lend an ear to Horace Jones, better known throughout the fight world as the Soldier, and hear him tell how English Ted Broadribb "was the best second I ever had" and how "the fighters of today can't compare with those of 20 years ago."

Broadribb is the man from whom Tonypandy Tommy Farr recently severed connections, blaming the loss of his fight last August against World Champion Joe Louis on mishandling by the little Englishman. But you can't tell the Soldier that Broadribb wasn't a first-class second.

"Why, Broadribb was so good," said the Soldier, "that when I went to Paris after campaigning in England for nearly four years with him as my second I wanted to take him along. He had to stay in England but I had his brother along as my trainer." This was about 15 years ago.

"Yes, sir," claimed the fighter who once was Canadian light-heavyweight and heavyweight champion "I had 250 fights or more in 11 years and I never had a better man in my corner than Broadribb. He never got excited and I only wish he had been with me when I fought Harry Greb in Pittsburgh."

Fought Greb 7 Times.

The Soldier fought Greb seven times, losing each time by decision. But this doesn't rankle him, for "Greb was the greatest fighter of them all." Jones had Greb down in the sixth round of their Pittsburgh scrap, but Greb came back, and "what he did to me from the seventh to the 10th was just too bad."

And now to the present-day fighters. "I only wish I were 26 again. Why the fighters now can't compare with those of 20 years ago like Jack Dempsey, Greb, Gene Tunney (whom the Soldier fought in a semi-final to the Dempsey-Georges Carpentier fight), Kid Norfolk and Bill Brennan."

The Soldier, 41 now, never engaged in an amateur bout. He started his career in Quebec 22 years ago against the then Quebec champion Spike Sullivan, and knocked him out in the first round. Then he campaigned throughout Canada and was a action in many other countries.

He won the Canadian heavyweight crown in Sherbrooke, Que., from Jack Renault, another great Canadian boxer, but he "couldn't remember the exact date." After he married in England 31 years ago he promised his wife he would hang up his gloves after one fight. He did—knocking out Indian Joe Brown in Toronto in the first round.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Here are the latest odds on the various "Bowl" football games, fresh from James J. Carroll's price factory in St. Louis: California is rated seven points better than Alabama, and the professional bookies are laying 8 to 5 against the crimson tide....Same odds prevail on Louisiana State over Santa Clara in the Sugar Bowl....Rice is figured 13 points better than Colorado at Dallas, with the price 2 to 1 against Whizzer White and Co. ...Auburn and West Virginia are given three-point margins over Michigan State and Texas Tech in the Orange and Sun Bowl games but the bookies are betting 4 to 5 and take your pick....You risk $5 to win $4 in these two games....Same figures go for the All East-All West game at San Francisco....Now write your own ticket.

Lou Gehrig (and the Mrs.) are on their way to Hollywood by motor for Lou's first movie....Sammy Baugh is reported getting ready to demand $25,000 from Washington Redskins next season; but, being a sensible young man, he'll gladly settle for $15,000....

Mog Mason Scores Toronto Victory

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP). — Mog Mason, the boy Tommy Farr hopes to see the world's bantamweight boxing champion, will get a chance to avenge the licking Toronto's Baby Yack handed him in his first fight on this continent.

With Farr in his corner last night, Mason scored a technical knockout at 1:45 of the sixth round of a scheduled eight-rounder over Jimmy Chapman of Vancouver. Mason knocked the Westerner down four times before Referee Ray Smillie awarded the bout to the Welsh champion.

Hockey's Big 7

(By The Canadian Press)

Gordon Drillon, dashing Toronto wingman, who has led the National Hockey League in scoring since the season's start, added two assists to his total last night in Leafs' 3-0 win over Americans to lift his point total to 22. Harvey Jackson, a team mate, held second place with a goal and an assist, while Cecil Dillon continued to lead the American division by scoring in Rangers' 3-2 loss at Boston. Lynn Patrick of Rangers, by gaining an assist, forced a four-way tie for seventh place with Sweeney Schriner and Nels Stewart of Americans and Marty Barry, Detroit.

The leaders:

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

SEVEN BOUTS have been lined up by the Riverview A.C. for their next flatic program here, which will be held in the Armouries on Jan. 6th—which is a week from this coming Thursday. No less than five good Toronto scrappers will meet local fighters this time and three of them showed here before in right fine style. Curtain-raiser is between Buddy Redmond, the 85-pounder who startled the populace by winning last time with a technical kayo, and Bobby Quirt, 84 pounds dripping wet. Joe Hobbins, 147, tackles Jack O'Neill, 154, in another all-local session which should be okay. Jerry Belland will attempt to blast the ears off Phil Morris, Toronto lightweight, and Pat Jordan meets a colored Toronto lightweight in Tommy Foster. Plenty of action & promised pugilistic followers in both tilts.

* * * * * *

THREE MAIN bouts will be lined up again. Norm Bowler gallantly agrees to go in against Art Darnbrough of Toronto, Provincial welter champ. Len Miniecla meets Joe Genovese, flashy Toronto lightweight, in a rematch and both boys will be battling for keeps. Look for a kayo in this one as they are both staking their reps on this clash. Then Nick Orlando promises to polish off Bev. Carter, colored 135-pound wraith of Toronto, but the dark-hued dancer with the snakelike left hand will be tricky. It ought to be another neat number all the way. We imagine the 700 fans who thrilled at the first fight card here a few weeks ago will all be back for this second one—with two grudge rematches in it—and will bring their friends.

* * * * * *

AB FRICK, former athlete and sports official here—now living in St. Catharines where there is a colony of ex-Peterborough folks—sends us a few clippings. About a game in which Thorold took a 5-3 intermediate "B" puck win over Port Colborne Incos, and in which Speedy St. Louis—the former Belleville puckist who is now in Thorold—tallied four of the five markers. Thorold were rubbed out in intermediate "B" finals by Belleville last year. It strikes us that it must have been a poor brand of hockey if St. Louis (only a so-so puck-chaser in this district) can carry the mail like that. Frick follows local sports closely via this paper.

* * * * * *

THERE WERE three good hockey practises at the Brock last night. Some two dozen junior prospects were hard at it for an hour and will go back again tonight at six. This is the last open workout and prospects must be on deck this time or be dropped. Some will be weeded out this eve. The coach is sort of surprised at the lack of condition so many kids show as he claims—and rightly—that young players should be in shape from the start. They ought to have had over two weeks practise by themselves on the canal or the free rinks. Harley Weir—as Manager Herb Payne was absent—put about 20 intermediate prospects through a workout. That team will be good, we'll bet, before long as there are some smart pucksters after the positions. They'll workout at eight each night, except when the Brock is reserved for skating.

* * * * * *

SENIOR "B" practise nightly at seven there. They had a nice light drill last gloaming and the team was pretty well picked for the game with Fliers next week. Either Harding or Clarke in goal. Weir, Williamson and Barnes on defence, with Ellis mentioned as another prospect for the rear guard—though this fourth spot is still open. Calladine will be centre for one line with Starr on left wing and Vitarelli on right. McDougall is centre for the alternate line with Gratton right wing and Kingdon left. Some of the positions were just tossups, with fine players like Burton, Creighton, etc. right in there, and one of these latter may step up anytime to senior "B" with one of the others dropped. The O.H.A. permits a player to play one game in any series and then drop back and play in a lower class but not more than one game.

* * * * * *

THIRTEEN TEAMS entered the Church Hockey League last night, but half a dozen more wanted more time to consider entering or to raise the required fee, so the closing date was postponed till Jan. 3rd. Four games were lined up for tomorrow p.m. to pry off the well-known puck lid at All Saints' rink. Knox and All Saints have a bantam joust at six; All Saints play Murray St. Juveniles at seven; St. John's Juveniles tangle with Mark St. at eight, and Murray St. meets All Saints' Seniors at nine. The executive of this loop had a session last eve to check on entries, arrange games, pass on the list of rules and deal with referees. Dope is in elsewhere. Schedules in the four sections of this large minor hockey league will be drawn up shortly, probably early next week.

* * * * * *

ABOUT 40 players took in the first City Cage Loop session of the season at the "Y" yester gloaming and a six-team circuit was formed. Ye officers are: Hon. President, Jim McClenaghan; prexy, Harry Marsh; vice-president, Jack Wolstenholme; secretary, Don Charlton; treasurer, Ken Gadd. A representative of each team will be on the executive. Three games will be played every Saturday p.m. at the "Y", commencing at 7.30 o'clock. Any Saturday there is an Ontario cage tilt for gals there, one contest will be staged on Wednesday. St. Paul's, C.G.E., St. Andrew's and Auburns are four in, and two more have not been named as yet. Cobourg's application for entry was voted down, though exhibition frays may be lined up with the Lakeshore lads. St. Paul's will enter Ontario church intermediate playdowns, while St. Andrew's may enter the Ontario church junior competition. First City Loop games will be Jan. 8th, a double schedule being drawn up.

* * * * * *

POINTING OUT that Belleville Redmen were short of subs, the Quinte writer, in his comments on the recent game there, adds: "With only four practises under their belts the visiting Petes played a cagey game and took advantage of every opportunity to stall and get that much-needed breather which, after all, proved good hockey and fine logic. Two baseball players, Eddie Starr and Les Burton, teamed splendidly with Ned Vitarelli to give the Petes their best line of attack last night. This trio was always dangerous. In Barnes, their import from the west, the Petes have a real defenceman and a good puck-carrier. The other two imports, Brown and Gratton, are only average, however." He liked the Jackson twins and Murphy.

* * * * * *

HITHER AND yawn: Bill Chadwick, A.A.U. boxing and rasslin' representative for Central Ontario, was in town yesterday . . . Told us he is quite tickled the way both sports are shaping up locally again . . . . Westclox of the Senior City Hockey League have an open practise at the Brock tonight at eight . . . . Monarchs of the junior city circuit workout at nine this eve at All Saints' rink; everyone welcome . . . . Two ex-Lindsay sports scribes, Mike Loucks and Red Wakelin, are trying out with our intermediate Bees now . . . . Entries close tonight at eight at a meeting of the Southend Intermediate Puck Loop at the Sacred Heart rink; one more team wanted . . . . Hugh Brennan, ex-Napanee catcher who moved north, has up and married the eldest daughter of Walter and Mrs. Gerow, and will stay in the north . . . . There is really but two O.H.A. senior "A" teams this year, Toronto and Port Colborne . . . . Kingston scribe says the Petes can't be so hot to barely nose out Belleville; give us time, buddy . . . . "Y" swim and cage chatter listed elsewhere tonight . . . . Fog forced the postponement of a soccer game in England Xmas day but one goalie was not told when his buddies left the field and he had to be rescued—still holding down the fort alone—an hour or so later! He hadn't the foggiest idea it was off, despite lack of shots to block, it seems.

FIVE GOLFERS TIE FOR LEAD

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP).—Five golfers turned the $4,000 Hollywood Beach Hotel open into a wild scramble down the home stretch Tuesday as they rounded the half-way mark all even at 138, two below par for 36 holes.

Horton Smith of Chicago and Leonard Dodson of Springfield, Mo., first-round leaders with 67's, slipped to 71's yesterday and found themselves tied with three who came from two strokes back.

Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., Craig Wood of Rumson, N.J., and Frank Moore of Mamaroneck, N.Y., all clipped a stroke off par again after opening with 69's.

3 FREEZE TO DEATH

OSAKA, Japan, Dec. 29—(AP).—Three college students were found frozen to death to-day and eight others were missing in the "Japanese Alps" where they had gone skiing. A [illegible] swept down Mount Kengatake upon the party yesterday.

PT. COLBORNE TIED FOR SECOND PLACE SENIOR A HOCKEY

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., D— 29 (CP)—Port Colborne Sailors were tied for second place in the senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association today their 9-2 victory over Brantford Redmen putting them equal with Oshawa in the standing and just behind the leading Toronto Goodyears.

Red Reynolds, Sailors' high-scoring wing, shot into the league scoring leadership as he led his team to victory with four goals, three of them in the third period of last night's game with Redmen.

Don Metz, Toronto Goodyears' scoring ace, will have a chance to regain the scoring leadership tonight when Goodyears play at Kitchener Greenshirts.

Redmen were back at full strength when they met the Sailors, their defence star, Burt Baumgart, playing for the first time in two weeks after suffering injuries in a game and Roy Krueger and Webster being back in uniform. The return of the two first-string forwards didn't help the Redmen however as the Sailors turned on the heat.

Third Straight Victory

Sailors took their third consecutive game after dropping the first two of the season in easy style. Thompson, junior age player, started scoring at 2:20 of the first period and repeated seven minutes later on assists by Goosey McGowan to give Sailors a lead they never lost.

Greig scored for Brantford then Doug Runions scored his first of the night to end the first-period scoring. Reynolds was the only one to score in the middle stanza.

Although scoring was light in the second period the action was fiery and the teams began handing out heavy body checks. Reynolds scored from just inside the blue line, the puck sinking into the top corner of the net.

In the third period Brantford opened scoring with Reynolds still serving a penalty imposed in the second. Kelly scored for the Redmen, their 4th one of the night, with Edmison and Storer assisting.

The Sailors started raining pucks at Box who had replaced Murphy in the Brantford net and Runions scored twice to bring his night's total to three. Reynolds goals clinched the game.

CITY BASKETBALL LOOP ORGANIZED

At a large turnout of players Tuesday night at the Y.M.C.A., the six-team City Basketball League was reorganized for the season. C.G.E., St. Paul's, St. Andrew's and Auburns—last two being newcomers—are four entries, and two others, unnamed yet, will enter. A double schedule will be played, starting January 8. Three games will be played Saturday nights, starting at 7.30, with one being staged Wednesdays when there is an L.O.B.A. fixture there on a Saturday. Each team is responsible for two referees from their members. With the executive's approval one referee from each side will be used each night, two in each of the three tilts.

Officers elected were: Hon. President, Jim McClenaghan; president, Harry Marsh; vice-pres., Jack Wolstenholme; secretary, Don Charlton; treasurer, Ken Gadd; with executive consisting of a member of each entry not having one of the officers on its playing roster. There was much discussion regarding affiliating with the O.A.B.A., but nothing was done. Cobourg wanted it, but it was decided to keep it a local league, and perhaps play exhibition games with Cobourg. St. Paul's will enter the intermediate series, and St. Andrew's may enter the junior of the Ontario Church cage competitions.

Boston's Bruising Bruins Lengthen Division Margin With 3-2 Win Over Rangers

Leafs Defeat Americans 3-0, While Canadiens Get 2-0 Win From Maroons

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP).—Time has failed to mellow Eddie Shore. Beneath that lop pose of the past few years lurked the bruising brute of old —a hero in Boston and a thoroughly hated hockey player in half a dozen other cities.

Under the taunts and blows of young Phil Watson of New York Rangers, the old Shore cast off restraint last night before an admiring crowd of 16,000 Bostonians. His heavy stick flashed and Watson went down and out as cold as the ice on which he sprawled.

For the information of any other youngster who may think Shore has softened up, Watson stayed out five minutes. Shore's stick crashed against his forehead, opening a long cut.

The battle, most vicious of the National League season, broke out in the second period of a game which Bruins won 3-2 to lengthen their American division lead over the New Yorkers to six points.

Leafs Defeat Americans 3-0.

In other games last night Toronto Maple Leafs beat Americans 3-0 in New York and Canadiens won a goal-tenders' battle 2-0 from Maroons in Montreal. That left Habitants still trailing Leafs by three points for top spot in the Canadian division.

Watson and Shore carried their battle from the New York net to centre ice, with Referee Clarence Campbell tagging after them and warning them to stop. Finally, after a lot of stick-waving and jostling, Watson swung at Shore's neck with his stick.

Shore ducked the blow and followed through with a swing of his own that was more accurately aimed than the Rangers'. When Watson went down for the count Shore drew a major and Watson got the same. Referee Campbell explaining the Ranger had provoked Shore.

Watson was not the only casualty of the game. Milt Schmidt, Boston centre, will be out of the game for some time with a broken jaw he suffered in a crash with Mac Colville of Rangers.

A two-goal lead piled up by Cooney Weiland and Bill Cowley for Boston disappeared in the second period when Dit Clapper was penalized and Clint Smith and Cecil Dillon scored for the New Yorkers.

There was less than five minutes of the third to play when Flash Hollett, Boston defenceman, won the game for Art Ross' team. Hollett snared a loose puck in the centre ice zone and swung through the Ranger defence alone to fire a feeble shot that trickled through Dave Kerr's padded legs into the New York cage.

Real Game At Montreal.

Montreal's largest crowd of the season—8,000 persons—saw a real game at the Forum with Wilf Cude of Canadiens taking the honors in a netminders' battle with Bill Beveridge of Maroons. The Welsh-Canadian scored a richly-deserved shutout despite the fact he suffered a two-stitch cut on the forehead from a flying puck in the first period.

Two Canadiens' veterans—George Mantha and Babe Siebert—took care of the scoring. Mantha fired the first goal in the opening period and one of Siebert's long drives found a place behind Beveridge in the final session.

Turk Broda, Leaf netminder, who was under fire recently from Toronto fans, performed brilliantly to win his shutout over Americans. While Red Dutton's forwards were parked around Broda trying to break through his armor, Leafs scored two goals on breakaway plays.

With a crowd of 13,258 looking on, Harvey Jackson sent Leafs out in front late in the second period. Syl Apps got Toronto's second goal in the third off Jackson's rebound, and Charlie Conacher passed to Bill Thoms for the third.

The New Yorkers played without Art Chapman, out with a cold, and Tommy Anderson, nursing a shoulder injury. Old Hooley Smith took on double duty, centering two lines, and performed capably.

N.H.L. All-Stars

(By Canadian Press.)

Flash Hollett, Boston, scored the winning goal unassisted when the Bruins increased their division lead with 3-2 victory over Rangers.

Turk Broda, Toronto, gave brilliant puck-stopping display as the Leafs blanked Americans 3-0.

Harvey Jackson, Toronto, bagged goal and assist against the Amerks.

George Mantha, Canadiens, scored early to start the Habitant club away to 2-0 victory over the Maroons.

Wilf Cude, Canadiens, turned back every thrust as Canadiens won by shutout.

JOHNNY SORRELL STARS FOR CLUB IN HORNETS' TIE

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (CP)—Give a big cheer for Johnny Sorrell, the man who refused to let it get him down when shunted out of the big league into a minor loop.

For a good many years Johnny starred with Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League. But this season when Wings hit a bad slump he was sent to Pittsburgh Hornets in the International-American Hockey League when Coach Jack Adams shook up the team.

That was nearly a month ago and many players probably would have been affected by the change. But not Sorrell, who has been steering steadily with Hornets ever since. He had one of his good nights last night when he scored both goals in a 2-2 tie Hornets played with Springfield Indians in the only scheduled game.

Gain First Place

The point gained by the tie sent Hornets into first place ahead of Syracuse Stars in the western division by a single point. It marked the 11th game in a row without defeat for Hornets and the 12th in succession for Indians without victory.

Three of the goals came in the second session after a scoreless opening period. Adelard Lafrance put Indians ahead at 8:36 but Sorrell tied it a little more than a minute later. Again Springfield went ahead in the period when Toupin tallied, but Sorrell got this one back soon after the start of the third period.

Providence Reds have a chance tonight to stretch their lead in the eastern section over Philadelphia Ramblers. In the only game up for decision Reds play the lowly New Haven Eagles, and a victory would send them three points ahead of Ramblers.

ROBINA HIGGINS IS OUTSTANDING FOR DOMINION

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—(CP).—Robina Higgins of Winnipeg, ace of the feminine division of Canada's team heading for the British Empire games in Australia, got the call to-day as the outstanding woman athlete in Canada in 1937.

By the margin of a single point in the Canadian Press year-end poll of sports writers, the 21-year-old javelin thrower edged out another Winnipeg luminary, Mrs. John Rogers, Canadian open golf champion, for the honor.

Selectors listed three athletes in order of preference, three points being scored for a first-team vote, two for a second and one for third. In the final tabulation, Miss Higgins had 18 points, Mrs. Rogers 17.

Sets Canadian Record.

Best javelin thrower developed among women athletes in the Dominion, Miss Higgins set a Canadian record of 126 feet, 6 inches, this year and is expected to win her specialty at the Empire games in February.

Mrs. Rogers accomplished one of the best victories in Canadian sport by winning the open golf title at Winnipeg from an international field.

Third in the ballot was Aileen Meagher of Halifax, noted sprinter, who also is on her way to the Empire games. Fourth was Phyllis Dewar of Vancouver, swim star, and tied for fifth, Noel MacDonald, centre of the Edmonton Grads basketball team, and Heather Leslie of Winnipeg, Canadian women's close golf champion.

Others mentioned prominently were Thelma Golden, Toronto softball pitcher; Mrs. Anna Kier Patrick of Vancouver, Canadian women's singles badminton champion; Mrs. Cliff Shuttleworth of Hamilton, Ontario women's golf champion, and Rony Atkins, of Toronto, handling star.

FAVORS LONGER OVER

MANCHESTER, England — (CP). —T. A. Higson, England cricket selector, favors the eight-ball over and opposes over-preparation of wicket. No artificial manure, clay or marl has been used at Lancashire's Old Trafford ground for three years, he says.

CHAPTER 26

We worked feverishly, all of us, putting Mimi's dresses and things back in their boxes. I knew that absolutely I had the best chance of winning. Not for nothing were all the years when my mother had trained me in orderly habits. I had always brushed my own clothes and folded them. I had helped her with the putting away of winter things and the getting out of the summer ones. And these young sybarites had had no training — especially Andy. His man had done things for him. He worked awkwardly, ineffectively, while I packed boxes with the regularity of a machine. And as I packed I wondered what I should do with the prize when I had won it.

Alice Anmidon was the third judge, and I knew she liked me, so did Katherine and Bernice. And they were all good sports. Their verdict would, I knew, be a fair one.

While the contest was on, Mimi sat on the arm of the sofa swinging her foot. I know now that she was heartily sorry for the thing she had done, but there was no sign of it on her smiling countenance. It seemed to me dreadful that she could sit there and smile!

At last the ballots were filled—the judges inspected them; were given slips of paper on which they wrote their decisions; handed them to Mimi.

She read them, lifted her head and looked at me.

"Jerry wins," she said.

I don't know what she expected. I don't know what any of them expected. Some banal scene, no doubt, in which she paid her debt! . . .

But I stood there in the middle of the floor, laughing a little, carrying it off. My sense of drama had come to my aid. I felt like a man in a play!

"This is not the time or the place," I told her, "I want your I. O. U., Mimi." I picked up a pencil and a slip of paper which one of the judges had discarded, "write on this—I promise to pay—on demand. . . ."

Her hand when she took the pencil was cold. But she, too, carried it off. She scribbled for a moment, folded the paper and handed it back to me.

I opened it, read it, folded it again, and with apparent calmness put it in my pocket.

But my blood was racing madly, for this was what she had written:

"Oh, Jerry, I am such a little fool. And you are such a darling!"

That was always the charm of Mimi—the delicious unexpectedness of her. Her moments of surrender made up for all the tempests which preceded them. A touch of arrogance was her inheritance. A loving heart was her endowment. The two warred with each other endlessly.

I think if she had been left to herself she would never have hidden her heart from me. But her mother's ambition, her mother's influence, swayed her. I will not say that her mother was all to blame. Mimi, like a cat which has always had a warm hearth, loved luxury. And she had been made to feel that her beauty was a marketable thing, that it must bring her not only a prince but a kingdom. Indeed, any prince might do, it was the kingdom which counted. Looking back upon it, I know it was a devastating thing that she should have been thus trained. And whatever regrets I may have for what came after, I am sure that in a sense I saved her.

As the days went on I became more and more convinced that she cared for me. Yet she would promise nothing.

"I can't marry you, Jerry. I can't. Let's live for today, and not look ahead."

Well, we lived for the day. I saw her everywhere. I danced with her, rode with her, talked in terms of burning eloquence.

With it all, however, I never claimed the kiss that I had won. We never spoke of it. It was a lovely secret, which lay between us. . . .

Thanks to my friendship for Mimi and for Lionel, I was invited everywhere. I found myself swept on by a tumultuous tide. Staking everything on the success of the play, I refused to look my financial future in the face. From morning to night I was whirled from one excitement to another, gaily, continuously.

The life of my boyhood receded more and more into the background. The tragic months of the summer when I had watched my mother die might never have been. Memories of Uncle Jerry's arguments beat against my brain. Why should I, too, not have my cake and eat it?

"And so," said Silas Sanderson to me one day, "you are liking Vanity Fair?"

"It's great."

"What are you writing?"

"We are waiting to hear from the play. If it is a success, Lionel and I will do more of them."

"Don't wait. Go shut yourself in a tall tower, and show the people what you can do."

But I had no wish for a tall tower. I wanted this wide fair plain. I more than liked Vanity Fair. It was picturesque, prodigal. And Mimi was a part of it. That was enough for me.

There was this to be said for Mimi. If she would not marry me, she would have no other. In vain her mother wept over her morning chocolate.

"I am sorry, dearest," Mimi told her, "but I don't want to get married."

"You can't know what you are throwing away. Andy won't wait forever."

"I don't want him to wait."

"But he can give you — everything."

"I should have to take him with —everything. And he isn't worth it."

"But — Oh, you can't be so foolish, Mimi. If you won't think of yourself, you might think of me." "I have so many cares — I can't sleep nights."

Mimi, repeating this conversation to me, remarked, "She hates to be poor. You see she has never been until now."

It was late on the night of the Veiled Prophet's ball that Mrs. Le Brun came out into the open and challenged me.

I had been thrilled by the mystical, spectacular ceremony, the beauty of the ladies of the court, the splendor of their gowns, the dazzling display of jewels. It had seemed to me marvelous that these well-groomed men and gracious women could doff so easily their sophistication and enter whole-heartedly into the spirit of fun and folly.

Mimi looked like an angel, or a princess, or a fairy queen. Not even the chosen queen could compare with her. And as I had watched her damning progress on her way to do homage to the court, I had wondered how I ever dared lift my eyes to her.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SHOCK

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he hopped fast through the Wintry woods carrying Buster's toy Christmas electric engine. "Ha! Ha! Ha! I made those Bad Chaps jump!" laughed the rabbit gentleman.

As he was bringing home Buster's engine, Uncle Wiggily was caught by the Fox and taken to the den where the Wolf and Bob Cat were waiting.

They thought the toy engine was something good to eat. But Uncle Wiggily made it chase them and they were so excited he ran out of the den with the toy before the Fox, Wolf and Bob Cat knew whether they were standing on their heads or their tails.

"Well, I guess I had adventures enough for one day," said Mr. Longears to himself as he hopped on through the woods toward his hollow stump bungalow where Buster was waiting for his engine. "I don't believe anything else will happen."

New Year Soon

So he hopped along, twinkling his pink nose and thinking how it would soon be the New Year.

"And I wonder then if I'll have any new adventures for the boys and girls to read about?" thought the rabbit gentleman. "I hope so."

As he hopped along Uncle Wiggily heard rustlings in the snow covered bushes on each side of the woodland path along which he was hopping.

"I hope that rustling sound isn't any of the Bad Chaps from the den chasing after me," thought the rabbit, nervously looking behind him. But he saw nothing.

"I guess it was only the wind," he said, hurrying along.

Once again he heard the rustling sound and again he looked but he could see nothing.

"I guess it was the snow falling off the bushes," said Uncle Wiggily as he hopped on faster, carrying Buster's electric engine.

Again he heard the rustling sound among the dried leaves in a sheltered place in the woods.

"I guess it is a Snow Bird looking for something to eat," thought the rabbit gentleman. But it wasn't. A moment later Uncle Wiggily saw, slinking along through the bushes ahead of him, an animal he very much feared. It was Pop Goes, the weasel.

The weasel is always after rabbits and Pop Goes was especially hungry for Uncle Wiggily This Bad Chap got his name from the old rhyme which says: "The Monkey chased the cobblers' wife all around the steeple. That's the way your money goes, Pop goes the Weasel."

Has a Plan

"He'll get me, sure as pop!" thought Uncle Wiggily as he saw the Bad Chap slinking along. "He's running on ahead to catch me where the paths cross. But I'll fool him. I'll hide in this hollow stump."

Uncle Wiggily hopped into a hollow stump. It wasn't big enough for him and the electric engine, so he left the toy outside on the ground. He knew the Weasel wouldn't eat it.

The Bad Chap reached the place where the paths crossed. There he waited for the rabbit to hop along, but Uncle Wiggily didn't.

"He must be hiding back there. I'll get him!" hissed the Weasel.

Pop Goes went back. He saw the electric engine on the ground near the hollow stump. Being as curious as a cat Pop Goes put his nose to the toy engine. All of a sudden!

"Sizz! Fizz! Wup!" Oh, what an electric shock Pop Goes got from the engine batteries.

"Zowie! Zowie!" howled the electric-shocked Weasel as he ran away.

Then Uncle Wiggily jumped out of the stump and hopped safely home with Buster's engine, which didn't shock him. And if the green traffic light doesn't turn red from eating cranberry sauce, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's mistletoe.

Ancient Debt-Prison Law Well Worked In N.B.

Hundreds Of Actions Heard Monthly—Only Place In Empire Probably Civilized World

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Dec. 29 (CP)—Said to be the only part of the British Empire, and probably the civilized world, where a person may be imprisoned for debt, New Brunswick soon may follow the example of other countries in abolishing the ancient law.

The barristers' society of New Brunswick has recommended abolition of imprisonment under this statute. An amendment intended to effect the desired change was withdrawn at the last session of the legislature, but another is expected to be introduced at the next session.

Actually, very few debtors are jailed and fewer remain in cells longer than several hours or days although hundreds of debt actions are heard in the province every month. Honest debtors face no danger of languishing behind bars for long periods.

In the great majority of cases intervention is avoided by the defendant reaching some arrangement with the plaintiff. Otherwise, to retain liberty of limits a few miles from the jail the defendant needs only to obtain two bondsmen, each a surety for the amount owed.

Action Within 48 Hours.

If jailed the debtor may request examination before a County Court Judge or Clerk of the Peace on not less than 48 hours. Failing such notice, the defendant is summoned before the Judge or Clerk, in less than a week, to make a disclosure of his affairs. Discharge follows if his representations are considered satisfactory.

"Taking the limits" involves no hardships in most cases. But the situation is different at Moncton, far outside the limits, as the Westmorland county jail is situated at Dorchester, 25 miles away. Thus a Moncton debtor may find his freedom confined to a three-mile radius of the Dorchester jail.

No persons may be detained on the limits longer than a year if a hearing shows no good reason for further detention.

Owing partly to Moncton's situation in its relation to the county jail, more debt actions are taken there than at any other centre in the Maritime provinces. The large number of cases is increasing, and constables are busier than ever.

As at other New Brunswick points, however, the few Moncton debtors sent to jail usually are those who can pay but remain stubborn.

Supporters of the law, in these days of extended credit, see it as a protection against repeated offenders who obtain goods without ability or intention to pay. The proposed abolities, it is said, would result in a tighter credit system.

Forger Parmalee Gets 4 Years

TORONTO, Dec. 29—(CP).—Lucius Parmalee, known to the police as the "Santa Claus forger," was sentenced to-day to four years in Kingston Penitentiary on fraud and forgery charges.

The three fraud charges, three of forgery and one attempted fraud charge involved a total of $15,000. Parmalee was handed over to Canadian authorities by United States police officials recently at Detroit. He has served time in San Quentin Penitentiary, California.

Parmalee became known as the Santa Claus forger because he attempted his largest forgeries during the Christmas season.

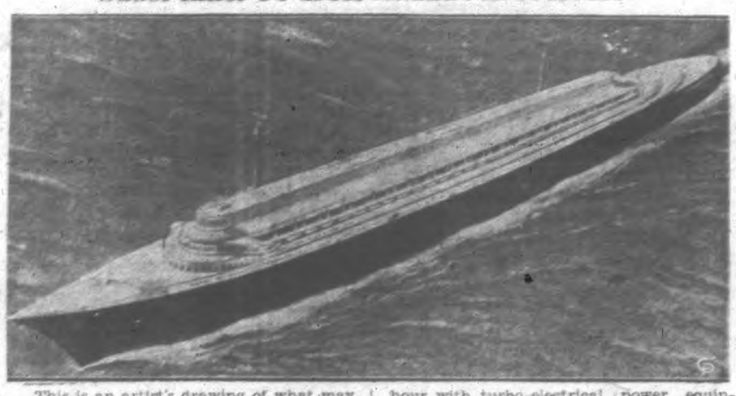
Super-Liner To Cross Atlantic In 84 Hours



This is an artist's drawing of what may be the super-liner of the future. This stream-lined ocean giant, suggested by executives of French and British steamship companies, is designed to cross the Atlantic in 84 hours. Its speed would be 37 knots an hour with turbo-electrical power equipment, and a glassed-in superstructure. Note smoke ducts at the rear of the vessel adding to the general streamline, instead of on top. The liner is designed for a length of 1,350 feet.

B.C. RAIN STORM CREATES HAVOC

VANCOUVER, Nov. 29—(CP).—Railway and wire communication was interrupted today as rain fell at the coast, ice formed on wires throughout Fraser Valley and snow and water harassed the interior of British Columbia.

Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train dispatchers said their scheduled arrivals from Eastern Canada were held up near North Bend, end of the first division out of Vancouver.

Canadian National and Canadian Pacific telegraph wire chiefs lined up one or two wires—"enough to keep our trains on the road."

An ice-storm at Matsqui in the Fraser Valley last night left Canadian National wires to the east "in very bad shape."

The Canadian Pacific Telegraph had "a couple of wires only" after trouble in the Kettle Valley through the southern interior, and at Aquihalla Pass, near Hope, B.C.

The publicity department of the British Columbia Telephone Company said all wires east went out. A spokesman said the 29th storm at Matsqui was "probably" responsible.

Meanwhile, coast cities massed man-power and machines to combat the flood threat of fast-melting snow. Drains in Vancouver were filled to capacity and numerous basements were flooded.

Cost of the storm to Vancouver alone was estimated by civic authorities at more than $50,000 as a crew of more than 1,000 men continued "mopping up" after last weekend's storm which left a foot of snow in Vancouver and as much as four feet in some Fraser Valley points.

FOUND DEAD IN BED

AILSA CRAIG, Ont., Dec. 29 (CP).—Miss Harriet Lewis, 48, was found dead in bed yesterday at the family home a quarter-mile from Brinsley in McGillivray Township.

STRANGE ESKIMO DOLLS ENROUTE TO TICKLE QUINTS

MONTREAL, Dec. 29—(CP).—From the bleak wilderness of Santa's far northern kingdom, the Dionne quintuplets are going to receive presents that money can't buy.

Strange looking dolls made by an Eskimo woman from the skin of seals and dogs and trimmed with fur and beads are being sent to the quints at Callander, Ont., by Ingeborg Lunge, a woman fascinated by pictures of the children she saw in magazines.

The toys, brought to Montreal yesterday by Mrs. J. O. E. Petersen, wife of a Danish government prospector, were made in the winter of 1936 and the summer of 1937. Mrs. Petersen, whose mother lives in Montreal, arrived home after spending many months in the region of Narsasaq in Danish Greenland, miles away from the nearest Danish settlement of Halsteinsborg. She had planned to come home this autumn but storms delayed the trip.

Mrs. Peterson, an attractive looking woman who speaks Eskimo, Danish and English, said Ingleborg Lunge had been attracted by pictures of the Dionne children she had seen in magazines sent the Petersens.

Long Skilful Job.

So Ingleborg got out her bone knife, began the slow, skilful carving, the fine sewing of skins and the threading of beads until she produced five dolls, 20 inches high, with sealskin faces, painted black and red, with blouses made from calico, fur collars and beaded decorations. And with Eskimo caution, Ingleborg copied the first letter of the Quints' names and traced them in beads on the respective dolls.

But the dolls from the Arctic don't wear skirts. They wear sealskin trousers, striped by white dogskin, high boots of bright red-colored sealskin with black soles.

Mrs. Petersen said she planned to communicate with Dr. Allan Dafoe, the Quints' physician, to learn what she should do with the gifts.

"I don't know whether they (the children) will be allowed to receive them right off," said Mrs. Petersen, "but I shall explain to Dr Dafoe that the woman was very much interested in the Dionne family. First she had to catch the seal, prepare it and bleach it in the Arctic cold before she made the dolls. She also made me one, but on it she sewed some of her own hair."

Rattan furniture is to be made in the Philippines for sale in America.

Don't take needless risks with CHEST COLDS

Relieve their misery this Proved way

WHEN there's a cold to treat—especially if it's a chest cold—that's no time to experiment. Relieve the misery with the treatment that has been doubly proved for you.

Here's What To Do: It's best to stay in bed and get lots of rest. Eat lightly, drink plenty of water, and keep elimination regular. And use your dependable Vicks VapoRub without delay.

VapoRub has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

No Long Waiting for Relief to Begin ... Vicks VapoRub is direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no risk of stomach upsets. You simply massage it on throat, chest, and back (as illustrated). Then—to make its long-continued doubleaction last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, you begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break up local congestion. And long after you relax into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working—hour after hour.

VICKS VAPORUB

Now White—Stainless

Thanks to a new process, VapoRub now comes to you in white stainless form. Only the color is removed; it is the same VapoRub—the same formula and the same effective double action.

Coup Sends 120,000 Back To Work On Paris Services

Compromise Gives Protesting Civil Servants $2.31 Living Allowance to Meet Increasing Costs

PARIS, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Striking public service workers, faced with Premier Chautemps' threat to smash their general walkout by calling them to the colors, accepted a compromise settlement today and returned to work.

Agreement was reached after labor delegates had shuttled back and forth between their own meetings and government offices.

The strikers, 120,000 strong were notified to return to their jobs soon after daybreak. Labor leaders said, however, that all the paralyzed services probably would not be restored to normal until noon.

The city's 12 subway lines and all bus lines started carrying passengers again at 6 a.m. Street cleaners and rubbish and garbage collectors started hurried rounds of the capital to catch up with their neglected work.

Overflowing cans lined the streets and there were heaped rubbish containers even in front of the residence of President Lebrun.

Electric, gas and water plant workers went to their posts, swelling the skelton crews which had assured the city of at least some supplies during the strike.

Triumph for Chautemps

Settlement of the strike was hailed in political circles as a triumph for the radical-socialist premier of the Popular Front regime, whose threat to mobilize the workers as members of the French army was credited with breaking the workers' resistance.

Under the government's threat the strikers themselves would have become strikebreakers—called out as army reserves, sent back to the same municipal jobs from which they had walked out and ordered to maintain transportation, water, gas and light supplies as well as other services they had crippled or halted. Most of the strikers are reservists.

Shortly before the compromise was reached the Ministries of Interior and War put the finishing touches to preparations for the drastic mobilization.

Naval technicians had arrived from the Brest naval base to take command of the mobilized workers and engineering officers at the Versailles barracks, awaited a call to speed to the capital for similar assignments.

Even the formal order of mobilization had been drafted and awaited

FUNERAL AT END, CASKET IS LIFTED FOR POST MORTEM

GRIMSBY, Ont., Dec. 30.—(CP)—An order forbidding burial of the body of Claude McLean until a post-mortem was made did not halt funeral services yesterday. A few minutes after the casket was lowered in the grave, it was lifted again and returned to a Beamsville funeral home.

McLean, 43, a resident of The Thirty, midway between Beamsville and Grimsby, died suddenly Monday morning though he had apparently been in good health. Cause of death on the certificate given the undertaker was stated as Angina pectoris.

A short time before the funeral was scheduled to take place, authorities issued an order for a post-mortem. It was decided it was too late to postpone the service but arrangements were made to have the casket returned to the undertaker's place.

As soon as friends and relatives left the cemetery, the casket was hoisted. Certain organs were removed from the body and forwarded to Toronto for examination by Dr. Joselyn Rogers, provincial analyst.

YOUNG CHEMIST'S DEATH PROBED

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 30.—(CP)—Tests of vital organs were ordered to-day after suggestion of poisoning arose at the autopsy into the death of Raymond Hibbins, 24-year-old Kitchener chemist, found dead in bed a his family home here.

Circumstances surrounding the finding of Hibbins' body by his sister prompted Coroner D. G. McIlwraith to order an autopsy.

During the investigation, congested vital organs led the coroner to report poison might have caused the death. All vital organs will be analytically tested to-day in attempt to determine how Hibbins died.

Detective Walter Hagan reported to Chief Constable E. K. Goodman that the room in which the young man's body was discovered contained "no signs of anything that could be taken."

The officer also reported that there was no sign of a struggle and that a book from which he had evidently been reading, was lying on the floor.

Hibbins was employed with a Kitchener firm and was spending Christmas holidays with his family.

U.S. STILL WANTS CANADIAN SILVER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP).—Treasury Secretary Morgenthau announced today the United States Treasury had agreed to continue buying silver from Canada, China and Mexico at least through January.

The Mexican arrangement for January had been disclosed earlier this week. Morgenthau said today the same treatment would be extended to Canada.

He also announced that the long-standing agreement by which the United States promised to buy silver from China with that nation buying gold from the United States had been extended until July 1, 1938.

The Secretary said the Mexican and Canadian agreements merely provide that the United States will buy up to fixed amounts of newly-mined silver from those countries at prices to be determined next month.

In the last year, the price has been 45 cents an ounce, compared with 77.57 cents an ounce the Treasury pays for new silver mined in the United States.

Girl 12, Is Mother 10 Pound Son

LINTON, Ind., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Birth of a 10½-pound baby boy to a 12-year-old girl was disclosed here yesterday when Thomas H. Chapman, 13, charged by the girl's parents with being the father of the child, was brought before Judge J. R. Powell in Greene Circuit Court.

The girl-mother is blue-eyed Betty June Lacer, fair-haired daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lacer. She named the baby Thomas Howard. Judge Powell took the case under advisement.

Panay-Sinking Film Given U.S. Public

Dramatic Scenes Show Jap. Planes Diving to Attack, Bombs Dropping, Crew at Guns, and Flight to Shore

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(AP)—The photographic story of the sinking of the U.S.S. Panay by Japanese bombs in the slow waters of the Yangtse—was put before the United States public today.

It had a preview last night before a small group of picture executives and reporters, in a rough little projection room at a guarded Fort Lee, N.J., laboratory.

In a dispassionate monotone, newsreel cameraman Norman Alley explained his extraordinary pictorial record of a 20-minute incident which threatened grave rupture between Washington and Tokyo until Japanese apologies were accepted by the United States government.

The Panay, her flag folding out smartly, pulls away from Nanking with her load of refugees. Ashore, men wave goodbye, not knowing the Panay would never tie up in Nanking again.

Two Japanese airplanes are seen far aloft; one seems to be diving toward the Panay.

("There it is; here's the business," Alley mutters.)

There is a quick cutback to the deck; seamen pop out one by one from the hold and race forward.

("That's where the emergency alarm was heard," says Alley).

Men jump to the Panay's iron-shielded machine guns, grimacing, squinting. One, a boatswain's mate, has leaped to station so quickly that he left his trousers behind. The machine guns did no damage.

One Bomb Misses

Over astern—it looked less than 50 yards—a bomb drops, and the Yangtse throws up a great burst of water.

Next, fatally hit, the Panay keels, one of her decks partly awash. The lifeboats go over the side; the men mostly are wearing life preservers, but one is seen to throw a grating overboard and jump after it.

("That's the end," says Alley, to the extra ordinary stillness of the projection room.)

Next, little boats are seen turning toward the bamboo-covered marshlands of the river bank. The wounded and the unhurt appear to crawl

FIND SHOT-MARKED AUTO IN TORONTO

TORONTO, December 30—(CP)—A bullet-marked automobile was checked closely to-day by police who sought three bandits for the attempted hold-up of a service station.

The automobile, said to have been the one which police yesterday chased for several hours after the would-be robbers fled the station in the face of a constable's revolver fire, was found in a North Toronto Park last night. The bullets from a policeman's revolver had penetrated the back of the machine.

Eleven cruiser cars were engaged in the 80-mile-an-hour chase that took the pursuers to the Orangeville district, 45 miles northwest of Toronto. For a time it was thought the two men known to have been in the machine were trapped in that area. The third man was seen to flee from the car shortly after the attempted hold-up.

It was apparent the bandits had eluded their pursuers and had doubled back over sideroads to Toronto. The car, stolen early in the day from a downtown street, was found parked in the driveway of a stable in Ramsden Park.

LEAP FROM CAR FATAL TO YOUTH

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 30.—(CP)—Thomas Rogers of Port Hope was killed here last night when he jumped out of an automobile in which he was a passenger and struck his head on the radiator. The 23-year-old farmhand was attempting to leap to safety when the machine left a highway.

With Harold Osborne, driver of the car, and Harry Beckett, both of Port Hope, Rogers was returning to Port Hope and the three took a wrong road. The machine ran over a railway station platform on to the tracks and Rogers jumped out as it stopped.

PARLEY ON ROAD LAWS

TORONTO, Dec. 30 (CP)—Mayor-elect Ralph Day said today that representation should be made to Attorney-General Gordon Conant with respect to penalties imposed for reckless driving of motor cars.

"I believe that some representation might properly be made to Attorney-General with respect to the attitude of the courts. I intend to take the matter up with my fellow-members on the Toronto Police Commission."

CHEMIST BLAMED IN WOMAN'S DEATH OF POISON POWDER

HULL, Que., Dec. 30 (CP)—Charles Hammond, 32-year-old chemist of the Ottawa Drug Company, held responsible by a coroner's jury for the death of Mrs. Cecile Lajoie, 32, of Hull, was out on bail to-day of $2,000. He was arrested on a coroner's warrant after the inquest last night and appeared in court on a manslaughter charge this morning, being remanded to Jan. 6.

The woman died in hospital here last Nov. 23 a few hours after a nurse said she had given her a seidlitz powder, allegedly supplied to the hospital by the company. The report of Dr. J. M. Roussel, Quebec medico-legal expert, who conducted an autopsy, indicated she died of oxalic acid poisoning.

Roussel's report said although analysis of the stomach, liver and kidneys failed to recover any poison, congestion of the lungs and appearance of internal organs suggested poisoning as the cause of death. Analysis of a sample of seidlitz powder impounded from the hospital stock disclosed. The report added, that the blue envelope of the powder contained .86 of a gram of oxalic acid. This ingredient, it said, is not and should not be in any seidlitz powder.

Tactics Seen Move By King Carol To Dictatorship

Little Entente Totters, Million Jews Tremble As Monarch's Pro-German Premier Tips Hand

BUCHAREST, Dec. 30—(CP-Havas)—The new pro-German Goga cabinet suppressed three important Jewish-owned newspapers today in line with its anti-Semitic program.

While consternation spread among the 1,000,000-odd Jews in Rumania, Premier Octavian Goga ushered in the second day of his cabinet's administration by ordering the suppression of the newspapers Lupta, Adeverul, and Dimieatsa, which yesterday were commanded to suspend publication.

A government decree said this latest step was taken because the newspapers were largely "edited by foreigners and always maintained an attitude contrary to the interests of the country."

Move To Dictatorships.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—The Cabinet crisis in Rumania has reaffirmed tendencies in that Balkan State which, unless they are checked, can scarcely fail to have an influence on the trend of affairs in Eastern and Southeastern Europe. They are:

King Carol is reaching for further dictatorial powers; anti-semitic, pro-German Fascism has received another pat on the head from Carol.

Rumania has chilled still more towards her membership in the Little Entente which France constructed after the Great War from Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania as a bulwark against Germany.

All of which means the star of Chancellor Hitler has moved a few degrees higher in the heavens.

Premier Georges Tatarescu lost control of the Chamber of Deputies in the election a week ago. He resigned. Carol then named Octavian Goga, one of the leaders of the pro-Nazi National Christian Party, his Premier. The King did this despite the fact Goga's party had fared very badly in the election and didn't approach control in the Chamber of Deputies.

Maybe it wasn't despite this fact, but because of it, that Carol made this move. Whether such an ill-favored Cabinet can long survive is hardly a matter of speculation. It is a certainty that it can't unless Carol takes up the slack by dictatorship. This may be what His Majesty has in mind.

Rumania has been headed towards Fascism of the Nazi brand for a long time, and the country is torn by the fight between the Fascists and the supporters of democracy.

CITY TRUST FUNDS ARE NOT AVAILABLE FOR GENERAL USE

Members of the Peterborough City Trust made the following statement to The Examiner to-day regards their position in the handling of funds entrusted to their care:

"There appears to be a great deal of misunderstanding amongst our citizens regarding the position of the Peterborough City Trust Commission and the funds entrusted to its care.

"It is being stated that the Commission has in its hands funds which should be applied to the general purposes of the City.

"The Commission holds no funds which could be used for such purposes.

"The City has from time to time issued debentures to pay for various improvements, etc., and now has outstanding a debenture indebtedness of $4,600,000.

"Under the various by-laws authorizing their issue and, as is expressly required by the provisions of the Municipal Act, certain sums specified in the By-laws must be levied each year upon the ratepayers which sums are required to be invested with a view of providing funds to meet the debentures as they respectively mature. These funds are received and invested by the Commissioners of the Trust, with the result that it now has a fund of $2,444,000 invested toward such purpose.

"These funds must by law be applied for said purpose only and if the Commissioners or the members

Snow Storm Costs B.C. $300,000

VANCOUVER, Dec. 30.—(CP)—Rail and wire communications approached normal in British Columbia to-day as work crews cleared snowslides caused in the mountains by melting snow.

Vancouver had train connections with easter points for the first time in two days as five trains, delayed by slides, reached this city last night and two others were dispatched on time.

Clearing of slides from the Canadian Pacific main line near North Bend, 100 miles east, permitted the delayed trains to proceed here. Canadian National Railways main line was cleared of slides near Boston Bar and two delayed trains, consolidated, moved toward Vancouver.

Storm costs were estimated at more than $300,000, largely in wages for clearing streets and highways.

SKIPPER SHOT, YACHT DRIFTS OFF CALIFORNIA

Found Short of Food; Six Others Rescued

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Agents of the United States Government investigated a case of homicide on the high seas to-day as the coastguard patrol boat Perseus, carrying a dead yachtsman and six survivors, towed the disabled schooner Aafje toward Los Angeles Harbor.

To take charge until the yacht is docked here some time after midnight, the Federal Bureau of Investigation ordered Special Agent W. H. Osborne to leave San Diego aboard the cutter 442.

Discovery of the fatal shooting of the Aafje's owner, Dwight L. Faulding, 49, wealthy Santa Barbara hotel operator, was told in meagre reports yesterday.

His body, lying on the deck, was reported sighted by a navy flier, who had noticed "SOS" scrawled on a sail.

Two coastguard amphibian planes despatched to the scene, found the 58-foot yacht, which sailed from San Pedro on December 20 on a two-day cruise, with food, water and mainsail gone, and lacking fuel for an auxiliary motor.

Craft Taken in Tow.

The Perseus took the Aafje in tow 190 miles south of here off the Mexican coast. Six persons and Faulding's body were removed.

The list of rescued announced by the coastguard was: Mrs. Gertrude Turner and her eight-year-old son, Robert Turner, of Dos Pueblos Rancho, Goleta, Calif.; Mrs. Jack Morgan, expectant mother, Los Angeles, and her registered nurse, Miss Elsie Berdan; Robert Horne, 26, West Los Angeles photographer; George Spernak, Los Angeles.

Harbor men said the Aafje took aboard provisions sufficient only for two-day cruise. A heavy blow may have accounted for her being far off course.

FAROUK OUSTS NAHAS CABINET

CAIRO, Dec. 30 (A.P.).—Young King Farouk to-day dissolved the Cabinet of Premier Nahas Pasha and commissioned Mohamed Mahmoud to form a new government.

The 18-year-old ruler thus acted to end a long "constitutional crisis" between him and the Nahas Government.

Nahas had bitterly protested against the make-up of a commission proposed by King Farouk to study the frequent differences that had arisen between the "Boy King" and the Premier.

The 17-day deadlock reached a climax last night when the Cabinet rejected the Kings proposal to form a Coalition Government or submit the differences to an Arbitration Commission.

The showdown came three weeks before King Farouk's scheduled marriage to 17-year-old Farida Zulfican.

Shooting An Eagle Costs Hunter $10

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 30.—(CP).—Howard Wright, managing director of the London Flying Club, was fined $10 to-day for shooting at an eagle. He said he thought he was shooting at a large hawk, but in any case didn't know it was illegal to shoot eagles.

A newspaper picture of the dead eagle, measuring six feet four inches, from wing tip to wing tip, was seen by Ontario Game and Fisheries Department officials. They clipped the picture and sent it to provincial police here with instructions to prosecute.

Premier Absent, So Dry Protest Is Referred – To California

Deputy Liquor Head There — 15,000 Sign Against Longer Liquor Store Hours

TORONTO, Dec. 30 (CP)—Fearful New Year's Eve will bring a repetition of the Christmas traffic accident toll, S. H. Russell, secretary of the Toronto Baraca Club and sponsor of petitions to the government requesting reconsideration of the closing hours of liquor stores in the holiday season, last night sent a personal telegram to Premier Hepburn at his home in St. Thomas bringing the matter to his attention.

Acknowledgement of receipts of the first petition, signed by 7,000 individuals, dispatched to the premier's office before Christmas, was received from the premier's secretary yesterday by Mr. Russell.

It pointed out that because of the premier's absence from his office for the holiday season the matter had been sent to the deputy liquor commissioner for attention.

"That's a joke," said Mr. Russell, "because the deputy liquor commissioner is in California."

In all, 15,000 signatures have been appended to petitions against the extension of liquor store hours for the convenience of holidayers, according to Mr. Russell.

"We protested the liquor stores being kept open three nights before Christmas and on New Year's Eve, and also the opening of beverage rooms on New Year's Day," he said.

70 Years Married And No Arguing

Chicago, Dec. 30 (AP)

MARRIED since January 3, 1867 and never had an argument. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dawson, who will celebrate their seventy-first wedding anniversary next Monday, laid proud claim to that record today.

"She's never scolded me once," said Mr. Dawson.

"And he's the head of the house, too," said Mrs. Dawson.

"We've made it a rule never to quarrel," they said in unison.

Olive-Spearing, Hat-Tipping Tips Mailed Michigan Police

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 30 (CP)

A PAMPHLET on the refinements of hat-tipping and spearing olives with a fork has been issued to Michigan State Police by Commissioner Oscar G. Olander. The booklet is issued with a view to making police more polite to those they are supposed to serve.

Olander advises police against engaging in long curbstone conversations.

Troopers are asked to preface a request to see a driver's license with a brief explanation, such as, "Sir, you were exceeding the speed limit."

Mongrel Dog Mind-Reader Helps With Housework

Also Able To Make Change, Do Card Tricks And Answer Questions

VANCOUVER, Dec. 30.—(CP)—Duke, four-year-old mongrel dog, showed a goggle-eyed audience to-day how he makes change for his master's purchases, helps with the housework, does card tricks and answers questions on his ancestry which he admits is decidedly mixed.

Owner Richard Davidson claims his charge mind-reads sometimes and may turn journalistic.

"If we ever get to Hollywood some reporter may sign him up to reveal secrets of the movie stars," said the one-time Yukon gold-seeker who raised and "educated" Duke from puppyhood.

Duke is the son of a German sheep dog mother and an airdale-Irish terrier father which he reveals by picking out the proper name cards when questioned, though sometimes he brings up a questionmark for his father.

Davidson brought him here from the prospectors cabin they share at Sanca, 43 miles north of Nelson in British Columbia's West Kootenay interior. He had in mind a Hollywood career for Duke which has so far failed to materialize.

Card tricks?

Three of the audience drew a card each from a small pack, noted its face, returned it and the deck was shuffled and spread faceup on the

Scandinavia Begins '38 In Peace With Business Booming

Four Neighbors Determine To Keep Powder Dry And Care For Themselves

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (CP).—Looking southward across a troubled Europe, the Scandinavian countries enter 1938 in peace, with business bustling, friendship firmly established amongst themselves and a quiet determination evident to "keep their powder dry" to take care of themselves, information obtained from consular sources indicated today.

Sweden, with a strong government firmly in office until 1940, spent 1937 consolidating social services, building up a small but compact and highly mobile defence force and celebrating the 30th anniversary of the accession of her beloved monarch, athletic, 79-year-old King Gustave V.

Politically, Sweden's year was quiet. Premier Albin Hansson and his Social-Democrats won the 1936 general election and with the support of the Farm group, which has two members in his Cabinet, dominate parliament.

The nation aimed at making her army a mechanized force, able to strike swiftly in case of need. She held her biggest army manoeuvres during the autumn, utilizing 10,000 troops and 800 automobiles for the purpose of seeing how far, on a limited budget and facing topographical difficulties, she could make her troops moveable. The results were

Adjustment in Subscription Rates Of The Examiner

THE price of newsprint goes up again at the first of the year, following three former increases in the last two years. Newsprint prices will show a still further increase for the second six-month period of 1938.

The Examiner can no longer absorb these price increases as the bill for newsprint is about one-third of our total outlay. Added to this the price of nearly everything used in producing a paper has increased.

For these reasons the subscription price of the Examiner will be increased on the first of January.

Delivered in Peterborough by carrier boy the price will be 15 cents per week.

The Examiner would like to be in a position where it could guarantee there would be no further increases in subscription rates. We can go no further than to state we hope the increases announced will be sufficient to meet the rapidly increased costs of producing a newspaper.

We believe it will be found there will have to be a similar step taken by other Canadian publications. They will have to meet increasing costs the same as the Examiner. This paper has carefully considered its own known costs and has merely adjusted its subscription rates to meet those known conditions.

CHINESE DEFENCE BEFORE TSINGTAO DELAYS INVADERS

SHANGHAI, Dec. 30 (AP)—Japanese armies met stiff Chinese resistance today on Shantung province fronts outside Tsingtao, the dynamite-riddled north China seaport.

Japanese sources sent word of fierce fighting some 100 miles west of Tsingtao, between the railroad centres of Weihsien and Tsingchow South of Tsinan, the conquered provincial capital, warfare on the outskirts of Tsian gave China's sacred mountain, Tai Shan, a pagoda of fire.

A flag-decked refugee train left Hankow for Hong Kong with foreigners under Japanese assurance of safe passage over the frequently bombarded route.

Even though resistance delayed the Japanese advance on Tsingtao, Chinese apparently were resigned to loss of the city. They spread destruction with dynamite and flames to leave for the war machine engaged in swallowing five north China provinces only "scorched earth... broken tile."

Jap Businesses Ruined

Chinese soldiers blew up Tsingtao's telegraph, cable and radio offices. They touched off land mines under a Japanese brewery, Japanese warehouses, and a tile factory.

There were heavy explosions along the waterfront, probably at Japanese-owned dry docks and repair shops. Before dawn, flames shot skyward from waterfront buildings.

Chinese police notified the foreign colony that Tsingtao's electric light plant would be blown up.

Foreigners, meanwhile, completed organization of the vigilante force which they hoped would quell possible disorder before expected entry of Japanese troops.

Nippon's warplanes resumed widespread bombardment after a temporary halt because of rain and murky skies.

REBELS NEARING BESIEGED TERUEL

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 30 (A.P.). — The Spanish insurgent high command reported to-day that its army struggling to rescue the besieged garrison of Teruel had broken through government lines north-west of the city.

A Salamanca communique said the assault centered around Celadas, about 12 miles north-west of Teruel, but denied the insurgents' fan-shaped offensive gained any ground despite an onslaught by 30 planes and waves of infantry.

The insurgents reported the Government's losses from both land and air offensives was heavy.

Yogi Hanging Feat Kills Indian

Baroda, India, Dec. 30.

VIJAYANAND Gaekwar's preparations for a "grand physical culture and variety show" ended fatally when he accidentally hanged himself. He belonged to the 3rd Infantry of the Baroda forces.

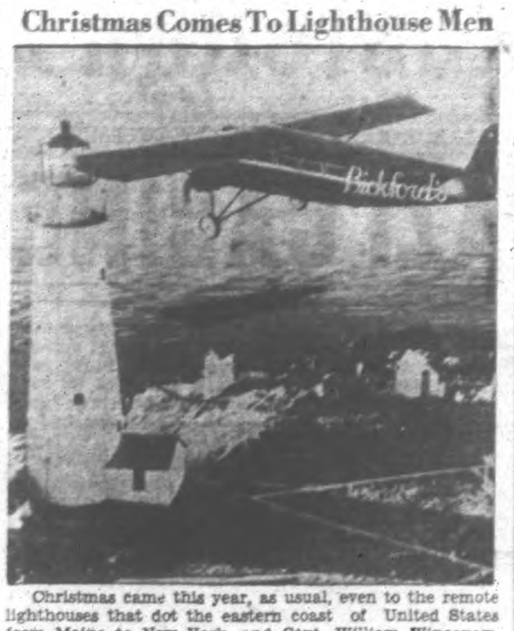
Christmas Comes To Lighthouse Men



Christmas came this year, as usual, even to the remote lighthouses that dot the eastern coast of United States from Maine to New York, and Capt. William Wincapaw, was again emissary of the Merry Saint. He made his ninth annual flight over the coastal outposts dropping Christmas packages which could not be delivered in any other way since most of the lighthouse dwellers are isolated for the greater part of the winter. This picturesque view, taken from an accompanying aeroplane, shows the captain over Boston light.

FILMS OF PANAY SINKING SHOWN

in fear beneath the bamboo. (Lt. Commander J. J. Hughes said in his official report they were seeking cover against more shells feared from above.)

Hughes, badly hit, smiles crookedly from his stretcher. Quartermaster John Lang, a bandage laid across the gaping wound in his face, strains forward, as if to throw off a great burden.

Another Version.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 30—(UP)—News movies of the attack on the U. S. gunboat Panay by Japanese fliers, showing American Navy men fighting for their lives and falling wounded in battle, were shown to the public for the first time yesterday in Los Angeles theatres.

The pictures provoked gasps of horror from the few women spectators when they were first shown last night to a group of 100 newspaper reporters and employes of the Fox-Movietone Company.

The films were taken by Eric Mayell, cameraman aboard the Panay, and were taken to the United States aboard the China Clipper.

The Fox-Movietone reel did not show the Japanese planes, but it showed American bluejackets firing machine guns at their attackers. Gunners were seen standing at their posts, oblivious of those who fell wounded beside them; a young naval officer staggered along the Panay deck giving orders on the loading of wounded into launches, the officer himself being so badly wounded that he had to lean again a gun for support.

There were scenes of men swimming from the Panay to shore after the losing fight, of the survivors hiding in reeds on the banks of the Yangtse River while the planes continued to bomb the vicinity. Of a well-dressed man who abandoned his place of safety on the bank to crawl to the side of a dying man who wanted someone to hold his hand.

The camera followed the survivors as they walked into a Chinese village seeking aid, and as they arrived later in Shanghai.

A few noteworthy points of the news reel were the lack of confusion aboard the boat during the fight; the American flag flying prominently from one of the three Standard Oil Company tankers that went down with the Panay; the fair weather at the time of the attack, which suggested that the Japanese fliers must have been able to identify the boats as American.

20,000 JOBS SEEN IF NAVY BOOSTED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—Advocates of a bigger navy suggested today that construction of additional warships, being considered primarily because of concern over international developments, would give a direct stimulus to employment and industry in the United States.

Jobs would be created at the scene of construction and "behind the lines," they said, in fashioning raw materials into finished vessels.

Announcing it was possible further requests might be sent to Congress, President Roosevelt already has disclosed that the budget for the next fiscal year provides for two battleships, two light cruisers, eight destroyers and six submarines.

By estimates of navy officials, these would provide a maximum aggregate of 20,000 jobs over a four-year period.

Informed persons said further that the navy department was prepared to ask for 10 or 15 more 10,000-ton cruisers, costing about $20,000,000 each. If authorized, their construction would be spread over several years.

ZINC NAZAL SPRAY WORKS IN TESTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP). — The enigma of zinc sulphate, the only nasal spray which gives monkeys several months' protection against infantile paralysis, was explained to the American Society of Bacteriologists to-day.

This spray has been tried on children. Whether it protects them, the medical profession has not yet decided.

At the Rockefeller Institute in New York, the society was told, workers found that zinc mixed directly with the virus which causes infantile paralysis fails to protect monkeys. This mixture of zinc and virus was placed in the monkeys' noses. It always gave them paralysis.

Yet, when zinc was sprayed by itself into the monkeys' noses, even after those noses had been infected with the virus, it prevented the disease, provided the spraying came within an hour or two after infection.

When the spray was used in advance of infection, the protection to the monkeys was 100 per cent.

The Rockefeller workers suggested that the zinc forms some sort of compound inside the body by reacting with some of the body's own chemicals.

BRITAIN PREPARES WAR FOOD SUPPLY

LONDON, Dec. 30—(CP-Havas).—The political editor of Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express wrote to-day that sweeping plans to ensure Great Britain's food supply in wartime and its rapid distribution will be submitted to the cabinet.

The Dominions will figure in these plans by filling some of the important supply orders, the article said.

The Express said the plans call for establishment of large canned food depots at various points of the United Kingdom. To prevent this food from deteriorating quantities of it will be sold at regular periods and immediately replaced.

Little frequented ports on the western and southwestern coats will be improved to permit greater traffic and thus relieve congestion at big harbors. Construction of a major road network linking various ports with thickly-populated regions also is included in the plans, the paper said.

It was recalled that the government already has approved plans dividing the country into districts under the control of food commissioners. These officials already have been designated.

GREETINGS TO ALL

SCHOOL OFFICIALS ARE CHOSEN AGAIN

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Dec. 30.—J. L. Doherty, retiring secretary treasurer and P. L. Jones, retiring trustee of Percy S.S. No. 5, Brickly were re-elected for another three year term at the annual meeting held in the school house Wednesday morning at 10.30 o'clock.

The financial statement as read by the secretary showed a credit balance of $202.90.

It might be interesting for readers to know that the present secretary, John Doherty, succeeded his father as secretary a few years ago and that between he and his father who is now deceased, had been on the school board for the past 34 successive years, an enviable record.

SIX BEERS, TOO MUCH

TORONTO, Dec. 30 (CP). — A hotel that sells six beers to a woman should be reported to the Liquor Control Board, Magistrate J. E. Jones said in Women's Court today. He dismissed Jean Rose, charged with being drunk, who said she had half a dozen beers in a hotel.

"Terrible," commented the court. "I think that hotel should be reported for giving a woman six beers."

JUNEAU, Alaska, Dec. 30—(AP).—Arctic winds and snow swept down on South-western Alaska to-day, keeping pedestrians indoors and paralyzing commerce.

Cold or Liquor Can Cause Pneumonia

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—(AP)—A new reason why either alcoholic intoxication or chilling cold can bring on attacks of pneumonia was reported to the Society of American Bacteriologists to-day by University of Michigan scientists.

Drunken stupor does not directly aid the pneumonia germ, experiments showed. Neither does chilling. But either condition works on the epiglottis, the covering at the base of the tongue over the windpipe, and on the vocal cords.

These two organs relax and let in pneumonia germs which they ordinarily keep from entering the lungs.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

In the last two days I have discussed a number of matters that I believe are of importance to the people of this community. To-day I wish to state that it is my earnest conviction that in the interest of real economy a progressive program of permanent road surfacing should be adopted so that each year a certain quota of streets would be taken care of, the permanent surfacing to be done by the city itself, using its own men and equipment. Such a policy would not only mean better roads and driving conditions but it would eliminate the cost of oiling and repairing the streets. At the same time the work would help to solve the unemployment problem to a certain degree at least. A businesslike program of road-building is a prime necessity.

There are other matters that deserve attention. The question of better accommodation at the market is a very live issue and I promise if re-elected to give this and all other questions my most earnest consideration.

Above all things, I wish to emphasize the necessity of getting ourselves in the proper light before those who are anticipating establishing new factories and those manufacturers already located here who have in mind the expansion of their present plants. I feel that anything that is done to check the industrial growth of Peterborough is a tragedy.

May I urge upon each one of you the necessity of Voting on Saturday.

Yours faithfully,

R. M. GLOVER.

SEASON'S GREETINGS TO ALL.

G. N. GORDON

Respectfully Asks Your Support for Alderman Upon His Record

1. I was responsible for the by-law being passed preventing the blowing of locomotive and other whistles in the City.

2. I endeavoured by every means possible to obtain back between $305,000.00 and $310,000.00 of the ratepayers' money to reduce the tax rate, which the City Trust was holding as a surplus, unauthorized by law.

3. I attempted, but was voted down, to have the sewage disposal plant, which was half finished, completed during the Fall and early Winter, to provide for unemployment which existed in Peterborough.

4. I used every possible means to have returned the power which was grabbed by the C.G.E. at the Waterworks Dam for another twenty years, and which was handed over to them on a cold February night by the City Council at a special meeting, without a vote of the ratepayers, and against the advice of Mr. Ross H. Dobbin, the Superintendent of the Utilities Commission.

5. I started the movement, and Alderman Roland Wilson investigated the matter with the City Engineer towards having an enclosed market, so the Peterborough people could buy their produce the whole year, and the market area for people coming to Peterborough would have been extended and this would add customers to the merchants and bring more people to Peterborough to trade.

6. If the right kind of Aldermen are elected who do not make their plans before the Council meetings, but do their business above board and not under the table, this City will progress and new industries can be obtained.

7. When companies come to Peterborough and receive a ten-year fixed assessment and a free site, or are paid their moving expenses to Peterborough and a fixed assessment, and they agree to that bargain they should stick to it, and not attempt to continue it forever at the cost of the ratepayers. One company has done this and for which the ratepayers of the City of Peterborough have paid over two million dollars of its taxes for it.

8. Putting it another way, the City would not owe a dollar of debenture debt, except the liabilities represented by earning utilities or local improvements if there had not been at every ten-year period a new drive made on each council to extend the privilege of this corporation by this wealthy company.

9. I am also in favour of appointing Peterborough persons properly qualified for civic positions in preference to selecting them from London, Ontario.

10. I am asking your support for the purpose of reducing the taxation of this City by the reserve fund held by the City Trust, and by obtaining the power of the Waterworks Dam which belongs to the City of Peterborough. This power is nearly sufficient to light the streets of the City of Peterborough, which costs $20,000.00 a year and rent and taxes could be reduced by compelling the City Trust to give the City credit for the surplus funds it holds in its hands, amounting now between $305,000.00 or $310,000.00.

11. My introduction of a by-law reducing the sale in the beverage rooms by one hour was approved by the Liquor Control Board and throughout the Province of Ontario municipalities, as a result, were given the power of reducing the house of sale.

I remain,

Yours faithfully,

G. N. GORDON.

REFERRING again to the position of Peterborough as a manufacturing centre, it is well that we should remember that goodwill has played no small part in inducing new industries to locate here.

Goodwill is something that cannot be bought. It must be earned. The city has established a reputation for fair dealing so far as our treatment of industry is concerned. This is evidenced by the fact that whenever by-laws affecting industries have been submitted to the people, these have always been heartily endorsed.

As far as I know, every industry which has been given any concession, has more than carried out its contractual obligations, and I believe our best interests will be served by continuing to honor engagements already entered into. By so doing we shall retain the goodwill of those manufacturers who have always played a large part in inducing other manufacturers to locate here.

If re-elected to the City Council, I shall do my best to carry out our contractual obligations.

YOUR VOTE AND INTEREST RESPECTFULLY SOLICITED. IT IS IMPORTANT THAT EVERY ELECTOR SHOULD REGISTER THEIR VOTES.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

We have been hiding our light under a basket.

In the Province of Ontario there is not to be found a city offering greater facilities for industrial employment. EXPAND IT.

There is not to be found a more attractive tourist playground. PROMOTE IT.

There is not to be found a population so solidly behind law, order and British traditions. GUARD IT.

Such is my platform. If considered worth while vote for and elect

One Man Tells 30,000

William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corporation, has announced that the working staff of that company will be reduced by laying off 30,000 men at the first of the year. Employees who are retained will work but 24 hours per week. Mr. Knudsen says the demand for cars does not warrant any greater operation.

And that may be true enough. One would hardly expect General Motors or any other organization to keep on making cars for which no sales were in sight. It is satisfactory to notice that the order does not apply to Canada as business is found to be normal here.

But apart from all the needs and rules of business, there is something in the situation which cannot escape attention. William S. Knudsen is but one man, and yet by reason of his position as head of a gigantic and higly organized industry he is able to tell 30,000 other men that they will have no work after the first of the year. And that announcement will undoubtedly mean that the living conditions of over 100,000 people will be directly and adversely affected by his ruling.

It may be considered advisable and necessary to build industry in such enormous units, but the plan has within it a suggestion of industrial autocracy which is far from right. The industry is built on catering to an enormous volume of business, and when that great volume ceases to come then workers by the thousands walk out into a world which can offer to them nothing else at which they can earn a living. There is nothing about which to rejoice in finding one man in a position to tell 30,000 others that they can work no longer.

The Man Who Needs Help

A committee of the Middlesex Presbytery of the United Church called a meeting in London, Ont., and the purpose was to begin building an organization which would look after men after they had been released from prison.

It may be we are rather over-organized in some spheres, but here is a field where a great deal of plowing can be done without running into the furrow of any other organization.

A good many people may be moved at times to feel sorry for the man in prison, but his condition is fairly comfortable when compared to the man who walks out to what is called freedom on the completion of his sentence.

Several years ago when visiting the warden of Kingston penitentiary there was a man being released. The (then) warden had a few words with him and afterward remarked to the writer:

"That is the man I am concerned about, more so than those who remain. He has clothing and $10 in cash as well as a ticket back to the place from which he was committed to the penitentiary. I believe that man would go straight if he could get a chance, but the odds are against him. He will go back to the place where he was in trouble before; he will not be able to find work; his $10 will not last him long, and then he will be facing again the suggestion that a life of crime is the only solution for his problem."

And that condition has existed for a long time. And still does. We punish a man by putting him in prison, and then kept on punishing him after he gets out by refusing to believe he has discharged his debt to society by having served his sentence.

If the good people of London can start building something which will act like a good pointer finger to the man who comes out of prison with strong desire to mend his ways then they will have laid their hand to a worthy cause.

Just Leave It Alone

The suggestion has been made that the surplus held by the City of Peterborough Trust should go toward the reduction of taxes. The surplus in the fund exists because during years between 1920 and 1930 the sinking funds were invested in securities which were earning more than the four per cent. required by the Act when compiling the amount required to be set aside in order to retire the debentures issued upon maturity. The day of high earnings for invested funds has passed, and it may be years before it returns. It is quite possible that the time of decreased earnings may well eat into the surplus which was built in the years of higher earnings. That is one reason why the surplus should be left just where it is.

The other reason is that the law clearly says what shall be done with sinking funds, and the City Trust cannot depart from it.

We quote from revised statutes of Ontario, 1927, respecting finances, accounts and investments:

CHAP. 233:

312. If, in any year, after paying the interest, and appropriating the necessary sum to the sinking fund, or in payment of the instalments there is a surplus properly applicable to such debt, it shall so remain until required in due course for the payment of interest or for the sinking fund, or in payment of the principal.

313. No money collected for the purpose of a sinking fund shall be applied towards paying any part of the current or other expenditure of the Corporation.

314. (1) If the Council applies any moneys raised for a special purpose or collected for a sinking fund in paying current or other expenditure, the members who vote for such application shall be personally liable for the amount so applied, which may be recovered in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

(2) If the Council, upon the request in writing of a ratepayer refuses or neglects for one month to bring an action therefor, the action may be brought by any ratepayer on behalf of himself and all other ratepayers.

(3) The members who vote for such application shall be disqualified from holding any municipal office for two years.

In a report issued by H. L. Cummings, Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs, there is this particular reference to any surplus which exists in sinking funds:

"The surplus of the fund is imbued with the same trusts as is the fund itself, and can be put only to those uses to which the fund is established. Any other application would be illegal."

The Examiner has no hesitation in saying that the sound financial position of this city is due to the manner in which the City Trust has attended to its business. When one looks over the nature of the securities in which it has invested city funds there is only one conclusion at which to arrive—the method of financing throughout is as sound as can be. There are plenty of concerns the country over which would be pleased indeed were their financial affairs in the same condition as those administered by the Peterborough City Trust.

Why Permit Air Rifles?

A Toronto boy of 15 years had a great time with a borrowed air rifle. As a result one lad of seven years received cuts on his cheek and mouth; another was injured in the knee and he was six years of age, while his brother was struck in the back by the shot pellets from the rifle. Another lad of ten years took refuge under the verandah, and the boy with the air rifle assured him he was going to buy some harder brass pellets after which he would attend to him. In the report of the event it is recalled that about a year ago a man had his eye shot out by a boy of 15 who was hiding in a bush.

The parents of the children who were injured in Toronto wisely took a long and correct view of the situation. They were not so much inclined to blame the lad who did the shooting as they were to attack the blundering stupidity of the law which permits the sale and use of these weapons. We have a great many rules and regulations for safeguarding the health and well-being of children. We also maintain a number of institutions where we can place them and care for them when they are not being well treated at home, and yet we make it possible for adults to purchase air rifles and place them in the hands of children who have not reached the age of discretion and who are liable to do damage to others.

We have seen children in possession of air rifles, and the first thing which seems to come to their mind is that they must find something at which to shoot. We have seen them peppering away at some of the tame squirrels which are to be found in most towns and cities. At other times they seek birds as their targets. The possession of the air rifle carries with it the suggestion that it is necessary to find something at which to shoot and for that reason alone we do not like air rifles.

The fact that one man had his eye shot out near the scene of the latest escapade in Toronto should have been sufficient to call for prohibitive action. A man's eye is worth more than all the air rifles in the country. We can think of no good reason why a boy should have an air rifle, and it is possible to enumerate many reasons why he should not. They should be prohibited and then kept in that class.

The Pictures Will Tell

Officially the sinking of the United States gunboat Panay by the Japanese may be considered a closed incident, but it is not closed as far as public interest is concerned. For that reason it is going to be interesting to notice the effect of the showing of moving pictures taken on the spot by a newsreel photographer. The photographer himself was wounded while he was taking the pictures, but he succeeded in saving them. They have been carefully guarded in making the trip to United States and now they are ready for exhibiting.

The pictures will probably tell the story better than it has yet been related. People will be able to see for themselves just what it was that caused the near breach between United States and Japan. They can sit in comfort and be spectators of an attack which sent one of their war vessels to the bottom, and they will be able to judge for themselves whether the attack was accidental or clearly and deliberately planned. And they will also be able to form their own opinions as to how far the official attitude of United States in settling the incident corresponds with their own ideas of what should have been done.

If Japan could have secured possession of that reel of pictures Tokyo might well have rejoiced.

A Change Needed

Organization of a street cleaning department is a project for Peterborough's council of 1938 suggested by the experience of the last two years. Supervision of the incinerator and the collection of garbage have been duties assigned to the chairman of the Property Committee, and the cleaning of the streets has been directed by the Board of Works.

Two years ago the Property Committee concluded that the old system of the letting of contracts for the collection of garbage should be discontinued, that the city should do this work itself with motor trucks. Under Fred Tuggey's chairmanship one truck was bought, and this year the Property Committee with Malcolm McIntyre as chairman visited several cities for observation purposes and decided to proceed with motorization. They recommended purchase of three more trucks, a proposal that has been left to the consideration of the incoming council.

Garbage collection is an essential sanitary service, and although the council has been well satisfied with the work of the contractors, many of the details of management devolved to the chairman of the Property Committee. The citizens and perhaps even the other members of the council have little idea of the demands made on the time of Mr. Tuggey and Mr. McIntyre during the last two years. They lacked a foreman to act as buffer in the manner of the City Engineer's relations to the Board of Works. Obviously, no alderman should have to look after numerous vexing details of department supervision which should be referred to a paid official. If some street work is supervised by the city engineer and his assistant, surely an arrangement could be made for similar work to be unloaded from the chairman of the Property Committee.

The council has been talking for three or four years of buying a street flusher, and evidently by design or accident the city is moving toward the organization of a street cleaning department either as a branch of the Board of Works or with a paid foreman under the Property Committee. Certainly the cleaning of the streets, the removal and disposal of garbage, including management of the incinerator, seem to fall into a common group, and whether or not the new council goes ahead with developing a modern department by buying a street flusher and motor trucks for garbage collection it at least should do something to lighten the present load the chairman of the Property Committee has to carry.

CONFESSION

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Each time I carve a turkey bird, I have to check each hasty word, and keep my temper sweet; and all the folk what's sitting there, they seem to look at me and stare, I shiver in my seat.

¶ Some people carve so deft and neat, to watch them is a simple treat, they know just what to do; but I can never carve like that, it leaves me fidgety and flat, I'm glad when I get through.

¶ I never did quite learn the knack, of where one should at first attack, the leg attracts my eye; but I can't make it come off neat, unless I rise from out my seat, and poise the knife on high.

¶ And when the carver will not work, I like to take a-hold and jerk, and that's not very smart; I use up quite a bit of strength, and rake the bird its width and length, to make it come apart.

¶ I'd rather carve the thing alone, wild motions then would not be known, I'd like to close the door; I'd get my knee upon the thing, and wave the knife like everything, or put it on the floor.

¶ But when folk watch me as I work, I'm apt to slash a bit and jerk, act like I shouldn't do; but when I've made the thing a wreck, left nothing but the feet and neck—I'm awful glad it's through.

You may find it HERE

AT LEAST 87 of the 92 chemical elements found in and above the earth, or three-fifth of the total, may be found in steel mills, says the American Iron and Steel Institute. Even gold, silver and platinum have their uses while some of the rarer gases may also be present, although unintentionally.

Plain carbon steel, the most common product of the industry, may contain 16 elements other than iron, although it is commonly described by its percentage content of carbon, manganese, phosphorus, sulphur and silicon. However on careful analysis it will probably be found to contain also traces of oxygen, copper, nickel, arsenic, tin, cobalt, nitrogen, chromium, molybdenum, aluminum and antimony.

Some of the elements unintentionally present in steel are introduced because they are present in iron ore which often contains, in addition to iron and oxygen, minute quantities of aluminum, arsenic, calcium, copper, hydrogen, magnesium, manganese, phosphorus, potassium, sodium, sulphur and tin.

Air contains besides oxygen and nitrogen, minute quantities of the gases, argon, krypton, neon and xenon. Thus these elements enter into steel-making as great quantities of air are blown into blast furnaces. As much as 440,000 cubic feet of air, weighing nearly four tons, are used for every ton of pig iron produced.

Concerning Cement

JOSEPH ASPDIN, a British bricklayer originated the so-called artificial stone now known as Portland cement, the production of which constitutes one of the most important industries of the world.

Portland cement was so named because of the resemblance of concrete made with it to stone quarried on the Isle of Portland, Eng.

Freshly poured concrete from which excess water is extracted by a new vacuum method, hardens in about twenty minutes and its strength is increased from thirty to one hundred per cent.

Spanning San Francisco Bay is a 7½ mile highway bridge the longest of its kind in the world.

It is built of concrete made from oyster shells, containing lime necessary for the cement, which were taken from the bay.

The strength of underground concrete increases fifty per cent during the first month and an additional sixty per cent during the next thirty-five years.

Concrete used by the Romans was made from crushed slag of volcanic origin, mixed with lime and fragments of porous rock.

Blocks of aerated concrete, composed of cement, sand, water and aluminum powder will float in water.

Finished cement is screened through a mesh so fine that it will retain water.

The Gold Brick Industry.

DURING THE Coronation when Scotland Yard was hot on the trail of confidence men some one unearthed the fact that the man who really founded the gold brick industry was an American, not an Englishman. He was born about 1850 in Springfield Ill., and belonged to a prosperous family. He became an enthusiastic follower of faro and roulette and first appeared in New York when he was 21. With him came the first gold brick.

It was made of lead and triple gold plated with a rough finish. There was a small hole in one side which was plugged with real gold.

When an eager client was discovered the pioneer impulsively gouged out the block of real gold and suggested that the victim take it to a goldsmith and have it tested. This he did and came back, of course, with a favorable report.

The first brick was sold for $5,000. Later the price was reduced slightly but never went below $4,000. In ten years the founder made over $250,000 through his specialty.

CIVIC ELECTIONS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Would you kindly spare me the space in your paper to make some statements regarding the coming civic elections. There are a good many candidates throwing their hats in the election ring. All of these are good men, but for the first time Labor has an opportunity to elect some good Labor men to the council. Labor always has been backward in Peterborough, but now they have a good opportunity to have some say in affairs. It is to their own advantage to elect these Labor men to the council, clear thinking men. Who know just what to say and understand labor's problems. Men who when any situation involving labor crops up will have the courage to stand up and back labor up. We have had some good men on the council, real veterans, for years, but they were mostly business men who knew little of labor. They do their best, but the time has come when the working men must have a fair representation on all civic matters, and the only way to get that is to elect men who are labor men, and understand the working men and his troubles.

PETERBOROUGH

Editor Examiner:

Sir: We think of Peterborough from three realms of thought, the past, the present and the future. In the past, a small inland town surrounded by a good agricultural land, later connected with railway facilities which contributed greatly to its advancement and growth, and now connected by leading highways.

We would give honor to the public spirited men of the past who have made contributions to its advancement, which made it possible for it to keep pace with the many improvements. We see our present city with all it beauty, its fine residential sections, its well kept and lighted streets, its many industries, its many churches and schools and public buildings. These all are great assets to this city. But they are not the only assets. The personnel of the citizenship of this city cannot be undervalued; these are the living assets which are making their contributions to its advancement and we have young men and young women in this city who have ambition to succeed and also capacity for success and we trust whoever may be our representatives in council that they will remove every place of temptation, that would seduce our youth and lower their ideals of life, that out of the ranks of the youth of today we may have leaders who will have strength and courage and determination to raise the thought life of this city to still higher standards, and catch the vision of the immense possibilities that awaits this city in the future.

LABOR CANDIDATES

Editor Examiner:

Sir: It was of particular interest at the nomination of candidates for municipal office at the council chambers to note it filled to capacity, indeed a healthy sign of lively interest. There were candidates enough and to spare. Labor candidates, four of whom qualified were nominated.

The noteworthy thing was that several of the candidates suggested in their brief address that labor should have representation on the council. One could not help but notice the intelligence and capacity of the labor candidates in their address, nothing rabid or radical, but carefully seasoned remarks.

A Mr. Gordon Powell called forth approval from all present. Mr. Powell I would say is a young man but evidently quite a student of municipal affairs. All the labor candidates showed original creative thought, while the old timers would just meet the deal with problems as they arose. In other words when disaster overtakes us they will try and make the best of it, whereas labor seemed to desire to have foresight and so forestall disaster.

The labor candidates represent no particular organization or political group but were selected from among the many organizations represented by popular vote. These were some of the qualifications looked for—Men who cannot be bought, men whose word is their bond, men who put character before wealth, men who possess opinions and a will, men who would rather be right than premier, men who will not lose their individuality in a crowd, men who will make no compromise on questionable things, men of courage, men who are willing to sacrifice private interest for public good, men whose ambitions are not confined to their own selfish desires.

Labor I am hopeful.

A Bible Message For To-day . . .

BEHOLD, the heaven and the heaven of heavens is the Lord thy God, the earth also, with all that therein is—Deut. x, 14.

Praise ye the Lord. Praise ye the name of the Lord, praise him, O ye servants of the Lord. Ye that stand in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of our God. Praise the Lord; for the Lord is good; sing praises unto his name; for it is pleasant . . . For I know that the Lord is great, and that our Lord is above all gods. Whatsoever the Lord pleased, that did he in heaven, and in earth, in the seas, and all deep places . . . Thy name, O Lord, endureth for ever; and they memorial, O Lord, throughout all generations—Ps. cxxxv, 1-3, 5, 6, 13.

A bee can pull 30 times its own weight and is as strong proportionately as a locomotive.

ELECT HERB McCANNAN

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having accepted nomination for one-year term as ALDERMAN, I solicit your influence and support at the polls on New Year's Day.

I firmly believe the time has come when concerted action is needed in dealing with the parking problem, and I will work to secure the numerous available parking lots as parking space and stop the blockading of our main streets. Also I believe something must be done to flush our main streets in summer to get rid of dust nuisance.

Wishing everyone compliments of the season.

HERB McCANNAN.

Voting for Aldermen

Owing to the unusual fact that there will be two ballots for the election of Aldermen on New Year's Day the following explanation is made on the authority of the Mayor:—

There will be two ballots for the election of Aldermen.

One ballot is for the election of Aldermen for a two years' term. By this ballot five are to be elected for a two years' term and electors must vote for four candidates and for not more than five candidates.

The other ballot is for the election of Aldermen for a term of one year. By this ballot three are to be elected for a term of one year and electors may vote for one, two or three candidates, but not for more than three candidates.

Old Gout Remedy On Plants Makes "Hybrids" Fertile

Miracle Discovery Makes All Sorts Of Agricultural crosses Possible

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor.)

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 29 (AP) — Onions, radishes and clover treated with an old human gout remedy, colchicine, and all swollen as if with gout were shown to the American Association for the advancement of science here today as the next great revolution in agriculture.

They are the first useful, agricultural plants to be treated with the gout medicine, which less than six months ago was discovered to be a miracle maker in plants. They are sick plants, but from their seed, if the miracle works as it has with the weeds previous tried, will come new kinds of onions, radishes and clover —all hardier, all larger than their species has ever been.

The plants were exhibited by the charge of Dr. Albert F. Blakeslee, who a month ago announced the miracles which colchicine had done with jimson weeds at Cold Springs Harbor, New York. It made the weeds sick and swollen. But from their seed came the new hardy plants.

The onions, radishes and clover here are showing the same symptoms as the jimson weeds—promise that the experiment will succeed with their seed. The clochicine doubles the number of the plants' chromosomes, thread-like cell bodies that govern heredity.

$25 An Ounce Poison

Colchicine, used for gout and lumbago, is a yellow, crystalline poison, extracted from the autumn arbutus. It costs about $25 an ounce. Last spring some biologists were using it on living animal cells to slow cell division. The Carnegie scientists hearing about it exclaimed:

"That works on chromosomes. Anything that affects chromosomes is good for plants."

They tried it and discovered the doubled chromosome miracle. One great, yet untried value of double chromosomes, is that it makes possible cross breeding of plants whose "hybrids" have hitherto been sterile. Doubling the chromosomes makes "hybrids" fertile. All sorts of agricultural crosses are apparently possible.

LOAN IS REDUCED BY SCHOOL BOARD

(Examiner Correspondence,)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 30. — The School Board reduced its loan from the town by $500 when at their final meeting held on Monday evening it was decided to set aside that amount from their grants to repay the town part of the $3,000 which had been loaned for the purpose of equipping the Domestic Science and Manual Training Rooms.

The only other matter of business passed over by the Board at its shortest session of the year was a letter from the High School teachers requesting a revision of salary with a view to reverting to the former schedule. The matter was left over for consideration by the incoming Board.

An expression of his appreciation for their interest and co-operation was given the members by the retiring chairman, W. Roy Loucks, and following the passing of accounts the meeting adjourned.

Japanese Units Drawing Net Tighter In Advance On Nanking

These Japanese machine gun and infantry units are part of the vanguard of the invading army as it closed in around Nanking, China's capital from which Gen. Chiang Kai Shek and his cabinet advisers had already withdrawn. Faced with fierce opposition from the army of 60,000 left to defend the ancient walled capital, the Nipponese forces advanced cautiously, mopping up in the immediate surrounding area as they went. This unit is moving forward on a ridge above the city. To the (RIGHT) may be seen bursts of fire from the artillery barrage which swept the city.

WOLF HUNT BY CAR MANITOULIN SPORT

GORE BAY, Ont., Dec. 30—(CP) —Hunting wolves on eight-inch ice of Baie Field Sound by chasing them in an automobile is the latest sport on Manitoulin Island. Miss Lorene McKinley of this village tells the story of the first chase.

Miss McKinley, accompanied by Mrs. James McKinley, Mrs. D. N. Bailey, Sam McKinley and Willard Wittig, was driving to Gore Bay when she spied two wolves cross the road near Indian Point Bridge. The wolves headed for the ice of the Sound.

The car occupants borrowed a rifle and shotgun from Russell Hore at his fishing station and invited Hore to join the chase. Miss McKinley took the wheel and the three men prepared to fire from the car when the wolves should be sighted.

The car was driven onto the ice and pursuit began to the centre of the Sound. McKinley brought one of the wolves down. The party decided it was dead and started after the other. Wittig's shot killed the second wolf.

But when the car got back to where the first wolf had been left, the animal, apparently only wounded, made off into the bush at the edge of the Sound.

Clark-Spencer.

PERTH, Dec. 29.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Spencer, Perth, Ontario, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Christmas afternoon, when their youngest daughter, Olive Hughes, was united in marriage to Leroy M. Clark of Perth, son of Frederick Clark and the late Mrs. Clark of St. Stephen, N.B. The Rev. W.E. Sibley of Calvin Church officiated.

The spacious living room was beautifully decorated with pink carnations and white narcissi, the ceremony being performed under an archway of white and silver streamers and bells, with a background of pink and white flowers and ferns.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a gown of coronation blue chiffon velvet, with short sleeves of silver sequins and beads. She wore a hair bandeau of silver, silver slippers, long gloves and a corsage of Premier roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Her sister, Mrs. Harold Munn, as matron of honor, was gowned in hunter's green taffeta, and wore a corsage of Briarcliffe roses. Harold Munn assisted the groom.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. W. E. Sibley, who rendered a number of appropriate selections preceding the wedding march. "Until" was sung by R. L. Thornbury, accompanied by Mrs. Sibley.

At the following reception, the bride's mother received wearing a gown of American Beauty velvet with gold accessories. The happy couple left later for Ottawa and other points east, the bride travelling in a wine colored dress and coat with sable collar, a matching hat, and black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark were the recipients of many handsome presents previous to their wedding. A chromium urn set was presented to Mr. Clark by the Perth Shoe Company, where he has been employed for a number of years, and the choir of St. Paul's United Church presented the bride and groom, who are both members with a silver casserole. The couple will reside in Perth.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Friday, December 31

While this may be an extremely lively and stirring day, judging by the planetary operations, yet there are signs of peril, dangers, defeat and possibly bereavement. In any case there may be radical upsets, with much commotion and excitement.

Those whose birthday it is will find themselves in a year of important adventures, with change in business, aims, environs and associates. There may be turmoil and commotion in making adjustments to this new order that should result in surprising benefits.

A child born on this day may have unusual talents, with yearnings for adventure and romance. It may be subtle, peculiar and difficult to understand. It may lean to the mystical or occult, or other novel avocations.

THINGS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

The P.C.I.V.S. "At Home"

Silver figures dancing on a black background, a rose and silver rising sun behind the orchestra; overhead festoons of the school colors, garnet and grey, and on the dance floor between five and six hundred lads and lassies stepping to the latest dance hits played by Eddie Stroud and his orchestra.

On Wednesday evening the twenty-seventh annual "At Home" of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School was held in the gymnasium, with a record attendance of students and "old boys and girls."

Patrons and patronesses were Dr. and Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Dr. and Mrs. G. Raymore Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Brown, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Park, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Cornell. Sitting in the balcony, the patrons looked down on the lovely scene, glowing with the beauty of colored lights, and the beautiful gowns of the girls.

Behind the orchestra stand, the "rising sun" glowed with rosy light and silver rays, and on the front of the stand were silver silhouettes of musical instruments. On either side of the orchestra silver figures danced over musical notes, under a "sky" of silver stars and new moons. Fringed festoons of garnet and grey were looped from the ceiling lights, to which were attached clusters of colored balloons. Garnet and grey streamers were wound around the railings of the balcony, and covered the balcony lights, to which were also attached bunches of balloons. Twisted streamers of the school colors decorated the walls, and at the orchestra end, two great black panels in silver letters "P.C.V.S." and "1937-38."

Miss Muriel Wilson and Grant Miller were the prize-winners in a spot dance. Supper, served at midnight, was catered for by Messrs. Hooper & Sons, confectioners.

Arrangements for the evening, and to whom much of its success is due, were in charge of the Students Council Committee: W. Brown and R. D. Brown (staff advisors to the Council), Allan Park, Margaret Lundy, Jean Moore, Kenneth Rose, Edna Borland, Mary McPherson, Jack Craig, Haig Kelly, and D. Duncan.

The Social Committee included R. G. Cornell (convenor), and school staff members in Miss Margaret White, Miss L. M. Park, H. H. Graham; also Miss Eileen Schoales, Miss Mary McPehrson, Haig Kelly, Jack Craig.

Etiquette Says Don't Embarrass Your Escort

The last straw! Again Gwen's embarrassing George! She wants those darling plants right away — can't wait for delivery to-morrow. So she makes a truck-horse of George!

Gwen's lost her charm for George by just such thoughtless etiquette errors. She bounces off the bus first, leaving him foolishly behind—as if he didn't know how to assist a woman properly! At restaurants, she sprawls bag and gloves on the table, not on her lap or extra chair. She gives the waiter her order. No tactful waiting for George to consult her, and orders for both!

Men admire women who are smooth and gracious, whatever the occasion. Our 32-page booklet tells how to be charming and correct in introductions, invitations, conversations, manners at restaurants, other public places. Learn the well-bred ways to popularity!—

Japan Must Reckon With Real Woman

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(CP).—Before the Japanese soldiery complete their conquest of China they will have to conquer a woman—their most dangerous adversary next to General Chiang Kai-Shek.

She is no fierce amazon but a dainty, soft-spoken and demure little person with a big brain and a world of initiative. She is Gen. Chiang's wife. To all intents and purposes she is joint-dictator with her husband of China's 450,000,000 people.

One speaks literally in saying this woman is taking an active part in the war. Apart from other things, she actually is commander-in-chief of China's air force.

As might be expected, she has a diversity of accomplishments and activities. She is first lady of the land, home-maker, shrewd watcher over her husband's delicate health, his chief adviser in affairs of state and envoy extraordinary.

When she isn't directing the air force, or doing some equally important work, she may be writing poetry. She employs either Chinese or English. The latter language she speaks with an American accent, due to her long residence in the United States.

Madame Chiang converted her husband to Christianity and it is said this is the great influence in his life.

When Chiang was a captive of rebels at Sian a year ago, she took matters into her hands and flew to him in one of his private planes. She played a big part in obtaining his release and in persuading the rebels to come into his camp.

Mixed with this, we get this homely touch: Madame Chiang took with her the family Bible for Chiang's spiritual comfort, his private chef to prepare the food he likes and a set of false teeth to eat it with.

Women Versatile In Australia

SYDNEY, Dec. 30 (CP-Reuters)—Australian women are invading almost every occupation once regarded as the exclusive domain of men, the latest Commonwealth census report discloses.

Farming has attracted by far the largest number of women with 4,500 out of a total wheat-farming population of 164,000. There are also 2,129 women cattle breeders.

Other trades calling for brawn and endurance have failed to discourage the invasion, for the figures indicate 14 women are employed as dockworkers, 28 are in the marble-cutting business, 233 brick and tile workers, eight pearlers and six fishermen.

Too, women are represented in branches of the building trades with 87 plumbers and gasfitters, 15 plasterers, 63 painters, 14 glaziers, and 126 in the joinery and doormaking trade.

Roberta's Mail

"Jeanette." I am puzzled how to answer you. Your letter was rather vague and disconnected. Yes I think I would go ahead if I were you. A change might do you a world of good. I wish you would write more fully, and I might be able to help you more.

"Babe" what a nice letter to send me. I have written you personally, and explained why I cannot do as you so kindly suggest. Maybe later, if circumstances allow, I shall be glad to take advantage of your very kind offer. Thank you, and do write again.

"I. R." Thank you my dear, but I have been too busy to do as you suggest, but one of these days I shall find the time. In the mean time, keep following the idea I gave you, and you will come out on top, and all your desires granted. Do write again, and thank you for all the nice things you say.

"Farmer's Wife," thank you for the message you left for me at The Examiner Office. I cannot write much about farming, unless to say that six of the longest weeks in my life was spent there, and my memory is of long hours of hard work, altho' I was just a guest. But it must be interesting when it is your home. Thank you and do not hesitate to write me. I shall be glad to hear from you. Glad you like my stuff.

"Seventeen." I do not agree with you at all. In most cases early marriages are a big mistake. For one thing, the young ones hardly ever know their own mind, and cannot seem to adjust themselves to double harness. It seems very romantic, but the reality is far otherwise. Please listen to your Mother, and wait a year or two. Thank you for comments, and do write again.

"Dis-illusioned" Don't let it get you down. Maybe you have been expecting too much from the Chrigmas season, and will not believe there is no Santa Claus. Why not be one to yourself? Make others joyful, but give yourself a little corner of it too. You need it just as much as the rest do, and once you start being your own Santa Claus, presto! no more disappointments. Thank you for all the lovely remarks, and do write again.

"Peter Pan." Thanks for such a nice comprehensive letter. You seem to be a putter-offer, and I would judge that that is what is really holding you back. You will never get near your goal until you have mastered that one thing. It is the key which will open many doors and without it, they will remain locked. I refer to doing what ought to be done when it SHOULD be done. Glad I have been of so much help to you. Do write again.

"Mickey Mouse." So you're back again under another pen-name? What fun do you get out of writing such silly stuff. It doesn't make a man of you, you know, but seems to show you are undeveloped and unsure of yourself. When you write a sensible letter, I shall answer it to suit you. Don't be a silly ass all your life.

"Hopeless." Why not try to make for the wrong you have done? It is only in that way you will ever get peace of mind. But if you say you are sorry, and still go on in the same way, how in the world can anyone believe you. You are unhappy yourself, you are making the one you profess to love unhappy, so don't just say things, but get busy and DO them. Thanks and good luck to you.

"Florence". Why not try counting ten before you let loose with all this bad temper. Did you ever hear of the girl who, when she spoke pleasantly, pearls and precious stones came out of her mouth, and when she let temper rule, toads and things came out? Think it over. Thanks and do write again.

ROBERTA.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

THE SECRET of remaining young in spite of age and white hair, is to preserve our enthusiasm. . . . in short, by maintaining harmony in ourselves. When everything has its proper place in our minds we are able to stand in equilibrium with the rest of the world. A solemn enthusiasm for the order and beauty of the universe, an elevated mind, and a serene benevolence—these things are the very foundations of wisdom.—J. I.

Dear Friends:

Have you preserved your enthusiasms? Do you get all the fun and enjoyment out of the little happenings of the day as you used to do, and still should? If not, you may have lost you equilibrium in this business of living.

I remember when I actually lost mine. I had gone to my first and only circus with a friend, her husband, and my two children. We had to climb way up before we could get a seat.

The boards were widely spaced, and rather high. We enjoyed everything, and in the meantime my little fellow had gone to sleep. When it was over, my friends took my little girl and went on down. The baby was heavy in my arms, I could see right down between the boards, and it seemed a far way to fall.

Truly, I was more concerned about hurting the baby than about getting hurt myself if I fell. I put out my foot to step down but could not do it. I tried again and again, holding the baby so tight I woke him up.

At last a young fellow came and took my elbow, thus guiding me down. When we were on the ground, he said, "be careful of high places from now on, for you have lost your equilibrium."

And it was true. Now high places give me vertigo. And the same thing can happen when our brain loses its true balance. Right in at the back of your nose is the balance which keeps you upright.

That is where you feel sick, and that is why drunk people stagger, because the drink has knocked them off-balance. And a series of shocks to the nervous system can do the same thing. We have lost the beauty and order of the universe as it applies to us, and our equilibrium wobbles.

And so we judge everything as it happens to us in relation to this wobbliness. Our vision becomes clouded. We have lost something, and we are afraid we shall lose something else. Our view of life and living is distorted and out of focus.

And the only way we can get back our old enthusiasms is to learn once more to think right. Arguing with ourselves as to why this should come on us, does no good. Brooding over it is worse, fretting about it accentuates it.

So, instead of grieving about what we have lost, we begin to be thankful for what we have. Instead of letting our mind be in a turmoil all the time, we try to cultivate serenity. Instead of hugging our troubles to our heart, we try to help others.

Most things which bring the biggest sense of loss to us is that our affections have been turned back on us by something the loved one has done. So, we lose our sense of values, our mental equilibrium.

But once we can get our thoughts in order, so that we give importance to important things, and cast the others aside, we soon regain it in a measure. We may never get it as we had it before, but we shall get it in a larger way, not just as it applies to us in particular, but as it applies to all humanity. More later.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Going Victorian Irks Woman J.P.

LITTLEHAMPTON, Sussex, Dec. 30—(CP)—The Ratepayers' Association of Littlehampton has launched an early campaign against "semi-nudism" at English summer resorts.

Members of the association declare the rage for "back to nature" has reached the limit. Those who seek to parade about in shorts, brassieres or rubber bathing suits, they claim, should be arrested for indecent exposure. A bylaw to curb the practice has been proposed.

Mary Neal, justice-of-the-peace, who for 40 years has been crusading for greater freedom in dress, branded the movement as "reactionary and Victorian."

"It is far better for modern girls, many of them cooped up in offices and factories, to be free and easy when they come to the seaside," she said. "The Littlehampton complaint is just a lot of rubbish. Probably they would like to see the girls of today wearing half a dozen petticoats like we used to when I was a girl."

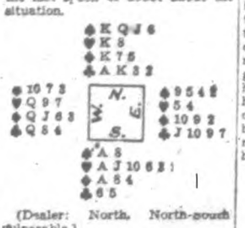
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

JUST ENOUGH HELP

MANY a contract gets made because the defenders offer just enough help. A double may help locate some of the outstanding cards, and a lead may eliminate the last speck of doubt about the situation.



(Dealer: North. North-south vulnerable.)

The final contract reached on this deal by North-South was 7-No Trumps. North bid 1-Club, South 1-Heart, North 1-Spade, South 2-Hearts, North 4-No Trumps, South, 6-No Trumps and North 7-No Trumps. West doubled this.

In response to West's double, East led the heart 5, which was covered by the 10 in dummy. It mattered not whether West covered or not, as two more rounds cleared the heart suit, and declarer claimed the remainder of the tricks.

West's defense of his double was that South had bid and rebid the hearts and it seemed quite evident that the heart Q would win a trick as no doubt the suit would have to be run in order to make the contract. With the K held by North, the lead was most desirable to declarer, as it would have been necessary otherwise to do some guessing to capture the heart Q had the suit not been opened for him. This double proved very costly to West, as North could not have made the contract without running hearts and would no doubt have finessed to West and lost.

Reeve Brown Gets Sixth Term Third Generation To Fill Post Grandfather And Father Both Served As Reeve Of Burleigh Township

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APBLEY, Dec. 30—The reeve and council of Burleigh and Anstruther were returned by acclamation at the nomination meeting on Monday, there being no other aspirants for office. Only about a dozen ratepayers were present.

Max Hastings presided at the meeting held after the close of nominations, and called upon each of the council to address the meeting, which they did briefly.

Reeve Roy Brown, who now enters his sixth consecutive year in that capacity expressed his appreciation of the confidence reposed in him by the ratepayers. He paid a high tribute to both the ratepayers and his fellow councillors for their support and cooperation and referred to one or two important matters that would have to be dealt with in the coming year.

One was that the provincial government was asking the township to come under the Highways Improvement Act, promising to provide a subsidy which would abolish the statute labour system, a subject that would raise many questions to be considered by the council. Another important matter was the disposition of lands held by the township. A report on this would be dealt with early in the year.

The members of the council are Reeve Roy Brown, Councillors Herbert Tucker, George Kilborn, John Booth and Norman Bolton.

The Third Generation

An interesting feature in connection with the reeveship is that Roy Brown is the third generation of the family to fill that position. A third minute book will start the year 1938 and it is of interest to note that the first minutes of the book began in 1894 when the municipality was separated from Chandos were signed by the first reeve, Alexander Brown, grandfather of the present reeve, the last minutes in the same book in the year 1920, and the first in the book beginning the following year were signed by Reeve Duncan Brown, his father, while the last minutes of the same book just filled this month were signed by Roy Brown, who will also sign the minutes of the first meeting in 1938 commencing the third minute book of the municipal record of the administration which is probably an unique event in municipal history.

Christmas Day Service.

A noteworthy feature in the Christmas Day service at St. George's Church was the presence of the Rev. and Mrs. C. A. G. Spence, with their sons and daughters and their families, numbering in all 21 persons. Mr. and Mrs. Spence moved into their new home a few days before Christmas and the holiday season was the occasion for a family reunion. On Christmas eve they all joined in the carol singing in the village street, with the members of the community.

floor. Duke sniffed the card-drawers and then picked up the three cards, one at a time, apparently by scent.

Asked for a glass of beer, a bottle of the same, a meal and an ice cream cone in that order Duke brought back the right coin—a dime, quarter, half dollar and nickel—from a handful placed where he could reach them.

"He'll bring a broom, hat, shovel, axe or anything around a house," said Davidson. "He even helped me build the cabin by getting the hammer, a sack of nails and the odd two-by-four when I asked him."

He waltzed on his hind legs after a fashion but his kangaroo imitation was tops.

As for mind reading listen to Davidson.

"Back home I've been sitting in the cabin and suddenly thought of something I wanted to get. Before I got around to it Duke was back with it."

And the middle-aged prospector isn't likely to be late for appointments. "What's the time Duke?" and the Duke nips Davidson's watch from his vest pocket.

Steps were taken to build up an air force school. Heavy bombers and speedy pursuit planes were imported or constructed. The navy built a seven-plane airplane carrier. Two destroyers were constructed and two ordered. The government made arrangements for 10,000 gas masks a month to be delivered, up to a total of 276,000.

In international affairs Sweden sought successfully to strengthen the close bonds with her immediate neighbors, Norway, Denmark and Finland, and consolidate the "economic armistice" among the Oslo group—these four nations, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxemburg.

Parliament decided not to leave the League of Nations but made it clear Sweden reserves freedom of action in regard to any future sanctions.

Trade boomed. Traditionally a low tariff country, Sweden usually buys more than she sells. A feature of the year economically was the beginning of sale to Great Britain of large quantities of iron ore which Britain needed in view of closing of much of her Spanish sources. Hitherto most of Sweden's ore has gone to Germany.

In social security parliament acted toward better medical care for maternity cases, cash premiums for mothers, support of minors and orphans and higher pensions to aged living in section of the nation where living costs are higher than in others.

Tory Bull To Sire Liberal Herd

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 30 (CP) —When the quality of a herd sire is concerned, politics cuts no figure.

The Henry bull, now having Liberal leanings in place of Conservative tendencies, will head Mr. Nixon's herd at St. George, near here.

A compromise gave the protesting municipal workers a 70-francs-a-month ($2.31) living allowance—sort of a raise to meet increased living costs.

While this was a boost over the 50-franc allowance already approved by the Paris Municipal Council—the decision that precipitated the strike—it was still 30 francs under the average received by employees of the National Government.

The municipal workers had sought an allowance equal to the 100 francs of the national employees. This the Municipal Council had opposed in an effort to reduce Paris' 1938 budget.

THERE are two new Ford cars for 1938 — the De Luxe and the Standard — differing in design, appointments and price — but built on the same generous 112-inch Ford wheelbase.

Both are big, impressive cars, and thoroughly modern in appearance. Both have the famous Centre-Poise Ride and Ford Easy-Action Safety Brakes. Both bring you the basic advantages and the smooth, effortless performance of the 85-horsepower Ford V-8 engine.

Step Up to the V-8 Class

V-type 8-cylinder engines were used only in expensive cars before Ford made them available in The Universal Car. Eight cylinders give great smoothness and flexibility. Compact V-type construction leaves more room for passengers and luggage.

Both new cars are economical to operate. The facts of Ford V-8 economy are confirmed by the findings of owners, who have reported 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline. And both new cars are priced low. Low price, like economy, is a Ford tradition. Ford founded the low-price field 30 years ago and keeps Ford prices low today.

The De Luxe Ford costs slightly more than the Standard Ford, but provides extra room and style. Both cars, in proportion to price, represent unusual values. Both are built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence. Both bring you the comfort and pride of ownership you expect of a Ford.

Building on Last Year's Success

More people bought the 1937 Ford V-8 than any other 1937 make. It was a good car. But these are better cars, because Ford improvement goes on constantly. You'll realize that when you see and drive either Ford V-8 for 1938.

FOR LOW DELIVERED PRICES SEE YOUR LOCAL FORD DEALER

1938 COMMISSION WILL APPOINT NEW CONSTABLES

Applications for vacancies on the police force caused by recent dismissal of two constables, are being received by the Police Commission up to noon on January 14, it was decided at a meeting held Wednesday afternoon under chairmanship of Judge Sheldon L. Smoke.

Selected applicants will be required to undergo a medical examination to determine their fitness for police work. It was intimated appointments might be made at a special meeting immediately following the closing date for the receiving of applications.

By resolution, J. O. Murphy, Harold Medley and George Ringer were each granted 6-days pay as special constables at the rate paid for third class constables. All three were engaged temporarily when the vacancies were created on the force, and it was thought in some quarters the Commission would make its selection from the trio at yesterday's meeting.

Mayor George A. Macdonald, however, expressed himself as being against any haste. He urged the appointments be left to the 1938 Commission, to give all who wished to do so, an equal chance of placing their applications before the Board. In this view Judge Smoke concurred.

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall was authorized to engage two special constables to temporarily fill the vacancies on the force, pending the making of permanent appointments.

Requests Reinstatement

Declaring he represented ex-Constable Jack Deannard (one of the two constables who was dismissed for "conduct unbecoming to a police officer"), T. J. Carley, K.C., addressed the Board.

"I have spoken to a number of citizens with regard to Mr. Deannard. He had twenty-three years of service on the force and during that time gave good service with one or two exceptions," Mr. Carley asserted in making representations with a view to Deannard's reinstatement on the force. He urged on the former officer's behalf. "It seems hard that at this stage of his service he should be dismissed."

"If Deannard is reinstated," Mr. Carley continued, "he is prepared to tell the Board that he will justify any confidence that is placed in him. It would be an act of grace if he were given an opportunity to redeem himself."

Judge Smoke declaring he could not discuss with Mr. Carley the full reason for Deannard's dismissal "in the presence of the press," maintained, "We could not make fish of one and fowl of another."

Makes Distinction

Mr. Carley submitted there was a distinction between the two constables who were dismissed. The distinction, he said, was not only in regard to length of service, but in the degree of trouble in which the pair were involved.

Judge Smoke admitted that ex-Constable Deannard had special capabilities as a policeman, particularly in the handling of crowds, and Mayor Macdonald agreed.

"If any good might be served by a petition on Deannard's behalf, I could get it," Mr. Carley suggested.

"It would not make any difference to me," Judge Smoke told him. "I have only tried to do what was right in the matter."

After Mr. Carley had retired from the meeting, Mayor Macdonald suggested consideration might be given to the matter when the question of new appointments came up. The matter was not discussed further.

Out of the present years' appropriation the Commission authorized the purchase for the police department use of a 1936 Plymouth 4-door sedan from Gillespie Garage at a net cost to the Commission of $600. A car of another make purchased two years ago, is to be turned in on the new car.

Over 42,500 seats have been booked for the Aldershot (England) Tattoo next August.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES ARE RE-ELECTED

(Examiner Correspondence,)

HASTINGS, Dec. 30.—The annual meeting of trustees and ratepayers of Hastings Separate School was held Wednesday. Three retiring trustees, Father Costello, F. Turcotte and M. A. O'Shea, were re-elected for the next two-year term.

Minutes of the previous annual meeting were read, and on motion of A. J. McKenty and B. Crowley, adopted. The financial statement was read, showing a 1936 balance of $99.95. Receipts for 1937 were $3,116.70, and expenditures $3,097.11. On a motion of T. A. Coughlan, seconded by A. J. McKenty, the statement was accepted.

It was revealed that Father Costello had made a donation of 20 "Books of Knowledge," and with this addition to the school's library, a distinct advantage was noted.

It is expected the Board will make provisions for vocal music training for the pupils by a qualified music teacher. All members seemed to favor this idea.

Icy Roads Cause Two Accidents

(Examiner Correspondence,)

HASTINGS, Dec. 30. — Icy roads have accounted for two more accidents in this district in the past two days. Near Warkworth Wednesday, a truck carrying several bundles of baled straw upset, without apparent damage to driver or truck, as reported by a passing motorist. Near Westwood Tuesday night, another passing motorist reported an accident with two cars involved, resulting in one driver getting some teeth knocked out.

POLICE PLANNING DRASTIC ACTION NEW YEAR'S EVE

While certain sections of the province had reason to complain of drunk-drivers and an alarming number of traffic accidents over the Christmas holiday week-end, Peterborough was able to pride itself on complete freedom from any serious breaches of the Highway Traffic or Liquor Control Acts. Police are hopeful the same satisfactory condition may be maintained here over New Years'.

Added if he intended to exercise additional vigilance over the coming holiday, as provincial police are intending to do, Chief Constable Samuel Newhall did not think he would have need to do so. "From our experience over the Christmas holiday period I have enough confidence in Peterborough motorists to believe they will do the right thing and not abuse any New Year privileges. But if they do they will have to be prepared to take the consequences," the Chief said.

Provincial Constable David Silvester warned he intends to keep a weather eye on all places where revellers are likely to congregate for the New Year celebration. He expressed his determination to enforce rigidly both the Highway Traffic and Liquor Control Acts and told The Examiner, "You can make my warning just as strong as you like."

Provincial Motorcycle Patrol Officers Lloyd A. McClure and Gordon Broughton, also warn that they again intend to patrol their respective beats on New Years' Eve in a determined effort to free the highways of any drunken or reckless drivers they may encounter.

It is believed, the provincial officers received special instructions in this regard from their headquarters, because of the public outcry that has been voiced up and down the province over the mounting toll of dead and injured in highway accidents.

Constable McClure said it was his intention to see that the Highway Traffic Act was enforced to the letter, and he declared he would press for stiff penalties for anyone convicted of reckless or negligent driving, and would be merciless in his prosecution of drunken drivers.

According to established policy in this particular regard, The Examiner will publish names of all drunken-drivers, convicted in this area.

Pioneer Brighton Township Couple Celebrate 63rd Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Eisi Terrill of Wooler observe the 63rd anniversary of their marriage today at their home, Floral Hill Farm. Mr. Terrill, who has always taken an active part in the life of his community, is still enjoying splendid health, but Mrs. Terrill is unfortunately suffering from pneumonia at the present time.

Mr. Terrill, now in his ninetieth year, was born on the farm where he still resides, in the year 1848, in Brighton Township, North County. Mrs. Terrill was born in 1853 also in Brighton Township. She was Ella J. Herrington before her marriage. Both of United Empire Loyalist descent, Mr. and Mrs. Terrill have been life long members of the Friends Society. Always deeply interested in agriculture, Mr. Terrill still takes part to a certain extent in the operation of his farm.

Active for many years in township and municipal affairs he has held the office of Second Deputy Reeve, First Deputy Reeve, and Commissioner. In 1904 he was Immigration Agent, and held this office until the beginning of the Great War, having during that time brought out many hundred farm hands and domestics.

A keen hunter, for nearly sixty years Mr. Terrill took part in his favorite sport, deer hunting, in the fall. In politics he is a Liberal.

IS NOT PLACING MUNICIPAL SLATE BEFORE ELECTORS

Reports current about the city today that G. N. Gordon, K.C., was organizing a municipal slate to place before the voters on New Year's Day, were denied by Mr. Gordon. He stated the only action in that direction he was taking was in urging support of W. F. Huycke, K.C., and Herbert Bradburn, one-year candidates, and R. M. Glover and Joseph Vinette, two-year candidates.

"Some of my friends and myself are urging support of these men but we have nothing in the nature of a slate in mind," Mr. Gordon said. "Mr. Glover is the only member of the retiring council we are backing."

Candidates Huycke, Bradburn and Glover replied to queries stating they have not associated themselves with any kind of slate sponsored by any organization or individual interested in the election. Each reaffirmed previous declarations that he was standing for election in complete independence.

OSLO, Dec. 30 (CP-Havas).—King Haakon of Norway has assured Haile Selassie, deposed Emperor of Ethiopia, that his government will not join in action leading to the recognition of the Italian conquest of Ethiopia.

The exiled Ethiopian ruler yesterday wired the chiefs of the states signatory to the Oslo Convention—the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, and the Scandinavian countries — urging them not to extend recognition.

Failed To Report Accident To Police

Because of their failure to report an accident to police, as they were required to under provisions of the Highway Traffic Act, it is probable proceedings will be taken against the proprietors of a certain local garage, The Examiner learns.

While patrolling his beat on Highway 7 recently, Provincial Motorcycle Constable Gordon Broughton came across signs of an accident in the vicinity of the Indian River turn.

Subsequent investigation, it is alleged, disclosed that John Brightman, 48, 269 Rubidge Street, was injured Tuesday afternoon when the truck he was driving towards Peterborough left the highway and crashed into an apple tree. Damage to the truck exceeded a hundred dollars and Brightman had several teeth knocked out in addition to suffering from shock.

While the Highway Traffic Act requires that all accidents in which personal injuries result and property damage exceeds fifty dollars, shall be reported to police forthwith, it is claimed the damaged truck was towed in by a local garage firm and the accident was not reported.

NOTED ARCHITECT WM. BLACKWELL DIES IN 88TH YEAR

Designer of many of Peterborough's most prominent buildings, William Blackwell, well-known architect, died in his 88th year in Nicholls Hospital this morning. He had been in fair health until the past two weeks and his passing was unexpected.

The original Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. buildings are two of the monuments by which the veteran will be remembered in this city. He co-operated with the late John Belcher in designing the Public Library building. Park Street Baptist Church and St. Luke's Anglican Church were of his design, and he planned both the Bonner-Worth and Auburn Mills of the present Dominion Woollens and Worsteds. At the time the Armouries were constructed, he served as the Dominion Government's resident architect.

Mr. Blackwell was born in Lakefield, son of the late James Blackwell and Frances Reid. He obtained his early schooling in Peterborough and commenced his studies of architecture under Walter Strickland in Toronto. Studies in New York and Winnipeg followed.

Establishing himself in Peterborough as a young man, Mr. Blackwell continued the practice of his profession throughout the years until his advancing age forced his retirement from active daily work seven years ago. Even to recent weeks, however, he continued his interest in the work, visiting his office where the architectural practice is now carried on by his son W. R. L. Blackwell, frequently. At the original organization of the Ontario Association of Architects in 1890, he was a member of the directorate and was lately regarded as the oldest member.

Throughout his life he took a keen interest in public affairs. In politics, he remained of Liberal persuasion. He was a devoted fisherman and huntsman in his earlier years and during many years pursued photography as a hobby. He was a memebr of St. John's Anglican Church.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Annie A. Hales, two sons, R. H. H. Blackwell of Jacksonville, Florida, and W. R. L. Blackwell of this city. Two brothers remain, Edward Blackwell of Brockville and James Blackwell of Peterborough.

The funeral arrangements are to be announced on Friday.

Meat Boils Over Gas Kills Three

MONTREAL, Dec. 30 (C.P.). — A pot of meat which overflowed and extinguished the oven gas flame, was blamed unofficially to-day for the asphyxiation of two men and a woman whose bodies were found today in their Stanley Street apartment. They had been dead about 16 hours.

The trio, Jeane Sauve, 47, his sister Theophile, 45, a friend and boarder, Alfred Malo, 45, apparently had been waiting for dinner to be cooked when they were overcome. The men, in shirt-sleeves, were found on a sitting-room couch. The housekeeper was found partially dressed in her room.

Given One Month On Theft Charge

Appearing on remand with a plea of guilty to a theft charge, Henry Sararas was this morning sentenced to one month in the county gaol. The information alleged that Sararas stole twenty-one dollars from his workmate, Melville Perritt, in a Chandos Township wood camp.

"You have been in trouble before and I look on this particular offence as a rather mean theft. You stole from a man with whom you shared sleeping quarters." His Worship stated in passing sentence on the youth. He added that whatever grievance the youth may have had against his employers did not justify stealing from one of the firm's other employees.

The accused was arrested in a local department store by Provincial Constable David Silvester. The officer having gone into the store to make a personal purchase identified his man from a description furnished him by the complainant.

DAYLIGHT SAVING WILL ELIMINATE CONFUSING TIME

"If the citizens of Peterborough don't want a summer of conflicting and confusing time they should vote decisively for daylight saving," said an alderrmanic candidate to the Examiner today. "Experience has proved that most of the factories are forced by their daily business relations with the larger cities to adopt daylight saving. If the city as a whole did not go on the advanced time you would have a great deal of unnecessary confusion, men going back to work at noon for weeks just when the schools are let out. That is only one example. If you went to some of the small villages your watch would be the same as theirs, but go to the larger towns, Cobourg and Port Hope, to say nothing of Oshawa and Toronto, and you find your time one hour behind theirs.

This year's council, in my opinion, did the right thing in putting the city on summer time, for that is what it is. They recognized the fact that Peterborough is an industrial centre, with large numbers of its people employed in factories affected by the so-called daylight saving time adopted in all the big cities. The council simply rescued the city from the confusion that is bound to result when factories find it necessary to adopt the time of the big cities while some people would rather keep us on the schedule of hamlets where the garage keeper is the leading and usually the only employer.

What will happen in 1938 if the people fail to turn out and vote for summer time? Well, I don't think the council should be faced with the problem of making the decision. The people themselves should be as big as the community they live in. Peterborough is the most important manufacturing centre between Toronto and Montreal. Why shouldn't we all be proud that we have to keep in step with the big cities instead of imaging ourselves as willing to trail along on "slow time."

Then there is another angle worth thinking about. Peterborough is naturally a summer resort. We have the river and lake at our door, and hundreds of people frequently pack up supper for the long evenings and get some of the pleasure they are entitled to without having to build a cottage on waters farther away.

You hear some people say about this country that we have nine months of winter and three months of bad weather. Of course that is not true. Our seasons are delightful even if we do get a little zero weather now and then in winter. Probably these are the same people who would pass up the chance of doing the sensible thing in summer by giving ourselves an extra hour of daylight when the days are longest. That chance comes on New Year's Day when you can mark your ballot for daylight saving, avoid confusion at home, and keep pace with the larger cities which affect us anyway whether we like it or not, instead of thinking of moving backward to keep company with the villages,—where we certainly don't belong if we are true to our ambitions as city of many factories."

THREE IN FAMILY DIE AT 22 COINCIDENCE, INQUEST FINDS

"Remaining Children Have Nothing Whatever to Fear" Says Doctor

MOTHER RELIEVED

London.—For two years Mrs. G. Langdon of West St., Charlton, S.E., mother of six children, was haunted by a secret dread of her second son's 22nd birthday.

Because—three years ago her eldest son died soon after his 22nd birthday.

A year later her eldest daughter died soon after her 22nd birthday—from a similar illness, which followed appendicitis operations.

She worried and wondered. Would her son Francis die when he became 22?

He did—recently—in exactly the same circumstances, apparently from the same cause.

Mrs. Langdon could bear her worry no longer. She still has two daughters and a son left—aged 19, 18 and 16.

She asked for an inquest so that the death of Francis could be thoroughly investigated.

Her fears were put at rest. Dr. Arthur Davis revealed at the inquest that the three deaths were coincidences.

She said: "A terrible weight has been lifted from my mind. After the death of my daughter two years ago my life became a nightmare. Then, when Francis died I wanted to know for certain if there were some terrible curse on my children.

"Now, after the inquest, I can face the future without that terrible dread. I feel a new woman."

Dr. Davis said: "I am very happy to be able to put the poor woman's mind at rest. From my examination of the case there is no doubt in my mind that the deaths were a remarkable coincidence. Mrs. Langdon need not worry any further.

"The remaining children have nothing whatever to fear."

KIPPERED HERRING SABBATH PROBLEM

Secretary for Scotland Faced With Poser From Stornoway

London.—To make sure that breakfast kippers are cured only from fresh fresh-herring the Herring Industry board has a rule which says that herring must be cured the day after landing.

Now Stornoway fishermen have sent their protest from the north of Scotland down to Whitehall.

"What about the Sabbath?" they ask. "Ye canna cure herring on a Sunday."

That means that Saturday's catch which has to be sent to the mainland for curing cannot be used for kippers.

The herring board doesn't quite know what can be done about it.

"The curing factories which used to be in Stornoway have closed down," one of the officials said. "The fishing there represents a very small part of the industry—not of course that that makes the grievance any less—and if we alter the rule to suit the fishermen there we must make a general alteration.

"Of course what they could do is fish on a Sunday. But that will never do in Scotland."

The secretary of state for Scotland is to be asked to solve the problem.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE REACHES $5,000,000

King Congratulates Collectors of Dues From British Working People

London—Eighty million "threepences," and a few more, were collected in 12 months by 14,000 men and women.

Over 2,000 of them assembled at a meeting in London to be thanked for their work. They were group secretaries of the Hospital Savings association, who collect the weekly threepences which London wage-earners give to pay for hospital treatment, whether they need it or not.

For the first time, after 15 years of work, they have collected over £1,000,000 ($5,000,000) in one year. Their first thanks came from the King, who sent them a telegram of congratulation that "this splendid result" should have coincided with his first year as their patron.

Their chairman, Sir Alan Anderson, M.P., told them one body of London's workers has agreed to give sixpences, instead of threepences. Busmen, who had to stop their contributions during the London bus dispute last May, have voluntarily signed forms doubling their contributions until the loss is made up.

BOY, 13, INSTALLED AS ROMNEY BISHOP

New Romney, Kent. — William Savage, 13-year-old leading chorister and boy scout, is to be installed "boy bishop" of New Romney.

The ceremony of installing a boy bishop was banned first by Henry VIII and then by Queen Elizabeth.

Last year the ceremony was revived by the vicar of New Romney, Dr. W. F. Scott, and is to be an annual event.

COINS OF CHARLES I FOUND TO BE GOLD

Workmen Discover Box on Catford Estate

Catford.—Two workmen digging on the Hall Park estate, Catford, which is being developed as a housing estate, unearthed a jug containing 100 old coins.

Thinking they were of no particular value, the two men shared the coins between them.

Later, the estate manager, hearing of the discovery, recalled the coins, which were eventually tested and found to be gold, of the period of Charles I and James I.

The coroner's officer has been informed of the discovery.

SEA CAPTAIN WILLS $68,500 TO HOMES

Said "Grateful for Excellent Start in Life They Gave Him"

Southampton.—The biggest legacy from an old boy in their history has been received by Dr. Barnardo's Homes—£13,700 ($68,500)—from a sea captain who was admitted to the homes more than 40 years ago.

This was revealed at a Southampton Rotary club meeting by W. W. Hind Smith, one of the two surviving original members of the council of the homes, who said he believed the captain had left more than £20,000 ($100,000).

His name was not revealed. A. E. Williams, an official of Dr. Barnardo's, said he was "a Capain Jones."

"We cannot trace much of his earlier history," said Mr. Williams, "but he was admitted more than 40 years ago. He became a sea captain and a member of the Singapore Pilots' association.

"He left property in several parts of the world, including Australia and Singapore.

"Captain Jones told his solicitors when making his will that he was leaving most of his property to Barnardo's Homes, because he was an old boy and was very grateful for the kindly treatment he received as a child and for the excellent start in life they gave him."

EFFORT IS LAUNCHED TO PROTECT GARDENS

London.—An effort is being made to protect the gardens of London.

The Deptford borough council are concerned at the number of applications which they are now receiving for permission to build flats in the gardens of houses in residential areas.

They made a formal report to the metropolitan boroughs standing joint committee which consulted the constituent councils on the desirability of making representations to the L.C.C. for powers to enable them to refuse application for the building of flats, when it is considered that the amenities of the district would be prejudiced.

WARNS BRITISH POLICY DANGER IN FIEV YEARS

Leeds. — Sir Stafford Cripps, speaking on colonies for Germany at Leeds: "The policy of the government is to throw the democratic babies of Europe to the wolves in the hope that the imperial babies may be saved for another five years.

"By such a policy we are helping to create a German power that will make it easy to pick the bones of the British Empire in six years' time."

UNIVERSITY ACQUIRES ESTATE AT $925,000

Oxford Trust Buys 6,000 Property Including Village of Pin Mill

Ipswich.—Bidding at the sale at Ipswich of Woolverstone Hall and its estate of over 6,000 acres started at £140,000 ($700,000) and the property was bought for £185,000 ($925,000) by the Nuffield Oxford University Trust.

Woolverstone Hall, the property of Geoffrey Berners, was built in 1776, and the estate is about five miles from Ipswich.

It includes the village of Pin Mill, for many years a favorite haunt of yachtsmen, and parts of Shotley and Holbrook, famous for their naval training schools.

On the other side of the Orwell river is the Trimley estate, bought in 1933 for Trinity college, Cambridge. The two university properties therefore face each other.

Local people were anxious lest this beautiful estate should be cut up into lots, and were relieved to hear that its purchase was for investment, and that the riverside beauty spots will be secure from desecration.

COIN LIKE CRICKET BALL

London.—A silver coin, which is claimed to be the largest in the world—a Siamese 80 ticals, weighing 39 oz.—is to be sold.

The coin, which resembles a cricket ball, has been sent to a saleroom by Baron S. van Moylan, of Llangattock, Wales.

England's largest silver piece is the 4 oz. coin which Charles I issued at Oxford after gifts of silver plate from the university.

BELOVED CHILD UNWITTINGLY PUT 'FLANNEL FOOT' IN JAIL

Daughter's Chatter Led to Arrest of Notorious Housebreaker

'WONDERFUL DADDY'

London.—"Flannel Foot," the master crook who for 20 years beat the law and made £1,000 ($5,000) a year out of brilliantly clever housebreaking, stood in the dock at Middlesex sessions, brought to justice at last by the unwitting chatter of the daughter he adored.

In the name of Henry Williams, 49, of Royal Cres., Holland Park W., he was sent to penal servitude for five years. His real name is Henry Edward Vickers, and he is the son of a Reading butcher.

He saw men grow old in the was credited with what "Flannel Foot," war-wounded, spruce Jekyll and Hyde of crime, actually accomplished.

He beat Scotland Yard. He made them spend thousands of pounds in vain efforts to catch him. He had a special "crime-location" map to himself in Chief Constable Horwell's office.

He saw men grow old in the police force who when they were young detectives, dreamed of capturing him. Wensley, Ashley, Nicholls, Cornish, Savage — all these great Yard chiefs — now retired, pitted themselves against him—and failed.

In 1932 he left his wife and took with him his 11-year-old daughter. He loved her; she thought of him as her "wonderful daddy."

He knew the danger of having her with him. He knew his wife had asked the police to search for the child. He risked all so that he could lavish his affection on her.

He would not let her go to school, warned her never to go far from the house or talk to strangers.

One day she ran away. The police found her in a workhouse while "Flannel Foot" frantically searched for her. She told the police where her mother lived, chattered happily about the presents her father had bought her, and about the money he brought home at night.

It was enough. For two years Chief Constable Horwell and Chief Inspector T. B. Thompson had been directing the biggest drive to catch him.

BIGAMIST DESCRIBED AS 'BEST COWMAN'

But Judge Thinks Bossie Should Get Credit

Birmingham.—When John Dixey, 30, was bound over at Birmingham assizes for bigamy, a detective said of him:

"He is the best cowman in Oxfordshire. His employer's cows won the premier award for milk in the country—a great tribute to him."

Mr. Justice Macnaghten: "Is not that more due to the cows?"

It was stated that Dixey put up the bans for his second "marriage" in the next parish to the one in which his wife was living.

COLONIAL CAN LIVE CHEAPLY IN LONDON

Luxurious Bachelor Apartments Are Now Obtainable for $11 a Week

London.—If he is a colonial, a young bachelor can live luxuriously in London for £2 5s ($11) a week. In London House, Guilford St., W.C., he can have a large bright, thickly carpeted room, tiled bath alcove and a chromium wall lamp for reading in bed.

His private room includes modern book shelves, cupboards for shirts and man-size writing desk.

At no extra charge he has breakfast and dinner on weekdays, all meals on Sundays, squash courts and the use of a private dining room to entertain women friends.

"It's awfully highbrow" was the conclusion of 100 students and professional men from Canada, Rhodesia, and Australia when they inspected the new building. Eighty-five have moved in.

Queen Mary unlocked the oak door of the new house after a speech by William M. Goodenough, chairman of governors of the Dominion Students Hall Trust, which he founded in 1930.

BUILD AERIAL SIGNPOST

London.—More than 150 tons of concrete have been used to make Great Britain's largest signpost—the aerial signpost just completed in the meadows of the Ovaline Dairy Farm at King's Langley, Herts. The signpost is a circle, 200 feet in diameter, with the words "To Croydon, 27 Miles."

'GASSED' HER IMBECILE SON FACES CHARGE OF MURDER

Had Asked Physician To Do Away With Boy, 5, Is Claim

"LIVED FOR CHILD"

Leeds.—A mother, in her love for her five-year-old imbecile son, was stated at Leeds police court to have changed her religion, hoping her prayers might cure him. She was also said to have carried him miles daily for four years, often through snow and rain, to clinics, and to have given her blood for transfusions.

The mother, Kathleen Mumford, 40, of Throstle Rd., Middleton, a Leeds suburb, was charged with the murder of the son, Derek. She was committed for trial.

Maurice Crump, prosecuting, said Mrs. Mumford lived in the house with her husband, the boy and a lodger, Miss Evelyn Bedford.

On Nov. 10 Mrs. Mumford was told Derek was incurable. It was suggested to her he should go into a mental home. Mrs. Mumford would not hear of this. She asked a physician to do away with the boy. When told this was impossible, she said: "If you won't, I shall."

The interview was reported to a mental health committee official, who saw the mother and suggested the boy should go to a mental colony. She would not consider the advice.

"On Nov. 20," Mr. Crump said, "Mrs. Mumford arrived at Leeds town hall carrying a bundle. She said to the watchman 'The police, my child is dead.'"

The watchman saw a child's foot protruding from the bundle. In the charge office Mrs. Mumford said: "I want to give myself up. I have gassed him."

Artificial respiration was tried and the boy was rushed to the Leeds infirmary, where he died.

The husband, Arthur Mumford, said: "My wife lived for the child. She lost sleep through worrying over him, and her health has been getting worse and worse."

Mrs. Mumford pleaded not guilty.

HUSBAND DESERTED ON WEDDING NIGHT

Bride of 17 Is Described as "Stupid Little Fool"

Lewes.—Dorothy Evelyn Hutt, 17, said to have left her 52-year-old husband at 11.30 p.m. on their wedding day, was bound over for two years at Sussex assizes at Lewes, on condition that she ceased to associate with a member of a criminal gang.

Mr. Justice Charles said: "I am not going to send her to prison. She is only a baby. She has made a stupid little fool of herself."

The judge had been told that Hutt married her former employer, a bookmaker, in April. She left her husband and went away with a man named Wilson, who was wanted by the police.

Wilson introduced her to a man named Harrison, who was recently sentenced at the Old Bailey. A police inspector said there was no doubt that the girl had been led astray by Wilson.

With James Smith Graham, 34, a former bank clerk, Dorothy Hutt had pleaded guilty to obtaining £22 ($110) by uttering forged money orders.

Graham was sentenced to 12 months' hard labor.

NEW FRENCH AEROPLANE

Paris.—France will place in transatlantic service in 1940 a six-motored monoplane to carry 20 passengers, three tons of cargo and a crew of eight.

INFORMATION GIVEN ON SHARE-PUSHING

London.—Joseph Davies, 43, who, according to a detective, had given the police information about share-pushing of great importance, was sentenced at the Old Bailey to 18 months' imprisonment "instead of penal servitude".

G. Dodson, the recorder, said that the fact that he had tried to help the police stood him in great stead.

Davies pleaded guilty at the last sessions, when he was said to have been an associate of Jacob Factor, to stealing a banker's draft for £4,000 ($20,000) in connection with shares, in which a forged transfer of stock was given as security.

WAIT FOR CRASHES AT 'DEATH CORNER'

"Incredible", Says Magistrate, When Told of Villagers' Favorite Pastime

Winchester.—Sitting on the wall at Death Corner, waiting for the crashes, is the favorite pastime of villagers at Sutton Scotney, in Hampshire.

Death Corner is the name they give to the bend in the road at the Micheldever railway bridge. During week-ends two policemen are usually on duty there.

James Eric Cook of Waltham Rd., Overton, was sitting on the wall waiting for an accident to happen. He saw one.

James William Blowes, riding from his home in Islington, was on the first day of his motorcycling holiday. Cook saw him fail to take the corner and crash into the bank.

Following Blowes was his holiday companion on another motorcycle. He, too, crashed and collided with a lorry.

Blowes was fined £3 ($15) at Winchester.

The chairman of the magistrates asked a policeman if it were true about the people sitting on the bridge to watch accidents.

"There is usually a number of people there," replied the policeman.

"Incredible," said the chairman.

FORGERY 'LEVIATHAN' DUPLICATES SHELLEY

Suspected to Have Had Hand in Alleged Letters by Lincoln

London.—Somewhere at large in London is a master forger whose name is known to at least a dozen people whom he has robbed of hundreds of pounds.

He is free because his victims have never complained to the police, bearing their losses themselves.

His presence was revealed by A. J. A. Symons, the biographer, when lecturing to the Autographs and Graphological society at the Royal Society of Arts.

This "leviathan of forgers" was described by Mr. Symons as a scholar and collector gone wrong.

A "Shelley" notebook forged by him was passed by the British museum as genuine.

Its detection came when the forger, over-confident, flooded the market too quickly with Shelleyana.

Mr. Symons said he suspected this man of the more recent forgeries in America when alleged letters by Abraham Lincoln were published and guaranteed authentic by the editor of a reputable journal.

NEWS AND VIEWS FROM ALL CORNERS OF THE WORLD

BREAK COCONUTS ON HEADS AS CLIMAX TO WEIRD RITES

Scramble for Sacred Bits Follows After Brahmin Priests Officiate

50,000 AT TEMPLE

Natrampalli.—For a whole week amazingly weird temple rites were held in this village in South India.

Fifty thousand devout pilgrims arrived from all parts of the country to observe a partial fast.

Then, after a ceremonial bath in the sacred tank, they gathered round the temple.

Chanting of sacred hymns, clanging of cymbals, beating of the drums, announced that the last and most important ceremony was about to take place.

This most sacred rite is the breaking of big coconuts on the bare heads of a few selected men.

The vast multitude of worshippers prayed silently. The high priest blew "God's own trumpet," his assistants shouted at the top of their voices, while the selected men worked themselves through frenzy into a trance.

Then each Brahmin priest with a big coconut in his hand rushed forward, held the bare head of the "select" one, and broke the coconut on it. Half a dozen blows were sometimes necessary.

A scramble followed for the sacred coconut bits that lay on the ground—it is considered a great blessing to eat them.

MICROPHONE IS USED AS AID TO NURSING

Placed Beside Baby's Crib to Warn of Waking.

Leipzig.—The problem of watching sleeping babies has been solved by a simple broadcasting device. Should the baby waken and start to cry, its nurse or mother is informed by an ingenious electric system.

The microphone is placed at the side of the pillow, the current is turned on and the nurse or mother may retire to a remote part of the house. Should the baby turn over in its sleep or cry, the fact is broadcast. The crib loud speaker, which was demonstrated at the Leipzig fair, gives the nurses or mother freedom of action.

NORWAY ENJOYING GREATEST HARVEST

Oslo.—Norway enjoyed this year the greatest harvest of crops in its history, partly due to excellent weather and partly due to the strides made in recent years in scientific and intensive farming.

Harvest of all field crops, it is estimated, will top 2,000,000 metric tons, compared with a normal of between 1,700,000 and 1,800,000 metric tons.

FRANCE DOES HONOR TO KING LOUIS XIV

Monarch Still Revered as Patron of Classic Architecture

Paris.—The 300th anniversary of the birth of Louis XIV will be celebrated in France and plans already are in progress.

Although a republic, France remembers Louis XIV as one of the greatest monarchs of the past for it was through him that the country received many of its artistic and architectural treasures. Because of their value to the republic, France devotes a fraction of its budget to maintaining and restoring the castles, gardens, churches, square and other contributions of Louis XIV to the country.

Versailles Palace is an achievement of the monarch which has remained a wonder of the world throughout the centuries. Important in French history of the part, the palace still plays a major part in the life of the country, for it is there that the election of the president of the republic takes place.

AUSTRIAN VETERANS GIVEN YULE CHEER

60,000 War Invalids Given Bonuses of Between $4 and $15

Vienna.—A grateful fatherland gave Christmas presents, varying between $4 and $15, to 60,000 Austrian world war invalids.

Those who fought, suffered and were permanently disabled in the war ordinarily receive modest material compensation in Austria.

A total of 21,951 men, whose earning capacity was decreased by less than 35 per cent. are furnished medical treatment free.

In addition to this treatment, 14,876 veterans of 35 to 45 per cent. disability, get a monthly pension of $1.40 plus a Christmas bonus of $4. The claims of only 8.5 per cent. of applicants for this category were recognized by authorities.

The next category, comprising 9,386 veterans with a disability rating between 45 and 55 per cent., gets $3.60 a month and $6 for Christmas. Six per cent. of claims presented in this category were recognized as valid.

AUSTRALIAN BANK CLERK INHERITS A BARONETCY

Will Become 14th Baron Trollope of Casewick

LIVE SAME WAY

Sydney, N.S.W.—Here in Sydney there has been found, after a world-wide search lasting nine months, the heir to one of England's oldest baronetcies. His name is Frederic Farrand Trollope. He is a bank clerk—cares little for baronetcies.

He becomes the 14th holder of the baronetcy of Trollope of Casewick, Lincolnshire, created in 1642, and owner of the South Lincolnshire estates of Braceborough and Greatford. He is 62 years old, single.

"I expect to visit England next year but I don't believe there are any estates in south Lincolnshire. The title won't make any difference to my way of living," he said.

Search for the 14th baronet began when the 13th baronet, Sir Arthur Grant Trollope, died last February.

His heir was Frank Anthony Trollope, a distant cousin, and grandson of Anthony Trollope, the novelist.

Frank Anthony Trollope lived in Australia, but he died. It was the need for definitely establishing whether he had married and left a son which began the nine-months' search.

Now the search has ended. Frank Anthony Trollope did not marry—and Frederic Farrand Trollope succeeds to the title.

AUSTRALIAN OFFICER AT LONELY OUTPOST

Constable's Neighbors Are Wild Myall Negroes

Darwin, Australia. — Constable Peter Riley will be one of the loneliest policemen in the world this Christmas. But while Royal Canadian Mounted Police seek warmth at their sub-Arctic posts, Riley will fight flies and mosquitoes in wild Arnhem Land, northern Australia.

Riley will be stationed for three months at King river on the coast of Arnhem Land aboriginal reserve. His sole companion will be a Negro tracker and his neighbors, wild Myall Negroes. Only when a government vessel, the Larrakia, calls on its periodical patrol of the northern coast will he see another white man.

ASK $51,500 ESTATE BE BOUGHT FOR PARK

Suggest Middlesex County Council Acquire Breakspears Property

London.—The parks commission of the L.C.C. recommended the council to make a contribution of £10,300 ($51,500) towards the cost of the acquisition by the Middlesex county council of the Breakspears estate, Harefield, near Uxbridge. It is asked as an addition to the Green Belt.

The estate, about 16 miles from Charing Cross, has an area of about 572 acres. It is close to Denham, Great Western, railway station, and within two miles of Ruislip and Ickenham stations on the Piccadilly and Metropolitan railways.

The purchase will be completed on the death of the present tenant. At present the public uses certain footpaths over the estate.

When the acquisition is completed, it is hoped to throw open the whole of the estate to the public. In any case, further access will be provided.

The committee suggest the council should make an immediate payment of £3,467 ($17,335) and the balance of the proposed contribution should be made on the completion of the purchase.

Campbellford Cops Easy Win From Belleville By 10-4

Homesters Are Superior In Play Although Visitors Threaten Often

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 30 — Playing their opening game in the Trent Valley League schedule Campbellford took an easy victory from Belleville with a score of 10 to 4. Although Campbellford held the edge on the play during most of the game there were several occasions when the visitors offered a serious threat when they passed the blue lin. In the first period there were 14 shots which Henton had to keep out, while Heptonstall received only four, with one getting by. Couch got the first goal for Campbellford and Phillips scored the second with Couch getting the assist. With only two seconds of the first period to play, F. Sunderland slid a fast one past Heptonstll to end the period two to one. When whole period was fast with the exception of the last four minutes, when the game lagged. One and a half minutes of the second period had been played when Reddick opened the scoring for Campbellford on a pass from Phillips, and eased in a second one six minutes later when Phillips centered out to him as he waited in front of the net. Sticks were getting a bit high and Semark of Belleville got into a mix-up with Joe Keating, and the referee gave both players a rest during which time both teams held back until they were again at full strength and Campbellford forced the play behind Belleville's blue line. Phillips picked up a loose puck and brought the count to 5-1, and with only three minutes to play Semark got another one for the visitors, ending the period 5-2.

In the final period nearly every Campbellford player took a shot at the Belleville net, and Henton was kept busy with every shot from within the blue line. Phillips, Wilkes, Keating, Blake and Pee each scored two for the locals, while Semark scored twice for Belleville to end the game 10-4.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP).—How come Dizzy Dean's famous balk which got him into a row with President Ford Frick and made headlines all over the country, didn't get into the official National League averages?...Los Angeles has taken a January fight between John Henry Lewis and Maxie Rosenbloom away from St. Louis and Chicago...Joe Louis' movie was previewed by fight writers here yesterday...Two stars.

London Fans As Lusty-Lunged As Canadian Hockey Brethren

Game Becoming More Popular Every Year In England's Ice Palaces

LONDON, Dec. 30 (CP).—Give it another year and the hockey served up in England's ice palaces will have all the trimmings enjoyed in Canada, from whence the game came. The fans are learning rapidly.

No more do the crowds limit themselves to polite hand-clapping. They have developed into lusty-lunged mobs, as vociferous as any crowding the Canadian arenas. Their opinions may not be as expert but they are just as scathing when need be.

And as England's hockey supporters lose their customary calmness, they are introducing the trimmings long known to the game in Canada but new in this country. Recently, Referee Hank Wilson of Calgary had to be escorted to a taxi by police when irate fans surrounded him in the arena after calling back a goal that looked good to the galleries.

There have been free-for-alls, too. The British sports writers refer to them as "scenes."

Cleaner Playing.

But while the fans were becoming a little rowdy in their support, the sports writers observed that the Canadian players who form the greater part of England's National League have become "well-mannered young gentlemen" since the campaign for more playing and less rowdyism on the ice.

It took a penalty box parade, four suspensions and subsequent loss of pay to convince the boys to stick to hockey.

With the London cup tournament out of the way, all the National League teams have settled down to the long schedule with replacements settled, injuries repaired and combinations set. There are no set-ups among the seven teams.

The season's new crop of "imports" showed up well with the exception, perhaps, of Mark McCaffrey and Bill Burke, the Ottawans who were released by Stretham. But the South London team drew the prize packet among the recruits in Gordon (Toots) Days, another Ottawan who has been the team's leading scorer and playmaker.

Last season's champions, Wembley Lions, led by Winnipeg's Tony Lemay marched through the preliminary London Cup tournament with ease, but are not having it too easy in the league schedule. Since the tournament Lions came to terms with their old captain, Lou Bates of Ottawa. Acquisition of Bates resulted in the transfer of Frank Cadorette to Wembley's other team — the Monarchs.

Friday has been left open so that any team may change their game to that date provided it is a mutual arrangement between the two teams concerned.

A list of players on each team will be sent to each manager as soon as they have been forwarded to the secretary.

Managers must see that referee in charge of game sends results of the game to the secretary.

Visiting team supplies referee in chief, home team other referee; each team pays own referee. Referees appointed must be acceptable to both team.

Sports DAY by DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

DAYLIGHT SAVING comes up for a vote here this civic election and, while we don't like to mix in these matters, we sort of have to draw it to the attention of sports lovers. All the live sports towns in the Province—even Belleville this year—are on daylight saving time during the summer months, and we hope Peterborough is the same way. That extra hour of sunshine means a lot to sports folk, either active participants or the vast army (of which we are one) who prefer to sit out balmy summer evenings and watch others athletically engaged. Baseball, softball, soccer cricket, tennis, sailing—all these summertime games derive much benefit from that added hour of daylight around eight p.m. or so. It is up to those with votes, who like sports, to get out and cast the right ballot.

* * * * * * *

LOCAL O.H.A. teams have no more games this week—the Petes opening schedule last Monday in Belleville—but all three squads swing into action next week. Two games here, one Tuesday and one Friday. Quinte juniors tangle with the Colts here Tuesday p.m., and Trenton Fliers meet the Petes at the Brock on Friday. First, though, the Petes play the Fliers in Belleville on Tuesday. Then our intermediate Bees open up in Port Hope on Thursday. So we're in the thick of the O.H.A. season next week.

* * * * * * *

TWO PRACTISES were run off last evening at the rink, the junior Colts and the senior Petes. But the intermediate Bees didn't go on, as the Westclox gang of the Senior City League had reserved the eight-to-nine hour for a workout. And they had a likely looking gang out, too. The Petes went through a neat drilling session, while the junior squad was cut down some. All three practise tonight, juniors at six, seniors at seven and intermediates at eight. Just the juniors workout Friday e'en, from six to seven. The three teams practise again New Year's Day, Colts at 1.30, Petes an hour later and then the Bees for an hour. Ought to get some definite dope on the Payne-managed outfit (intermediate "B") in a day or two.

* * * * * * *

AS FOR the juniors—who play here Tuesday—the squad has been cut to 19 players, with some more being lopped off tonight, by Manager Pat Hayden. Bill Calladine is aiding in the coaching of the kids. Either McNabb, of Owen Sound, or Heath will be the goalie. Among the better defence prospects are Al Clark, Jopling, Brady, Berwick, Todd and Walker. Some of the promising prospective forwards are Gee Clark, Tompkins of Belleville, Williams, Craig, O'Leary, White, Evers, Creighton, Fleming, Clark and Mortimer. With Crowe still on the injured list. The team will probably be picked from this bunch.

* * * * * * *

WHILE SOME of the boys aren't in the pink of condition yet, and while there are some weak spots apparent at present, nevertheless a pretty smart junior "B" squad will be representing Peterborough in the O.H.A. group with Belleville and Havelock this winter. True, the Colts lost a bunch of their 1936-37 stars, but they are liable to go just as far or further this winter. All kinds of good prospects, several stars left from last year and two good imports. They should be bigger and possibly faster than last winter's team, with huskier wingmen and a strong experienced defence. The outfit may take a few weeks to get functioning right, but we'd advise fans not to be too downhearted. This town will once again trot out a classy crew of junior Colts. Just wait and see.

* * * * * * *

AS THE Belleville columnist pointed out in his pillar yesterday, there is a rumor going around regarding the senior "B" group setup. Said rumor being that there may be plenty of jockeying to see which teams finish in the first two slots—for the senior "B" playoff—and which two take in the third and fourth places, for an intermediate "A" playoff. He sort of scoffs at the idea of any club trying to toss a tilt or two to better its position, but then adds that the Fliers and Petes should be definitely termed senior "B", no matter where they finish, and that Belleville and Queen's should be intermediate "A". Thus, if the Petes finished third in the group, they'd be through, and the Fliers would continue in senior "B" playdowns. We have heard it said that this is what Secretary Hewitt of the O.H.A. had in mind when he re-arranged this grouping. However, something more definite will be known or lined up within a week, we expect.

STRIKES US that the whole trouble with the various puck groupings in recent years is the odd attitude of the O.H.A. That body used to be strict—sometimes too much so—and there was no nonsense about "A", "B" and "C" splitups in each section as today. Yet there were plenty of teams entered (with more senior ones than today) and the smaller towns like Peterborough or Lindsay, seemed to win their share of championships. Today a club with a scrappy skipper—like Thomas at Belleville—can get nearly anything desired from the O.H.A., which splits up groups and juggles playoffs so much that 'twould take an accountant to figure out the angles. They may mean well but they're greasing their own skids.

MANY OF the fans—and quite a few of 'em attend the Brock each night to see the workouts—were surprised to see Kenny Kane out there with the Petes last e'en. The peppery veteran of many O.H.A. tussles was dashing around like a junior prospect, showing considerable gingerino. Kane was a wingman here for two seasons some 10 years back, after Bailey had left for the Leafs, and he also starred in senior company in Toronto. He and Frank Collins, an ex-Peterborough player, too, were on the Nationals who toured Europe later. Kenny is living here now, after retiring from hockey a few seasons back.

TIREMEN WIDEN GAP IN SENIOR HOCKEY GROUP

KITCHENER, Ont., Dec. 30. — (CP).—The gap between Toronto Goodyears and the rest of the pack in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" race was wider than ever to-day following the Tiremen's fifth straight victory.

Joe Primeau's proteges invaded the Twin Cities for the first time and skated to a 6-2 victory over Kitchener Greenshirts last night. Goodyears' play was finished and a revelation to the 500 fans at the game.

Scoring once in the opening period, Goodyears turned on the heat in the middle session to slap home four counters and sew up the game. Greenshirts staged a comeback in the final frame to outscore the Toronto club 2-1 for their only goals of the game.

Don Metz, who lost the loop scoring leadership to Red Reynolds of Port Colborne Tuesday night, placed himself on a par with the Tar by picking up three points to run his total scoring points to 14. Obs O'Brien was another three-point man—all assists. He helped Metz on two occasions and Red Heron on a third.

Other Toronto marksmen were Bill Jennings, Latham Boyle and Blondy Sutcliffe. Warpy Tennant banged home one of the Greenshirts' goals on Roy Hinaperjer's pass and Herchenratter scored the other with the help of Lang.

Boxer Bowman, Goodyear defenceman, was the villain of the game, drawing two of the three penalties handed out by Referee Johnny Jones of Guelph. A teammate, Eddie King, was charged with the other penalty.

Mat Game Enjoys Successful Year In City Of Montreal

Grapple Gentlemen Have Proper Classic Touch To Please French Fans

MONTREAL, Dec. 30 (CP) — While the rest of the world has stepped in its appreciation of the finer things, Montreal has sustained a fuller life through mass support of the ancient art of wrestling.

The sport that boomed everywhere else when man was looking for an outlet for depression dates 2 and sank rapidly when business began to climb back—had its most flamboyant and dramatic year here in 1937. The Premen-Canadian likes his sport with or without trimmings. It has been foiled, but always there must be drama and the grappe gentlemen seem to possess the proper classic touch.

Of course a few champions help and Montreal has about 40 best wearers, from the city junior fly-weight king to one of those world champions. But the game would languish without bests, for the Montreal fan is under those restraints. He brings along ammunition when a villainous pro is seen and in many of the smaller cards he can drink beer during the performance.

In summer 10 cards operate, five outdoors, and the city has five indoor shows weekly in winter. The Forum has drawn four gates of more than $9,000 at weekly shows and the arena about $1,000 each program. The city athletic commission has registered 300 wrestlers and class Montreal "wrestling capital of the world."

Mayor Among The Best

Top billboards and Montreal's contribution to the lineup of world heavyweight champions is Yvon Robert, broad and handsome and possessor of a sapphire armlock to delight the most critical connoisseur. He is recognized as titlist in Montreal and Massachusetts.

Robert has been involved in all the big-money deals and most of the packed card. With Felix Mitjuke, French champion, he drew $11,000 and when Jack Dempsey refereed the bout with Bob Wagner the art patrons contributed $16,918.

Robert threw Tor Johnson on his head one night and the 360-pound Johnson ran from the Forum in distress and a pair of trunks while pedestrians looked for cover. He was caught blocks away by sturdy policemen and hustled off in an ambulance. The customers loved it.

A little club supplied a pause incident. The fans carried ripe fruit to a Hero-Villain performance and while some tossed it at the bad man others went out quietly and hacked the tires of his automobile.

A women spectator broke a bottle over another grappler's head and the wrestler was suspended—to keep the art of lofty plane.

DOUBLE-DECK CARS

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (CP).—The Long Island railroad has placed in operation two all-aluminum double-deck passenger cars, in furtherance of studies aimed to increase the carrying capacity of passenger cars, according to an announcement today by George Le Boutillier, vice-president. The new cars will be operated for several weeks as part of eight different scheduled trains running every weekday over three branches of the road, the Port Washington, Hempstead and Montauk branches.

Echoes From No. '8'

By HERB MARTIN

By tonight (Thursday) both preliminary and first round of the 'Attrill' competition will be completed. It is not likely any further games in this series will be played just now, the competition to be completed later in the season.

On Monday next, January 3rd, the regular schedule games for the season will commence and the schedule books will be ready for distribution sometime tomorrow (Friday)... The suggestion has been handed out that as there are so many new players in the club this year, the skips should pay particular attention to them and see that they are properly instructed in the art of delivering the stones. It is with a certain amount of pride that we, on behalf of the schedule committee, announce that every rink has been completed. The last two were signed up on Wednesday for the full quota.

NORWOOD BEATEN BY HAVELOCK 5-1

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Dec. 30. — Norwood met defeat in the hands of Havelock to the tune of 5 to 1 in the opening game of the East Peterborough Junior Hockey League, played in the Norwood arena before a fair attendance Tuesday night. Fast and clean playing for the most part by both teams featured the event.

In the first period Aboud of Havelock was knocked out when he ran into E. Buck, to be laid out for a few minutes, shortly after the opening. Aboud, on his feet again, got the first goal for Havelock. R. Richardson evened up the score a few minutes later for Norwood, assisted by B. Lumaden, B. Webb and B. Godin.

The second period was roughed up a bit, with five-minute penalties being handed out to Puffer of Norwood and Haggerty of Havelock. L. Baskin of Norwood received a two-minute penalty. Havelock sunk their second and the final goal of the period by Pollock, assisted by Haggerty and Moore, making the score: Havelock 2, Norwood 1.

Norwood blew up in the third period and allowed three goals, putting the game in the bag for the Havelock lads.

Lineups:

Norwood—B. Baker, goal; first line, B. Webb, B. Lumaden, B. Godin; second line, Bedore, Puffer, Baskin; defence, Richardson, Buck, Baskin.

Havelock—Goal, Harnden; first line, McMullen, Haggerty, McCutcheon; second line, Kitchen, Moore, Pollock; defence, Aboud, Williams, Brunton.

Havelock will play at Norwood again January 3 in the second game of the schedule.

Argos Are Outstanding Team In 1937 Canadian Sports

Winnipeg Monarchs, Memorial Cup Winners, Rank In Second Place

TORONTO, Dec. 30 (CP).—By the margin of a long city block, Toronto Argonauts, national football champions, were the outstanding team in Canadian sport this year. The nation's sports writers have no doubts about that.

Voting in the year-end Canadian press poll, the writers made it Argos all the way with Winnipeg Monarchs, junior hockey champions and Memorial Cup winners, second. In third place were the senior hockey champions, Sudbury Tigers.

Across the country the palm was given to Lew Hayman's football machine, beaten only twice in 10 games and victorious in its season-end stands against Sarnia Imperials, 1936 eastern champions, and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 1936 Canadian titlists. Other outfits ran far behind in the voting.

Winnipeg's great junior hockey team, which startled Toronto by the methodical perfection of its passing attacks last spring in the Memorial Cup finals against Copper Cliff, won a bigger ballot-total than any junior team had collected in previous polls.

Monarchs, coached by Harry Neil, finished their dazzling run over Copper Cliff with a 7-0 triumph. Perhaps no other team in 1937 established its superiority so definitely in a Dominion final.

Behind Sudbury's senior hockey champions in the polling ran New Westminster Salmonbellies, Canadian lacrosse champions; Winnipeg's football Bombers and Montreal Canadiens, who made a great stand against Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League playoffs before going down in five games.

Football also contributed the most disappointing factor of the sports year. The writers were almost unanimous that Montreal Indians, an all-star brigade led by John Y. Ferraro, were the most disappointing team in the country. Scarcely another team or individual were mentioned.

Indians won only two games in the Big Four—one, incidentally, was at the expense of Argos. There was tremendous power in the Montreal wingline, speed and all-round strength in the backfield. But nothing happened! Touted as potential champions, the Indians never threatened.

H. C. HATCH STABLE TO REDUCE STRING

TORONTO, Dec. 30 (CP).—Death and sickness have disrupted two of Canada's most powerful racing stables—known wherever thoroughbreds answer the starter's bell in North America.

The famed black and yellow silks of the Seagram stable of Waterloo, Ont., were seldom seen this year in turf battles in Canada or the United States. After the death last February of E. F. Seagram, the establishment was taken over by a son, J. E. Frowde Seagram, who virtually retired the colors. At a public auction the thoroughbreds went under an auctioneer's hammer.

So the colors would not fall by the wayside entirely, Frowde bought back three or four horses. They did nothing to uphold the honor of the former great stable.

Next year the double blue hoops of H. C. Hatch of Agincourt, Ont., will be seen less regularly than in past years. Nearly all the star handicap performers of the Hatch stable—including Monsweep, the 1936 King's Plate winner—will be auctioned next month in California. Herbert Hatch, brother of the owner, announced here the major reason was the illness of Bill Bringloe, veteran trainer, who joined the stable two years ago. A number of horses, mostly Ontario-foaled, will be kept for Canadian racing.

Propose Banquet To Honor Veteran Members Of O.H.A.

W. A. Fry, Dunnville, and W. A. Hewitt In The Service Of Hockey For Many Years

TORONTO, Dec. 30 (CP).—The Ontario Hockey Association executive granted playing transfers to 26 hockey players at a meeting which concluded early today after lengthy discussions of problems that had arisen among Ontario clubs recently.

The meeting also decided to hold a complimentary banquet January 8 in honor of W. A. Fry, Dunnville, former O.H.A. president and recently appointed member of the Ontario Athletic Commission, and W. A. Hewitt, for 35 years secretary-treasurer of the association.

Proposal of Ray Reynolds, Sarnia, to have the Sarnia district considered a metropolitan area to facilitate distribution of players between that town and Point Edward was approved and the meeting decided to allot $500 for distribution of hockey sticks among junior players in Ontario.

The O.H.A. agreed to sponsor a resolution to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association that the Ontario representation at annual and special meetings of the Dominion body be increased from two to three so as to provide direct representation for the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, an affiliate of the O.H.A.

Failure of the Guelph intermediate hockey club to obtain transfers for two players who had failed to qualify under the residence clause of the C.A.H.A. constitution brought forth the declaration from representatives of the club it might not be able to continue playing this year in the O.H.A. intermediate loop.

The club's playing lists had been reduced from 13 to eight since October 15 last, on which players could establish residence, and the team was unable to replace the losses from an industrial league in the city because of the industrial league rules.

The meeting granted transfers as follows:

POOR SHOWING WEMBLEY LIONS

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(CP Cable.)—Wembley Lions, last year's champions, are far back in the race for the National Hockey League leadership as the teams prepare for the 1938 campaigning.

Never able to hit their pace of last season, Lions have dropped back steadily to fifth place in the seven-team race. Harringay Greyhounds lead and Harringay Racers, runners-up last season, are giving them their keenest opposition.

Here is the standing to date:

PEACOCK FEATHERS

CHAPTER 27

AT THE Veiled Prophet's ball Mimi carried a fan of peacock feathers—the one which had been painted in the portrait, and I heard a woman behind me say, "Mimi Le Brun must want bad luck. I wouldn't wear peacock feathers for anything in the world."

"I am not superstitious," was the cold response.

"It means death, my dear, or some dreadful trouble. Oh, you may think I am silly. But I had an old black Mammy . . ."

They passed on . . . and I smiled to myself. Death and Mimi? . . . the thing was preposterous . . . ! She was as brilliantly alive as a spring morning! And as beautiful.

I made my way through the crowd. The Queen had been crowned, and in a few moments there would be dancing. I wanted to get as soon as possible to Mimi. I had been promised a dance.

Mrs. Le Brun sat with a group of matrons, many of whom like herself had been former Queens. I spoke to her, and to my surprise she rose and drew me away from the others. "I want to talk to you a bit, Jerry—" she was sparkling, secure, dangerous, "about Mimi."

I was at once on guard; but I said with an effect of composure, "Not any of them could hold a candle to her, could they? She should have been Queen."

"She might have been had her grandfather lived."

"She should have been anyhow."

She did not continue the theme. She had other things on her mind. Her voice was clear, incisive, as she said, "Jerry—you mustn't fall in love with her."

"I have already fallen in love."

"You know of course that she can't marry you."

"I know that whether I marry her or not, my life is at her feet."

She laughed, lightly, "Surely you don't believe that any man is at any woman's feet for life."

"I don't know about other men. I know myself."

She stopped and we stood there with that careless crowd surging about us. Yet we might have been marooned on an island in an empty sea for all that anyone else mattered.

"It isn't quite fair to Mimi, Jerry, for you to talk high romance when you can't talk marriage."

"I would talk marriage if she would listen."

"But you haven't anything to marry on."

"I have my allowance from my Uncle Jerry, and I am his heir."

I flung the statement at her as I had flung it at Lionel in college. I felt that it might modify her attitude. And in a sense it did.

"Is he very rich?" she demanded.

"He hasn't millions, if you mean that," I admitted. "But there would be enough."

"Enough for what? Not for Mimi's future. And anyhow it may be years before you inherit. Don't you see how impossible it is, Jerry? Poverty is dreadful. I won't have Mimi poor."

There was an almost hysterical fierceness in her way of saying it, yet she kept her voice to a low key. "If my father had not married again, we should have lived in his house, have had everything. He thought he was in love," she swept the possibility away with a scornful gesture. "And you think you are in love. Men are like that . . . . They want what they want. But you aren't thinking of Mimi's happiness. Only of your own. Don't you call that a bit selfish, Jerry?"

Well, it was natural for a mother to fight for her young. She was like a sleek and shining cat defending her kitten.

"I won't have her winter spoiled by you, Jerry. It is the most important winter of her life. Yet you've caught her fancy. Such things never last with her. Such are something new—different. That's all there is to it."

"There is more to it than that," I said, "there is Fate and our faith in ourselves."

The words were an echo of the things my father had often said to me. Only he would have put it "Faith in God and in ourselves." But in neither case would Mrs. Le Brun have understood. She simply stared and said in a level voice, "People who live in the colnds, Jerry, are sure to get hurt . . . I'm sorry . . . ."

The music was sweeping in great waves over us. The dancing had begun. A distinguished and gray-haired man came to claim Mrs. Le Brun. She did not present me to him. She left me high and dry on the shores of her displeasure!

The next morning I had a letter from Mimi. She sent it by messenger and I opened it with a premonition of disaster.

"Mother has made me promise not to see so much of you, Jerry. She says it can't come to anything, and that it is simply unsettling me. And perhaps she is right. I don't know. Anyhow she came into my room last night and begged me to give you up. I wouldn't promise that I wouldn't see you at all. But I agreed not to ask you to come here, and not to make engagements with you. I shall miss our walks together, Jerry, and our talks. But perhaps I am not all the wonderful things you say I am. If I were really the woman of your dreams, I would think the world well lost, wouldn't I? And I don't. So you are not to think of me as Juliet on a balcony, or that I'd cut myself up in little stars . . . I am like the young woman in the nursery rhyme . . . just 'ribbons and laces' and my face is my fortune, Jerry.

"This isn't the kind of letter mother expects me to write. But it is the best I can do. I am not the heroine of anything. I am awfully human, though you won't believe it.

"It has been wonderful to have you for a friend. It will always be wonderful to remember. And of course this isn't 'Goodby, forever'—like Tosti's song. Only you mustn't hope any more, and I mustn't dream—and that's all there is to it. It won't be the same but it will be something."

I spoiled many sheets of paper before I answered her. So I can reproduce what I wrote in part. I filed it away with her note, and the yellow pages seem even now to flame with a living fire.

"You are Juliet on a balcony. You are the Blessed Damosel bending down. You are Beatrice to be worshipped. You are Rachel to be waited for. If I do not see you, you will still be in my heart. Remember that, Mimi. There has never been any other in my life, there will never be. If the play succeeds, I shall have something to offer you. But whether it succeeds or not, I shall work for you, wait for the perfect moment when I can call you mine."

High-flown. Well, call it that if you wish. But I was sincere. As a boy I had thought in terms of chivalry. I had been fed on King

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MISTLETOE

"Are you going to the woods today, Uncle Wiggily?" Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy asked the rabbit gentleman one morning.

"Yes, to look for an adventure," he answered, playfully twinkling his pink nose at her like a traffic light.

"I should think you would have had all the adventure you wanted," went on the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"I never can get ough," laughed the rabbit gentleman.

"Well, you won't have many more this year," said Nurse Jane.

"Why not," asked Mr. Longears.

"Because tomorrow is the last day of the year 1937," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Saturday is January 1, 1938."

"Oh, then I must hurry!" exclaimed the rabbit gentleman. "I want to get an adventure today and one tomorrow. Then I'll start all over again in 1938."

Hopes Not

"Oh, will you ever grow up?" asked Nurse Jane laughing.

"I hope not!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "But why did you ask if I would be going to the woods today?"

"Because if you were I thought you might bring back some mistletoe for the New Year. That which you brought for Christmas is all dry."

"First you must kiss him"

"I'll bring back some fresh mistletoe," promised Uncle Wiggily as he hopped to the woods.

"Mistletoe," thought the rabbit gentleman as he hopped along. "It is a curious plant, growing as a vine on trees and with little white berries. It isn't as pretty as holly but it is said to bring good luck when hung in a house or hollow stump bungalow. I'll get some."

In a warm and sheltered dingly dell of the woods Uncle Wiggily found on some trees the mistletoe he wanted. He picked several sprays for Nurse Jane.

"If Nurse Jane catches me standing under the mistletoe after she hangs it on the top of a doorway she can kiss me!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. For that is one of the good luck things about mistletoe in Christmas week, as everybody knows.

Thinking what fun he would have when the mistletoe was hung in his bungalow, Uncle Wiggily hopped along with the sprays of little green leaves and white berries he had gathered.

Off to Sleep

Becoming tired he sat down on a stump to rest. So he would not crush the mistletoe, he hug it on a bush over his head. Then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily fell asleep. He didn't have far to fall, for he was drowsy from being out in the fresh air so long.

As Uncle Wiggily slept under the mistletoe, all of a sudden along came slinking the Bob Cat.

"Ah, ha! Oh, ho!" purred the Bad Chap. "This is going to be an easy catch for me. I'll grab Uncle Wiggily while he sleeps."

The Bob Cat was just sneaking up on the sleeping rabbit when, all of a quickness, a Snow Bird on the bush where the mistletoe hung said:

"First you must kiss him!"

"What! Me kiss Uncle Wiggily?" mewed the Bob Cat.

"Certainly," chirped the Snow Bird. "When anybody is under the mistletoe in Christmas week they must be kissed or else it's awful bad luck."

"Well, first I'll kiss Uncle Wiggily and then I'll bite him!" snarled the Bob Cat. But as he leaned over to kiss the sleeping rabbit, the Bob Cat's whiskers so tickled Uncle Wiggily that the rabbit sneezed very hard. And he bumped up so quickly that he bumped the Bad Chap on his nose. And the Bob Cat got tears in his eyes and then he couldn't see and so Uncle Wiggily hopped safely home with the mistletoe.

And if pumpernickle doesn't make a bouncing ball out of the dill pickle I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's horn.

BRITAIN DENIES WAR OPTION UPON CANADA'S WHEAT

LONDON, Dec. 30 (CP). — The Ministry for Defence Co-ordination and the Board of Trade to-day denied published reports they had negotiated an option for Great Britain on the entire Canadian wheat crop to ensure Britain's food supply in time of war.

The offices of Vincent Massey, High Commissioner for Canada, and of the Canadian Wheat Board reported they were unaware of any such transaction between the British and Canadian Governments.

Plan Would Cost 500 Million

LONDON, Dec. 29 (CP Cable) — The Daily Herald (Labor) today stated the United Kirgdom had engineered an option of the entire Canadian wheat crop to ensure part of the British food supply in time of emergency.

The Herald said the option had been engineered by the board of trade and Sir Thomas Inskip, minister of defence co-ordination. It added that Whitehall experts and the Canadian wheat board had been in secret negotiation on the matter for some months.

The Herald said that should the option ever have to be taken up it would cost Great Britain about £100,000,000 ($500,000,0000) together with £5,000,000 which it said was the price of the option.

"This is part of a great scheme for importing and storing emergency supplies.

"Sir Thomas Inskip is working out details with the food (defence plans) department of the board of trade and the air raids precautions department."

The paper said that unused ports of the south and west coast of England, and in Scotland, will become receiving centres; reserves of tinned food, big supplies of edible fats are to be built up and "provision for adequate granary accommodation is being worked out also."

"Storage will have to be in areas inaccessible to air attack since apart from direct bomb hits, wheat is easily contaminated by poison gas," the paper concluded.

No One Has Monopoly.

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 (CP).—Reports published in London yesterday to the effect the British Government had obtained an option on Canada's entire wheat crop to establish a war emergency food reserve were discounted in Canada.

The fact seemed to be that no one in Canada had a monopoly on Canadian wheat production and no one was in a position to give an option on the whole thing.

Agriculture Minister James G. Gardiner, a member of the Cabinet Wheat Committee, said he knew of no such deal and had heard of no discussions looking towards any such deal.

84,000 Chinese Die Before Nanking

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 30. — (AP).—A Japanese tabulation of casualties in the operations against Nanking said to-day the Japanese army killed 84,000 Chinese soldiers.

Japanese losses were given as 800 killed and 4,000 wounded. The report said the number of Chinese wounded was not known.

Arthur, and his Round Table Knights. I had copied in my notebook such things as this:

"A glorious company, the flower of men,
To serve as model for the mighty world,
And be the fair beginning of a time . . .
. . . To love one maid only, cleave to her,
And worship her by years of noble deeds,
Until they lyon her . . ."

I had read my Bible, and of Jacob and his seven years; I had read Ruskin, and his challenge to the youth of his day to serve like Jacob.

You see, my ideals of womanhood had ben formed by my father, and they had been modified very little even by my adoration of Uncle Jerry and his swashbuckling methods, or by contact with my mates at college, who refused to put feminity on a pedestal and who held that the girls with whom they danced and flirted and to whom they made love had as many human faults and frailties as themselves.

So in a passion of devotion I dispatched my letter, and it was not until several days had passed without a glimpse of Mimi that I began to feel the reaction. I had a sort of boyish dignity, of pride if you will, which made me refuse to put myself in her way when she had forbidden it. But I was filled with an intolerable ache for her. For the first time in my life I could not square my optimism with the thing which had happened to me. In desperate despair I turned to my work. I shut myself up in my room and wrote. I refused invitations. It seemed to me that if I saw Mimi I should fall on my knees and beg her to give me hope. Yet I would not ask again for what she would not give. And always I waited for the moment when the acceptance of the play would make it possible for me to lay my laurels at my lady's feet.

Then, suddenly, like a crash of thunder from a clear sky, or the sickening swing of an earthquake on a golden day, a letter came from our agent. He was sorry, he said, but a reading of the manuscript had convinced him that it would have no chance whatever with producers, and he did not feel justified in offering it to them. It had merits, but it showed plainly our lack of technical knowledge of the stage. And he was returning it!

County, City Join In Saying Farewell To Arthur Runions

Addresses Are Read and Presentations Made To Popular Agricultural Representative

Peterborough said an affectionate farewell Thursday night to Arthur D. Runions who came here "a total stranger" only four years ago as the representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

And the Peterborough that sang his praises and gave him shining gifts of remembrance embraced the whole county including the city, united as rarely before in their glowing tributes to the young man who had been sent here by the provincial government to encourage better farming, and who lifted and expanded that routine into the splendid work of making better farmers.

The last speaker of the evening, Rev. Dr. Barr, touched upon that phase of the Runions accomplishment in Peterborough, observing that many young men who had felt the effect of Mr. Runions' influence gave no signs of being regarded or regarding themselves as "dirt farmers," but rather as upstanding young gentlemen. That comment might be extended somewhat to express the conviction that scores, and probably hundreds of the junior farmers of this county, the hinterland of central Ontario, gained a new confidence in themselves, in their industry and in their county by their stimulating experience under the guidance of Arthur Runions. He coached them to successive judging championships at Ottawa, Toronto and Guelph, demonstrating to themselves and their companions and their parents, and likewise to their friends in the city, that the young men of Peterborough farms were the equals of other young men selected from all sections of the province and even of the Dominion.

That discovery in personal ability, perhaps it was something of much needed revelation, was Mr. Runions' finest contribution to this county, and explained the large assembly of three hundred men and women in

LOW FIRE RECORD IS 1937 PROSPECT

If no serious fire breaks out in Peterborough before the New Year is rung in on the dot of midnight tonight, the city will be able to boast of the record for 1937 as the lowest fire loss since the present Fire Department was organized in 1908 and among the lowest in all Peterborough's history. Fire Chief George Gimblett and his men are keeping their fingers crossed.

At noon today, the fire loss total for the year was $3,332.53. The previous record low of modern times was the loss figure for 1935, $6,165.93. No accurate fire loss statistics were kept further back than 1908, when a regular department was first organized, but it is known that in few years, even in the days when Peterborough was a small town, was the loss as low as $3,300.

Except for the year 1916, when the Quaker Oats fire swelled the total to $2,362,956, and the years 1918 and 1923 when other big fires put the totals over six figures, typical fire losses for the city are those for the years from 1929 to 1934: $74,689, $20,-882, $44,734, $22,149, $48,343, $76,934. The loss for 1936 was $48,892.

It is expected the new record figure will be of assistance to the council committee which has been endeavoring this year to have Peterborough's fire insurance key rate lowered. Average fire losses over the twenty-year period immediately preceding are an important factor in the choice of a rate.

The largest single fire loss during 1937 was $522, the result of a blaze in the Routley terrace on Downie Street.

LIKES MOUNTED POLICE

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 31.—(CP)—Mayor E. S. Wigle of Windsor has long admired the Mounted Police of Toronto and Detroit, and now wants "at least a couple of Mounted city police" in the downtown area here. "I like to go to a city and see mounted police," said the mayor. "I don't think there is anything that adds more distinction to a city."

HOLIDAY DRIVERS FIND SLEET, SNOW COATING HIGHWAYS

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (C.P.).—Old Man Weather was piling up trouble to-day for New Year motorists. Sleet, rain, and snow was reported from various sections of Southern and Eastern Ontario, making paved and dirt roads alike dangerous.

The railways were preparing to handle another big holiday crowd. Their facilities were swamped last week-end when motoring weather was fine in most sections, but they expected to get along without trouble to-day. Saturday and Sunday, as New Year travel does not equal the Christmas rush.

In urban centres preparations were made to crack down to-night on motorists who celebrate New Year's Eve with liquor. Toronto police were prepared to take car keys away from all drivers who might be labelled a bit tipsy, even though not drunk.

Ontario Highways Department reported no roads blocked, but going dangerous in those areas where to-day's sleet storm was in the saddle. Trucks were out with sand, but in many cases rain froze over the sand about as fast as it was spread.

Sanding Near Useless.

Stratford reported all district roads slippery. Sanding machines were out to lessen the troubles of motorists in a slight degree.

Peterborough district reported it hadn't felt the sleet storm up to noon to-day and highways were bare and driving easy. Side roads were slippery as the packed snow was made smooth by traffic.

In Toronto it was an unpleasant day for driving. Traffic in the downtown areas was moving slowly over slippery pavements.

Brantford reported streets and district highways very slippery. Snow was falling and was expected to improve conditions. Hamilton and district said highways were glazed with ice.

"Road conditions terrible," said a Kitchener message. Streets and highways were covered with ice. Rain was falling and freezing.

Rain and fog ruled in the Windsor border area to-day with rain or snow predicted for to-night and to-morrow. Driving was hazardous. St. Thomas reported road conditions "terrible" in Elgin County. Highways were covered with ice, growing thicker and slippier all the time as rain fell and froze.

17 TRAFFIC DEATHS

OTTAWA, Dec. 31 (C.P.).—Automobile traffic took a toll of 17 deaths in Ottawa this year, compared to 13 deaths in 1936, the Police Department announced to-day in a New Year's Eve plea to motorists not to mix drinking and driving.

2 Murders Climax Mad Sea Cruise

Skipper-Killer Thrown Overboard by Two of Crew After 5 Days of Terror at Maniac's Gun-Point.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 31—(AP)—Murder, piracy and retribution on the high seas—a stranger-than-fiction story written with the blood of two men—was unfolded to United States government agents early today by six haggard survivors of a cruise on the schooner yacht Aafje.

Dwight L. Faulding, 49, Santa Barbara hotel man and the Aafje's owner, is dead, his bullet-riddled body dumped overboard somewhere off the Southern California coast.

Jack Morgan, the man accused of his slaying by the federal bureau of investigation, also is dead. Two youths told Chief Agent John Hanson they threw Morgan into the sea after five terror-stricken days under his mad rule.

An official statement by Hanson summed up the details of one of the Pacific's strangest sea dramas after hours of questioning the survivors last night. Three were held in technical custody.

The ill-fated cruise was marked by death on the very afternoon the Aafje sailed out of San Pedro, December 20, bound, for Catalina Island 20 miles distant. Aboard, besides Faulding and Morgan, who chartered the yacht, were Faulding's financee, Mrs. Gertrude Turner and her eight-year-old son, Robert; Mrs. Morgan, an expectant mother; her nurse, Miss Elsie Bernard; Robert Horne and George Spernak, amateur crewman.

Faulding, at the helm, heard a terse order. "Get away from that wheel, I'm taking command here."

INVESTMENTS NET QUINTS $17,000

CALLANDER, Ont., Dec. 31—(CP)—Judge J. A. Valin, one of the three guardians of the Dionne quintuplets, said to-day the children have an income of $17,000 a year from their investments. On top of this is a large income from royalties and other things.

"Their living expenses are heavy and amount to $24,000 a year," he said. "If future plans for the quints materialise, this $24,000 a year will have to be vastly increased."

Judge Valin said the quints' fortune to-day amount to $520,000 and will probably be a million dollars when they are 18 years old, nearly 15 years hence.

"With the exception of a few thousand dollars cash reserve, every penny is invested in provincial and dominion bonds," he said. The average yields of the bonds is a little over three per cent.

Coal Production Up In November

OTTAWA, Dec. 31 (C.P.). — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics to-day reported Canada's November coal production totalled 1,622,270 tons compared with 1,467,155 in November, 1936.

Imports of coal into Canada advanced to 1,854,448 from the November, 1936, total of 1,596,631. Exports totalled 2,413 tons against 47,652.

Production of coke in November totalled 217,132 tons, compared with 208,432 in November, 1936.

GREATER MILITARY ARM FOR GERMANY IS HITLER'S SLOGAN

BERLIN, Dec. 31 (CP-Havas). — German military strength was emphasized by Chancellor Hitler today in a New Year's message to the German people.

After praising the work of national unity "accomplished through the Nazi revolution," the Fuehrer said "it is in the foreign affairs position of the Reich that we best see the change realized since 1933."

"At that time," he continued, "we were a national trampled upon, scorned, and deprived of rights. Today we are a strong state, protected by the great army at its service.

Train Son Is Riding Upon Kills Waiting Father

Victim, Planning Surprise, Is Hit At Station In Raging Blizzard

WATROUS, Sask., Dec. 31 (CP).—A father planning to surprise his son returning home to Watrous from London, Ont., for the New Year's holiday, was killed near Touchwood last night when struck by the train on which the son was riding.

The father was E. B. Langille, 45-year-old barber and beauty parlor operator of Watrous, and a resident here since 1910. His son is Burton, 20-year-old London hockey player.

Langille spent yesterday on business at Punnichy, 60 miles east of Watrous. He planned to surprise his son by boarding the Canadian National Railways train at Touchwood, one station east of Punnichy.

The father chartered a snowmobile and was taken to Touchwood.

A blizzard which the passenger train's engineer said cut visibility to practically nothing was raging and apparently Langille was struck by the locomotive. His body was found beside the tracks by the Touchwood station agent.

The son knew nothing of the accident until after the train reached Watrous. Langille's cap was found at Watrous on the front of the engine.

Police are investigating and it is not decided whether an inquest will be held.

Election Night News Service

The polls close at five o'clock but no definite results are expected before seven o'clock. Persons calling are asked not to put in too many calls in the first two hours as these calls only tend to retard the gathering of results.

Greatest Struggle Of Spanish War May Decide Issue

Thousands of Troops, Civilians Perish in Explosion As Loyalists Blow Up Rebels' Bank Fortress

MADRID, Dec. 31—(AP)—More than 200,000 insurgent and government troops and 200 airplanes today were thrown into what was described as the greatest battle of the civil war, outside Teruel.

The bitterness of the fight developed from a powerful insurgent counter-offensive to take that city, into which the government fought its way last week.

More tanks, airplanes, artillery and men than in any previous single engagement were thrown together in the conflict which began on Wednesday, advices said.

Fortress Is Blown Up

Within the government-held city hundreds of persons—Insurgent soldiers, women and children — were believed buried in the granite and masonry of the Bank of Spain where they had resisted siege in the war's "second Alcazar."

Confronted with unyielding resistance of the beleaguered Insurgent garrison and the civilians under its protection—as well as the pressure of the Insurgent army to the west—government sappers laid dynamite mines under one of the places of refuge, the bank building, and blew it up yesterday.

Some of the Insurgents escaped to the cellars of the old Santa Clara convent and the civil governor's palace but hundreds were believed caught by the explosion. Half of Teruel was shrouded with black smoke.

Large quantities of silver were reported found in the cellars of the bank and assault guards were posted around the ruins to prevent looting.

(Estimates of the number of Insurgents in the siege within a siege have ranged from 1,000 to 6,000.)

To the accompaniment of land and air bombardment, Insurgents outside Teruel forced the government troops back slightly between Concud and Campillo, north and southwest of the city.

Costly Assault

(Insurgent dispatches said the government forces, disorganized by shattering attack, were retreating into Teruel after Insurgent capture of Concud and Campillo. Concud is about two miles from the northern edge of Teruel and Campillo about six miles to the southwest.

(Insurgents called the battle of Teruel "the most extensive operation" of the 17-months-old war, reporting more than 1,000 government soldiers killed yesterday. The government had put Insurgent casualties at 9,000 for the two-week struggle.)

At one point near Concud as many as 27 tanks were seen advancing on the government trenches.

The ground gained by the Insurgents was of no consequence, the government general staff said, and government lines last night remained essentially unbroken.

T. A. BROWN DIES ILL FEW WEEKS IN TORONTO HOSPITAL

TORONTO, December 31—(CP)—Thomas Arthur Brown, 55, president of the T. A. Brown Construction Company, Peterborough, Ont., died in hospital here yesterday after a short illness. He was widely-known throughout Ontario.

He was born in Toronto and educated at Upper Canada College. Following his marriage to Christina Maye Westcott, Cambridge, Ont., in 1905 he moved to Campbellford, where he resided for 13 years. He then came to Toronto and has resided here since.

Four children survive: Charlotte Marjorie, at home; Fred A., Douglas W., and Thomas A., all of Toronto.

Although he never established permanent residence here, Mr. Brown was well known among those engaged in the building trades in Peterborough and in the city's business circles. He spent many months in the city during the progress of his larger construction jobs.

Biggest of his projects here was erection of the great switch-gear building at the Canadian General Electric Company in 1930. The project attracted the attention of construction engineers throughout the Dominion as it was the largest all-welded job attempted up to that time. Mr. Brown also constructed the C.G.E. boiler house.

Other big jobs carried out by his company under his personal supervision here were construction of the Ovaltine plant, various additions to the Western Clock plant, the original and additions to the Canadian Raybestos plant, and the new Brewery warehouse, and The Examiner's new home.

JEWISH HORDES START FLIGHT FROM RUMANIA

Squads Patrol Cities To Enforce New Laws

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 31 (A.P.). — Blueshirt squadrons patrolled sections of three cities to-day to keep order under a government program semi-official sources said would stop employment of many of Rumania's 1,200,00 Jews.

Many Jewish storekeepers and business men were trying to find means of selling their enterprises and leaving the country. Foreign diplomats were being asked by their home governments as to how the expected Jewish emigration would affect their countries.

Equivalent of Nazi Brownshirts and Fascist Blackshirts, the Rumanian organization, called "Lancers," walked the streets of Bucharest, Arad and Sibiu to "keep a close watch everywhere and see that all government measures are respected."

Rumania's new Premier, Octavian Goga, was expected to outline the government's program late to-day.

Land To Be Seized.

Semi-officially it was described as drastically anti-Semitic, calling for confiscation of Jewish land holdings, revocation of citizenship of all Jews who had entered the country after 1922, and dismissal of all Jews in government service.

Other points were reported to be cancellation of all liquor dealer licenses held by Jews and forbidding of Jews to have any connection with the Rumanian press bureaus.

A closer relationship between Rumania and the Rome-Berlin axis and a possible break with Rumania's traditional friend, France, was seen in the reported selection of Dr. Ilie Radulescue, Goga intimate and manager of an anti-Semitic paper, as Ambassador to Rome.

The reported appointment of Radulescu was regarded as a prelude to negotiation of a new trade pact with Italy.

EGYPTIAN CABINET STICKS BY BRITAIN

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 31 (AP). — Egypt's new government created by King Farouk, pledged itself today to co-operation with Great Britain.

Mohamed Mahmoud, the new Premier, assured the 18-year-old monarch in a letter that he would do his utmost to carry out the Anglo-Egyptian treaty, establishing Egyptian independence, and work in harmony with Egypt's ally, Great Britain.

Both London and Rome were watching the developments closely because of Egypt's vital position on the Mediterranean and Suez Canal. Cairo outwardly was calm after rioting last night in which street lights were smashed in several districts.

Angered supporters of the ousted Premier, Mustaph Nahas Pasha, head of the Wafd (Nationalist) Party, also had gathered outside the palace, yelling "Down with Farouk!"

Police patrolled the streets preparatory to taking over the headquarters of the disbanded Blueshirt organization of Wafdist youth, dissolution of which was a major factor in the dispute between King Farouk and Nahas.

New Year Presents Only Dread For Pair In Death Cells

Canadian Prison Head's Opposition To Capital Punishment However May Save Them

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—(CP).—Pacing lonely cells in Sing Sing's death house, Michael J. Mooney, 18, and James Murph, 19, to-day watched the New Year's approach with dread.

Facing death at the beginning of life, the youths owe their plight to a re-union after months of separation. There was a drinking party; then the question, how to get more money for drinks. Murphy had a gun. They went into a drug store ....Now they have but a few weeks to live.

Though they may feel forgotten by the world, a quiet young man sat in a New York office and pondered the fate of Murphy and Mooney, and others will follow them. He was New York's 46-year-old Commissioner of Correction, Canadian-born Austin H. MacCormick.

"Society gains nothing by taging the lives of young murderers," MacCormick said. "Youths under 21 are not considered responsible for voting and other purposes. Why should they be penalized as adults when they commit murder?

"I am utterly opposed to capital punishment, anyway," the Commissioner went on. "As far as can Overflowing Banks Loan Money Free.

Washington, Dec. 31 (AP)

THREE times in the last month, Treasury officials said yesterday, some banks have loaned the United States Government money free of charge.

The amounts have been small, but the opportunity almost unprecedented. Officials attributed it to the more than $1,000,000,000 of lendable money accumulated in the banks. Rather than spend money to store and protect idle funds, some banks are willing to lend them to the Government for short periods for nothing.

Law-Breaking Paris Employers Draw Labor Union Ire And Warning

Paris, Dec. 31 (AP)

THE central executive committee of all Paris labor unions today informed the Popular Front government that workers looked to it for "a more energetic attitude" against "provocation and misconduct" by employers.

"The government's task, instead of directing its energy against the workers, is to act against employers who violate laws and make them renounce their provocation and misconduct," the committee declared.

The statement, adopted last night, also condemned Premier Chautemps' tactics in ending the walkout of 120,000 municipal employees. Chautemps had threatened to mobilize the strikers into the army and force their return to work under military orders.

Restricted Indian Fur Ground Seen Their Only Hope

Hudson Bay Company Guards Beaver Sanctuaries So Red Men May Prosper

WINNIPEG, Dec. 31 (C.P.). — In an effort to snatch the Indian from lethargy and hopelessness and at the same time rebuild the fur industry, the Hudson's Bay Company next year will concentrate on game conservation in the Canadian North.

Ralph Parsons, company fur trade commissioner, to-day said the firm would expedite fur conservation plans in 1938. "There will include vigorous support for governmental proposals to set aside large areas for exclusive hunting and trapping privileges of Indians, Eskimos, and half-breeds," he said.

Hudson's Bay Company also hope to develop areas in western provinces in co-operation with Provincial Governments and negotiations are proceeding with this end in view.

"Only in this way is it considered the fur supply can be conserved and, at the same time, the native populations enabled to earn their own living and escape becoming a charge on the rest of Canada," the commissioner continued.

Heavy declines in the fur catch this season which followed lower prices have added to difficulties, resulting in much hardship for the natives who on these occasions feed the effet of strenuous competition from white trappers.

Adjustment in Subscription Rates Of The Examiner

THE price of newsprint goes up again at the first of the year, following three former increases in the last two years. Newsprint prices will show a still further increase for the second six-month period of 1938.

The Examiner can no longer absorb these price increases as the bill for newsprint is about one-third of our total outlay. Added to this the price of nearly everything used in producing a paper has increased.

For these reasons the subscription price of the Examiner will be increased on the first of January.

Delivered in Peterborough by carrier boy the price will be eighteen cents per week.

The Examiner would like to be in a position where it could guarantee there would be no further increases in subscription rates. We can go no further than to state we hope the increases announced will be sufficient to meet the rapidly increased costs of producing a newspaper.

We believe it will be found there will have to be a similar step taken by other Canadian publications. They will have to meet increasing costs the same as the Examiner. This paper has carefully considered its own known costs and has merely adjusted its subscription rates to meet those known conditions.

Foreign Vigilantes Use Only Clubs In Fight For Order

Defending Legions Put Up Fight Long Enough To Enable Destruction of Jap. Property in City

SHANGHAI, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Chinese devastation squads marched out of Tsingtao today, leaving undefended the once-rich North China seaport marked for conquest by advancing Japanese armies.

A corps of foreign vigilantes armed with clubs attempted to maintain order in the city, from which an exodus of foreigners was under way.

When Chinese police started leaving, however, looters ran into the Japanese business section. They ransacked what Japanese property had not been destroyed in nearly two weeks of systematic dynamiting. Chief aim of the foreign vigilantes was to prevent damage to foreign property.

Only two hours before the devastation squads of soldiers and marines followed General Shen Hung Lieh out of the city, word reached Shanghai that Chinese legions 100 miles to the west were fighting to stem the Japanese advance long enough for destruction of Japanese Tsingtao properties to be completed.

The Key to Tsingtao

A heavy engagement was reported in progress near Weihsien, important railway point. Once Japanese occupied that city their entry into Tsingtao itself was expected to come within a short time.

Chinese forces under Christian General Feng Yu Hsiang fought to hold White Horse Mountain and the mountain of a Thousand Buddhas, in the path of the Japanese advance southward from Tsinan, conquered Shantung province capital. The major Chinese force had withdrawn from the Tsingtao area to the southwest.

Reports from Tsingtao said the wave of destruction inside the city had reached the peak during the last two days, with blasting and burning of waterfront buildings and Japanese factories, homes and shops as far as 10 miles inland.

RESTRICTED INDIAN FUR AREAS SEEN

Mr. Parsons echoed words of Lord Tweedsmuir during the Governor-General's recent tour of northern areas.

"The Canadian North must remain one of the chief fur producing grounds in the world. It is extremely important both for the sake of the native population and of the future prosperity of Canada that the fur-bearing animals should be wisely protected.

"This means tha tthe white trappers should be strictly limited in number. I am strongly in favor of the policy of increasing the area of the Indian trapping reserves, and making them wholly exclusive."

More Beaver in Sight

The company in 1938 will concentrate on its beaver sanctuaries in James Bay, in Northern Ontario, and at Rupert's House, Northern Quebec, where the 7,000-square mile sanctuary leased from Quebec Province is rapidly becoming re-populated with beaver.

Development of the Rupert's House conservation began four years ago for benefit of Indians and trade. At that time only 162 beavers lived where hundreds of thousands formerly existed. To-day the count is almost 2,000. It is expected the quality will be doubled each year and controlled trapping will soon be possible, Parsons added.

Under this system, only part of annual increases will be taken. In time, the Indian population will be fully restored to prosperity.

"The Indians in that area who a few years ago were hopeless, dejected and fast losing their morale, are keenly interested in the scheme. Members of the band are employed as guardians, earning wages while waiting for beaver to reach production stage. They have thrown off their lethargy and look to future with hope and confidence."

Charlton and Agamiski Islands in James Bay have been leased by the company from the Dominion Government. It is expected Indians, who have never seen a beaver will soon be able to tap this source of supply.

CATTLE EASE OFF BUT HOGS CLIMB ON DULL MARKET

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—(CP).—Cattle prices dropped 25 to 50 cents cwt. on a dull Toronto livestock market this week and around 500 head were unsold, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported. Calves were steady to firm while hogs gained 25 to 35 cents. Sheep and lambs held steady.

The cattle run was light but there was little demand for any grade of killers except cows. Several leads of weighty steers were unsold despite price reduction on 50 cents cwt. on some sales. The best load of steers offered brought $7.25, with others from 6.50 downward. Butcher steers and heifers sold mostly between $4 and $5.25 with some at $5.50 to $6.

Butcher cows moved between $2.75 and $4.25 and canners and cutters from $82 to $2.50. A few good butcher bulls went at $3.60 to $4.35 and bolognas from $3.00 to $3.50. Fed calves ranged from $6 to 8 for the majority with a few choice up to $9. The small supply of stock-cattle brought $3.75 to $5 cwt. Milkers and springers were $65 to $70 for tested tops. Choice veal calves were priced at $9.50 to $10.50, with exporters taking several leads for United States. Common light calves sold as low as $5 cwt.

Light Hog Run.

Hogs advanced on a light run, closing at $8.65, generally for off-truck bacons with some long hauls up to $8.75. Sows were $6 to $6.25 cwt.

Good ewe and wether lambs delivered by rail sold at $7.75 and off-truck lambs at $7.50. Bucks and heavies brought $6.50 to $6.75 and some medium quality lambs $7. Culls ranged from $5.50 to $6. The few sheep offered went at $2 to $4.50 cwt.

PAY $1,019,000 OF DEBENTURE DEBT BY 1940

Peterborough's debenture debt will be decreased by $1,019,000 in the next 30 months. Next year the amount of bonds to be paid off and retired will be $191,000, followed by $337,000 in 1938, and $491,000 in 1940.

Retiring the debentures means that the city is paying back the money it borrowed for the construction of sewers, sidewalks and other public services. About 85 per cent of the $1,019,000 was for sewers, sidewalks, pavements and schools, which have no earning power of their own to provide for interest and sinking fund charges. Debentures issued to pay for water works, gas plant and electric plant, are actually paid for out of rates which are charged to the people for water, gas and light.

Sewer debentures are generally issued for 30 years because normally they have the longest life; sidewalk debentures for 20 years and street pavement for ten years, because they are usually the first to break up under their use.

Paid Off By 1950

Peterborough's ratepayers are no doubt aware of the fact that the debentures for the Hunter Street bridge will not be paid off until 1950, and right now they are paying interest at 6½ per cent, and will keep on paying that abnormal charge until they are retired.

It will be remembered that the filtration plant and the Hunter Street bridge were built about the same time. The filtration plant was planned by the Utilities Commission in 1920 when the members were Robert Hicks, chairman, Charles E. Sisson and George H. Duncan. The people voted on the enabling bylaw on January 1, 1921, and declared their approval of the investment. The Commissioners of 1921 were Mr. Hicks, Mr. Sisson and Ernest F. Mason.

The Utilities Commission of 1921 by a special Act of the Legislature was given permission to issue its debentures for ten years, without a sinking fund for that period, and after the ten years to borrow the money all over again for the next 20 years in the expectation that after the first 10 years had passed the highest rates of interest would be appreciably lowered. And that is what happened. It has been estimated that the Utilities Commission of which E. F. Mason is the only remaining resident in Peterborough saved the people at least one-third of the interest charges on the construction of the filtration plant by their plan of financing.

Declined to Follow Utilities

On the other hand the city council in borrowing money to building the Hunter street bridge declined to follow the policy of the Utilities Commission. Instead they issued their bridge bonds for 30 years at 6½ per cent. That means the ratepayers of Peterborough have to keep on paying the high rate of interest on the half million or more of bridge debentures even in such lean years as the last four or five when money had become a drug on the market and the earning power of bonds had shrunk to extremely low levels.

Banks today are paying 1½ per cent on deposits, but the people who bought Hunter Street bridge bonds are getting 6½ per cent for their money.

The members of the city council of 1921 were: Mayor A. A. McIntyre, Aldermen Robt. Morrison, J. J. Turner, James Hamilton, Harry Gainey, Nagle E. Phelan, G. N. Gordon, Joseph Crowe, Frank Whitehouse, R. N. Jones and G. L. Hay.

be discovered, it has had no effect on the murder rate; it makes conviction difficult, and it cheapens the very thing we seek to protect—human life."

MacCormick said he had called the special attention of Governor Lehman of New York State to the cases of Mooney and Murphy. He believed, on consideration, the Governor fould commute the sentences.

An enlightened theorist in penology, Commissioner MacCormick has the reputation of being one of the ablest practitioners in the field. A name for ruthless discipline when the occasion requires it preceded him to his post in charge of New York City's several prisons.

It was to the slim young native of Georgetown, Ont., who studied penology at Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Me., and served short "terms" in two prisons "to see what it felt like," that New York's dynamic Mayor Laguardia turned when mismanagement had made the city prisons a scandal.

Welfare Island Penitentiary was out of control and convicts, disregarding the warden, lived as they pleased. At the head of a small army of police, MacCormick stormed the prison and soon had the ringleaders in "solitary."

But MacCormick never forgets the other side of the picture.

"My two experiences as a 'convict'" he says, "made an indelible impression. I have never forgotten how the man behind the bars feels."

CATCH ABOUT SAME

FREDERICTON — (CP). — The commercial salmon catch in the St. John River during the 1937 season was valued at $11,063, slightly less than in 1936, while figures for the Miramichi district increased from $4,440 to $6,040. Anglers took 755 salmon from the St. John and its tributaries, and 1,182 grilse for a total poundage of 15,713.

Got Santa's Note

Joseph Mirmak, of Wilkes-Barre Pa., is shown in front of a Christmas tree he bought for his children. In it he found a letter addressed to Santa Claus by two little Canadian girls, 4 and 11, of Quarryville, New Brunswick. Mirmak is holding the letter and the waterproof pouch in which it was wrapped.

2 MURDERS END MAD SEA CRUISE

said. Faulding started toward his adversary. Three bullets from a revolver poured into the yachtsman's body.

Late that night Morgan forced his terrified companions to drop Faulding's body overboard.

"I don't know what came over Jack," Mrs. Morgan told investigators. "He seemed to go crazy. After he killed Faulding he ran the boat with an iron hand and we were in terror."

Morgan, a former houseboy in Los Angeles apartment buildings, pointed the nose of the 58-foot schooner south. He stayed at the wheel, taking only catnaps. When he slept he forced his wife to take over.

A revolver always ready, he was abusive to the crew. At times some were locked in cabins. They could only guess at Morgan's ultimate purpose. But investigators theorized he had a vision of establishing a colony of some kind in the South Pacific.

With the Aafje provisioned for a two-day voyage, Morgan put his companions on rations, apparently intending to stop at small ports along the Mexican coast for supplies.

Five hundred miles southwest of San Pedro, and five days after departure, Horne and Spernak seized an opportunity to attack Morgan.

The End of Morgan.

"Horne and Spernak were working near the wheel of the yacht," Hanson said they told him.

"Horne saw his opportunity. He picked up a marlin spike, hit Morgan over the head, crushing his skull, and with the aid of Spernak, tossed the man overboard.

"They do not know whether he was dead or not."

Hoping to reach the mainland under sails; conserving fuel for the auxiliary engine in the event of a storm, the survivors turned back.

On the morning of Dec. 29 one painted an "SOS" on the mainsail. The distress signal was sighted by a navy flier from San Diego, who summoned coast guard aid.

Immediately after Horne and Spernac had admitted their part in Morgan's disappearance, U.S. Attorney Benjamin Harrison announced they would be held for further investigation. Held also as a material witness is Mrs. Morgan.

Faulding, whose estranged wife lives in Santa Barbara, had bunked aboard his yacht in San Pedro several months. He was reputed to have $100,000.

THE NINTH RAID

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Dec. 31 (CP) —For the ninth time, the safe at the British American Oil Company depot on eastern outskirts of the city was smashed last night and $79 in cash taken. It is believed the safe was blown as trains passed by on tracks nearby deadening the noise.

Chief Has Two Fires In His Own Car

New York, Dec. 31 (AP)

THE Fire Chief's car caught fire twice yesterday and his face was as red as his transportation.

Responding to a downtown blaze, Assistant Chief Joseph O'Hanlon and his chauffeur discovered the upholstery ablaze. They stopped and—they thought—extinguished the fire.

Reaching the loft building for which the alarm had been sounded, Chief O'Hanlon turned his attention to the blazing structure. But not for long. Another fireman saw smoke issuing from the Chief's car. It was that seat again.

Damage to the loft was slight. Chief damage to the Chief was embarrassment.

STOCKS GO DOWN TO CLOSE WEEK

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (C.P.). — Stocks continued to mark time through the holiday period and except for the golds, are closing the week moderately lower than on the eve of Christmas. Volume shows little change from the dull tempo that has ruled, practically, through the last two months.

In recent weeks Canadian stock markets have displayed unmistakable signs of waiting for something to turn up. Home influences continue favorable, but traders now have their eyes on Washington more intently than at any other time since the monetary reforms of more than three years ago. After the severe shakedown Canadian securities have undergone since the spring of 1937, brokers predict, any bullish signal from Wall Street would find a quick response on this side.

Business forecasts from the early weeks of 1938 are favorable in Canada and somewhat depressed south of the line, especially in steel, automobile and general manufacturing operations. Employment has shown a slightly more than seasonal drop recently in both countries.

Interest was concentrated in the gold stocks in the last period of the Toronto market and the medium-price issues supplied most of the gains as well as the bulk of the volume. The exchange index registered an advance of about two points.

A decline of close to four points was registered by the miscellaneous mines index, due to moderate weakness in the base metal leaders and the Western oils.

All interlisted leaders declined in the industrial section. Steels, utilities and food groups posted a preponderance of losses over gains.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 31. — Interest in the election campaign grows apace as candidates in the field for municipal honors are busy canvassing for votes. The following have qualified:

For Reeve—W. E. Ball and P. I. Bentley.

For Councillors — A. H. Jeffrey, Douglas Sheppard, H. D. Bigelow, R. A. Ford, and Marwood Chapman. The first two have been in the Council for the current year; the other three are new men. D. R. Fowler stepped off this year, failing to qualify and W. E. Ball is contesting the Reeveship.

For the School Board — P. Stinson, G. F. Harrington, and Weston C. Fallis. W. H. Coombe, chairman of the Board, and W. A. O'Brian, old members, are not in the running, having chosen not to qualify; Mr. Fallis was on for the current year, filling out a term for Fred Deyell who removed to London, England; the other two are new men, though in former years Mr. Harrington has been a member of the School Board.

Eight candidates were nominated for both the Council and the School Board; the three members of the latter who are no seeking re-election as their time limit has not expired, two years being the time of service, are J. E. Allen, Dr. J. W. Wright, and G. C. Ellsworth.

nation stronger in all domains of life," he added. "Our internal policy must be to strengthen Nazi education and make stronger the Nazi organization. And our economic policy must be a more intense carrying out of the four-year plan."

Explaining his demand for greater German military strength, Hitler said "it is only if we are strong that we will find ourselves able to maintain for our people in the future, through such troubled times, this benefit which appears to us more precious than any—peace."

NO LENIENCY

CHICAGO, Dec. 31 (A.P.). — "No leniency" was the watchword today as police in scores of cities prepared to crack down on the drunken and reckless New Year's Eve motorist.

"The time has come," the National Safety Council declared, "to get tough."

Canadian Legion Notes

Will all members who intend to enter the single-handed cribbage contest please give in their names of Com. R. Long, the chairman of the recreation committee at the Legion Hall. The entry list will close on Saturday, January 8, and the contest will start on January 10.

The carpetball tournament has been held up during the festive season and the players on the various teams are requested to get in touch with their respective skips to arrange dates for the remaining games.

Our Comrade, W. F. Huycke, is a candidate for a seat on the city council, and the officers and members of the Legion respectfully request all ex-service men to do their utmost to secure his election. Com. Huycke is a good member of the Legion, with the welfare of the ex-service men at heart, and he is carrying on the work his lamented father, Judge Huycke, was so much interested in.

The officers and members of the Legion beg to wish all ex-service men and women and all the citizens A Happy New Year free from the alarms and anxieties of 1937, and that all the dictators may cease dictating and the various "isms" may take a rest.

Predicts Defeat

"Japans mighty military machine is going to suffer the fate of Napoleon at Moscow!" Such was the prediction of Sun Tee Ping, 24, grandson of China's famed Dr. Sun Yat Sen. Young Sun has just entered University of California at Berkeley, having left war-torn China three months ago. Speaking of Japan's plans in Asia, Sun warned of other ambitions extending into the Pacific sphere, and added that "America will be wise to keep its navy in readiness for any emergency."

TRUCKIN' CRAZE SHELVES WALTZ

MONTREAL, Dec. 31.—(CP)—Patrons of the dance will turn for their entertainment this New Year's eve from the dignified waltzes and fox trots of yesteryear to that latest of modern crazes—truckin'. And leaders in the wild chase around Montreal's ballrooms will be McGill University students.

For the college at the foot of Mount Royal brought an innovation into its courses this year in the form of truckin' lessons. True, it was an extra-mural course, far removed from the regular run of classes, but to many undergraduates it ranked almost as high as Latin or Greek.

Lectures — and don't dare call them dancing lessons—were held once a week in staid Stratheona Hall, home of the student Christian movement on the McGill campus. A small fee that went with each lesson bought an hour of unadulterated swing, truckin' and all the frills, the Big Apple, the Susie Q and Peckin' included.

Editor Becomes A Fan.

One of those who paid his fee and did his steps was John McDonald, editor-in-chief of the McGill Daily, campus newspaper. Like members of the Anti-Big Apple Society at Toronto who attended a college dance with the intention of breaking it up, McDonald went to his first lesson as a critic.

And like those same members he stayed to join in the fun.

There were about 40 men and 20 coeds at the lesson - McDonald attended and, he said, "they all seemed to be having such a good time I decided there must be something to this Truckin' business after all." He has since become an ardent "truck" fan.

No college dance is complete without at least two hours of swing and though the number is still limited, there always are a few students who delve into the intricacies of the Big Apple. They all Truck for they have no option; once that starts there's no room for anything else.

DIARY FAD PASSES

CALGARY, Dec. 31.—(CP).—Few Calgary girls keep diaries, a newspaper survey showed to-day. "They used to keep diaries in which to confide their inner-most thoughts," said a store clerk. "Now they discuss them on the street corners. Only 250 diaries were sold by Calgary stores this year. Most of them were bought by very young girls."

JOBS FOR JOBLESS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 31 (AP).—Police Director Otto P. Higgins uncovered a new job market today. He urged New Year's Eve revelers to hire unemployed men to drive their cars, because — "Customary" New Year's Eve leniency on drunkenness is out.

SAFE IN PRISON

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 31 (C.P.) Recalling how Essex County prisoners are handcuffed to a long chain before beginning their journey to reformatory, Sheriff Tony Marentette chuckled loud and long when he received a New Year's message in the mail to-day.

The letter came from a Windsor man convicted of begging and recently sentenced to one year in Burwash Reformatory. Opening words of the epistle were:

"I just thought I'd drop you a few lines to let you know I arrived safe."

SNOWBOUND ON TRAIN

EDMONTON, Dec. 31.—(CP). — It's going to be New Year's Eve aboard train to-night for some of the snow-bound passengers from the Pacific Coast as they roll eastward from Winnipeg to homes in Eastern Canada.

Snowbound for two days and nights near Hope, B.C., 50 passengers on the Canadian National Railways Trans-Continental train passed through Edmonton last night and to-day were on their way to Winnipeg. The train was the first to arrive in Edmonton from Vancouver for three days due to snow-blocked tracks in the mountains.

Slides Endangering B.C. Railroads

VANCOUVER, Dec. 31 (CP). — Snow loosened by warm weather in the West Kootenay interior harassed Canadian Pacific Railway's Kettle Valley line today as the rest of British Columbia considered itself safely past the worst of last weekend's storm troubles.

Work crews cleared two slides at Drewry, 28 miles east of Nelson, releasing the westbound No. 11 train which proceeded toward Vancouver, 11 hours late. Just after the train passed, two more slides thundered over the rails.

Vancouver officials of the line said if mild temperatures continued more slides might occur. Extra crews were on hand to clear the rails in that event.

PEACE

"His Name shall be called the Prince of Peace.—Isaiah 9.6.

Isaiah was not only a statesman but also a prophet. As a statesman he knew the dangers from Assyria on the East and Egypt on the south. His country was the battlefield of these great warring hosts. But as a prophet he bids his countrymen lift up their hearts: "For unto us is born a child, unto us a son is given; His Name shall be called Wonderful Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace." Can you hear the tremour in the prophet's voice as he rolls out these titles, each implying the divine origin of the Child. It is more than likely that to him and his hearers the last name makes the great appeal.

The Prince of peace. Peace was practically unknown to them. They lived in a buffer state. When they were not fighting the foreigner there was a civil war. Their brief periods of peace only strengthened their desire for it. Read the historical books of the Old Testament and the Apocrypha and you will see how the nation was a stranger to peace.

So the title rings down the centuries. God has spoken and God will fulfill. That is the hope of every generation. Then in the fulness of time the Son was born in Bethlehem, the House of Bread, to give peace in mind and heart to those who draw near to Him.

Peace. How it gripped the imagination of the Jew so that it became his greeting: "Peace be unto you." Health is the uppermost thought today so we greet our friends with the enquiry. "How are you?" The ancient Greek said: "Grace be unto you." It carried with it all the graciousness of manner, speech and bearing, which were the ideals of the Greek mind and eye.

Peace. What is it? The root meaning of the Hebrew word implied something of soundness, wholeness. To the thoughtful Jew it meant more than the mere absence of conflict and war. It meant a condition of mind and heart. This was fulfilled in the character of the Lord Jesus. Men who came into the closest contact with Him felt that He had a peace, a quietness, a confidence which came from within and which nothing could shake. He alone was qualified to utter the invitation: "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give rest unto your souls."

It is an inward peace. It is spirit of complete faith and confidence in the Father and in His Son Jesus Christ. It is the gift of the indwelling Spirit. The martyrs had this indwelling peace which enabled them to face horrors, tortures and fearful deaths. "None of these things moved them."

Is it peace with you? Is there an inward peace of God which passeth all understanding? As you look back upon the year that is past can you say you are at peace with your relations and friends; that you are willing to forgive and bear no malice in your heart? This is the spirit in which to close the year. Then you can face the coming year with quietness and confidence knowing that all things work together for good to them that love God.

Let us offer this prayer, composed and used more than fifteen hundred years ago when the Huns were invading Europe:

O Lord, support us all the day long of this troublous life, until the shadows lengthen, and the evening comes, and the busy world is hushed, and the fever of life is over, and our work is done. Then, Lord, in Thy mercy, grant us safe lodging, a holy rest, and peace at the last; through Jesus Christ Our Lord. Amen.

"For in the time of trouble He shall hide me in His tabernackle; yea, in the secret place of His dwelling shall He hide me, and set me up upon a rock of stone."

A National Message

By the late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

Evidently the last great storm is blowing up

Now let us hear what the Saviour Himself says of this time. "When ye shall see all these things know that He is nigh, even at the doors."

Does this mean that His coming, His visible coming, is nigh in time? Yes, I believe it does. But does it not mean more? Does it not mean that although invisible He is nigh? Does it not mean that He who is given to God to be the Leader and Commander of the people is nigh, even at the doors? I believe it does.

What doors? The doors of the Privy Council? The doors of the Cabinet and of the Departments of State? The doors of the churches? The doors of the people's homes and hearts? The "doors" are plural. He is at hand, even at the doors.

Let us rally then to His standard. Let us enlist under His banner. He will lead us through the tempest into the Inheritance of the earth.

Do not let us think that this will be the ultimate and complete "land grab" which will put us in possession of the lands of our enemies. There is nothing of this idea or spirit in the Kingdom of God. It means that the peopled lands will come to us and the Heritage will be the people; not their lands. To them we shall minister as God's "Kingdom of Priests" in the holy things of the kingdom; and they with us will share in the benefits and in the services of the kingdom.

But the desolate heritages, "the uttermost parts of the earth," He has already given to us in possession, and we have laid therein the beginnings of the foundations of the kingdom of God.

Minister Plans Review Of Year

On Sunday night the minister of St. Andrew's Church will give a review of the year 1937. A man was asked by a friend why he spent so much time over the newspapers. He replied that he wanted to see what God was doing in his world. On the surface of things it looks as if God had very little to do with the events of the past year, but it is only on the surface. The deeper things of life are not paraded for show, and many people only see the passing show. God is in the shadows keeping watch over His own. He does not come into the limelight, to the discerning vision; however, it is evident that He is ceaselessly at work in the world.

Mr. Young will review the chief events of the year in the international sphere in Britain, and in North America. The Coronation of King George VI., the passing of Ramsay McDonald, who rose from the position of a humble miner to that of Prime Minister of Britain. The election in Ontario was an event of great interest, and raises some acute moral questions. The conferences in Oxford and Edinburgh last summer were by far the greatest item of importance in church affairs. The clash between the Conservative, Catholic, east of Europe, and progressive thought in North America has helped us to appreciate one another's point of view. The labor situation that looked so ominous during the summer is straightening out, but there are deep currents of dissatisfaction over the question of relief and unemployment.

The morning subject will be "A Covenant with God."

"The Gospel of Mark – a Preview"

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 2, is Mark 10:35-45, the Golden Text being Mark 10:44, "And whosoever would be first among you, shall be servant of all." This lesson is introductory to a six months' course in the Gospel according to Mark. Preparatory to this course we quote the "preview" of Mark given in the author's own Bible Study book, "The Gist of the Bible Book by Book," published by Dr. Alvin E. Bell, Toledo, Ohio.)

JOHN MARK was the young companion and servant of the Apostle Peter who wrote the story of Jesus after that apostle's death as he had often heard it from Peter's lips. His is the earliest of the four accounts of the gospel.

Gospel for the Romans

Mark wrote in Rome and for the Romans, as is evidenced by his frequent use of Latin terms in explanation of Jewish words and customs. (Matthew wrote for the Jews to show them Jesus as King of the Jews; Luke wrote for the Greeks to show them Jesus as the Son of Man; John wrote for all to show Jesus Son of God.) Mark does not often refer to the Old Testament prophecies, as Matthew does, for the Romans knew little of these prophecies and cared less. For the same reason he gives no genealogy of Jesus as Matthew and Luke do for those to who they wrote. To the Romans the great things of life were action, service, efficiency, and Mark seizes this as his opportunity to picture Jesus Christ to them appealingly as the mighty wonder working servant of God.

The Gospel of Action

Mark's key expressions are "straightway" or "immediately," which, with kindred expressions occur 42 times in his story. His keynot is sounded in 10:35-45 in the words, "Whatsoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all. For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many." As befits the story of a servant, Mark is characteristically a gospel of deeds rather than of discourses. He has room for 20 miracles and references to many more, but he finds room for only four parables. Jesus and his disciples are constantly at work. If he seeks rest from the work by retirement to the desert his purpose is defeated by throngs for whom he works a miracle; or if his rest comes in sleep during the storm at sea it is disturbed by his disciples to perform for them the mighty work of stilling the tempest. Thus disease, demons, darkness of the soul and depths of the sea are wrought upon by this ministering servant of God, to the good of men and the glory of God. If you want to find a nutshell the "Petrine Gospel" of works, as Mark is called, you can read it in Peter's own words in Acts 10:36-43.

The Cross in Mark

Mark even removes the offense of the cross from the Roman mind by showing it as the culmination of all his service for humanity, and reminding them that the Roman centurion in charge of the crucifixion went away from the cross saying, "Truly this man was the Son of God." Little wonder then that the early Christians used the ox as the symbol to represent Mark's gospel in the art of the early church, for the ox represented both service and sacrifice, as the lion represented the kingship of Jesus as set forth by Matthew, and as the man symbolized the humanity of Jesus as set forth by Luke, and the eagle symbolized the deity of Christ as set forth by John.

With Mark the working of Jesus did not cease even with his resurrection and ascension, for after he was "received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God, and his disciples went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord worked with them, confirming the word with signs following."

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

In one of the lesser known sayings of Jesus, unfortunately not recorded in the Bible, He speaks of man as being the "city of God." From the mystical standpoint this is very true, for man is the mystical Jerusalem the Holy City. For whatever we may think of things in the historical sense, they are of comparatively little value until they become things of our own experience. As Jacob Boehine points out, it is of little avail that Christ was born in Bethlehem if he born within our hearts. If we carefully analyze this we see how true it is. There is no doubt that those who seek to walk the Way suffer in themselves experiences analogous to those of the Master, in fact all humanity does even without realizing the true significance. For in man is the Christ, and in man is He crucified by man's own thoughts and deeds. It is only when man awakens that he in turn crucifies himself in Christ. For there is no room for both Christ and self. Within man at a certain stage of awakening is the veil of the Temple rent in twain. Within him are the uneasy ghosts of the dead self that rise up and walk about the streets of the Holy City. Within him does the Christ arise from the grave and ascend unto the Father in the Heaven within. For all these things have not only their outward historical circumstance but also their deeper, inner, spiritual signifance. Again and again in Holy Writ is the story of man's ultimate re-union with God told in one form or another, at length culminating in the tremendous drama of the Revelation of St. John, where the celestial body and being of man is pictured descending from heaven, filled with the Light, Life and Love of God, and the terrestial aspect is at last no more for it is transmitted by the divine alchemy of Love into the Eternal. The Love which is universal in its scope is like unto God, but the love which is based and centred on self and self interest is of the spirit of destruction. Hence we are all of us tempted in the wilderness of this world by the spirit of self, even as Jesus was, but unlike Him we yield again and again to our own detriment, loss and suffering. Perhaps at long last we will learn the lesson of Love, then will the spirit of Christ truly rule, for if He reigns within our hearts, then in truth will He reign outwardly, over all nations and peoples, for He will reign by Love and not by force.

The Gospel of Mark—A Preview — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 10:35-45.

John Mark, nephew of Barnabas, accompanied Paul on his first missionary journey, but deserted them. Paul refused to allow him to go on his next journey. But Mark later made good with Paul.

Mary, the mother of John Mark, often opened her home to the Apostle Peter. From Peter Mark learned the story of Jesus' life, which he later wrote in the Gospel according to Mark.

Mark pictures Jesus as servant of Jehovah. "Whosoever of you will be chiefest, shall be servant of all. For even the Son of Man came to minister and give his life a ransom for many."

In early Christian art Mark was represented by the ox, Matthew by a lion, Luke by a man and John by an eagle. Mark's is earliest of the gospel records. (GOLDEN TEXT—Mark 10:44.)

Settling A Strike

Premier Chautemps of France used an effective method of bringing to an end a general strike of public service workers in Paris. A strike of that nature affecting as it does all the public untilities of a great city is about as serious as can be. It shuts off water and light and leaves the garbage uncollected, and it stops transportation.

The method of breaking the strike was simply this. Premier Chautemps said to the workers in effect: "I will draft you into the French army and then you will be under military discipline, after which you will be sent back to the posts which you deserted as civic workers."

In a land where men are as readily conscripted as they are in France such an order could have been made immediately effective. There would be no way apart from revolution by which the striking workers could meet and deal with such a situation. So they submitted not because they wanted to, but because they had to.

As though to soften the blow the workers received an additional $2.31 per month under what is called a living allowance. Truth is workers in this class of service in France are not well paid at any time. Their standard of living is not high. We cannot possibly approve of the general strike which they engineered, but it is well to know that out of their highly defective move they were able to win another $2.31 per month. In this land we are not able to see that as much of a victory, but there are plenty of people in France to whom that additional income will mean quite a good deal.

He Had Stolen A Codfish

A young police cadet in Toronto is fast on his feet. In his school days he played football and was a star at track events. We take it that a cadet on the force is something the same as a probationer. He is somewhat on trial to see what he can do about it.

This cadet saw a man lift a codfish from a truck and gave chase. He caught up with the man at a gas station, but the thief was one of those wiggily individuals and he made escape with the police cadet in pursuit. To make running easier the pursued man tossed his codfish over the fence at Osgoode Hall, the seat of legal culture, tradition, instruction and all such. But even with this attended to the fish thief could not operate his legs with sufficient alacrity to escape the man who was in pursuit.

We have no way of knowing just how many marks the police cadet will receive for having pursued and captured a man who stole a codfish. There may be a manner in which such accomplishments are graded about which we know nothing at all, and again there may be the drawback that a number of people will be certain that a man who stole a codfish should escape so he might go home and eat the thing.

We dare say young fellows starting on a police force have visions and high hopes of the things they expect to accomplish in order to pave the road to promotion. Probably they look forward to catching bad men who have robbed a payroll after which the owner or manager of the place would drop a note to the chief mentioning that the man making the arrest was brave and worthy of greater rank. Or with the exuberance of youth and the dream of advancement they would be pursuing kidnappers or breaking up counterfeiting gangs.

So it is a trifle hard to know just where to class this business of a young police cadet chasing a man who had stolen a codfish. There is nothing spectacular about a codfish, not even if it is a large and perfectly good codfish. It does not possess the glamor of a stolen bond nor yet the urge and mystery of a secret document. The young officer could hardly feel the thrill of victory coming over him as he walked his man into headquarters and announced he had succeeded in maintaing the majesty of law by bringing to justice one who had stolen a codfish. But we suppose these young fellows must get their foot on the ladder of advancement as occasion opens before them, and the more hopeful way of looking at it would be that a police cadet who could run to earth the man who stole a codfish could also bring low one whose offence had been of more monumental proportion.

Should Condense Them

We are informed in a story from Ottawa that there will be something said when the House of Commons gets under way regarding the manner in which Canada House in London looked after the Canadians who went to that great city in the days of the Coronation. It is said that several Liberal members of Parliament were annoyed because they did not receive as much attention as they considered was due them. The Ottawa story relates these members may be ready to assert that Hon. Vincent Massey, Canada's High Commissioner in London, was "too busy with social function to bother with them." Likewise there will be complaint that the flats rented for visitors through Canada House were not as good as those which Canadians were able to go out and secure for themselves after finding they had no liking for the selections made by Canada House.

We do not know whether this is serious enough to worry Parliament about. There were people by the thousands from the world over who were all bent upon Old London at the same time and for the same purpose, and no doubt they all felt they should be given an excellent opportunity to see all they desired to see under the most favorable conditions. It could not possibly have been arranged that all could have everything at its best in the way of accommodation and attention. It is likely there were hundreds of thousands who had pretty much to shift for themselves and make the best of such accommodation and service as they could secure. We hope those who have grievances do not feel inclined to make too much of them during a time when the folk of the Dominion who stayed home will be paying for the airing of the complaints.

Making Resolutions

Dr. Robert N. McMurray is executive secretary of the Chicago Branch of the Psychological Corporation, and as far as titles and offices go we submit that is profound and elongated. The Dr. has been giving his opinion regarding the making of New Year's resolutions, and he is inclined to regard the custom as nothing more than a form of throwing a sop to the conscience. If one has a desire to cease from a habit which the individual feels to be bad then, argues the Dr., there is no reason whatever for waiting for the coming of a new year to cast the thing off. And there is plain enough logic and good sense in that.

The poet who wrote these lines probably put into fine form and short space the feeling which prompts people to make resolutions:

O that a man might arise in me,
That the man I am might cease to be.

There may be some people who are entirely and thoroughly satisfied with themselves as they exist at the moment, but we are moved to seriously doubt if their number is large. If they are in that satisfied class then they have become the victims of smug complacency, one of the most dangerous conditions in the world.

The fact that people are moved to try the new resolution business at this season of the year is in itself evidence of the fact that their conscience has not perished within them. It may speak with a small voice but it has not ceased to speak. As long as the urge to press forward makes itself felt in the human mind then there is some hope left. It is when human beings become weighted by smug complacency and entire self-satisfaction that hope dies.

This Plan Seems Right

The Nelid Textile Mill at New Bedford, Mass., is having financial trouble, and reports indicate that certain creditors demand satisfaction. There are 800 people employed in the mills and the chances of keeping on working looked slight.

There was a meeting of the employees and the situation was explained to them. The result is that the 800 employees have pledged ten per cent. of their wages to a fund to help the company meet its most pressing obligations. In return for this donation there will be preferred stock of the company issued for the amount. It may not be worth much at the moment, but the feeling is that as affairs get straightened out the stock will become valuable.

We have a feeling this plan has a fair chance of success because all the people in that factory will be working toward the same objective. That plan of the employees coming to the aid of the company would never have been possible of attainment if the employees had not been plainly told just what the situation was. Information of that sort would put an end to loose talk and rumor because the people in the office and those in the plant would have the same set of figures before them and they would have every reason to believe they were accurate. It does look like a rather good way to work.

"Blocked" Is Right

It is doubtful if we know the full meaning of a blocked highway due to snow. A report from Fernie, B.C., says the Crow's Nest Pass highway is blocked eleven miles west of that town to a depth of 25 feet, and the blockade is 400 feet long. It was caused by a snow slide from the mountains. A section of a bridge is also covered and the damage done there cannot be determined until they get the snow away, an undertaking which engineers say will take a week or ten days.

It is rather unusual for a snowslide to take place in the Crow's Nest Pass in the month of January. As a rule there is plenty of snow, but little drifting. When it comes to the spring of the year the water in the Elk river which runs through Fernie does not become high until it is almost early summer as the snow on the surrounding mountains remains long after snow in the valley has disappeared.

Opening a highway where the blockade is 25 feet deep would appear at first glance to be rather formidable, and when Highways Department post notice that a road is blocked in that way the word "blocked" would take to itself a meaning the certainty and finality of which could not be doubted.

The Repeating Criminal

Michael Perron appeared in court at London, Ont., and was told he would spend the next five years in Kingston Penitentiary and would be whipped twice. In October Perron and a companion entered an establishment in London and used a revolver to overcome a man in an office. The proceeds of the robbery were but 90 cents.

Perron is but 22 years of age but has previously served sentences for theft, receiving stolen goods and breaking and entering. In his previous escapades he had not used a weapon, so he is a more advanced criminal than when he first started.

The records show that Perron has been in trouble since he was nine years of age. The magistrate in passing sentence referred to him as incorrigible and uncontrollable.

It does look as though Michael Perron is another of the problem cases. A problem because our methods of treating and punishing such a case amount to nothing at all. The only service performed by sending him to prison will be he can do no harm while there, but if his past record is any indication of what to expect in future he will be in trouble again when his present sentence runs out. He has all the markings upon him of a perpetual offender to whom a period of liberty is but a time to prepare for a new venture in crime. Each time such a case appears—or reappears—in court adds to the belief that the perpetual criminal should be given a perpetual sentence.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is always hard for a man to explain something which he does not understand.

Only one candidate out of 33 nominated at Huntsville qualified. He must have been a stranger in town.

The old reminder about voting as you like but making sure you vote holds good again this week. Your privilege of voting means nothing if you do not use it.

Mayor LaGuardia of New York finds it impossible to secure a man to fill a $15,000-a-year job. He has had no difficulty in locating folk who think they could fill it.

Penetang has found itself without enough candidates qualified to fill the vacant posts on the council. We could spare them a few and still have more than enough to run an election.

¶ Right near me there's a little book, each day I turn in there to look, a page for every day; it helps me to remember too, the things each day I have to do, a helpful sort of way.

¶ And when the year was bright and new, the book looked plump and filled all through, a long time it would run; today it looks all filled with age, and there remains one lonely page, for all the rest are done.

¶ And in that little book I know, are records which should not be so, of time some show a waste; some things were not quite kind and just, and others lifeless as the dust, and others done in haste.

¶ But there are others places there, where days seemed mapped out pretty fair, when things went like they ought; a turn that made some person glad, another made to feel less sad, perhaps a kindly thought.

¶ But now my little book is done, and I'll start on another one, it's waiting there for me; I'm hoping as the days pass through, I'll mark in there kind things to do, like what they ought to be.

¶ Of blunders I have had my share, I know I tripped up here and there, and made a ragged score; the new book stands awaiting me, and it is plain for me to see—I'll have to try some more.

CRAFTSMEN in the shops of the Douglas Aircraft Corporation are planning the details of what is expected to be the world's ideal airliner, to develop this machine America's five largest lines have pooled brains and resources. Fifty designers and 24 engineers have been consulted.

The new sky pullman is being built to carry 20 passengers at night and 40 in the daytime. An observation deck will be provided for exercise and there will be special sleeping cabins.

Because the Douglas Ideal stands 138 feet from the ground, has a wingspan of 138 feet and a fuselage 97 feet long there is no hanger in the United States to house it.

Powered by four Pratt and Whitney hornet radial air-cooled engines of 14 cylinders each and developing 1,400 horsepower the machine will cruise at 190 miles an hour. Novel landing gear includes a wheel placed in front of the normal undercarriage landing wheels. This is reckoned to increase stability when taking off and landing.

The cost of the first machine is reckoned at $750,000 with subsequent machines down to about $250,000, and experts believe that liners of this type will ultimately run on the transatlantic service.

Sugar Beets.

THE UNINITIATED should not confuse the sugar beet with the common red garden variety. The sugar beet is light in color, something like a parsnip and is about ten to twelve inches long and weighs anywhere from a pound to two pounds. The foliage is credited with the all-important functions of collecting sugar and sending it down to the roots for storage so that great care is taken in cultivation.

Harvesting commences in September and extends into October and the first operations consist of lopping off the bushy leaves and crown, the roots being loaded and conveyed to the factory. There they are tested for sugar content and on this, very largely, depends the price paid to the farmers. From the storage bins the beets are put through a cleansing process and then dumped into an automatic scale which empties a ton at a time into the slicers. Scientifically shredded, the beets undergo an extensive soaking process until all the sugar has been extracted in the form of juice.

The spent slices are dried and bagged to be sold as an appetizing cattle feed. The juice which may contain from 10 to 13 per cent. sugar goes through an extensive and elaborate process of purification and refining until finally it emerges in pure crystal form, indistinguishable in substance, form and quality from its sister product which comes from cane.

The major portion of sugar beet seed used in Canada at the present time is imported from Europe but experiments are being made constantly in growing "mother beets" and sufficient seed is being produced to indicate that shortage through interruption of European supply could be considerably offset. Seed of excellent quality is produced in Canada and after a few generations of growth become well adapted to climatic conditions and is superior in many ways to imported seed.

Advertises For Twins.

RECENTLY the South African Medical Journal carried the following advertisement— "Wanted—a pair of identical twins for a dietic experiment. Free board and lodging offered while the experiment is being tried." Medical men in South Africa seeking rats or guinea pigs for experimental purposes have often advertised their needs but using a newspaper to locate twins was something new.

It was discovered that the advertiser was Dr. Christian Leipoldt of Capetown. He was anxious to confirm certain diet theories and so he proposed bringing up one twin on milk and wine and its fellow on milk.

A specialist in child disease and nutrition Dr. Leipoldt maintains that African wine, rich in amino acid content makes a useful addition to babies' diet.

The proposed experiment however ran into a storm of protest when it was discovered it was being sponsored by the South African Wine Trust. Mothers and temperance advocates protested bitterly and public meetings denounced the experiment as "ghastly."

Dr. Eric Matsner of New York has discovered an unusual substitute for guinea pigs. He has just imported eighteen clawed seawed toads from South Africa, which will be used in his clinic instead of rabbits and mice. Capable of living five or ten years and being used often, the toads cost only a few cents each and are therefore much more economical than other experimental subjects.

OTONABEE AND SMITH

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Allan B. Mann at Smith nomination meeting Monday was reported as saying, "Land in Smith township is being assessed at $37.00 an acre and in Otonabee at $32.00 an acre." No doubt he is trying to make a case against the present equalized assessment of Peterborough county, which was the report of the board appointed by the Provincial Government to fix the valuation of the county for county purposes according to the provisions of the assessment act.

The local assessments for the year 1935 were used as a basis for the equalization report made for Peterborough county in 1936.

If Mr. Mann would be accurate and fair he should consult, Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs, Report for 1935. There he will find that all of the land assessed in Smith township was assessed at $21.26 per acre not $37.00 and all of the land assessed in Otonabee at $21.72 an acre, not $34.00. He will also find the buildings in Smith township assessed for $652,285 and the buildings in Otonabee, at $476,025, business, Smith $14,950, Otonabee, $7,100, income Smith, none, Otonabee, $2,900.

Mr. Mann cannot add all of the land, buildings, business and income assessment together and divide the total by the number of acres and get the assessed value of land per acre. It is quite incorrect. That may do for a nomination speech but it has nothing whatever to do with arriving at the actual value of municipalities for equalization purposes.

Yours truly,
W. A. ANDERSON.

A GOOD WORK

Editor Examiner:

Sir: People are apt to forget the work that public men do for their communities, and for that reason I hope you will permit me to recall through the Examiner the special efforts of Alderman Dutton to obtain for Peterborough and this district the provincial highway which the Ontario government designated a few months ago and known as the Peterborough Port Perry road. A small group of local citizens was associated with Mr. Dutton in that promotion which was supported by other citizens of Port Perry, Bethany, Aurora, and many other rural and urban communities along the way.

You may remember that among opposition to this road was directed from Lindsay, and at one time prospects did not look bright for the east-west highway.

This road movement was entirely outside Mr. Dutton's duties as a councillor, and the fact that the government has assumed it is an assurance that Peterborough will have a place on a second great transprovincial highway as it is gradually completed within the next few years. This is an accomplishment which the city and its people will benefit in for all time, and it is a sample of Mr. Dutton's energy and sincere desire to promote the expansion of Peterborough. He has well deserved a renewal of the confidence of the ratepayers, apart from the work he has done in the council and on the relief committee.

APPROVAL

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Seldom has a man presented himself for aldermanic honors who is better fitted to serve the City than Herbert J. McCannan whom I have known and whose career I have followed for a period in excess of forty years.

Coming to Peterborough Mr. McCannan served his time and became a qualified machinist and after some years started building and contracting and built about twenty-five houses in the City. For many years he has been successfully engaged in the Real Estate business and has been active in community affairs.

I doubt if any man is more familiar with our city and knows the needs of the people and the living conditions of the people better than Mr. McCannan. Because of his experience, his reliability and his peculiar fitness for the position, I am prompted to write this letter. Having been urged for many years to stand for aldermanic honors now that he has presented himself I hope the people of Peterborough will make certain of his election.

Yours truly,
THOS. BROWN.

NEW YEAR'S WILL

TO MOTHERS:

memories dearly sweet,
A little home where loved ones will come on dancing feet,
I leave the largest treasure that can come of human heart—
The tender love of children that years may never part.

TO FATHERS:
To you I leave a loving wife, strong sons, a pipe to smoke,
Hardening strife with yet the knack
of giving merry joke;
A loving family hearthstone to come with each day's end,
And human spirit to proclaim every man a friend.

TO CHILDREN:
To you I leave the hidden years of doubt and joy and tears,
The world's expanse of marvels and knowledge of its fears,
The hidden roads and byways and I also leave you woes,
And strength to conquer evil and all of Godly foes.

TO AGE:
To you I leave the after years of joy
that comes of pain,
I leave with you the sunshine the flowers and the rain,
I leave to you the wisdom of all this wondrous earth,
And many children' children with a goodly gift of mirth.

Special Audit Not Warranted Was Reply Of Deputy Minister To Request of Hon. G. N. Gordon

Came To Conclusions Without Adequate Knowledge Of Purposes Of Such Funds

The Peterborough City Trust Commission, in view of many erroneous statements made regarding the use of sinking funds for reduction of taxes, and the general condition of the financial affairs of this city, has submitted to the Examiner for publication a letter which was received when Ald. G. N. Gordon made a request to the Department of Municipal Affairs for an investigation.

From Deputy Minister to Mayor

Toronto, Mar. 19, 1937

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Recently Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., of your city made representations to the Minister that a provincial audit was urgently needed with respect to some matters relating to your sinking fund.

I have made a preliminary investigation, and for the information of yourself and the city council enclose copy of letter which I have today written to Mr. Gordon.

I send you this information in case from any press reports any feeling has been created in your city that all is not well with the sinking fund so that you may correct any such misunderstanding.

Your very truly,
(Signed)
HERBERT L. CUMMINGS,
Deputy Minister

From Deputy Minister to Mr. Gordon

Toronto, Mar. 19, 1937

Dear Mr. Gordon:

I have completed a sufficient investigation into the affairs of this fund to be satisfied that no special audit is required as intimated in your telegram of 27th February to the Honourable the Minister, in which you state your opinion to be that a provincial auditor should examine the city's municipal affairs.

The particular matters referred to in the telegram and subsequent correspondence were in connection with the surplus reserve in the sinking fund and trading in investments of the fund by the Commissioners of the Peterborough City Trust.

In my opinion, there is no warrant whatsoever for any special audit or inquiry being conducted, which is fortunate having regard to the fact that the cost thereof would have to be paid by the taxpayers of your city. An audit in such matters would be of a highly specialized character, and therefore, the more costly.

I am satisfied you have come to opinions and conclusions as to the management of the sinking fund, the trading of investments thereof and accumulation of a surplus reserve without adequate knowledge of the purposes and transactions of such funds, and because of erroneous assumptions based upon insufficient data contained in the city audit reports of recent years.

My investigation leads me to the conclusion that the management of the sinking fund by the Commissioners has, on the whole, been excellent and skilful, with resultant advantage to the taxpayers and added protection to the holders of Peterborough debentures. The investments held are of the highest grade, and, generally speaking, well selected, and the trading transactions have been based upon the exercise of sound judgment, with consequent profit to the fund. I do not think anyone competent to judge could justifiably criticize any of the tradings in investments which have taken place in recent years.

It is the duty of the Commissioners to keep invested the moneys of the fund, so that the maximum interest earnings consistent with safety will accrue. They would merit criticism if they did otherwise. Similarly is it their duty to be watchful of investments held, so that they may sell when market conditions and fluctuations indicate that to be the wise thing to do in order that losses may be avoided or profits may accrue.

There is nothing in any of the trading transactions to indicate other than that the Commissioners have been alive to their responsibilities and possessed of sufficient acumen to so deal with their investments as to reap a profit without any element whatsoever of speculative or active trading characteristics being present.

As to the accumulated surplus in the fund, shown by the most recent balance sheet to be over $300,000, it is a matter for congratulation for your taxpayers that such a happy situation exists, and that the Commissioners have kept a closed fist over the surplus and not permitted it to be improperly transferred to current municipal funds as has been done in some municipalities.

The surplus of the fund is imbued with the same trusts as is the fund itself, and can be put only to those uses for which the fund is established. Any other application would be illegal.

I am glad to find your fears appear to be groundless, and that the taxpayers of your city need not be put to the expense of an audit as your opinion indicated was urgently needed.

I am sending copies of this letter to the Mayor and the Chairman of the Commission, so that they may assist you to allay any fears as to the safety of the sinking fund which may have arisen in your city because of any statements or rumours resulting from press reports referred to in your telegram.

Yours very truly,
HERBERT L. CUMMINGS
Deputy Minister.

The Ackerman Action.

In an open letter of December 30th, statements are made with regard to operations of the Peterborough City Trust, which call for correction," Vincent Eastwood, the chairman, said to-day.

"It is stated that the Trust spent $20,000 in settling a law suit which was decided adversely to the city council. The fact is that the sum indicated was advanced to council for the purpose named, and at the pressing request of the council, in order to assist in keeping down the tax rate, during a very trying year for the taxpayers by reason of the depression. This sum represented special earnings of the Trust and was not part of the sinking fund. This action was taken after the solicitor for the Trust, Mr. E. H. D. Hall, K.C., had approved and then only after Mr. Hall had also secured legal opinion.

"The statement is also made that sinking funds had been used to make repairs and provide furnishings for city offices. This is not true. Care and maintenance of this nature is imposed upon the Trust by the Act. Funds for this purpose are always derived from rentals.

"Statement is made that the Trust has paid commissions on the purchase of securities. This is not true. The Trust has not and does not pay commission.

"Objection is raised to the class of securities held. Competent authorities have voluntarily expressed the opinion that the sinking fund held by the Trust ranks uniformly higher both as to quality and arrangement to meet the debts of the city than in any similar municipality in the Province of Ontario. The present system of management of sinking funds for the municipality originated in 1861 and has proven to be sound during all the years. When a better plan has been agreed upon by the taxpayer your trustees will doubtless readily acquiesce."

Gordon Well Aware Action Illegal Dutton And Juby Assert In Statement

"G. N. Gordon knows perfectly well that it is illegal to use for the purpose of paying off the tax rate, the sinking funds of the City Trust Commission that are ear-marked and stamped for paying off the city debentures for roads and schools, pavements, sidewalks and so on," Aldermen Juby and Dutton assert in a statement to The Examiner today.

"Money has been spent by the Commissioners for the building of the public building on the Market Square was earned otherwise than from surplus interest earnings on sinking funds. Other cities have tried to raid these surplus earnings just as Mr. Gordon suggests, but the law was against them and they failed.

City councils have for years past known of this surplus and have cast envious eyes on it. Eventually it will be returned to the taxpayers to whom it properly belongs. In the meantime, however, we feel that it would be desirable, provided the consent of the Municipal Board could be secured, to have at least the earnings from the surplus applied to reduce the demands of the City Trust upon the city treasury. If re-elected to the City Council we would be prepared to support such a move which was broached in the discussions last spring."

BOARD WELCOMES AN EXAMINATION STOCKER REPLIES

"The Board of Health will gladly welcome any examination of its affairs at any time. It is not a closed corporation."

So declared Alderman Walter Stocker, chairman of the Board for many years, in answering the charges levelled against the administration by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C.

Relative to Mr. Gordon's criticism of the Board paying seven cents a mile for a car used by a former inspector of the local Department of Health, Alderman Stocker declared this sum was based on the amount allowed for such purposes by the Hydro Commission to its employees. He believed seven cents a mile to be practically standard throughout the province.

Declaring the Board never had an inspector to equal Harry White for efficiency, Alderman Stocker said the Board was compelled to ask for his resignation because his general conduct could not be tolerated. White originally came to Peterborough on the recommendation of Dr. Harris M. Ott of London and also Dr. T. J. Phair of the Ontario Department of Health.

Referring to appointment of a health nurse, the veteran chairman explained there was at the time only one nurse in Peterborough with all the requisite qualifications. The nurse in question was Mrs. L. L. Maguire, police matron.

"Mr. Gordon tries to make capital out of the fact thwe Board passed up the application of Miss Thompson for this position. We fully realized Miss Thompson had very good qualifications, but taking all in all we considered the appointee, Miss Kearney, had more practical experience, and was therefore better able to render the highest degree of service to the city," Alderman Stocker said.

Government Regulations.

Regarding the sixteen thousand dollar item for relief recipients spoken of by Mr. Gordon, Alderman Stocker pointed out the Board had no control of that particular expenditure. It was money spent in accordance with government regulations.

Alderman Stocker said he was under the impression every taxpayer in the city was familiar with the Isolation Hospital costs. Some time before he became a member of the Board the Isolation Hospital was costing the city $13,000 a year. This year the hospital appropriation was two thousand dollars, and to date sixteen hundred of this amount has been expended, while at the present time there are eighteen people at the hospital.

"In years," Alderman Stocker declared, "we have not bought any liquid refreshments for use at the hospital. Neither have members of the staff been absent from duty morning, afternoon and nights with frequent weekend holidays and occasional three-month trips to England on salary."

Speaking of Dr. G. Murray Fraser's work as full-time medical officer, he pointed out that the M.O.H. holds regular weekly clinics and was generally speaking performing a satisfactory job.

He stated that recently Dr. Fraser went to Toronto and his expenses to the Board on that occasion were about $5.50 for the day. He contrasted that expense with those run up by "a certain person who once went to Toronto for two days and spent over sixty-five dollars of the ratepayers' money."

A Message About Your Newspaper For 1938

THE FRONT PAGE

Never in history have world events been moving so quickly. Never in history have these world events been of such tremendous importance to all of us. Comprehensive as The Examiner's coverage of world news has been in 1937, yet in 1938 it will be even more nearly complete. The CP wire service and its world wide associations are constantly improving facilities for getting more news more quickly. The CP wires service all large dailies but remember The Examiner gives its readers late news hours sooner than any other published.

THE LOCAL PAGE

For most readers the favorite page is The Examiner's "Local Page." And rightly so. What other news is as interesting as the news about the people we know? In 1938 no one will want to miss Main Street items or the notes of the Rambling Reporter.

THE EDITORIAL PAGE

The "humaness" of its Editorials, the sprightliness of its Notes and Comments and the homely philosophy of A.R.K.'s "Poetry" makes The Examiner's Editorial page one that is really of great interest. For more than two years now The Examiner has been one of the ten most quoted newspapers in all Canada. In 1938 The Examiner's Editorial Page will continue to be "required reading"

THE MARKET PAGE

The Examiner is one of the very few Provincial Dailies that carries the close of the market quotations. In 1938 considerable additional Market information will be published every day.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

Leonie Fenton's New Year's resolution is "More and more personals in The Examiner every day throughout 1938." Personals come first but don't forget the marvellous cooking Ideas of Mary Moore; the comforting thoughts of Roberta; Genevieve Kemble's reports from the stars; Barclay's advice on bridge and last but not least—DOROTHY DIX.

THE CHURCH PAGE

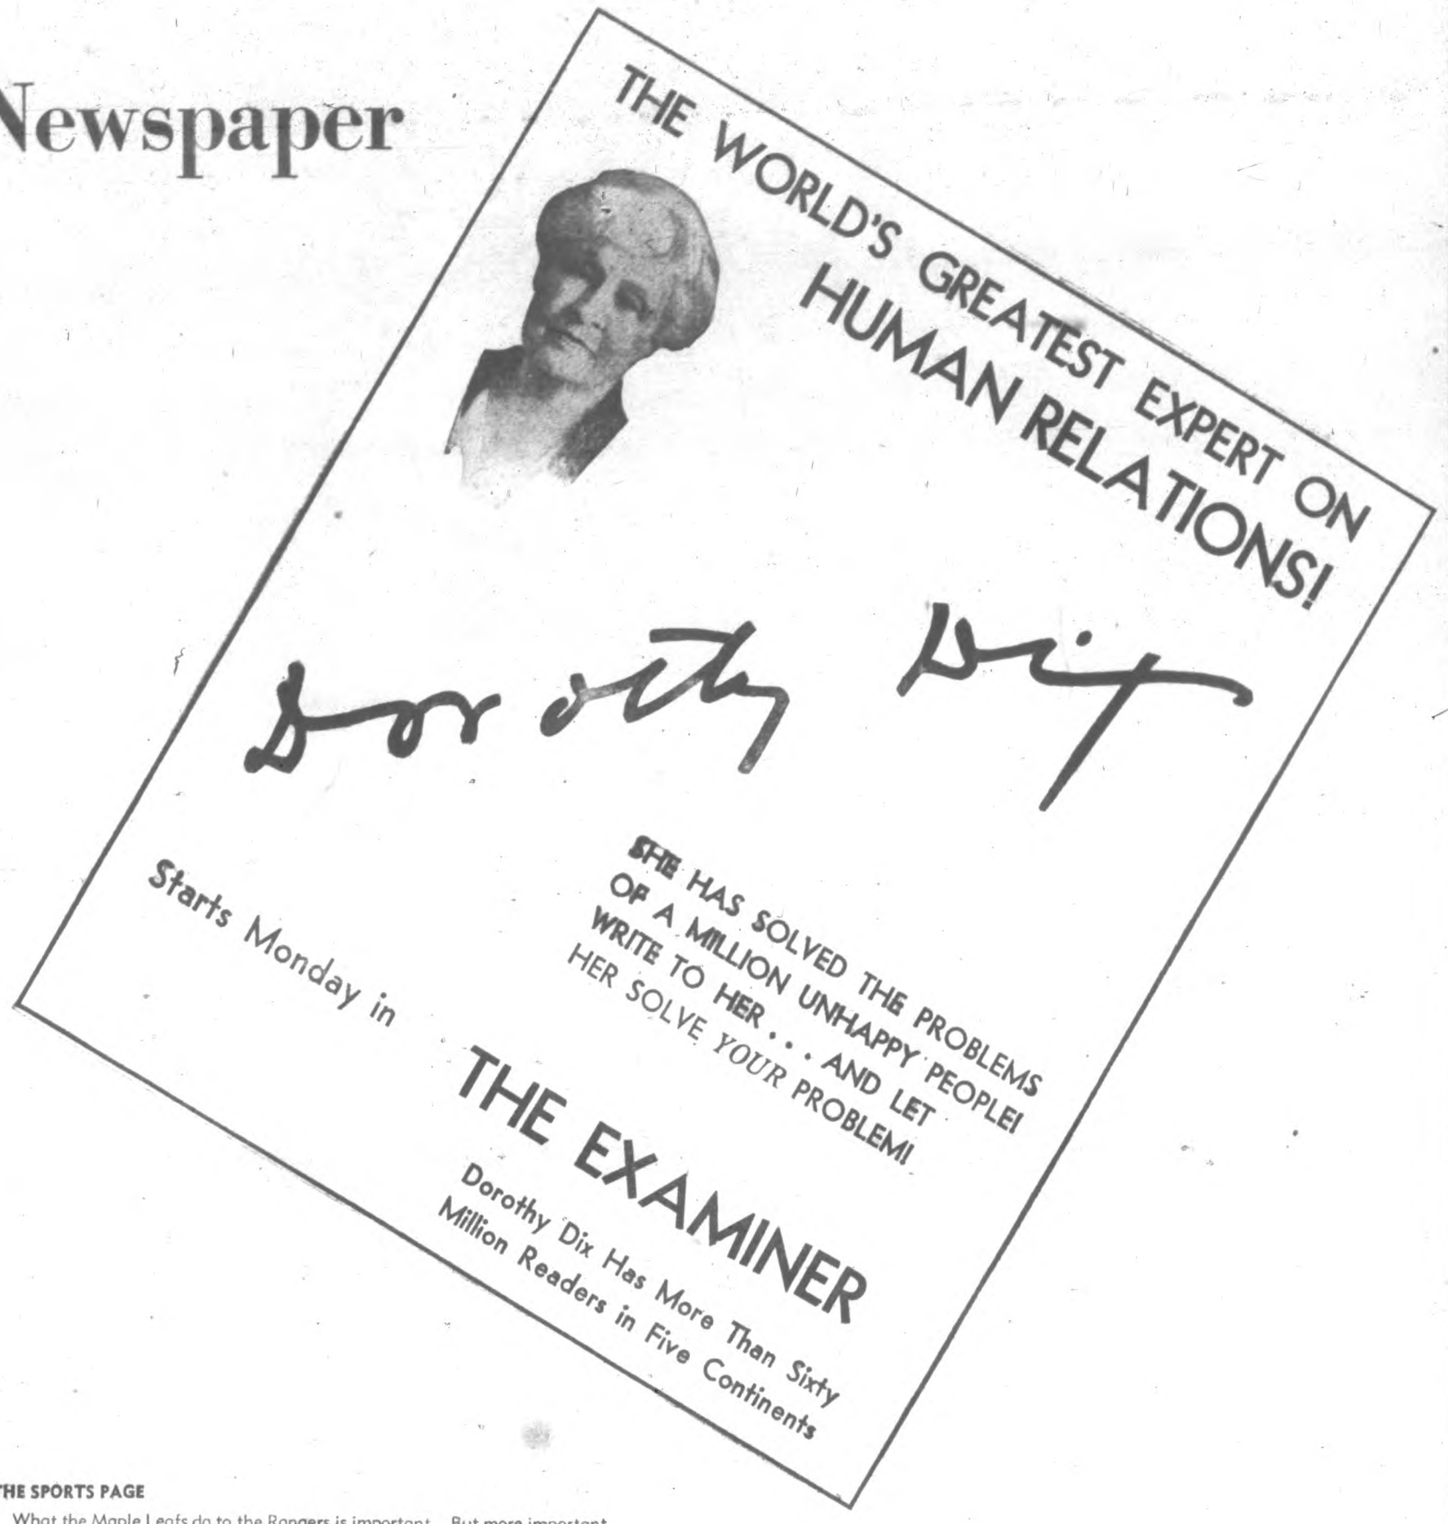
Few newspapers in Canada devote a whole page to the Church. This Page is a feature which Examiner readers would not want to miss. It will continue to appear throughout 1938.

THE ENTERTAINMENT PAGE

What's on at the Regent? What's on at the Capitol? Where will we dance? The only place to find the answer to these questions every night is the Entertainment Page of The Examiner. 1938 promises plenty of good shows. Keep posted and enjoy the New Year.

LOCAL PICTURES

Within a year of the establishment of an engraving plant in Peterborough over 1,000 new local pictures appeared in Examiner pages. Their reception has been so enthusiastic that their number will be greatly increased in 1938. Harold Robson with his Candid Camera is going to be pretty busy clicking the shutter of his new $300 Speed Graphic. Harold's pictures will appear exclusively in The Examiner.



THE SPORTS PAGE

What the Maple Leafs do to the Rangers is important. But more important is what Pick Heine's Senior B's do to the Trenton Fliers. And most important are these resolutions of Cec. Perdue's—"That 'Sports Day by Day' will be breezier than the observation platform of a sky liner, funnier than the election promises of some of the municipal candidates and that it will be right up in front of the drum major in the parade of sports facts." There's only one Cec. and he can be found only in The Examiner.

Learn French at Home—Surprise Your Friends

Sally made a hit with sophisticated Peter—when he discovered she spoke French.

Dining at his favorite Moulin Rouge (Red Mill to you), she quickly showed her appreciation of the cuisine Francaise (French cooking).

From hors d'oeuvres to cafe noir (black coffee), she knew what she wanted, pronounced every dish correctly.

She pleased her escort, too, by being as eager as he was for a taste of the Crepes Suzettes (delicious sweet pancakes served for dessert).

Clever Sally. She knows how important French is if you dine out, watch style trends, follow the news. She's learning it at home.

Lois of fun to keep up with le dernier cri (latest rage)—to know always what's chic and what's demode (out of style). Nice to be intelligent when the newspaper says a long-expected coup d'etat (sudden stroke of statesmanship) is now a fait accompli (accomplished fact)).

You can learn practical, everyday French from our 32-page booklet. Conversation lessons — restaurants, stores, travel. Complete pronunciation rules.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

INVITE THEM TO HELP

WHEN THE defenders make a guess, they usually save the declarer the necessity of making one. That is why it is sometimes better to throw one of them in the lead, in the hope that he will return the desired suit, than to break that suit yourself. If he doesn't fall for this device, you can still do your own guessing, but with the knowledge that at least you gave them an opportunity to solve the problem for you.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Here South started the bidding with 1-Heart, West overcalled with 1-Spade, North bid 2-Clubs, South 3-Diamonds, North 3-Hearts and South 4-Hearts, which West doubled.

The opening lead was the spade K, followed by the A and a third lost two tricks and certain to lose to the diamond A, the declarer could not afford a trump loser. He was uncertain as to whether West's double was based on the possibility of winning a trump or whether to play for the drop of the outstanding trumps.

Before trying out the trump situation, however, he decided to gain a little more information about West's holding, so he led the diamond K. When West won this he felt certain that South's plan was to ruff out the diamond suit. He therefore switched to a trump and the declarer's worries were over.

WHO'S WHO IN THE PETERBOROUGH ALDERMANIC CONTEST

ROBERT S. COTTON: An ex-alderman for twelve consecutive years, Robert S. "Bob" Cotton has many outstanding achievements to his credit. It was he who advocated the economy of installing time switches in the city's lighting system, whereby the street lights were shut off during the day time, saving in power and lamps, and providing four times as much night lighting for the same money. The new ladder and pumper were bought, under his chairmanship of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. He also served as chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee during his period of service. He is interested in ladies' softball and was instrumental in having the "bowl" at Riverside laid out. Hockey is another interest, while he is an active figure in the C. G. E. Mutual Benefit Society and is permanent custodian of the C. G. E. Social and Athletic Club's finances.

Dr. E. MARK CROUGH, born in Whitmore township, Attended Continuation School there, and later went on to Ottawa University, Saskatchewan University at Saskatoon and University of Toronto. From the latter seat of learning he graduated in dentistry in 1923 and for the past fourteen years has been practising his profession in Peterborough. While he has not had any municipal experience, Dr. Crough has shown consistent interest in the welfare of the community. He has actively supported the Chamber of Commerce and the Y. M.C.A. over a period of many years and is a charter member and president of Peterborough Kinsmen Club.

FRED DAINTON with the exception of the years when he was overseas, has lived in Peterborough thirty years. He came from the Old Land to this city and is widely known as a painter and decorator. Mr. Dainton's home is in the Auburn section of Ashburnham. He has been a property owner nineteen years, and a member of the executive of the Peterborough Horticultural Society for eight years. Mr. Dainton enlisted in the 5th C. M. R. in June 1915, was transferred to the 8th C. M. R. overseas, and was discharged from the army in January 1918. He was a candidate two years ago, and offers himself again as an independent and interested in the city as a whole. Incidentally he said—"This year's council was the first to do anything in our neighborhood of Auburn in the thirty years I remember."

JAMES DUTTON: Has an impressive record of public service, and seeks re-election to the city council after completing one term. Born in Reddish, Lancashire, Mr. Dutton came to Canada twenty-six years ago. He has a lifetime connection with the baking trade and is at present manager of Stocks Bread Limited. A ceaseless worker he served for four years on the Board of Education; was for five years chairman of the Advisory Vocational Committee. In addition he was one time president of the Chamber of Commerce; president of the Bread and Cake Bakers' Association of Canada; chairman of the Budget Committee of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada; chairman of the Board of Administration of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. During Mr. Dutton's term on the council he has performed invaluable work as chairman of the Relief Committee, and also as a member of the Board of Health and Property Committee. His work in connection with the problem of relief pre-dated his entry to council and has included almost the entire period during which the matter was keenly acute. He was chairman of the Special Relief Committee from 1929 to 1932.

BOLAND M. GLOVER: Is seeking a second term in council. Native of Ashburnham he has been a lifelong resident of Peterborough. On completing his education in local public and high schools and at business college here, he entered the service of the old Peterborough Examiner Publishing Company and worked his way from office boy to managing director. While his past term as an alderman is the only actual municipal experience he has had, Mr. Glover has always championed everything he believed to be for the common benefit of the city before he was elected to the city council at the head of the polls, he gave many years of very valuable service as a special member of the relief committee and has performed valuable work on that committee while on the council. In his earlier days Mr. Glover was an enthusiastic hockey and lacrosse player. He starred in both these games on championship teams. Now to quote his own words he plays a poor game of golf but likes it. His interest in sport is still maintained and to this can be added a love of horticulture.

HON. GEORGE NEWCOMBE GORDON, K.C., candidate for a two-year term in the City Council, is a native of Brighton, Ontario. He gained his early education there and went to Stirling where he took his matriculation. He graduated with honors in Toronto University followed successful completion of his course at Osgoode and he was called to the bar in 1906.

Mr. Gordon began his practice of law in this city in 1906 with Daniel O'Connell, now a County Court judge. Early in his career here, he took an interest in civic affairs and served for a number of years in the City Council, serving as city solicitor also, he acted simultaneously on the Board of Education.

In 1930, he was elected to the House of Commons from the Peterborough riding during a by-election and in 1931 was re-elected. He served as Deputy-speaker of the House from 1921 to 1925 and in 1926, just before the Government went to the country, he was named Minister of Immigration.

The candidate headed the polls when he sought an aldermanic seat last New Year's.

Labor has been an outstanding interest in the youthful career of W.

WILLIAM F. JOHNSTON: Foreman-machinist at the Peterborough Moccasin and Lumberjack Company operated by Alderman Roland Whelon, Mr. Johnston is 51-years of age. He resides in Ashburnham. Born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, Mr. Johnston has lived in Peterborough more than twenty years. He is vice-president of Peterborough C. C. F. Club and has been a member of the club's executive since it was organized in 1934. He unsuccessfully contested this riding in the last provincial election. He has long been interested in problems concerning the welfare of his fellow men, particularly as they affect working conditions.

Although he has just completed his first two years on the Council,

JAMES JUBY a two-year candidate, already enjoys a reputation for public service through his association with public and semi-public bodies. He served as president of the Peterborough Automobile Club for five years and is, at present, on the board of directors. For three years he has been on the board of the Chamber of Commerce and has long been active in the body. During the 1932-33 term, he was president of the Rotary Club and was one year vice-president of the Business Men's Association.

Mr. Juby is proud of his attendance record during the term in the Council which he has just completed. He missed only one council sitting and one committee meeting group. During the past four months, he was chairman of the Board of Works. Born near Belleville, he has been a resident of Peterborough since 1904, engaged in the grocery business during the past 22 years.

JAMES LEWIS: Forty years a barber on Hunter Street, retired from active work last March, and has plenty of time to give to the business of the city if elected to the council. His investments have been in Peterborough property, and his interests are entirely in the future welfare of this city. He has gained considerable experience in regard to local real estate in various sections of the city, giving him a broader understanding of local problems. Mr. Lewis refers to himself as a workingman with a special interest in the men who have served overseas by reason of his own bereavement in the loss of a son who was killed in the war. With time to spare and also a keen interest in the city as a ratepayer, Mr. Lewis decided to offer his services to the municipal electors, and is a candidate for a two year term in the council.

FRANK W. LUNDY: Was born on Gilmour street in 1899. He attended Peterborough public school and the business college, and during his earlier working life served as window dresser and sign and showcard writer for two local department stores. Later he entered the painting and decorating business and is at present working as a painting contractor. His grandfather was one time assessor for the Town of Peterborough. Members of Mr. Lundy's family have paid taxes in the city for seventy-five years past. One piece of property on Aylmer street has been owned by the family for sixty years. Mr. Lundy is keenly interested in education for the working classes. He is an executive member of the local branch of the Workers' Educational Association, and spends his spare time studying. He became interested in civic politics a few years ago and has since taken a great interest in the city's administration. He is a resident of the south end.

HAROLD R. PHOENIX thirty years a resident in Canada, is a native of Belfast, Ireland. He came to this city seven years ago and has been engaged in the manufacture of soap products. He is appealing to the public for election as a man experienced in practical business and thus able to attend to the interests of the general public.

Mr. Phoenix has had no previous term in the Council but sought unsuccessfully a seat last year. He is convinced that new industries in Peterborough can be the solution of many community ills.

The candidate states he is completely independent and has kept his hands free of all factions. He claims considerable experience in social welfare work through his efforts here during the past five years.

GORDON POWELL, a candidate for a two-year seat on the Council on the Labor slate. It was through studies in political science and political economy that he became interested in Labor, he states, and has a close interest in the problems of the young man trying to find a place in the industrial world and earning a living when he finds that place.

During the Dominion woollens strike this year, Mr. Powell aided in distribution of relief, loaning the facilities of his shop, and contributed to the strike cause by soliciting public support. He has been secretary of the Peterborough C. C. F. Club for the past two years and has been active in the C. C. Y. M.

A native of this city and resident here twenty years the candidate gained his education here. He is a bookkeeper and stenographer by trade and has operated a refreshment store since June.

WALTER STOCKER offers himself to the voters with 16 years already behind him in aldermanic service. He completed his 16th consecutive year at the conclusion of his present term. When he went to the electors two years ago, he was returned to his seat, in second place with a total of 3,589 votes.

A native of Leeds, Yorkshire, England, Mr. Stocker has been in Peterborough for the past fifty years. His special interests have been varied during his eight terms in Council, with possibly his achievement as

Ghost Caused Him To Slay Baby

HENRY NEAD

MRS. NEAD

Little stirred by his story of a ghostly-dictated crime, authorities at Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., moved to punish a young farmhand for slaying of his 15-year-old wife's infant son. The farmhand Henry Nead, 19, confessed to police he bludgeoned the child to death on the order of his father's ghost. Nead, according to Sheriff Henry Becker, married Luella Shaw last June knowing her unborn child was not his. Nead told officers that the ghost threatened to cause him trouble the rest of his life unless it was placated by the blood of the child. The young wife stood by him. Parents of the young mother charged Nead often threatened to kill the child.

SEASON'S GREETINGS TO ALL

G. N. GORDON SAYS!

G. N. Gordon said that the statement of the City Trust that the City Trust's funds were not available to reduce the demand of the City Trust upon the Council for $382,208.00 made in this year, is not correct.

Mr. Gordon further said that any person who could read plain English and understand it, knew differently, and he was not interested in the opinion of a bunch of salary holders as to what they thought about the City Trusts funds that had accumulated over a period of years.

Under the Ontario Statutes of 1908 incorporating the City Trust the limitation was put upon the trust in the following words:

"The said Commissioners shall on or before the first day of February in each year, and oftener if necessary, submit to the Council of the said City, a statement in writing showing the amount specially required (after giving credit for the amounts available for that purpose as herein provided) for payment of the interest and for the sinking funds or for the annual payments on all debentures of the said City Corporation then outstanding."

Anybody who understands English or who desires to understand plain ordinary English knows that this means that the City Trust requires to give the City Council credit for $310,000.00 accumulated in their hands and not required for interest, sinking funds or payment of debentures of the current year, before they can demand the $382,208.00, which they demanded and received this year.

Mr. Gordon said that he intends to stop this in 1938 if he can get sufficient support in the Council to do it and compel the City Trust to give credit for the monies it had on hand and which by law they were compelled to allow to the ratepayers of the City.

Mr. Gordon said that the City Trust's statement presented same irrelevant law that had no more application to this case than it did to a case in South Africa.

1. I will support the municipal distribution of milk in order to cut down the overhead which now amounts to one-half of the cost of the milk sold in the City of Peterborough.
2. I will support a new appraisal and revaluation of all property including large manufacturing plants.
3. I am prepared to support the aggressive and active movement to induce new industries to come to Peterborough to take up the unemployment existing, and I will be prepared to limit this to a ten-year fixed assessment and no renewal.
4. The farmers have sold milk to the Peterborough dairies at less than 3c per quart and the retail price is 11c and 12c. This should be corrected by municipal provisions making zones or for a different class of distribution of milk to reduce the price of it.

Wishing you the compliments of the Season,

Credit was taken by the Chairman of the Parks' Commission for the work that has been done in the City which has improved the condition of the parks, but this has cost over $15,000.00 in the last five years and it is a very great question whether, during the serious years of depression $15,000.00 should have been expended of the ratepayers' money by the Parks' Commission.

PROGRAM OF LABOUR CANDIDATES

1. Works Program to be Instituted
   (a) A municipal building and loan board to be established for the purpose of securing funds at low interest rates in order to encourage potential home owners.
   (b) The seeking of federal and provincial grants for the extension of civic improvement plans.
2. Enforcement of Sanitation and Health By-laws
   (a) Objectionable refuse is now disposed of by direct emptying into the Otonabee River thus polluting the water and thereby endangering the health of our whole community. The strict enforcement of this by-law would remove this evil.
   (b) A large number of our homes are now without proper sanitary conveniences. Loans should be available at low interest rates to overcome these unsatisfactory conditions.
3. Abolition of Tax Penalties
   We believe the six per cent. interest rate already levied on tax arrears is sufficient, without further penalties being imposed.
4. Work Towards the Repeal of Tax Exemption Law
   Real estate firms and large industrial corporations are taking unfair advantage of this law, thereby further burdening the small property owner who is, in his taxes, forced to shoulder the amount of the partial tax exemption granted to these large companies, etc.
5. The candidates pledge themselves to strive in all ways to relieve the small business man of excess taxes and licenses.

To those who have studied the science of government, it becomes perfectly obvious that any democratic body which hopes to be effective, must be truly representative. I represent the worker and the small business man. Unlike many of the so-called independent candidates, I do not pretend to be everything to all men. If elected I shall endeavour to co-operate to the best interests of all, but shall pay particular attention to safeguarding the interests of the smaller man, whom I feel has been sadly neglected in the past.

chairman of the Parks Committee as the outstanding.

In addition to 12 years' chairmanship of the Park Committee, he occupied the Board of Health chair during a lengthy period in which the Department of Health was completely re-organized. Outside the Council, he has been active in the work of the Children's Aid Society and other community interests.

FRED TUGGEY made his first bid for a seat in the City Council Chamber in 1919 but, when defeated, refused to give up his aspiration to civic service. In 1930 he was elected. In 1932 he was returned by acclamation and in 1934 was given a vacant seat. Successful at the polls in 1936, he completed six years' service.

Outstanding to Mr. Tuggey's work on the Council was his leadership of the Property Committee and the Relief Committee. He was the first chairman of the Relief Committee when it was taken first under the City Council's wing. He is proud that he fathered the resolution which ultimately resulted in the city's fixed assessment beneficiaries sharing the cost of relief.

Mr. Tuggey is a native of England and came to this city in 1904. He has followed his trade as a builder throughout his residence here. In addition to City Council service, he has been a member of the Hospital Board for the past six years and served on the Charity Board.

HERBERT L. BRADBURN: Candidate for one year term, is of the third generation of a family that has been a resident in Peterborough at least seventy-five years. His father, W. H. Bradburn, was an alderman and mayor of the city, and member of the Legislature for West Peterborough. Born and educated here, he graduated in commerce and finance at the University of Toronto, and also in law at Osgoode Hall. He is now associated with Bradburns Limited, is married and a property owner living on Gilmour Street. His interests are entirely in Peterborough. Both in his studies and experience he is especially qualified to deal with financial questions that come before the council.

JOHN EDGAR: Born in the North of Ireland has been in Canada forty-seven years, and a resident of Peterborough twenty-eight years. He was an alderman in 1915-16-18 and '19, chairman of the parks and railways committee, and was mainly responsible for the building of the C. P. R. footbridge which has proved a great convenience to many citizens during the last twenty years. His initiative resulted in the Quaker Oats Company paying public school taxes of about $25,000 a year after the completion of their new factory. Prior to 1919 the company was exempted from all taxes, but Mr. Edgar moved for the application of an amendment in 1904 disallowing the exemption from school taxes. He has been connected with the Military from 1920 to 1936, and superintendent since 1926, securing happy homes for 90 children. He is also a member of diocesan boards of the Anglican Church.

WILFRID F. Huycke, K.C., son of late Judge E. C. S. Huycke, has been a resident of Peterborough nearly twenty-five years. He is one of the younger lawyers of the city, living in the Engleburn section of Ashburnham. He graduated in Arts from the University of Toronto in 1913, and began the study of law at Osgoode Hall. His studies were interrupted by his enlistment with the Canadian infantry, and later with the artillery, serving overseas from 1915 to 1919. He was called to the Bar on his return from France, and then took a postgraduate course in law at Harvard before beginning practice in Toronto. He returned to Peterboro in 1922 and was appointed King's Counsel in 1934.

JACOB LOW is a candidate for a one year term in the city council. He was born in Peterborough, a son of the late A. Low who came to the city thirty-six years ago and resided here until his death. Mr. Low was educated in the local school, and was winner of a scholarship at the Collegiate Institute. He took the law course at Osgoode Hall and has been practicing his profession here for the last five years. Prior to that he was associated with Joseph Westring and G. N. Gordon, in Peterborough, and also with three law firms in Toronto, Hughes and Agar, Rowan, Parkinson, and Gardiner, and Harris and Kendrie. Mr. Low is married and has one son. He is the owner of considerable property in Peterborough, and believing that every citizen should be willing to take part in the affairs of his community Mr. Low is offering himself as an aldermanic candidate.

HERBERT J. McCANNAN: Was Born in Otonabee Township. When quite young he moved to Springville and worked on a farm for a number of years. One of his early employers was Thomas Brown, president of the Exhibition Board. As a youth entered on an apprenticeship as machinist and worked at his trade for about seven years. Later as a carpenter-contractor he built twenty-five houses, among which was one for Dr. Malcolm McCullough and the late Joseph Stewart. Was secretary-treasurer during the building of Knox Church. Has served on the Board of that church for twenty-nine years and was chairman for a number of years. In recent years has held membership in Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club, Nicholls Hospital Board, Red Patch Club, Peterborough Curling Club, Peterborough Bowling Club. Has been engaged in real estate and insurance business for past twenty-seven years.

JOSEPH VINETTE is an aldermanic nominee in the 2-year panel. He lives on Lisburn St. in the house in which he was born, a son of the late Edward Vinette. His mother is ninety-three years old, and has resided in Peterborough eighty-two years since she was a girl of eleven. Mr. Vinette is employed as a spinner at the Auburn mills of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited. He began to learn his trade there eighteen years ago when the late James Kendry was its directing head. "All my interests are in Peterborough," Mr. Vinette told the Examiner. "Our family has lived here nearly as long as the next one, and if there is anything I can do to reduce the tax rate and raise the standard of living in Peterboro I would be glad to give it my hearty support if I should be elected to the council. Please express to the editor of the Examiner my appreciation of publishing something about me as a candidate."

Elect Dr. E. Mark Crough

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am offering my services to you as alderman for the city and I solicit your influence and vote at the polls on New Year's Day.

Always deeply interested in the welfare of this fair city, I will strive for its betterment, ever keeping in mind that Peterborough is to-day the Industrial city that it is because it has lived up to its agreements and promises with the industries that we have.

New industries are what Peterborough needs and in the past year we have failed while rapid strides have been made by Brantford, Kitchener and St. Catharines. We must revert to that friendly but fair policy if we want to grow.

NURSING BUREAU HAS FINE START

MONTREAL, Dec. 31 (CP)—Canada's first general nursing service bureau, started experimentally by the Montreal Graduate Nurses' Association on Jan. 1, 1937, had a successful year and will continue to operate, Miss Flora George, director, said today. Experience has shown that there is definite need of the type of service the bureau supplies.

A detailed report will be presented at the annual meeting of the association Feb. 7.

Aim of the bureau, is to provide those requiring nursing care with the class of service they need and can afford, whether that of fully qualified registered nurse, trained attendant, practical nurse or male orderly.

The Montreal experiment grew out of a three-year joint survey of the nursing situation in Canada by the Canadian Nurses' Association and the Canadian Medical Association. Results of the inquiry, contained in the "Weir report" of 1932, showed that 62 per cent of patients lacked qualified nurses while 46 per cent of private duty nurses were unemployed. Since 1934 nursing organizations all over the country have been studying the needs of their communities and the best way of meeting them.

Miss George emphasized that the bureau here is still in the "spade work" stage, and is a long way from the ideal of the right type of service for everyone needing care, regardless of ability to pay. "Still, it is something that we are able to supply any kind of service required, within an hour, at any time of the day or night."

A new experiment along similar lines will be begun early in the new year when the Canadian Nurses' Association will open a model bureau in some community as yet unspecified. It will be maintained by the Dominion organization for two years and then, if continued, taken over by the local's nurses' association.

JOB FOR THE KING

BOULOGNE-SUR-MER, France, Dec. 31 (AP).—A committee arranging dedication of the Britannia memorial commemorating the landing of British troops in France in 1914 decided today to invite King George VI. to unveil the monument.

A REPLY TO MR. GORDON

In Mr. Gordon's attack on the Medical Officer of Health and the Members of the Board there are many inaccuracies that should be pointed out.

The Estimates of Expenditures in connection with the Board of Health for 1937 are as follows:

Health, $8,000.00, Queen Mary Hospital, $2,000.00, a total of $10,000.00, and this amount it is expected will not be exceeded, and not $16,000.00 as Mr. Gordon says. So far as the payment to doctors for care of relief patients is concerned. It was never understood that Dr. Fraser was to take care of these patients. Those on relief asked the privilege of having their own doctor and this was agreed to and the charge is one that is made against relief. The City is charged 35c by the Government for each person on relief and remitted by the city to the government, who in turn hands it over to the Medical Association and they in turn hand it over to the doctors in proportion to the accounts rendered. The City or the Board of Health have no control over this matter at all, and if Dr. Fraser were able to take care of the relief patients (which is an impossibility with his other work) we would be compelled to remit the 35c per month for each person on relief just the same.

The City Solicitor's interpretation of the By-law appointing Dr. Fraser as Medical Officer of Health was that he is carrying out his duties as required by the By-law.

The Medical Officer of Health does a great deal of medical work in conjunction with the Relief Board.

In connection with the charge of 7c per mile made by the Medical Officer of Health for his car, this charge is only made by him on necessary trips in connection with the Department of Health and replaces railway fare. He is not allowed one cent for his car while in use in the city on business for the Board.

It is true the Board of Health does purchase medical magazines for the use of the department and that they pay the combined fees to two organizations of Medical Associations for Dr. Fraser's Memberships. This is the usual custom in City Departments and the total expenditure for magazines is $20.00, and fees $15.00, in all $35.00.

In fact each alderman including Mr. Gordon receives a copy of the Municipal World, paid for by the Council.

In connection with the appointment of Harry White as temporary Sanitary Inspector, in spite of the statement of Mr. Gordon that Dr. Phair did not recommend Mr. White, the fact remains that he was recommended by Dr. Phair and the letter, which is confidential, is on file in the Department of Health. It can also be said that Dr. C. H. Harris, Medical Officer of Health, London, recommended him very highly. His work as Sanitary Inspector was highly satisfactory but unfortunately he had a failing which led to a request for his resignation.

With regard to the item of $62.09, in Dr. Fraser's account, for one month's mileage, this was occasioned by the prolonged inspection of dairy cattle in connection with the Government's inspection of Dairy Farms which supply milk to Peterborough.

With regard to the appointment of a public Health Nurse, Mr. Gordon states that all the Peterborough applicants for the position were turned down. The reason for Miss Kearney's appointment was, that due to her qualifications, experience and age, the Board felt she was best qualified for the position. The reason no local nurse was appointed, none had the particular qualifications necessary for a Public Health Nurse although well qualified in other particulars. The Board was not looking for a nurse to occupy the position of superintendent of a hospital. Just as soon as Peterborough nurses are qualified to fill the position of Public Health Nurses they will be appointed, and there is an understanding by the members of the Board to this effect. The Board never said that it had a recommendation from Dr. Phair regarding Miss Kearney, as it had no correspondence with him whatever in this connection. But it has on file with Miss Kearney's application a copy of a letter from Dr. Phair to Miss Kearney requesting her to accept a position in another municipality.

In council early in the year, Mr. Gordon referred to the fact that Dr. Fraser did other work while holding the full time position as Medical Officer of Health. It was not denied and explained at the time that his work at the Nicholls Hospital was after hours and does not in any way interfere with his work for the city. Since that time Mr. Gordon has never raised the question.

Dr. Fraser's training fits him for doing the work at Nicholl's Hospital in connection with Bacteriology and this work he has been doing for the past twelve years.

So far as giving employment to ex-service men is concerned, all councils have been most sympathetic to overseas men when there were positions available they could fill.

Neither Mr. Juby nor Mr. Cotton are members of the Board of Health and this is just another inaccuracy in Mr. Gordon's statements.

The Board of Health has no reason to be ashamed of its administration of this department of the City's work. In view of the fact that on more than one occasion in past years, the cost of operation of Queen Mary Hospital alone exceeded the total cost for each of the past two years of operating the Queen Mary Hospital and the Department of Health as well.

JAMES DUTTON Signed WALTER STOCKER

COUNTY AND CITY JOIN TO PRAISE OF ART RUNIONS

the basement hall of Murray Street Baptist Church last night to pay honor to him and also to Mrs. Runions in their approaching departure from Peterborough.

Warden Roy Brown was chairman of the dinner which was attended by representatives of nearly a score of clubs and other organizations of both the county and city. Ralph Hanbidge read an address to Mr. Runions on behalf of the junior farmers and of the young ladies of the county who have been interested in the domestic science and household handicrafts promoted by the Department of Agriculture, and at the conclusion of the address their gift, a handsome combination reading lamp and table, was carried into the room by Miss Fern Armstrong and Bruce Graham.

Another address of appreciation was read by Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee, representing the members of the county council and various agricultural societies associated with them. This illuminated address in manuscript was written by E. W. Glover of the Trent Canal staff and will be signed by the presidents of the various bodies who combined in having it prepared as a permanent expression of Peterborough's esteem for Mr. Runions. And with it was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Runions a large silver tray and tea service which were also borne to the head table by Miss Greta Reynolds and Miss Opal Rosborough.

The body of the address read by Reeve Anderson was as follows:

"We citizens, representative of the county of Peterborough, have assembled here to express our appreciation of the great services you have rendered during the years you have been Agricultural Representative in the county; and to convey to you our hopes for your continued success and happiness as you go from us to take up your new work at the Kemptville Agricultural School.

"We honour you for your sterling character and worth. We acknowledge your ability to impart your scientific knowledge of agriculture to farmers in practical efforts towards success.

"Your instruction and inspiration have helped bring about better preparation and seeding of the land, better breeding, feeding and exhibiting of livestock, better marketing of seed, vegetables, meat, poultry and dairy products from many farms to an unknown extent.

"Above all we recognize that your work with hundreds of children at school fairs and among junior farmers has been invaluable, and the latter have brought high honor to our county.

"Therefore, to you and your wife we honour on this occasion, and we ask you to accept this gift in appreciation of your work in Peterborough county."

Signatories to this address will be the presidents of the following organizations: Peterborough County Livestock Association; Peterborough Exhibition Board; Norwood Fair Board; Lakefield Fair Board; Holstein Breeders' Association; Shorthorn Breeders' Association; Clydesdale Breeders' Association; Creamery Patrons' Association; Cheese Patrons' Association; Poultry Association; Milk Producers' Association; Peterborough Plowmen's Association; Seed Growers' Association; Vegetable Growers' Association; and also by Warden Brown and the members of the 1937 council of Peterborough county, and A. R. Kennedy, editor of The Examiner.

At Head Table

With Mr. and Mrs. Runions at the head table were: Warden Brown and Mrs. Brown; Mayor G. A. Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Matthews; J. J. Duffus, M.P., and Mrs. Duffus; Alex L. Elliott, M.L.A.; Alderman James Dutton, who recently succeeded Mr. Runions as president of Peterborough Rotary Club, and Mrs. Dutton; Thomas Brown, president of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition and Mrs. Brown; Reeve W. A. Anderson; Miss Evelyn Scott, secretary to Mr. Runions; and Frank C. Patterson, who has been appointed local representative of the Department of Agriculture.

A significant reminder of the work of Mr. Runions in the development of the young men of the county was noted in capable and interesting manner in which the two toasts were proposed by Clare Leahy of Douro and Eddie O'Toole of Otonabee, and also in the reading of the address from the young men and women of the county by Ralph Hanbidge. These were three representatives of the numerous group comprising the various judging teams Mr. Runions directed to the heights of championships at the Ottawa and Royal Winter Fairs and also at Guelph.

The toast to the King was given by Warden Brown.

Lesson In Economy

In proposing a toast to "Agricultural Education," Clare Leahy recalled the junior farmers' swine club Mr. Runions organized at Lakefield. Its twenty-four members were each required to feed and take care of two young pigs and condition them for the market. "We found that three and one-half pounds of grain would produce one pound of pork, but farmers generally have to feed five pounds of grain to get one pound of pork. That is a difference of one and a half pounds of grain to the pound of pork, and when you turn out a hog weighing 20 pounds the difference has amounted to 300 pounds of grain. Assuming that 30,000 hogs are marketed in this district, that means 9,000,000 pounds of grain more than necessary have been fed to them. Allowing 1½ cents a pound for the grain it could be said the farmers have spent $135,000 more than was required to fit those hogs for the market, and that amount of money would buy a mile of the automobiles Mr. Duffus sells."

Mr. Leahy mentioned the organization of a wheat club three years ago, when 60 bushels of wheat were distributed by Peterborough Rotary Club, on Mr. Runions' suggestion. The most recent harvest from the original sixty bushels was 8,000 bushels. Mr. Leahy used an effective metaphor in emphasizing the close relations which existed between the junior farmers and their mentor, Mr. Runions. It was said to be a custom of the Arabs to hold races to be run with lighted candles, and the winner was the man who came in first with his candle still lighted. "Whenever our candles of knowledge about agricultural problems went out we always went back to Mr. Runions' office in full knowledge that he would light them again."

Mr. Duffus' Tribute

J. J. Duffus, M.P., responded to the toast saying he had cut short a vacation in New York State when he read in The Examiner that Mr. Runions was about to leave Peterborough. "I wanted to be back in Peterborough to join with the other citizens in paying honor to the young couple who have so well deserved the tribute the county and city are paying them. I am glad to see Mrs. Runions here with her husband, because we feel that without her encouragement Mr. Runions might not have attained the success by which he will long be remembered in this county. I am also glad to see so many young people of the county present. They have done well in being here in such large numbers and reflects great credit on themselves in thus showing their appreciation of the help Mr. Runions has been to them, and in joining in the honor that is being paid to him. He has done much to raise the standard of agriculture in this county, to spread the idea of the need of greater efficiency in farming, and also to create a deeper sense among farmers of the dignity of the successful management of their affairs."

Mr. Duffus said that Peterborough people had apprehended for some time that it would not be long until Mr. Runions would receive some transfer, and now that feeling had been realized. "We all regret that he is leaving us, but we also rejoice in his promotion. We hope Mr. and Mrs. Runions will carry on with unbroken success, finding greater scope in the new field to which they are going. They will carry away with them the grateful expressions of the hearts of the people of this splendid county and city of Peterborough, which they have so richly earned."

Eddie O'Toole proposed a toast to "Agricultural Progress," to which A. L. Elliott, M.L.A., replied. Appreciations of Mr. Runions were also expressed by G. S. Matthews, Tom Brown, Mayor Macdonald, Alderman Dutton, and Rev. Dr. Barr. Their remarks were no only appreciative, but also extended to Mr. and Mrs. Runions best wishes for success and happiness at Kemptville, and Godspeed in their going to their home and opportunity.

A charming speech was made by Mrs. Runions. "I wish to take this opportunity of thanking you for these beautiful gifts," Mrs. Runions said. "I wish to thank the fathers and the mothers in the county for their co-operation in all the endeavors Art was engaged in. It was your interest and enthusiasm—and you have enthusiasm—that counted so much. Only with the co-operation of the mothers and fathers, and of the boys and the girls was Art able to do his best work. We shall leave Peterborough with happy memories, and we hope to see our friends whenever they come to Kemptville. Your gifts will be cherished by us, not because of their beauty, but because they are given by the farmers, the senior and junior farmers of this county."

Mr. Runions' Reply.

Mr. Runions, in replying to the addresses, said words failed to express his gratitude for the splendid token of remembrance and the kind things that were said. "When my wife and I drove into Peterborough four years ago, we were complete strangers. Now I can name at least 98 per cent. of the people in this room. We feel like old residents of Peterborough, and it is a great regret to us that we are leaving."

Mr. Runions said it was his good fortune to be in Peterborough when the present junior farmers had reached the age at which they took up the work in which they had been eminently successful. Other representatives of the Department, he stated, would have done just as well with the same young men and women. Mr. Runions said he was hoping some of the young people would attend he Agricultural School at Kemptville. He asked for Mr. Patterson the same support he had received, and in conclusion requested the young farmers to autograph the stick or cane he had used on all his trips with the judging teams to the competitions in which they had won success.

Musical numbers on the program were two songs by W. M. Gordon, selections by Leahy Brothers' instrumental quartette, composed of Robert, at the piano, Olian and Claire l violins, and Leo banjoist, sons of Reeve Frank Leahy of Douro; and two songs by little John Lewis, from the Middle Line of Smith.

The concluding blessing was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Barr, who spoke briefly of the co-operation Mr. and Mrs. Runions had given at St. Paul's Church.

WOMEN OF QUEBEC SEE RIGHT TO VOTE ALMOST IN GRASP

MONTREAL, Dec. 31. (CP).—Quebec Province, last stronghold in Canada of the votes-for-men-only tradition, soon may fall before the onslaughts of ballot-minded women. Mme. Pierre F. Casgrain, slim, vivacious leader of the feminist cause, sees ground for hope that Quebec women are in the midst of the "last attack," which will win them in Provincial elections the vote they exercise in the Federal field.

Mme. Casgrain was a bit mysterious today about plans for bringing the question before the Legislature which opens January 26. "Quebec women are so full of surprises these days, anything may happen," she said.

The Women's Franchise Bill last came before the Legislature in November, 1936. Following its defeat, "Femina" (the League for Women's Rights) planned an educational campaign designed particularly to reach women outside Montreal "where we always have had plenty of support."

A series of sketches based on phases of Quebec law relating to women, presented in weekly French broadcasts, have brought what Mme. Casgrain considers a very encouraging response and will be followed by a number of broadcasts in English. Letters from interested listeners and requests for speakers have poured in from many parts of the province. Mme. Casgrain has addressed meetings at St. Hyacinthe and Sherbrooke and is considering visits to other centres.

Realizes What Vote Means.

One woman wrote that she had always opposed the franchise until the sketches made her realize what the vote implied. Now she would like to "do something to help."

A "straw vote" on the women's franchise question, taken at the "Femina" booth at the Produced-in-Canada exhibition here in early November, was overwhelmingly in favor, 8,149 to 294, "a splendid answer to those opponents who say that Quebec women do not want the vote."

"I believe women are realizing more and more that without the vote they have no authority" by which they can change conditions they consider unfair, Mme. Casgrain said. Demands of women for representation on such bodies as the Fair Wage Board, which is constantly dealing with labor troubles involving women workers, and the council of public instruction are ignored. "We even have a man as head of domestic science teaching in Quebec."

Mme. Casgrain admits she sometimes finds the constant demands on her time and energy tiring and she will be glad when the vote is won and she can rest a while, but—"I suppose the real work will be only beginning."

TO THE RATEPAYERS:

In order to inform ratepayers of the City of Peterborough of the city's financial affairs, your City Council, as your representatives, present herewith a statement for the year 1937:

TAX RATE—The tax rate for the year was 36.4 mills—a decrease of one mill compared with that of the preceding year. The rate has been steadily reduced since 1930 when it was 39.2 mills.

CURRENT TAXES—Tax payments were on the whole met promptly. The steady improvement in tax payments during the past several years is believed due to the increased industrial activity and improved business conditions in the city. Vigorous efforts are being made to collect the balances unpaid.

The following table shows the improvement in tax payments:

	Total Amount on Roll	% of Current Roll Collected	Total Collections % of Current Roll
1934	$909,524.11	93.9	95.5
1935	928,905.03	85.1	96.2
1936	923,791.42	87.0	99.8
1937	895,463.71	*89.3	*101.9

*—To Dec. 22nd

ARREARS OF TAXES—Of the tax arrears of $264,971.62 which were brought forward on the 1st of January, 1937, it is gratifying to report that approximately 44% were paid during the year.

The City Council during the difficult years has been setting up a reserve fund for loss on taxes. This year $10,000.00 was added to this reserve, bringing its total to approximately $65,000.00.

BANKING—At the beginning of the year the city's bank loans totalled $203,805.41, but as tax payments were received this was gradually reduced and a credit balance was maintained during the greater part of the year. It is estimated that the bank overdraft will be approximately $195,000.00 at the close of this year. Bank loans have been reduced considerably in the past four years, having totalled $261,091.41 on December 31st, 1934.

ASSESSED VALUATION—The yearly assessment of real property, which was completed in the month of September, confirmed in November by the Court of Revision but still awaiting confirmation by the County Judge, totalled $19,047,313 for taxable purposes, an increase of $121,688 for the year. No increase in the basis of assessment was made, but fortunately forty-three new homes were constructed with sundry other improvements, showing that building development was general. The increase by wards was: South—$11,915; Centre—$15,908; West—$11,605; North—$25,000; East—$57,260.

To encourage the building of homes the Council sold a number of city lots at moderate prices on the understanding that the purchaser would build a home.

NET DEBENTURE DEBT—The debt has been considerably reduced, and no new debentures have been issued since 1933. These sizable reductions have aided in lowering the tax rate.

Net Debenture Debt, Dec. 31, 1933	$3,146,038.33
Net Debenture Debt, Dec. 31, 1934	2,890,697.02
Net Debenture Debt, Dec. 31, 1936	2,407,212.34

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF—No department in the city's business showed such marked improvement during the year as that of Unemployment Relief. Increase of employment in the city's industries was, in a great measure, responsible for the decline of total expenditures as shown below:

1934	$158,769.78
1935	179,764.40
1936	159,476.83
1937 (Nov. 30th)	78,341.54

BOARD OF WORKS—During the year Storm Drains were constructed costing approximately $5,860.00, being mostly in the west and north-west parts of the city. A large storm drain was built in the Auburn district at a cost of $3,375.00. One Local Improvement Sewer was built on Park Hill Road, west of Armour Road, at a cost of $1,135.00. Local Improvement Sidewalks, costing about $2,990.00 were built on Aylmer and Bethune Streets and O'Carroll Avenue.

A factory fence, eight feet high, was built around the Board of Works Yard on Townsend Street at a cost of $1,962.00. A Rest Room was built in King Edward Park at a cost of $3,061.00, while in the same park a wading pool was built at a cost of $580.00, the local Kiwanis Club paying the cost of the pool. At the expense of the Dominion Government a concrete pavement with ramps was built at the rear of the Armouries at a cost of about $1,295.00. Considerable sidewalk repairs were made about the city at a cost of $4,500.00, as against an appropriation of $2,800.00.

To make sidewalks and streets safer for pedestrians during winter approximately 475 yards of sand and one ton of calcium chloride was used. Crushed stone, used in road re-surfacing, to the total of 2,726 yards was produced and delivered from the city quarry at a cost of $4,300.00, being $1.56 per cubic yard delivered in the city. A new seven-cubic-foot concrete mixer was purchased for $1,000.00 and also a new power maintainer and grader at a cost of $3,690.00.

Any unforseen contingencies arising during the past year have all been of a more or less minor nature and have not called for any appreciable increase over estimated expenditure.

As a result, it is anticipated that when the year's accounts are fully completed it will be found that the various departments, for the most part, will be well within their respective appropriations and the accounts will show a small surplus on the year's operations.

In conclusion your Council wishes to acknowledge the many expressions of appreciation from the citizens at large, received from time to time during the past year and bespeaks for their successors in office the same spirit of sympathy and co-operation that has been so evident during the year just ended.

A Happy and Prosperous New Years to all.

Yours faithfully,

GEORGE A. MACDONALD,
Mayor.

Peterboro's Weather In 1937 Was Most Favorable No Bad Storms, Floods, Drought

December Was Only Month Having a Sub-Zero Registration

By A. O. Phillips
(Weather Recorder for Peterborough.)

A review of the Meteorological Register for the year just closing emphasizes the fact that Peterborough has been particularly fortunate in regard to weather conditions. While other districts reported violent rainstorms, blizzards and floods in the Spring and Fall as well as drought conditions in the Summer, local precipitation tables show steady figures each month with the exception of January, which had 5.22 inches compared with a 40-year average of 2.75 inches.

December is the only month in 1937 having a sub-zero registration; both February and March chalked up even zero marks, with January's lowest temperature being 1 above zero. A total of only five zero marks in 12 months is an all-time record.

Snowfall for the past 12 months was 47.3 inches, compared with 93.3 inches for 1936.

Total precipitation (rain and melted snow) for 1937 was 32.79 inches, which is slightly above the 37-year average of 31.65 inches.

HAS NO ARGUMENT FOR "SLOW" TIME

A Rubidge Street resident is willing to tell the world that he is opposed to sunlight or summer time, to use the correct phrase for daylight saving, and he is not ashamed to tell the world that he wants Peterborough to keep pace with the hamlets and villages and not with the big industrial cities of the continent.

"Why should a couple of big cities rule the majority against their will?" he said, and that was about the nearest approach to an argument he was able to give. His other point was that Peterborough should sit back and do nothing, but should wait until the Provincial Government declares summer time for the entire province.

The Rubidge Street resident's statement is a reminder to the forward-looking people of Peterborough that there are some like him who would actually prefer to handicap local factories and the households of their employees by keeping standard time, which was conceived as much by a Peterborough man, Sir Sandford Fleming, through the summer months while the factories, the hotels and many other business places have to adjust their schedule to "daylight saving" for part of June, July and August.

Fowl Prices Firm Farmers' Market

Purchase of poultry was again the object of the big crowd which jammed the aisles of the Farmers' Market this morning. Turkeys, chickens and geese were offered in a volume comparable to that of Christmas week.

Fowl prices remained generally firm under the brisk demand. Turkeys were 25 to 28 cents a pound and chickens 22 to 25 cents. Geese were inclined toward a higher price level at 23 to 26 cents a pound. Eggs were lower in price at 25 to 28 cents. Butter brought 30 to 32 cents.

Beef quarters sold at 9 and 11 cents a pound, pork at 13 and 15 cents and lamb at 15 and 17 cents. Sixty cents a bag was asked for the few bags of potatoes offered.

OPEN ON MONDAY

Peterborough's schools will open after the Christmas holidays on Monday.

LAKE FROZEN AGAIN.

An east wind sharply edged with frost blew across Little Lake this morning and changed its mind about morning and changed its mind about opening up large spaces of water.

STORES CLOSE EARLY

In accordance with provisions of a city by-law, stores will not remain open tonight, but will be required to close early police point out.

NARROW TRAFFIC LANE.

The Runions dinner at Murray Street Baptist Church last night and the U.F.O. dance in the Canadian Legion Hall packed cars in long lines on Murray Street, across the road at the Armouries, and around the corners of George and Aylmer Streets.

TO VISIT CITY.

The Rev. Dr. Thomas Moody, who spent forty-four years as a Baptist missionary in the Belgian Congo, is announced as special guest preacher at Murray Street Church on Sunday evening. Dr. Moody, now retired, served in the foreign mission field with the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society.

GIFT TO MISS SCOTT.

Miss Evelyn Scott, secretary to the local representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, was presented with a lady's handbag by Reeve James Milby at the Runions dinner last night. Mr. Milby was representing the members of the County Council in this recognition of many helpful aids Miss Scott has given the Council.

CANDIDATES FOR WARDEN.

With the retirement of Reeve Leahy from the County Council, it seems likely that the Wardenship for next year will go to Smith or Dummer, with North Monaghan getting consideration, too. Reeve Milby has an advantage over his probable opponents because it happens that Smith and Dummer are two of the few spots in the county where the ratepayers are voting next Monday.

NOT GOOD WEATHER

There was not much electioneering going on around the street corners this morning. The cold blasts from the northeast driving voters and politicians into shelter and any hope of outdoor canvassing was "gone with the wind."

ROTARY'S LUNCHEON

There will be no speaker at Monday's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club. This will not be the first meeting of the New Year but it will be the first session under the leadership of President James Dutton who is A. D. Runions' successor.

A GOOD RECORD

Two members of the Peterborough Rotary Club have attended every meeting this year. The pair with the 100 per cent. attendance are Chris Graham and John Smith. James Dutton, Rees Dobbin and Roy Thompson have missed only two meeting out of the 47 held in 1937.

CALLED OUT WHOLE BRIGADE.

In excitement, the person who sent in the alarm to the Fire Hall reported a wall was on fire so a full brigade was sent to the home of Mrs. L. Beatty, 852 George street, late Wednesday afternoon. A blaze in the chimney was found to be the trouble.

COUNCIL SHOWS SURPLUS.

An interesting statement by Mayor Macdonald on another page in today's Examiner reviews the year's financing of the city, and expresses the opinion that when the books are closed for the year Peterborough will have the satisfaction of showing a surplus, having kept its expenditures within its receipts, and also a reduced bank account.

TO VISIT LOCAL CORPS.

The Salvation Army here is to be favored with a visit from Brigadier and Mrs. Ham of Toronto. The Brigadier is field secretary or third in command of the "Army" in Canada, Newfoundland, Bermuda and Alaska. He was at one time commanding officer of the local corps, but since he left Peterborough ten years ago has risen through different offices to the present high office.

WON FOURTH PLACE.

Fourth place among Canadian competitors in a field day conducted by the American Radio Relay League during August this year was won by Sid Yearron and Ed. Otiney, amateur radio enthusiasts of this city. The contest consisted in the total number of stations contacted during a 27-hour period by amateurs with broadcasting and receiving equipment at stations throughout the continent. Otiney and Yearron operated with a portable transmitting outfit from the top of Milburn's hill north of the city. Results of the contest were just recently revealed. In a similar contest in June, Otiney, teamed with Stroyan Leith and Yearron, won third place among Canadian competitors.

STILL IN HOSPITAL.

Injured in an automobile collision at the intersection of Charlotte Street and Monaghan Road, three weeks ago tonight, James Doran, 12-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Doran, 608 Walkerfield Avenue, is still in St. Joseph's Hospital. He is likely to remain there for some weeks to come, his mother stated. The lad suffered a compound fracture of the left leg above the ankle, and on Thursday Dr. George Wilson, chief surgeon of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, was in the city in consultation with Dr. G. S. Cameron concerning the injury.

LOWEST NOONTIME TEMPERATURE.

The weather was the leading subject of street conversation to-day and an unusual feature which provided a topic for conversation was the fact that the lowest noontime maximum temperature for the whole year was recorded at noon — 4 degrees above zero. The thermometer dropped steadily from its overnight low of 9 degrees above zero to a minimum of 2 degrees sometime between 6.30 a.m. and noon and then climbed to 4 degrees. Previous low of the year at noontime was 17 degrees on February 2.

NO FIRE DAMAGE.

A backdraught which filled the Foresters' Hall on George street with smoke brought a full turnout of the Fire Department to the scene early Thursday evening. No fire was found and no damage recorded. Chimney fires and overheated pipes took the firemen on a rapid succession of runs at noon to-day to the homes of Mrs. H. Shelton, 314 Maitland avenue; Nagle Phelan, 320 Maitland avenue, and L. Garvey, 369 Euclid avenue.

GREAT NEED TODAY IS FOR SINCERITY

On the threshold of a New Year, A. R. Kennedy, managing editor of The Examiner, spoke to Kiwanians at their luncheon meeting to-day and spoke of simplicity and sincerity as "our greatest individual and personal needs."

"As one follows the events of the year through, day by day and almost hour by hour, there are two things which stand forth as our greatest individual and personal needs—simplicity and sincerity," Mr. Kennedy said.

"Actually," he pointed out, "we have nothing at all about which to boast or which would give us a great sense of accomplishment. Within our own power we could not bring into existence the clothing we are wearing at the moment, nor the articles which have been placed on the table before us to-day. We bring nothing into the world and it is equally certain we shall take nothing away. The utter and measureless sincerity with which Divine Providence supplies all for us should find reflection in our manner of living and thinking."

"A man may claim he is sincere because he pays his bills, but the truth is if he did not pay them he would find his credit ruined, or he might end up in division court. He may say he gets along well with his neighbors, and that in turn may prove only that his neighbors are an agreeable lot of people, not easily provoked."

"The great need," Mr. Kennedy concluded, "is for that sincerity which breeds strength that will face a crisis unafraid and which provides sure anchorage which does not slip in times of stress."

Miss Geraldine Collins was guest soloist.

Mild Form Of Scarlet Fever Prevalent In Peterborough Twelve Patients In Hospital

Parents Urged To Watch For Symptoms Of Sore Throats Headaches And Vomiting

A mild form of scarlet fever is prevalent in Peterborough.

Since November 1, fifty-two cases have been reported, Dr. G. Murray Fraser, Medical Officer of Health, revealed, and at present twelve scarlet fever patients are in Queen Mary Hospital.

"As far as can be ascertained the disease is being transmitted from person to person, and has no relation to food," the M.O.H. declared in urging the need for proper precautions being taken by the public at the least sign of an ordinary cold or sore throat.

Due to the mildness of the disease, Dr. Fraser expressed the belief there are a number of cases doubtless undiagnosed that are being treated as common colds. This he thought was in large measure responsible for the spread of infection in the community.

He urges parents to watch for the symptoms of sore throat, headache, and vomiting, followed by a red rash on the chest, face and abdomen. Children showing any of these symptoms should be placed in bed, he warned, and isolated from others in the home. A physician should be summoned.

The disease, whether severe, mild, or suspicious, Dr. Fraser stated, should be reported to the Board of Health.

Quarantine and isolation regulations are being enforced.

The Rambling REPORTERS

FIRST STRAW HAT.

Al. Sharp sold a straw hat to Peck Barber of the Auburn Mills on the last day of the year 1937, but it will be classed as a 1938 hat. Mr. Barber has the habit of wearing a straw hat when at work, wears one all year regardless of the season. As he is working on 1938 goods at the factory the hat had to come up-to-date. When seen by the Examiner Mr. Barber was carrying his new straw hat in a paper bag and hanging on to his ears as the wind was cold at the time.—K.

GLOVER SURPRISED GORDON'S ACTION

I was very much surprised to notice in last night's Examiner that Mr. Gordon is supporting me in the election for alderman tomorrow," said Ald. R. M. Glover to The Examiner today. "I was surprised because Mr. Gordon and I have taken directly opposite sides on important matters that came before council this year."

You see I have constantly advocated getting together with industry in the hope that we would have a better understanding and create a spirit of goodwill, putting Peterborough in a better position to secure new industries and to encourage those already here to expand. If this is accomplished we will be able to put our men to work, make business for our merchants and look forward to growth and prosperity."

"If I am elected—and I am desirous of securing every possible vote—I intend to adhere to those views for nothing is more desired in this city than a thorough understanding between the city, its industries and the workers."

"Nothing can be accomplished by bitterness and if we can start off 1938 with the spirit that should prevail at the festive season endeavoring to settle our differences amicably we are more apt to have a happy and contented people and prosperity and expansion will come to this, the best little city in this province."

The reason for the evident weakness of the church is prayerlessness. Why cannot believers gather and pledge themselves to continue in prayer night after night until a spiritual awakening comes. Fear not that interest cannot be sustained, for when the dreadful need of our times is faced, interest will be so earnest and keen that time will be all too short. We believe there are many in our churches of this district who are waiting for some spiritual leader to band them together for God, the Gospel and Revival.

RECLAIMING PLAN TO INSURE WATER FOR ALL SEASONS

OTTAWA, Dec. 31—(CP)—Lack of water is at the root of most of the troubles of agriculture in the drought area of the prairie provinces. Farms need water for two primary purposes, to promote the growth of field crops and for men and animals to drink.

In the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation program a serious and successful attempt is being made to bring water to the farms for the second of these two primary purposes in years of scanty rainfall. No serious attempt is being made to irrigate grain-growing lands although from time to time ambitious schemes with this end in view have been suggested.

The object of water development work now being carried on in the drought areas is to provide community water storage facilities for domestic and stock-watering purposes and small irrigation projects upon which feed may be grown in dry years. It is planned to effect some degree of stabilization in livestock production by ensuring water supplies and reserves of feed during periods of partial or complete crop failure.

The guiding principle in the selection of projects is to insure a minimum cost per water user or per acre irrigated, combined with a maximum benefit in terms of livestock production. An essential condition to all community projects is that a legally incorporated body such as a municipality or irrigation district be prepared to assume all responsibility for the maintenance, operation and control of the works when constructed.

The works fall into two classes, large community projects and small ones for individual farmers. The former are constructed by local public bodies with government assistance. The latter are built by the farmers themselves, the government contributing to the cost where the work is done according to specifications and under the direction of government engineers.

Most of the water development works are based on the idea of conserving the spring run-off from melting snow and using it through the summer should there be insufficient rainfall. A few projects are on rivers which flow the year round regardless of rainfall.

A small dam built in a dry creek bed will catch and hold spring floods. The water will remain fresh all summer if kept at a depth of seven feet. Three feet more is needed to take care of evaporation and as much more is necessary to take care of the use of the water for stock and other purposes. Thus wherever it is possible to build a dam and store water to a depth of 10 feet a water project may be erected.

Aerial photographs made in the drought area reveal many suitable dam sites. Maximum public assistance is $150. Other small projects are dugouts which are small excavations to hold spring surface water for farm stock. Maximum grant for a dugout is $75. They too must have a minimum depth of 10 feet.

Small irrigation projects for individual farmers are also assisted. They are designed to ensure a supply of hay and feed and sometimes garden produce for household use in dry years. The maximum assistance for an individual project is $350.

Some of the larger water storage projects involve international complications where rivers cross and recross the international boundary. For instance the Souris River runs out of Saskatchewan into the United States and then back across the boundary into Manitoba.

Dam Spring Water

At Souris, Man., an old municipal dam was repaired permitting spring water to be impounded in a reservoir with result that farmers in the neighborhoods were assured of water and the supply for the town was improved.

Farther up the stream the United States authorities have built dams and storage works which to some extent hold back the water from the Manitoba section of the river. Now another project is under way on the same river at Melita, Man., and back behind the American works near Estevan, Sask., an irrigation project is in progress on the same stream.

The international joint commission will probably have to tackle the problem of making an equitable division of the waters.

One of the larger irrigation projects so far completed is at Val Marie, Sask. Some 4,400 acres of river bottom land along the Frenchman River was irrigated to provide reserves of feed for livestock.

The project involved construction of a dam which impounded spring run-off water in a reservoir of about 6,000 acre-feet capacity. From the dam a canal was built to distribute the water for irrigation and stock-watering purposes. The project is owned and operated by the Val Marie Irrigation district and the irrigable land is divided into parcels of 80 acres which are being taken up by ranchers and farmers operating non-irrigable land nearby.

Many Under Way

Other large community projects constructed or under construction are: at Crystal City, Man., a stock-watering dam; a series of stock-watering dams in Edward municipality, Man.; irrigation of 1,473 acres on the Frenchman River at Eastend, Sask.; storage dam at Middle Creek, Sask.; reclamation of 13,000 acres of spring-flooded land at Lajord, Sask.; storage and irrigation dam at Wild Horse, Alta.; creation of a large reservoir in Cypress Lake, Sask., to maintain the flow of the Frenchman River, Battle Creek and other streams in the neighborhood; a reservoir to augment water supplies for irrigation at Brooks, Alta.

Nearly 3,000 small projects have been constructed since the inauguration of the program. A tabulation of the work up to the end of October showed 2,496 projects completed of which 1,407 were dugouts, 885 stock-watering dams and 203 irrigation propects. Saskatchewan received 1,345 of the works, Manitoba, 728 and Alberta 422.

Applications for small projects received up to the end of October totalled 9,369 of which 1,474 were from Manitoba, 5,773 from Saskatchewan and 2,122 from Alberta.

As in other phases of the P.F.R.A. program the active co-operation of the farmers themselves is enlisted in water development work, particularly on the small projects. The farmers actually build the dams and irrigation works and dig the dugouts on or near their own farms.

The government provides expert engineering advice and supervision and makes its financial contribution based on the yardage of earth moved or excavated providing the work comes up to engineering standards.

In this way wasted effort is avoided. The engineers are able to guide the farmers as to the type of dam which will withstand the spring floods. Lacking engineering advice many dams would be built which would be swept away by high water.

UKRAINIANS AIM TO TOSS OFF YOKE

See Eyes Of Many On Their Riches And Begin Organizing Nationals Around World

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—(CP)—The Ukrainians are getting ready for the next war.

"If we had the Ukraine," Chancellor Hitler told his followers a year ago, "National Socialist Germany would be swimming in surplus prosperity." And many other eyes turn with envy toward the rich gateway to Asia, for centuries dominated by her powerful neighbors.

But the Ukrainians themselves, known to the world for their folk-lore and handicrafts rather than as a nation thirsting for independence, already are formulating schemes for throwing off what they consider a foreign yoke—Russia.

Keeping in mind that the Czechs, the Poles, the Baltic States and other national groups won their freedom as a result of the Great War, Ukrainian Nationalists at home and abroad are building up their case before world opinion and working out means to take full advantage of the European upheaval many of them believe will come.

A fleeting glimpse of independence in 1937 soon was submerged in the tide of the Russian revolution, and since then every manifestation of Ukrainian Nationalism has been ruthlessly suppressed by the Communist regime. But a powerful underground movement exists and strong organizations have been built up by Ukrainians abroad—in Canada, where there are several hundred thousand of them, and in the United States, Brazil, Argentina and Manchoukuo.

Form Special Brigades.

What action will be taken should war come, Ukrainian quarters here say, must await developments. It is considered possible that Ukrainian patriots abroad will form a Ukrainian brigade—along the lines of the Czech brigade which fought in France and Marshal Joseph Pilsudski's Polish Legion—to be incorporated in the army of the country most favorable to Ukrainian aims. Similar units will be formed in the Ukraine itself if conditions permit.

In the meantime propaganda bureaux in London, New York and other larger centres are striving to keep the Ukrainian question alive, and organization work amongst the Ukrainians themselves is constantly going forward.

Ukrainian leaders claim for their people the huge stretch of agricultural territory, rich also in coal, iron, mercury, manganese and oil, which stretches north from the Black Sea as far as the Pripet Marshes, westward into Poland and the Carpathian Mountains, and eastward toward the Don River. This territory, including land now belonging to Poland, Rumania and Czechoslovakia, in addition to Soviet Russia, has a total population of about 40,000,000 Ukrainians.

Prince Danylo Skoropadsky, son of the Prince, who ruled an independent Ukraine from April to December, 1918, at present is on tour of Canada, visiting his father's followers in various parts of the Dominion.

Two-thirds of the cars shown at the last London motor show had four speeds.

P.C.I.'s Ontario Grid Victory Features Year's Local Sports; Lacrosse Stages Comeback

Orfuns Make Good Showing In O.R.F.U.—Orillia Terriers In Exhibition Here

As this year of sports, 1937, comes to a close and the past 12-month panorama of Peterborough athletics is reviewed in brief, two happy incidents must stand out. One was the winning of a senior soccer championship of Ontario by the P.C.I. gridders, and the other was the big lacrosse boom here last summer. These are standout facts in a fine year of sport in the town of its size in Ontario.

Coach Bamford put his P.C.I. senior squad through to the Provincial interscholastic championship. Our P.C.I. juniors failed to survive their grouping. The local Orfuns also made a great showing in going through to the O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" finals before Dundas defeated them in the Ontario championship series. The City Council paid tribute to P.C.I. by banqueting the winners. It was a fine gridiron season here, though marred somewhat when two final games were staged locally the same day.

BUILD ARENA

An enthusiastic lacrosse gang got together in the spring and built an excellent stadium on south George St. They fielded a first-rate team in a good group, drew big crowds of fans all season, and went through to the Ontario semi-finals, before our Auburns were eliminated by the Cheltenham-Inglewood Combines. A feature of the season was an exhibition tilt here between the locals and Orillia Terriers, Dominion senior champs.

Two O.H.A. teams represented Peterborough in hockey last winter, the intermediate Petes being beaten out in their group by Trenton Fliers, the ultimate champions of Ontario; and the junior Colts winning their group and later losing out in a great series to Barrie in semi-finals. Third game of this series was played in Oshawa and drew hundreds of local rooters. A lively Senior City League operated, with Lakefield finally winning out, after having played in the longest hockey game on record here. A good Junior City Loop was sponsored by the Hockey Club. The city Church League again had a successful season, as had the Southend League. The school loop, the Scouts' circuit, C.G.E. Shop League, and others gave Peterborough puck fans plenty of their favorite sport.

WINTER GAMES

Lots of basketball, badminton, gym games, curling, bowling, carpetball, skiing and such sports helped round out a full winter for fun-loving folks of this city. Girls and boys, women and men, of all ages, took part actively or as onlookers at games of all sorts here during the winter months.

In baseball last summer, two teams carried the hopes of local fans, the junior Rotarians—managed by Herb Ralph—losing out in O.B.A.A. playdowns to Belleville; and the senior Petes—piloted by Fred Collins—falling to Oshawa GM-men in C.O.B.L. semi-finals. The Petes imported a few players the past year but they failed to live up to advance notices over most of the schedule. However, the senior squad enjoyed a successful season and made an excellent showing toward the end of their campaign, coming within an ace of knocking off the ultimate league champions and Ontario finalists. Good crowds witnessed most of the home games in the big-four team circuit. No City Baseball League was operated, nor did the intermediates organize the past year.

SOFTBALL WINNERS

Plenty of softball was spread through the summer scene around this city again. Westclox won out in the Men's City League and made a fine showing in the O.A.S.A. playdowns before bowing to a smart Toronto team, one which went to Ontario finals. In the Girls' Softball League, Westclox also won out and went two rounds in the P.W.S.U. playdowns ere Ottawa eliminated them. Church League, School Loop, Southend Circuit, shop leagues and others kept softball to the fore all through the season. A junior team entered O.A.S.A. playdowns but failed to get far.

Ring fans were treated to a few professional wrestling matches—one held outdoors in the lacrosse arena—and a good boxing card by he Riverview A.C. in the Brock St. rink. The latter club organized the past fall and is expected to revive the mitt sport locally with several shows indoors till summer when good fight cards will be lined up under the stars.

A HEAVY LIST

The usual heavy list of summer sports, apart from baseball and softball, were served up last June, July and August. Lots of sailing around the city and district with some fine regattas held. Swimming was as popular as ever, and there was all kinds of good tennis shown on Peterborough courts. Lawn bowling proved as popular as in the past, soccer provided a lot of competition around here, and a good cricket season was observed. Other summery sports also flourished in this centre of summer's scenic beauty.

Everything points to an even bigger year in sports here during 1938. Three O.H.A. teams represent Peterborough and all kinds of good major and minor hockey in the city and district is being lined up. The senior ball club has re-organized already and is making big plans. Lacrosse will take its place again as an important Peterborough game. There is more basketball listed for here this winter than ever, and a raft of other sports plans are flourishing—winter and summer athletics. Fan interest here is high and it should be a happy 1938 for lovers of clean competition in the Peterborough district.

CURLING

Echoes From No. 'F'
By HERB MARTIN

After a long and careful study of the sun, moon, and stars, consulting the numerous 1938 almanacs, and then finally taking a peek into the well-known "crystal bowl" we find that many events of interest to curlers will take place during 1938:

1—That Doug. Carlisle will win twice as many games as he did in 1937.
2—That last year's group winners will not repeat.
3—That Oscar McGill's curling will improve.
4—That the ladies' section will be bigger and better than ever.
5—That the officers and executive of our club will keep up their good work.
6—That George Cairns will be caught smiling on different occasions.
7—Maybe our club will win the Ontario Tankard and District Cup?
8—That the boys will have to put up with more cold dinners.
9—That No. 8 will improve as the season goes on.
10—That all curlers will have A Most Prosperous and Happy New Year.

The touring Scottish curlers will honor Lindsay with a visit on January 19 when they will be the guests of the Town Council and the Lindsay Curling Club. Arriving in Lindsay from Peterborough, they will be banqueted at the Hotel Benson, and in the evening will compete against five local rinks, two from Lindsay, two from Peterborough, and a fifth of players from Dunsford, Bobcaygeon, and Fenelon Falls.

The executive of the Lindsay club met on Thursday and made final arrangements for the outstanding event in the history of the club. It is thirty-five years since a touring Scottish team visited Lindsay, and the event is expected to be one long to be remembered.

Cecil G. Frost was appointed captain of the Lindsay team and the following committees were chosen to carry the event through: Finance, S. A. Flavelle, A. Gregory, W. E. Reesor, and William Langdon; Banquet and Entertainment, R. Butler, F. J. Carew, R. W. Groves, C. G. Frost; Stones, W. Mills, H. Forsyth, P. H. Skitch, and C. B. Perkins.

All Saints' Opens Year With 5-1 Win

All Saints opened the Church Hockey League bantam schedule at All Saints' rink Thursday night with a 5-1 win over Knox. The latter had goal-minding trouble and were shy on subs, but the winners were the better gang on the play. Gardiner scored first, with Maudsley evening it up. Ackford, Burns and Reid got the next ones in the second, and Lacey tallied in the third. Saunders, Gardiner, Ackford and Reid went best. The teams:

Knox—Goal, Hamblin; defence, Saunders, Bestard; centre, Gardiner; wings, Darling, Gourley; alternates, Lacey, Blackwell, Carpenter, Burns, Lee.

Referee—G. Webb.

THESE LUMINARIES MADE SPORT HEADLINES DURING 1937

Apart from the top-notch champions in sport for the past year, there were several other athletes who made note-worthy showings in their respective realms. Such sport luminaries as these seen here from LEFT to RIGHT: Maddie Horn and Frank Stack, winners of the speed skating championships of the North American continent; Greyhound, who broke the world's trotting record for the mile and a half, covering the distance in 3 minutes and two and one-half seconds; Cecilia Colledge of England, who won the British and world's figure skating championships; Howie Morenz, centre with Montreal Canadiens for many years, who died last spring from a heart attack; Joe Burk of Philadelphia, Pa., who won the singles sculling race at the Canadian Henley; Phil Edwards, who was chosen for the Lou Marsh memorial trophy, emblematic of the outstanding athlete in Canada each year; Dick Birch and Mrs. A. K. Patrick, winners of the Canadian badminton singles titles.

Clancy Through With Maroons, May Return To Toronto Camp

Detroit Wings Show Improvement In Their 2-2 Tie With Chicago Hawks

TORONTO, Dec. 31.— (CP)— Speculation about King Clancy's hockey future overshadowed everything else in the National Hockey League to-day, even gossip about his successor as Montreal Maroons' manager and the talk about Detroit Red Wings' improved showing in their 2-2 tie with Chicago Black Hawks last night.

It will surprise no one if the King cut in the cold now that Maroons have decided he won't do as their manager, winds up with Conny Smythe's Toronto Maple Leafs. It may or may not be significant "we'll have a real welcome for King."

Certain it is that Clancy will have no further connection with the Montreal club. When Tommy Gorman, Maroon president, announced in Montreal that Clancy was through as coach, he added that he would be kept on the payroll as scout. But such a job would not appeal to the ambitious Ottawan.

With a gang of young defencemen to develop Leafs could use a defence aid for Coach Dick Irvin and there is little doubt that Irvin and Clancy would get along together. They were as intimate as two snowbound Eskimos when Clancy was with the Leafs.

Good News to Toronto.

Acquisition of the Irishman would be highly popular with Toronto fans and quite as good news to the Toronto players who resent Clancy's release. The situation's feud-developing possibilities was demonstrated last night when Charlie Conacher, Leaf captain, announced: "We'll rub it in every time we meet Maroons."

They don't meet until January 6 in Montreal and the story behind the Clancy withdrawal may have been told before then to cool out the Ottawan's sympathizers. But there is also the possibility it will strengthen the enmity between Leafs and Maroons, never particularly friendly since the Montrealers beat Leafs three straight in the 1935 world series.

While Clem Loughlin, Frank Patrick, Lionel Conacher and Frank Nighbor have been mentioned for the post Clancy vacated, Nighbor looks like the best bet. Loughlin is coaching Saskatoon Quakers. Patrick has hockey interests on the Pacific coast and Conacher is tied up with his duties as a member of the Ontario Legislature.

Nighbor, on the other hand, is free from serious entanglements. After coaching New York Rovers amateur team last season he returned to his Pembroke, Ont., home where he is looking after a business he has often left for hockey. Gorman may favor Nighbor for the job because of his long association with the former star centre when they both were with Ottawa Senators.

Goodfellow Returns

While the Clancy resignation kept most hockey interest off the ice, another Ottawan, Ebbie Goodfellow, drew some of it to the rink surface att Detroit's Olympia last night. He returned to the Detroit Red Wing line-up after several weeks out of the game with an arm injury.

Goodfellow raised the hopes of the season's smallest Detroit crown—6,000—when he paced the fluttering Wings to 2-0 lead in two periods. His rebound gave Alex Motter a set-up for a first period goal and Syd Howe—still a third Ottawan—doubled it in the second.

But Chicago's Bill Stewart sent attackers down the ice in five-man waves even before the second ended and in the final period Paul Thompson and Louis Trudel broke through the Wing defence to tie the score at 2-2.

Budge Is Awarded Sullivan Trophy

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP)—No one was very much surprised today over the selection of J. Donald Budge as the Sullivan award winner for 1937.

The landslide victory for the carrot-topped tennis ace with the racquet-ful of titles was generally expected in sports circles. The prized trophy tops off a year during which he rose to the top of the world's tennis heap, brought back the Davis Cup to America and was named in The Associated Press annual poll as the No. 1 athlete of the year.

Budge is the first tennis player to win the award—officially the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy—which first went to Bobby Jones for his golfing grands slam in 1930.

Unless we have a real storm very shortly, the ski-ing won't be any too good for the weekend. Under present conditions caution is advised, as the snow is nearly ice.

If snow comes before Sunday, the club will meet at Jackson Park. Otherwise, the Rifle Range will be used. Cars to be at the Empress at 1.30 Sunday, as usual. A notice will be posted in the hotel window on Saturday night, with last-minute information.

A group of members leaves today for Collingwood to take part in the invitation meet scheduled for New Year's Day, at the Blue Mountains. The meet takes the form of a combined downhill-slalom event. Don't be surprised if the boys come home with a prize or two. If determination means anything, they should place well.

The Jackson Park clubhouse, we understand, will be ready for use on Sunday. This will be a real convenience if the weather turn cold.

Sports DAY by DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

HAPPY NEW Year, folks! We with a most enjoyable 1938 to all athletes, fans and readers of this column in Peterborough and the district. Especially do we wish you folks heaps of hectic action in all lines of sports through the coming four seasons. Lots of keen competition, clean and close contests, with a goodly share of victories coming to local squads. Health and happiness to all of youse gals and guys—with mayhap a bit of prosperity, too—is the sincere wish of this writer on behalf of the Sports Department of The Examiner. A merry '38.

* * * * * *

A PRETTY fair year in sports was enjoyed in Peterborough during 1937. We had one Provincial championship come here, the P.C.I. senior school gridders copping the laurels, and quite a few near champs in the various lines of athletics. We had a fine lacrosse revival last summer with a nifty new arena now standing as a monument to the hustlers who put this gutted-stick game back on the map here. We had plenty of good hockey last winter and some keen baseball fixtures last summer. Oodles of gals' and men's softball. Soccer, tennis, cricket, bowling, badminton, basketball, etc. and etc. We had teams in Ontario semi-finals and finals, and any number of winners of loops around Central Ontario. We had a good year.

* * * * * *

MORE FOLKS got work locally in '37 and consequently better times were observed. In sports as in business circles. We drew good crowds to hockey, lacrosse and baseball this. Not bad for rugby either, considering the unkind weather. And one bumper turnout to an amateur fight card. Hundreds of lasses and lads, of all ages, took part in indoor and outdoor healthy sports around Peter's borough, and thousands of fans and fannettes did the ogling act and cheered ye locals. Fans, athletes and officials all deserve orchids for keeping this town to the fore in sports among centres of similar size throughout the Province. We head the parade.

* * * * * *

SOME SCRIBES are born with a silver spoon in their mouths, while others—like yours truly—have a plain spoon filled with castor oil to relish. So we may become a bit bitter at times. However, we have a lot of fun out of covering sports and mixing with the athletes and officers at the many contests in a year's time. And we try to give 'em all a break. And generally get along pretty fair. Get the odd nasty crack, and sometimes receive a sizzling script from some angry reader, but when you hand it out you gotta take it too! Yeah, we can take it. It is all part of the game and no harm done. Sportsmen accept the knocks along with the boosts.

* * * * * *

THE JOB scribes have to perform is to give the public the news on athletics of the district. We have a number of ways of getting this news, covering some, using correspondents or helpers, picking up much copy, and getting tips from good "news sources". By the latter, we mean chaps who are thoughtful enough to call us up when we don't see 'em regularly and give us the latest info on the particular sport they are interested in. Fellows who appreciate the value of publicity to sports. We mean men like Knotty Lee, Frank Buckland, Max Swanston, Jim McClenaghan, Percy Bond, Charlie Carson, and a few more like these. None of this "but you mustn't publish this" nonsense.

* * * * * *

OF COURSE, we are bound to respect confidences at times, and are glad to get some personal information—but our job is to give it to the public and oftimes we are handcuffed by a "this is not for publication" crack from one gee when we would have got the same dope from another with no strings attached. It's just one of the angles in athletics. At that, Peterborough moguls as a whole realize that sports cannot flourish without publicity and we find it a real pleasure to work with most of 'em. What we don't know (which is plenty) they tell us, and we in turn slap it out—with maybe a bit of slang—in this column for quite a few readers around about.

* * * * * *

REGARDLESS OF a silver spoon in our mouth, we have a crystal ball in our mitt. And we see another big sports year locally. We see a highly successful hockey season, a real strong ball team, another fine lacrosse season, lots of good softball again, and a dandy year in 1938 for all types of sports in Peterborough. We see several championships coming this way, and we can make out huge crowds taking in the various fixtures around these parts this winter, next spring, through the summer and in the autumn. We look for a lot of thrills and fun, and we hope to be right in the thick of it all again—right up to our little pink ears in sports!

* * * * * *

SO LET'S all sing like the birdies sing, tweet, tweet, tweet, tweet, tweet! Let's grab ourselves a paper hat and a loud horn and go to town with a bang. We've gotta bury old 1937 with a laugh and usher in young 1938 with a whoop. Let's forget the sour spots of the past year in sports, remember the good highlights, and cast the orbs hopefully toward the new year. It ought to be a swelegant sports year. We hope.

Saints Juveniles Get Default Win

All Saints' Juveniles got a win by default Thursday night at All Saints' rink in their opening Church Hockey League game when Murray St. were drawn of fthe ice by their manager with six minutes to play, in protest of a referee's decision. The referee had penalized the Baptist goalie for chopping an All Saints' forward, as the Saints were leading 3-0 at the time on goals by Mortimer and Robinson. They had more man power but it was a close scrap with Murray St. strong defensively. The teams:

Murray St.—Goal, K. Gillespie; defence, C. Gillespie, Crary; centre, Smith; wings, Cox, Madigwe; alternate, Kidd.

All Saints—Goal, Miller; defence, Abraham, Joiner; centre, Mortimer; wings, Reid; Robinson; alternates, Morley, Constable, Mills, Carpenter.

Referee—D. Chariton.

Louis Trudel, Chicago, lugged tieing goal into Detroit contest.

Scoreless Battle In Juvenile Game

Two classy juvenile Church League teams started their hockey schedule at All Saints' rink Thursday evening with a scoreless draw, neither Mark St. nor St. John's being able to dent the twine. It was quite even all the way with the Clark brothers, Mason, Vivash and the goalies being outstanding. Play was fast and clean most of the route. The teams:

Mark St.—Goal, Robinson; defence, Scriver, Mason; centre, Vivash; wings, E. Eason, Moore; alternates, Agnew, Gamble, Nicholls, Ralph.

St. John's—Goal, Lorrax; defence castle, Hogg; centre, Lewis; wings L. Clark, Crowter; alternates, R Clark, Forsythe.

Referee—S. Seabrooke.

All Saints' Seniors — Defeat Murray St.

All Saints Seniors beat Murray St., last year's champions, by a 3-1 score at All Saints' rink Thursday night to open their Church Loop puck schedule. All three goals were scored in the second after Harry McNabb, regular Murray St. goalie, had been removed with a broken nose when he was hit by a puck. F Spencely was making his debut filling in as spare goalie. King went well in goal for the winners in a close contest, with Maudsley and S Seabrooke also good. Ellis, Whatman and E Spencely shaded the other side. Inkpen got one for the losers while Maudsley got two goals and Wade one for the victors. The teams:

All Saints—Goal, King; defence, G Seabrooke, Risaw; centre, Platt; wings, Alton, Williams; alternates, Frost, S Seabrooke, Maudsley, Wade, Livingstone.

HAWKS' OWNER ABANDONS IDEA ALL-AMERICAN

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 31 (CP).—Major Frederic McLaughlin's brainchild—an all-American-born Chicago team in the National Hockey League this season—has been definitely abandoned. Take Coach Bill Stewart's word for it.

"We'll take our players wherever we can get 'em," the former N.H.L. referee said during a brief visit here to look over a few amateur puck-chasers.

"We know it wouldn't be possible to develop an all-American club with any success within a short space of time," the stocky Hawk mentor added. "We'd like to get a bit of younger blood for next season and we're not overlooking any bets. We'll even grab them from China or Japan if they're good enough."

After the Hawks had been eliminated from the League race last March, Major McLaughlin brought up five American amateurs for the few remaining games and announced they would be the nucleus of a 1937-38 all-American Chicago team. He contended American players were just as good as Canadians.

The rookie quintet was dropped at the start of this season—along with the idea—when Stewart put away his referee's whistle to take over the helm of the hapless Hawks.

8 Americans on Roster.

It's just a co-incidence that the Chicagoans happen to have so many American performers on the team at the present time, according to Stewart, himself a Bostonian. Half of the 16 Hawks were born under the Stars and Stripes.

They are: Mike Karakas, Alex. Levinsky, Cully Dahlstrom, Doc Romnes, Roger Jenkins, Carl Voss, Vic Heyliger and Louis Trudel. The remainder are Canucks.

It's evidently a good combination, however, for, although they're not exactly "tops" in the League standing, the Hawks can't be counted out of the Stanley Cup playoffs if "fighting spirit" means anything.

"In my 25 years in sport I've never seen a club of any kind with more spirit," Stewart said. "The old boys on my team can't get over the boards fast enough when it's their turn to go on the ice. They're all rarin' to go and they'd jump through a window if I asked them to."

Hockey's Big 7

(By the Canadian Press).

Paul Thompson of Chicago joined the National Hockey League's circle of scoring leaders last night when he potted Black Hawks' first goal in a 2-2 tie with Detroit. The score brought him level in points with Sweeney Schriner and Nels Stewart, Americans; Marty Barry, Detroit, and Lynn Patrick, Rangers, all tied for seventh place with 15 points. Gordon Drillon, Toronto, still leads with nine goals and 13 assists.

The leaders:

	G.	A.	Pts.
Drillon, Toronto	9	13	22
Jackson, Toronto	10	9	19
Dillon, Rangers	9	9	18
Apps, Toronto	7	11	18

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP).—Mike Jacobs and his architect, Lionel Levy, reach Miami via plane today to see what can be done about a February fight in the Orange Bowl...Lou Gehrig sure is a well-known guy down around Jefferson City, Tenn. ...When a passing auto knocked Lou for a foul a few days ago, the Jefferson City correspondent of the Knoxville Journal, wired: "Larrupin' Lou Gehrig, first baseman for the New York Giants," etc....Ouch!...(But how the Giants wish it were so).

This is the last shot we'll get at you before tomorrow's games, so here goes: We still believe Alabama will take California by a close score ...West Virginia still figures two touchdowns better than Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl...If Colorado beats a splendid rice team it will have earned its place in the football sun ...You can write your own ticket on Santa Clara and Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl...Michigan State should win from Auburn if the climate don't get 'em.

Jimmy Braddock's mother died yesterday...Joe Louis has caught the idea and opened a restaurant in Detroit...Joe's movie (two stars only) was christened "The Spirit of Youth" by Mrs. Bill Robinson, wife of the famous colored tap dancer.... Sugar Bowl fans will be glad to learn it hasn't rained in New Orleans on New Year's Day in the last 39 years.

STEVENS RETURNS

MONTREAL, Dec. 31 (CP). — Bound for a brief business visit in the United Kingdom, Hon. H. H. Stevens, the Reconstruction Party's lone member in the House of Commons, arrived in Montreal today. He will sail from Saint John tomorrow on the liner Montclare.

TWEED CHAMPIONS SECURE CLOSE WIN

TWEED, Dec. 31.—Stepping into Madoc arena on Wednesday night, the Tweed 1936 champion team edged out a 4 to 3 victory over their rivals in an up-hill battle.

The first period ended 3-0 for Madoc, while Tweed managed to count one in the second period, coming back in the third to pull the game out of the fire. Elsbury scored the first goal alone, while Jack Tummon, shiping the next one on a pass from Baldy Leal. Buck Leal, who teamed up on the defence, drove home the last two for Tweed.

The last two periods were productive of good fast hockey, although the first was a trifle slow. Elsbury and Alexander were the standouts of the Madoc team, with Elsbury and Buck Leal both turning in good performances for Tweed. Thompson in goal was in good form.

Tweed line-up:

Goal, Thompson; defence, Marsh, Buck and French Leal; forwards, Joe Courneyea, E. Tummon, J. Tummon, Merrow, W. Leal, H. Elsbury, and Long.

Madoc line-up:

Goal, Martin; defence, Hallstone, Embury; centre, Hayworth; wings, Keller, Alexander; subs, Hill, Stuart, Jowett, Armstrong.

REFEREES HARD ON HIS LEAFS SAYS C. SMYTHE

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—(CP).—The righteousness of National Hockey League referees when they reach this placid outpost has finally got Conny Smythe down. With an eye to the Stanley Cup, the director of Toronto's Maple Leafs is in training for a trifle of belligerency about the whole thing.

"Why," he said to-day, "we've been getting pushed around by the referees for six years and I read the other day where Lester Patrick is hollering because the Rangers maybe got the worst of it in six games." Conny snorted, feeling no sorrow for Lester.

"Ever since we moved into Maple Leaf Gardens in 1931 we've been taking it," he said, producing a page of tabulated penalty figures. They showed the Leafs have occupied the penalty box for 3,286 minutes since the opening of the 1931 season—or about 55 full games.

The total compared with 2,924 minutes for Maroons, 2,691 for Rangers, 2,652 for Americans, 2,428 for Boston, 2,348 for Chicago, 2,308 for Canadiens, and 2,284 for Chicago.

Plays Rougher Game?

"I don't know why it is that the referees give us the works here," Smythe complained. "There's no use arguing that our team plays rougher hockey than some others. For years we've suffered more from injuries than any other team—that's the answer.

"The fans here don't throw things like they do in Boston and I guess the referees don't worry when they shoot Toronto players to the penalty box. But they are different fellows away from Toronto. When we're on the road we are decisively outpointed in penalties. The records prove it."

Smythe is going to insist that the officials referee the same everywhere. He is irked by the record which shows the Leafs have spent 1,000 minutes more in various penalty boxes than Detroit Red Wings.

Most-penalized team so far this season is the Maroons with 212 minutes. Rangers and Canadiens each have a debit of 153 minutes and the Leafs 118. Of course, Badman Red Horner has reformed to become a point-scorer, explaining the lower-than-usual Toronto penalty total.

The Smythian point is he wants the referees to be as busy with the free-trip thumb in other N.H.L. cities as they are here without being swayed by crowds.

Brantford Redmen Gain Third Place

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 31 (CP) —Brantford Redmen were in third place in the Senior 'A' Division of the Ontario Hockey Association today, their first victory of the season taking them out of the cellar, where they had been tied with Kitchener Greenshirts since the first of the season.

Redmen upset the strong Oshawa G-Men 7-5 here last night as Ray Krieger led the locals to victory. Krieger shot four goals and assisted on another pair to give the outstanding performance on the ice. Oshawa led 5-4 in the last period but Redmen whipped in three goals in four minutes to take the verdict.

The last period was all Redmen. Less than a minute had been played when Morrison scored his second of the night that ended scoring for the visitors. Krieger scored his last for the night after 13 minutes of furious hockey, then assisted Webster and Greig to put the game on ice.

Bowlers In Favor Daylight Saving

The Board of Directors of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, Limited, has sent the following letter to local bowlers:

"As no doubt you are aware, there is to be a vote on January 1st to decide as to whether daylight saving will be adopted for the summer months of 1938 or no.

"At a recent meeting of your executive, they were unanimous in their opinion that 'it was in the best interest of our members that daylight saving be in effect during the bowling season.' This would materially reduce our electric light bill and would give us one hour more for bowling with daylight instead of artificial light.

"Your executive recommends that each bowler use his or her vote and influence in favor of daylight saving. Wishing you the compliments of the season, we remain, etc."

VETERAN TRAINER PASSES ON COAST

TORONTO, Dec. 31 (CP). — Bill Bringloe, veteran race horse trainer, died Thursday in hospital in San Francisco, according to word received here. Bringloe was trainer for the H. C. Hatch stable of Agincourt, Ont.

Bringloe, for many years associated with the Seagram stable of Waterloo, Ont., took charge of the Hatch string two years ago and had notable success on Canadian and United States tracks.

He trained the 1936 and 1937 King's Plate winners for Hatch—Monsweep and Goldiure.

When the noted trainer became seriously ill several days ago, Hatch announced he would dispose of his horses quartered in the United States. Public auction sale at Santa Anita was set for January 15.

Among horses recently in Bringloe's charge in California were Buffers, Sweepden, Monsweep and Ariel Cross.

Charlie McCarthy Beats Jack Benny In Radio Vote

Top-ranking radio stars of 1937 as selected by more than 400 radio editors on a basis of popularity are pictured ABOVE. Charlie McCarthy, the Edgar Bergen dummy, tops the list. "He" has been on the air only since Rudy Vallee introduced him in December, 1930. Jack Benny, in second place this year, was the winner last year. He trailed the wooden dummy by 11 votes.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD. — As itemed months ago, Buster Keaton is turning director, but it's news that the comedian's first picture will have Francis X. Bushman in the cast. Thus the irony of Hollywood goes on. The frozen-faced comic of a few years back telling one of the screen's first romantic idols how to act.

The picture is an M.G.M. short, called "Life in Some Town, U.S.A." Carey Wilson authored, and the film reveals the crazy laws that still stand on America's statute books.

Ran into a heart-throb story on "The Perfect Alibi" set at R-K-O. The Donald Meeks, childless for 29 years, are adopting an 11-year-old girl. She's the grand-niece of Mrs. Meek and comes here from Denver to begin a magic new life in Hollywood.

Children always figure in the news around the holiday season. Grace Moore arrived here singing the praises of her 10-year-old protegee, June Ellis. The youngster comes from a little Kentucky town, about 12 miles from the diva's own birthplace, Jellico, Tenn. Arriving in Hollywood next week with her parents, she'll take screen tests and will sing with Paul Whiteman's band at the Cocoanut Grove.

Quoting Miss Moore: "She has the finest natural voice of any child I ever heard."

Today's notes contain still another item about the kids. The Mauch twins are delirious with excitement. Troop 152 of the Boy Scouts will present them with distinguished service crosses for rendering first aid in an automobile accident of a few weeks ago. We told you about the incident at the time.

Mark Hellinger's story, "Six Girls and Death" went into production recently at Twentieth Century-Fox, and as you may have noticed, will be called "Six Girls" on the screen. The word death is deleted by the movie makers because no film containing the word "death" in the title has ever been a box office hit. Not even "Death Takes a Holiday."

Situation on this set nearly drove Director Norman Foster frantic. Being the first day of shooting, it was a signal for the boy friends of all six leading women to telephone messages of good luck. Claire Trevor heard from Bentley Bryant, Dixie Dunbar from several people including Junior Laemmle, Jayne Regan (the St. Louis beauty) from Stafford Lambert, Leah Ray from Jerry Wald, Phyllis Brooks from Cary Grant and Lynn Bari from Dick Baldwin. In desperation, Director Foster finally closed the set telephone to everything except emergency calls.

An ordinary property truck created no excitement in Hollywood, but its cargo represented millions in profits to Warner Brothers. The truck contained 750 master negatives of pictures made since the formation of the company. "The Sea Beast," "Lights of New York" and "The Singing Fool," to name a few. The film was on its way from the old studio on Sunset boulevard to the company's new laboratory in Burbank.

After working night and day on "Bulldog Drummond Interferes," John Barrymore is off to New York to see shows and to meet old friends, Elaine Barrie, of course, goes along... Clark Gable has sold Bill Powell on the 20,000-mile South American trip that was all fun for Gable, barring those embarrassing photos.... Unable to be with Ann Sothern over the holidays, Roger Pryor arranged by telephone to have her apartment redecorated during her absence from Hollywood... Both Helen Holmes, one-time serial queen, and Helen Gibson, former wife of Hoot Gibson, worked in the Gene Autry picture, "The Old Barn Dance."

MAJOR FEATURES ON NEW PROGRAM TORONTO STUDIO

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—The Toronto studios of the CBC will originate a number of important dramatic and musical presentations for the national network as part of the improved and enlarged new program schedule announced for the first week in January 1938.

Of major interest is the folk song series, "Canadian Mosaic," which has been designed by J. Murray Gibbon to present the traditional music of the many races who have settled in Canada. This feature will be heard on Sundays from 7.30 - 8.00 p.m. EST with Frances James as soprano, the Toronto Conservatory String Quartet, under the leadership of Elie Spivak, Louis Creamer as pianist, and Mr. Gibbon as commentator.

On the same day at 9.00 p.m. EST the Toronto studios will offer the "CBC Music Hour," with a thirty-five piece orchestra and sixteen voices, drawn under the direction of Geoffrey Waddington, presenting a program of the world's finest melodies in special arrangements.

"The CBC Singers," a choir of mixed voices under the direction of Alberta Whitehead, will be heard each Wednesday at 10.30 p.m. EST in a program of traditional English choral arrangements, with madrigals, old ditties, canzons and ballads beloved of old.

The "CBC Drama Hour" will be a weekly feature on Thursdays from 9.00-10.00 p.m. EST, commencing with Laurence Graham's production of H. G. Wells' story, "The Man Who Could Work Miracles." The play will be heard on Thursday, January 6th over a coast-to-coast network. On the same night at 11.15 p.m. will begin the new series, "Between Two Oceans," a talk broadcast by Dr. Stanley Russell. The series will be an appreciation of "This Canada" by a distinguished adopted son.

Outstanding successes of the previous season's schedule included in the year's listings will be "Melodic Strings," under the direction of Alexander Chuhaldin, from Toronto on Wednesdays at 8.30 p.m.; 'Streamline,' the modern symphonic presentation arranged by Percy Faith and featuring Dorothy Alt, "The Fashionaires" and orchestra on Mondays from 8.30-9.00 p.m. commencing January 3. "Seeing Pictures," a word tour of the famous galleries of Canada, in which Graham McInnes describes the art treasurers of the Dominion; "Canadian Portraits," a series of biographical sketches of famous Canadians, and "The Book Review," presented by the eminent Canadian literary commentator, Prof. J. F. MacDonald.

New Sunday Program Over CBC Network

WINNIPEG, Dec. 31.—"The Vesper Hour" broadcast every Sunday afternoon from Winnipeg by the CBC, received such wide acclaim by radio audiences across Canada, that it is the intention of the Corporation to institute a series of similar programs. The first of these will be heard over the CBC's national network on Sunday, January 2, at 5.00 p.m. EST.

The program, to be known as "The Tudor Manor," will feature the famous Tudor String Quartet; a mixed voice church choir, and a member of the clergy. It will be strictly undenominational and it is planned that clergymen from every religious denomination will be heard during the series.

"The Tudor Manor" will originate in Winnipeg and the setting will simulate the drawing room of an old manor. An air of informality will predominate, and the music, both instrumental and vocal, will include the more classical of religious works, as well as popular hymns and anthems.

Charlie McCarthy Beats Jack Benny In Radio Vote

Top-ranking radio stars of 1937 as selected by more than 400 radio editors on a basis of popularity are pictured ABOVE. Charlie McCarthy, the Edgar Bergen dummy, tops the list. "He" has been on the air only since Rudy Vallee introduced him in December, 1930. Jack Benny, in second place this year, was the winner last year. He trailed the wooden dummy by 11 votes.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD. — As itemed months ago, Buster Keaton is turning director, but it's news that the comedian's first picture will have Francis X. Bushman in the cast. Thus the irony of Hollywood goes on. The frozen-faced comic of a few years back telling one of the screen's first romantic idols how to act.

The picture is an M.G.M. short, called "Life in Some Town, U.S.A." Carey Wilson authored, and the film reveals the crazy laws that still stand on America's statute books.

Ran into a heart-throb story on "The Perfect Alibi" set at R-K-O. The Donald Meeks, childless for 29 years, are adopting an 11-year-old girl. She's the grand-niece of Mrs. Meek and comes here from Denver to begin a magic new life in Hollywood.

Children always figure in the news around the holiday season. Grace Moore arrived here singing the praises of her 10-year-old protegee, June Ellis. The youngster comes from a little Kentucky town, about 12 miles from the diva's own birthplace, Jellico, Tenn. Arriving in Hollywood next week with her parents, she'll take screen tests and will sing with Paul Whiteman's band at the Cocoanut Grove.

Quoting Miss Moore: "She has the finest natural voice of any child I ever heard."

Today's notes contain still another item about the kids. The Mauch twins are delirious with excitement. Troop 152 of the Boy Scouts will present them with distinguished service crosses for rendering first aid in an automobile accident of a few weeks ago. We told you about the incident at the time.

Mark Hellinger's story, "Six Girls and Death" went into production recently at Twentieth Century-Fox and as you may have noticed, will be called "Six Girls" on the screen. The word death is deleted by the movie makers because no film containing the word "death" in the title has ever been a box office hit. Not even "Death Takes a Holiday."

Situation on this set nearly drove Director Norman Foster frantic. Being the first day of shooting, it was a signal for the boy friends of all six leading women to telephone messages of good luck. Claire Trevor heard from Bentley Bryant, Dixie Dunbar from several people including Junior Laemmle, Jayne Regan (the St. Louis beauty) from Stafford Lambert., Leah Ray from Jerry Wald. Phyllis Brooks from Cary Grant and Lynn Bari from Dick Baldwin. In desperation, Director Foster finally closed the set telephone to everything except emergency calls.

An ordinary property truck created no excitement in Hollywood, but its cargo represented millions in profits to Warner Brothers. The truck contained 750 master negatives of pictures made since the formation of the company. "The Sea Beast," "Lights of New York" and "The Singing Fool," to name a few. The film was on its way from the old studio on Sunset boulevard to the company's new laboratory in Burbank.

After working night and day on "Bulldog Drummond Interferes," John Barrymore is off to New York to see shows and to meet old friends, Elaine Barrie, of course, goes along... Clark Gable has sold Bill Powell on the 20,000-mile South American trip that was all fun for Gable, barring those embarrassing photos... Unable to be with Ann Sothern over the holidays, Roger Pryor arranged by telephone to have her apartment redecorated during her absence from Hollywood... Both Helen Holmes, one-time serial queen, and Helen Gibson, former wife of Hoot Gibson, worked in the Gene Autry picture, "The Old Barn Dance."

MAJOR FEATURES ON NEW PROGRAM TORONTO STUDIO

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—The Toronto studios of the CBC will originate a number of important dramatic and musical presentations for the national network as part of the improved and enlarged new program schedule announced for the first week in January 1938.

Of major interest is the folk song series, "Canadian Mosaic," which has been designed by J. Murray Gibbon to present the traditional music of the many races who have settled in Canada. This feature will be heard on Sundays from 7.30 - 8.00 p.m. EST with Frances James as soloist, the Toronto Conservatory String Quartet, under the leadership of Elie Spivak; Louis Crenier as pianist, and Mr. Gibbon as commentator.

On the same day at 9.00 p.m. EST the Toronto studios will offer the "CBC Music Hour," with a thirty-five piece orchestra and sixteen voices; chorus under the direction of Geoffrey Waddington, presenting a pageant of the world's finest melodies in special arrangements.

"The CBC Singers," a choir of mixed voices under the direction of Alberta Whitehead, will be heard each Wednesday at 10.30 p.m. EST in a program of traditional English choral arrangements, with madrigals, sea shanties, canzons and ballads beloved of old.

The "CBC Drama Hour" will be a weekly feature on Thursdays from 9.00-10.00 p.m. EST, commencing with Laurence Graham's production of H. G. Wells' story, "The Man Who Could Work Miracles." The play will be heard on Thursday, January 6th over a coast-to-coast network. On the same night at 11.15 p.m. will begin the new series, "Between Two Oceans," a talk broadcast by Dr. Stanley Russell. The series will be an appreciation of "This Canada" by a distinguished adopted son.

Outstanding successes of the previous season's schedule included in the year's listings will be "Melodic Strings," under the direction of Alexander Chuhaldin, from Toronto on Wednesdays at 8.30 p.m.; 'Streamline,' the modern symphonic presentation arranged by Percy Faith and featuring Dorothy Alt, "The Fashionaires" and orchestra on Mondays from 8.30-9.00 p.m. commencing January 3. THE TUITS By Crawford Young

Visualizing Air Models For 1938

Airships to carry 5,000 passengers on non-stop flights around the world and 100-ton super-aeroplanes with 16 motors are among the dreams of Charles J. Smith, electrician and amateur aeroplane designer, for the future—say for the spring of 1988. Dreamer Smith, who may not be such a dreamer after all, is shown here with two of his models, "every one of which", he says, "is built on aerodynamic fundamentals."

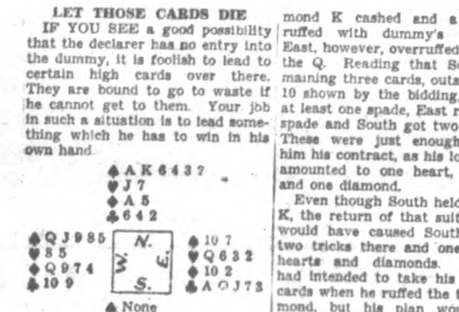
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

LET THOSE CARDS DIE

IF YOU SEE a good possibility that the declarer has no entry into the dummy, it is foolish to lead to certain high cards over there. They are bound to go to waste if he cannot get to them. Your job in such a situation is to lead something which he has to win in his own hand.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Spade, South called 2-Hearts, North 2-Spades, South 3-Diamonds, North 3-Spades, South 4-Diamonds and North 4-Hearts.

With all the bidding that had transpired and with his diamond length, West decided his best opening was a trump, so led the heart 8. The declarer played the 7 from dummy and East ducked, so South won in his own hand with the 9. He now set out to attempt to establish the diamond suit. The diamond A was cashed, the diamond K cashed and a diamond ruffed with dummy's trump J. East, however, overruffed this with the Q. Reading that South's remaining three cards, outside of the 10 shown by the bidding, included at least one spade, East returned a spade and South got two discards. These were just enough to give him his contract, as his losses then amounted to one heart, one club and one diamond.

Even though South held the club K, the return of that suit by East would have caused South to lose two tricks there and one each in hearts and diamonds. Declarer had intended to take his two discards when he ruffed the third diamond, but his plan would have failed except for the aid rendered by East.

CHAPTER 28.

Lionel raged when he read the ...'s letter rejecting the play.

"After all his promises!"

"He didn't promise anything, Lion, except to give it a reading, and to ... it if it was worth it."

"But it is a good play, Jerry."

"Is it? I am not so sure. As he ... we need experience."

"... of first plays get by—" he ... back at me.

... were in Lionel's room, and I ... at the window looking out. It ... raining—a dreary, autumn rain, ... thick smoky sky above it. In ... ark across the street the storm ... swept the trees bare — some ... seemed to have fallen on the ... city which I had entered with ... high hopes.

"I'll have to leave the hotel," I said, "I can't afford it."

"You'll do nothing of the kind," Lionel exploded, "I want to go on with the play."

"I can't live on rejected manuscripts."

He turned on me in a sort of fury. "Why should they be rejected? Does you think I can do it?"

I did not answer at once. I knew he was asking of me what he had so often asked, implicit belief in his power. Yet a spirit of discouragement gripped me. The wind had risen and the rain washed down the windows. I looked out on a streaming world, and felt as if a blank wall blotted out my future.

"I will take time to find out what ... of us can do," I said, "and in the meantime I can't afford to stay ..."

He did not look at me. "Of course ... you feel I'm that."

I knew that he was angry, hurt, overthrown by the disaster which had come upon us. Yet I had nothing to say to him. I, too, was overthrown.

I was glad when, breaking in on our silence, the telephone rang. We had been, I felt, on the edge of a quarrel. Any interruption was welcome.

It was Bernice, wanting Lionel to have tea with her.

He demurred. "I should simply weep on your shoulder, Honey. The play has been rejected, and Jerry and I are throwing bricks at each other."

She argued with him, evidently, and his voice took on a softer note. "You see a darling. . . . Yes . . . 4 . . ."

He hung up the receiver. "She's too good for me, Jerry," he said, soberly, and stood beside me looking out at the streaming rain.

I laid my hand on his arm. We did not speak. But the anger had gone out of me.

When Lionel left me I faced the ... I must find some way to re... I had mortgaged my allow... for several months ahead. It ... out of the question for me to ... in other work than literature. I was dedicated to that, and must prove myself to Mimi. Since ... no money, I must have fame ... at her feet.

... decided, that, all else failing, ... ask a loan of my father. ... pay him at my leisure. I ... down and wrote to him. It was ... the letter of a prodigal. There ... been, of course, no funks and ... I admitted I had been fool... I had lived beyond my means; ... the temptation had been great ... there was still much at stake.

When I had posted the letter my ... rose. It was 5 o'clock and ... raining. I wanted more than ... thing in the world to see Mimi. I felt that if she knew my plight she would be moved to tenderness. Yet I dared not call her up.

Restless, yearning for a confidante, I telephoned to Olga. "May I come over?"

"Jerry? But you have neglected me shamefully. I don't know whether I ought to forgive you."

"I have been up to my ears in work, writing a play with Lionel, and this morning it came back to us. It was an awful blow."

She melted at once. "Come, tell me about it."

I went, and found it comforting to have Olga's sympathy. Even the awful Turkish Retreat seemed to glow with a pleasant brightness after the dreariness outside.

"Of course you mustn't leave town," she said, when she had heard my woeful tale. "We'll have to find some other way out of it."

I told her that I had written to my father. "If he lends me the money, I'll be all right."

Coffee had been brought in, and she poured a cup for me, and then one for herself which she made sweet with much sugar and mellow with cream. She ate with it one of the fat chocolate cakes which added so many pounds to her overabundant figure.

"If your father won't lend it to you," she said at last, "I will."

I flushed. "I couldn't do that."

"Why not?"

"Well, I couldn't."

She turned that over in her mind, and said at last, "If you leave here you'll lose Mimi. How can you expect to hold her when you are 1,000 miles away? A girl like that, with men swarming about her like bees? They all have money, and the things she wants, and you haven't anything to offer but a pack of dreams—"

I knew what she said was true, but I wasn't willing to admit it. "If she is the woman I think she is, she'll wait."

Olga made an impatient movement. "Jerry, she won't. Don't fool yourself. I know more of life than you do. Mimi hasn't time these days to think. She hasn't time for anything. She is swept on from one excitement to another. She is caught in a tide too strong to resist."

"She will resist," I said. "Underneath it all she loves me. I know that she loves me."

"Well, let her prove it," said Olga. "I will make it possible for her to marry you. We'll see if she will do it."

I looked at her in astonishment. "Make it possible?"

"Yes. I'll offer her a share of her grandfather's money. It won't be such a fortune as Andy could give her. But it will save her from marrying him—if she wants to be saved."

My mind was in a tumult. I had a feeling that the whole thing was fantastic, too much like a fairy tale. Here was Mimi among the ashes as it were, and Olga would wave a wand. The Ogre would become in effect the benevolent fairy-godmother.

"What do you think of it?" Olga asked.

I stammered, "I don't know."

"Well, it is a lot to expect of you."

"It isn't half as much as Mrs. Le Brun expects—" there was a touch of bitterness in her tone. "I have always felt that the Senator's will should have been different. But I have hated the family's attitude about it—their shutting me out as if it were my fault. But I'd like to have you happy, Jerry. And if you want Mimi you shall have her."

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S HORN

"This is my last adventure," said Uncle Wiggily to his wife as he hopped out of the hollow stump bungalow the day.

"Your last adventure, Wiggy!" exclaimed Mrs. Longears. "What do you mean? Surely you aren't getting too old for adventuring."

"I mean to say it will be my last adventure this year," said the rabbit gentleman with a laugh.

"Oh, I understand what you mean," spoke his wife. "This is the last day of the 1937 year and to-morrow will be the first day of the 1938 New Year."

"That's it," said Uncle Wiggily. "And in the New Year I shall have some new adventures, I hope."

"I hope so, too," said Mrs. Longears.

"Thank you," answered her husband. "So now I am going to look for an adventure and also get a horn." "Why a horn?" asked Mrs. Longears.

Everybody Does

"To blow at 12 o'clock, midnight, to blow the New Year in. To blow the Old Year out. Everybody blows horns at midnight on New Year's Eve."

"Oh, yes, so they do. Well, Wiggy, go along and get your horn," said the rabbit lady wife.

Uncle Wiggily bought himself a fine tin horn before going to look for an adventure. Reaching the woods where it was still and quiet and where there was no one to hear or see him, Uncle Wiggily blew a blast on his New Year's horn.

"Sounds very good," he decided. "I shall make quite a racket with it tonight."

Then Uncle Wiggily, holding his horn, hopped on through the woods to look for an adventure.

Now whether it was because the adventures had gone to buy their own horns or because they had gone to some quiet places where they could not hear the New Year's racket, Uncle Wiggily couldn't tell.

"But the fact of the matter is," said the rabbit gentleman to himself, "the fact is I don't believe I shall find an adventure today. Not one! What shall I do?"

As he saw no one in the woods to answer his question, Uncle Wiggily replied to himself.

"I shall sit down on this stump and rest," he decided. "Maybe I shall dream of having a jolly adventure."

Sleeps

So Uncle Wiggily sat down on the stump, holding his horn, and, before he knew it he was sound asleep. As he slept he dreamed. He dreamed it was midnight at New Year's Eve and he had to blow his horn to welcome 1938.

Uncle Wiggily dreamed so hard that, all of a sudden, he woke himself up. And he found he was, really and truly, trying to blow his horn. Only it wouldn't blow. Not a sound came out!

"What's the matter, I wonder?" thought the rabbit now quite awake. "Either I am so weak I can't blow my horn or I am so deaf I can't hear it. I'll try once more."

Puffing out his cheeks, Uncle Wiggily blew on the horn with all his might. His cheeks puffed out like ballons. Then, all of a sudden, out of the horn came a loud, jolly blast! "Toot! Toot! Toot!"

And from the big end of the horn Uncle Wiggily blew a lot of leaves. The wind had blown them in his horn stopping it up as he slept. But when the leaves were out the horn made a great noise.

"Now I am all right for the New Year!" laughed the rabbit as he hopped home. And at 12 o'clock he blew a merry blast and said:

"Happy New Year to everybody!" Uncle Wiggily wished that for you and so do I. "Happy, Happy, New Year."

...ppy New Year to everybody!

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS OF THE PAST YEAR IN CANADA ARE REVIEWED AT A GLANCE

HON. M. F. HEPBURN, Premier of Ontario

Another year passes into Canadian history and though 1937 has not been productive of spectacular events in the Dominion far-reaching developments which may supply headlines of the future, have taken place. The personalities and events making the year's nation-wide news are reviewed here. Not unprecedented, but highly dramatic was the action of Lieut.-Governor J. C. Bowen, of Alberta, in reserving signature to legislation passed by the Social Credit government of that province and placing the bills in the hands of the governor-general for direction.

Politically dramatic, too, was enforcement of the Padlock law, passed by Premier Duplessis' government in Quebec ostensibly as a curb upon Communism, and suddenly utilized against certain publications in that province. Similarly the bitter opposition voiced by Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, of Ontario, against inroads by the U.S. sponsored Committee for Industrial Organization among the workers of Ontario, which was carried into negotiations following the first automobile factory strike in the province, drew lengthy comment. Mr. Hepburn is pictured with officials of the company and of the union studying the agreement which eventually ended the strike. Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's governor-general became the first holder of the vice-regal office in the Dominion's history to personally visit the Canadian Arctic and sub-Arctic when he travelled by railway, aeroplane and boat westward and northward in a summer expedition. The year also saw informal, but actual inauguration of the trans-Canada airway, still under construction, when Hon. C. D. Howe, federal minister of transport, flew from ... couver over the proposed routein approximately 19 h... prime minister, Rt. Hon. W. L. M. King, officially vi... during the year as did Lord Tweedsmuir. Mr. King's ... returned by U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull ... Germany's Colonial Demands Lead 1938 Aspirations

Replaces Fight Against Communism—Past Year One Of "Chip-On-The-Shoulder"

By Gerard Jouve
(Copyright, Havas News Agency.)

BERLIN, ec. 31.—(CP)—Havas)—The new year finds Germany's colonial demands floating from the masthead of Reich aspirations—a place reserved successfully during 1937 for the combat against Communism, the struggle for economic self-sufficiency and manoeuvres to strengthen the Rome-Berlin axis.

The Spanish and far eastern wars are in full swing as the new year starts, but Germany's attention is largely fixed on its bid for overseas territory lost as a result of the Great War.

A review of Germany's past year at home and abroad is featured by Premier Mussolini's visit to Germany, the subsequent extension of the Berlin-Rome axis to a "world triangle" embracing Tokyo, the bombardment of Almeria, Spain, in reprisal for the "Deutschland incident," and Chancellor Hitler's Berchtesgaden conference with Viscount Halifax, British Lord President of the Council.

Jew Baiting Continues

All these events were linked with foreign policy, but almost equally momentous affairs were underway at home. The systematic anti-Jewish program continued along the usual fronts. The quarrel between the church and state was extended, resulting in the arrest of more than 100 confessional pastors, including militant Rev. Martin Niemoeller, and an exchange of protests between the Wilhelmstrasse and the vatican.

On May 30, more than 30 members of the "Pocket" battleship Deutschland's crew were killed by Spanish government planes off the island of Ivisa, in the western Mediterranean.

German battleships promptly bombed Almeria, killing some 20 persons, but Berlin did not immediately withdraw from non-intervention patrol work around Spain. Shortly thereafter, however, it claimed a submarine attacked the cruiser Leipzig. Germany and Italy, continuing their other neutrality obligations, immediately abandoned the naval patrol when Great Britain and France rejected demands for a joint "naval demonstration."

One Serious Incident

All in all 1937 was a "chip-on-the-shoulder" year for Germany, although Almeria's bombardment marked the only time any situation went beyond the "crisis" stage. Chancellor Hitler, setting the stage for the year in his Reichstag speech of Jan. 30, proclaimed the Reich's right to absolution from all "war guilt" and promised the world that Germany's era of diplomatic "surprises" had passed.

The year saw Hitler offer Belgium, Switzerland and the Netherlands promises to guarantee their territorial inviolability. The Hague declined his offer. Last Oct. 10 Berlin guaranteed non-agression against Belgium as long as Belgium's territory was not used for military activities aimed against Berlin.

Germany's rearmament program was intensely pursued, particularly in the naval field. Figures released Dec. 14 listed 336,297 tons either under construction or planned, compared with 290,640 tons in 1936 and 107,434 tons in 1935.

HONG KONG, Dec. 31 (AP).—Thirty Japanese airplanes bombarded Canton today in the heaviest raid in recent weeks. Chinese reports said the bombers attacked railways and the northwest district of the city where many factories, schools and residences are located. Some 20 buildings were destroyed. It was believed casualties would number 100.

CHARGE FOREIGN POLICY IS VAGUE

WINNIPEG, Dec. 31. — (CP).—Foreign policy of the Dominion government was too vague, Prof. King Gordon of Montreal said last night in addressing delegates to the National Conference of Canadian University students here.

"Canada's foreign policy must be made in Ottawa, not 3,000 miles away in Downing street by a government in which she has no representation," he said.

Canada could line up with other nations interested in preserving democracy and in opposing "Fascist stuff and aggression." Prof. Gordon urged a stop to the flow of war materials from Canada to Japan "at the rate of $1,000,000 a week."

The Dominion could act also through the League of Nations in rebuilding a system of collective security for preservation of world peace.

Henry-Paul Lemay of University of Montreal opposed Prof. Gordon's sugestion a democratic bloc might eventually include Russia. The Montreal student opposed any alliance between democracies and Fascist or Communist states.

"Canada should be more selfish in dealing with other countries and should seek her own ends to a greater degree in international affairs," Lemay said. "We must free Canada from English and American domination over her trade. What we see of economic Imperialism in trade preference is fast bringing us into military imperialism."

CHANGE IN NAME MAIN DIFFERENCE IN VALERA'S MOVE

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Dec. 31. (C. P. Cable)—J. W. Dulanty, High Commissioner for the Irish Free State in London, to-day became High Commissioner for Ireland. But both at the Regent Street offices of the former Irish Free State and among the constitutional experts at Downing Street it is frankly recognized that "Eire," or Ireland, for the time being neither includes Northern Ireland nor affects British rights in Irish treaty ports.

The new constitution lays down a plan by which the unity of the national territory of Ireland can be restored. It does not unite that territory.

Indeed the old name still clings around the Regent Street headquarters. When the writer telephoned this morning a brisk reply came: "Offices of the High Commissioner for the Irish Free State speaking." Then followed a rapid correction: "Offices of the High Commissioner for Ireland."

Few Things Upset.

In annual fact, it is asserted here, the new constitution itself makes little, if any, change. Before the constitution was given effect, mention of the King already had been wiped out in the internal affairs of the Irish Free State. The External Affairs Relations Act, recognizing the King as the "symbol of co-operation" in external affairs and passed by the Dublin Parliament a year ago, is not affected by the constitution.

The much-discussed article II. of the new constitution, declaring the "new constitution consists of the whole of Ireland, its islands and territorial seas," is qualified by article III. which reads:

"Pending reintegration of the national territory and without prejudice of the right of the Parliament and Government established by this constitution to exercise jurisdiction over the whole of that territory, the laws enacted by that Parliament shall have a like area and extent of application as the law of the Saorstat Eireann (The Irish Free State) and like extra territorial effect."

As interpreted, the two articles taken together mean that until another arrangement is reached the new constitution makes no territorial change.

Just A New Name.

British newspapers of all shades hold the new constitution does little more than change a name.

"It is typically Irish," says the Yorkshire Post (Conservative), "to have discovered a method of being half inside the empire and wholly outside. It is typically English to treat that discovery—in the words of the British government statement issued last night—as not affecting a fundamental alteration in the position of the Irish Free State as a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

"Admittedly a complex constitutional situation has been created and some pretty problems will arise for the lawyers to solve. But it is too early to assume that Mr. De Valera has scored rather heavily by retaining all the privileges of empire membership while disowning all its responsibilities."

"What's in a name?" asks the News-Chronicle (Liberal.) It would be foolish to kick up a great fuss on this side of the Irish Sea because Eire means Ireland. The kings of England called themselves kings of France for centuries after any French subject owned allegiance to them. It did not make them kings of France. Nor can the name Eire give Mr. De Valera authority over the six counties of Northern Ireland. To do him justice, the new constitution recognizes that the laws of Eire can be valid only in the territory of the Irish Free State."

MORPHINE SUBSTITUTE?

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 31 (AP).—Dr. Erich Mosettig of the University of Virginia said today there was "definite hope" for the discovery of a substitute for morphine, with no tendency to cause addiction. Dr. Mosettig, engaged eight years in the search for such a drug, said its discovery was only a matter of time.

$35 In Salary For 5 Months Teaching Paints Saskatchewan Tragedy

Moose Jaw, Sask., Dec. 31.

TALES of hardship and privation among Saskatchewan school teachers are many at the annual council conference of the Saskatchewan Teachers' Federation in session here.

Twenty-four councillors reported yesterday on conditions in areas they represented, reciting instances of hardship, including lack of proper shoes and clothing.

One from Northeastern Saskatchewan, near the Manitoba boundary, told of a school built to accommodate 28 pupils now housing 84, and of another school just opened in a basement with no ventilation.

Another said many teachers were so afraid of losing their positions they did not dare complain. Instances were cited of teachers repairing shoes with cardboard soles; of possessing but one pair of trousers, years old; of receiving as little as $35 in five months with $30 of that amount going for board.

A representative from a northern inspectorate said that, on Christmas Eve, a teacher with a family inquired how he could obtain relief. The man had taught five months with only $5 salary left after he paid living expenses.

INDIAN MEMBERS TURN TO REFORM

BOMBAY, India, Dec. 31.—(AP)—The Indian Congress Party, completing six months in power in six provinces, apparently has discarded its old policy of trying to end British control and is devoting its efforts to reforming India.

Before they won elections in six of the 11 provinces, members of the Congress Party opposed the new constitution which provides autonomous government, subject to certain restrictions.

Since they took office, however, there has been no hint of serious disagreement between British governors and native cabinets and there has been no move to make the constitution unworkable.

Instead the party has been busy fulfilling pledges it made to the people. Among the things done were the following:

1. Prisoners charged with civil disobedience, the passive resistance method of defying government, were released.

2. Village officials and others were restored to offices they lost during the civil disobedience campaign; property confiscated by the government for non-payment of taxes was restored; and securities forfeited to the government by newspapers for contravention of the Press Act have been returned.

Many issues, however, still remain to be solved.

These include improvement of labor conditions, reducing taxes and a demand of Mohandas K. Gandhi, Nationalits leader, for prohibition of alcoholic drink.

ACTOR BELIEVES SHAW NOT FAMOUS AS SHAKESPEARE

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—(CP).— In spite of what Mr. Shaw would like the world to believe, Maurice Evans, the actor, said to-day he does not think George Bernard Shaw is as great a dramatist as William Shakespeare.

Mr. Shaw intimated his feeling that he can improve an Shakespeare by rewriting the third act of Cymbeline for a London production.

Mr. Evans, as good an actor in either Shaw or Shakespeare as you are likely to find anywhere, said he believes the Elizabethan has a distint edge as a playwright, although Shaw perhaps is a greater man.

The young English actor doubts whether in 300 or more years the works of the witty Mr. Shaw will have the same vitality as those of Shakespeare possess to-day. Shaw's plays, he said, tend to be topical.

Currently on tour in the bard of Avon's Richard II. M. Evan's previous vehicle was Shaw's Saint Joan, in which he gave a notable performance as the Dauphin.

One Example.

Mr. Evans illustrates his belief in Shaw's superiority over Shakespeare as a man.

He was rehearsing for a London production of Saint Joan at the old Vic Theatre, with Shaw directing. One of the dramatist's aides said, "Don't you think we should cut some of the lines in that tent scene? The audience will go to sleep."

"No," replied Shaw, "they don't go to sleep until the trial scene."

And to prove it, Shaw himself fell asleep while the trial scene was being rehearsed.

"Any man," said Mr. Evans, "who will admit the sin of tedium in his own work has greatness."

Mr. Evans arrived in Canada to discover that the fusion about his pany, he said, ... London, Calgary ter Toronto, Ric Winnipeg, Vanc Victoria.

15 SURVEYORS LOST SIX WEEKS SAVED IN QUEBEC

14 Rabbits Only Food After Missing Cache

By Kelly Chamandy
(Canadian Press Correspondent.)

MOOSONEE, Ont., Jan. 3.—(CP)—Seven French-Canadian surveyors, recuperating at this end-of-steel town after 39 days of near-starvation, said today they had full confidence throughout the ordeal that they would be rescued.

On a four-month survey trip in Northern Quebec's barried muskeg country, the party of 15 lived for nearly six weeks on the flesh of 14 rabbits after missing a food cache.

The seven, flown to the mission house here, awaited arrival later today of their eight fellow-sufferers who will be brought by plane from their camp 60 miles southeast of Moosonee.

Edward Paris, 49-year-old veteran of the north country, spoke for all of them when he said: "I had full confidence in my boss—and God."

The 15-man crew was found New Years Day by Pilot G. R. Spradbrow of Dominion Skyways. They awaited rescue beside the Missikabi river near the Ontario-Quebec boundary. All were weak and emaciated when found.

Swamps Prove Confusing

Leonard Bernier, 26, first to be brought to Moonsonee said the many swamps and small lakes along the 96-miles survey line "made it impossible" to find the cache, landed by airplane October 22. The party ran out of food November 22, he said and "we were all very weak" when Spradbrow circled over the camp Saturday.

Bernier, in immediate need of medical attention, was flown here Saturday. Lieut.-Col. J. Romeo Guenet of Lauzon, Que., leader of the little band; his 19-year-old son, Roger; Edward Paris, Three Rivers; Joseph Goedet, 44, Three Rivers, Maurice Audet, Ville Marie, Que., and Roland Lamarre, 22, Three Rivers, were brought in Sunday.

BUTLER, Ind., Jan. 3 (A.P.). — Sorrowing parents claimed from two funeral homes to-day the bodies of seven persons, who were killed by a speeding passenger train at a crossing here.

Coroner B. O. Shook, after a preliminary inquiry, said he believed the fog or steam on the car's windshield prevented the driver from seeing the warning gates.

The victims were: Marjory Roan 15, Gwendolyn Roan 15, both of Hicksville, O., and Richard Staup 16, Marvin Miller 14, Lowell Blythe 15, Merle Sarver 15, and Jacob Stauffer 17, all of Edgerton, O.

Daylight Saving Is Carried By 2 to 1

Most Emphatic Endorsation Ever Given In Peterborough for Summer Time

Peterborough electors voted 2 to 1 in favor of daylight saving on New Year's Day, supporting the proposal to govern the city's activities by summer time by 3095 to 1531. The most emphatic endorsation ever registered here for daylight saving.

The last time a vote was taken on the question, four years ago, the bylaw was defeated by the narrow margin of 54 votes, the figures being 2115 against the proposal and 2061 in favor. Later in the year when a number of the factories went on summer time on their own accord the council passed a daylight saving bylaw and the system had been in force during the summer months ever since.

There was no doubt about the result Saturday for all but three of the 39 polling subdivisions in the city piled up majorities in favor of daylight saving. The first two polls reporting practically settled the issue for poll No. 14 in the centre ward started the avalanche moving with the vote of 79 to 26 in favor and then along came poll No. 1 in the south ward with a 61 to 44 verdict for daylight saving. Supporters of summer time realized then that the bylaw was "in the bag" for in previous votes the south ward electors had turned thumbs down on the idea of interfering with the clocks and the voters in the centre had been lukewarm in supporting it. Poll after poll continued to hang up "yes" majorities and it was not

JAPS OUT TO STOP U.K. AIDING CHINESE AT COST OF WAR

TOKYO, Jan. 3.—(CP-Havas).—Japan will stop British aid to China even if it is takes a war to do, Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, Minister of the Interior said in an interview published to-day by the Review Kaizo, a political magazine.

Admiral Suetsugu asserted it is Japan's mission to put an end to the "hegemoney" of the white race and said a "general conflagration" would inevitably accompany the execution of such a task.

"To break Chinese resistance we must absolutely stop British aid, perahps at the price of war," he said. "We can do it? Necessity will provide the means. Why does England not want to understand the futility of its support to China, which will simply draw the storm upon her?

"I do not want to believe that the Americans, whose interests are not affected by our action, will be taken in tow by England to fight us if we face the latter, arms in hand.

"Japan's economic strength is greater than the Chinese and the white imagine. Never shall we descend to the situation of Germany after the war.

THREATS, BLIZZARD KEEP MOTOR TOLL TO 3 IN ONTARIO

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP).—A New Year's blizzard and insistent police warnings against drunken drivers slowed down motor traffic over the holiday week-end and only three persons were killed in Ontario traffic accidents compared with six over the Christmas holiday.

Besides the three traffic deaths, one man was frozen to death and a father died from a brain injury following a fight with his son.

Throughout the province the New Year was ushered in with a gay round of midnight revelry, but when cars were driven they generally were driven carefully.

Toronto's 68th traffic fatality in 1937 was recorded early New Year's Eve when Boris Yaneff was killed after being struck by a car driven by a friend who was looking for him to offer him a lift home.

In Hamilton, Mrs. Alice Laking, 24-year-old mother of two children, was killed when an automobile she was riding in skidded into a ditch. The car was driven by her husband, Albert.

Trucker Arrested.

A milk truck went off the road near Sudbury and Mario Butazzini, 17, riding in the truck, received fatal injuries. James Cuddy, the truck driver, was arrested on a manslaughter charge.

George Carson, 66, was found frozen to death in a snowdrift in a field near Meaford. He left the storm-bound Georgian Bay town in a horse and cutter for his home nine miles distant, and police believe Carson became lost. Coroner F. L.

Package Of Bombs Just Hair Powder

New York, Jan. 3 (AP)

A HAIR-CURLING story developed at a West Side police station yesterday when Lawrence Tanenbaum, textile company head brought in a package and remarked excitedly: "I think it's a bomb!"

Police experts gingerly began to examine the package, which contained 14 small tin-foil packets filled with a greyish powder. In the open air, the packages began to grow warm. Police summoned the fire department.

Then it came out. The powder was to be used in curling women's hair, and heats up under certain conditions.

Emphatic Approval Given Record Of Alderman Glover

Hon. G. N. Gordon, Stocker, Cotton and Juby Complete the Two-Year Men Elected

Five of last year's aldermen were returned for two year terms and three new men entered the city council for one year in Peterborough's municipal elections on New Year's Day.

R. M. Glover headed the polls with 3,300 votes, a plurality of 798 over George N. Gordon, K.C., who was second highest with 2,502. Walter Stocker was third with 2,099, Robert S. Cotton fourth with 2,080 and James Juby completed the successful group of five with 2,077 votes. Only 22 votes separated Stocker and Juby, the third and fifth men.

The other nine candidates for two year terms fared as follows: James Dutton 1662; Fred T. Tuggey 1619; Dr. E. Mark Crough 1585; William S. Johnston 992; James Lewis 776; Frank W. Lundy 607; Fred Dainton 288; Harold R. Phoenix. 257.

One Year Candidates

Herb J. McCannan was elected at the head of the six candiates who sought three 1-year vacancies. He polled 2.390 votes. Wilfred F. Huycke, K.C., was second with 2,239; and Herbert I. Bradburn, 2128, third. The votes for the other three men were: John Edgar 1636; Jacob Low 1264; and Joseph Vinette 1102.

The ratepayers gave an emphatic approval to the record of Alderman Glover, repeating their pronouncement of confidence two years ago when he was first elected, heading the polls at that time with 4,714 votes. Alderman Gordon received a similar honor one year ago when he defeated Mayor-elect Hamilton by a plurality of 13 for the distinction of attaining first place.

The heavy snow storm of New Year's Eve left the city's roads heavy for motoring and materially discouraged many of the ratepayers from going to the polls. Reports from some of the deputy returning officers agreed that they had many idle moments during the morning, and that most of the votes were cast during the afternoon.

The personnel of the new council for 1938 will be—Mayor James Hamilton, Aldermen Glover, Gordon, Stocker, Cotton, Juby, E. R. Wilson, McCannan, Huycke and Bradburn. The tenth alderman, to take the place of M. R. Sloan who resigned

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO DUTTON'S WORK BY MAYOR-ELECT

The election of four old regular two-year members of the city council, particularly as one of them, Ald. R. M. Glover, headed the polls by a large majority, was pointed out by Mayor-elect James Hamilton, in addressing the Rotary Club to-day, as an indication that the attitude of the majority of council on the questions that had come before them during the past year had been endorsed by the electors.

"It is a sign that the people must have felt that what we did was right," said the Mayor-elect, who congratulated Rotarians R. M. Glover and James Juby upon their re-election for two years.

"I cannot let this occasion pass," he said, "without expressing my deep regret at the fact that Rotarian James Dutton was not elected. Ald. Dutton was in many respects the most useful member of council and has done a wonderful lot of work in the interest of the citizens. He took charge of that most difficult post, the chairmanship of the relief

MISUSE TO END SHAKEY SYSTEM OF CAPITALISM

Roosevelt Hits Hard In Opening Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(CP).—President Roosevelt told the United States Congress to-day that "misuse on the powers of capital" must be ended "or the capitalistic system will destroy itself through its own abuses," and projected a policy of peace "in a world where stable civilization is actually threatened."

He declared that in this day of undependable treaty obligations "on the part of others" America must be adequately strong in self-defence," and added:

"World peace through international agreements is most safe in the hands of democratic representative governments — or, in other words, peace is most greatly jeopardized in and by those nations where democracy has been discarded, or has never developed."

Dealing with the situation at home in a message delivered personally to a joint session of the newly convened House of Representives and Senate, the President called upon both Capital and Labor to cooperate with the Government in working out the welfare of the nation. Both groups, he said, should realize that "power and responsibility go hand in hand."

A balanced budget is out of the question for the next fiscal year, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed in his 4,000-word message, covering the whole field of major legislation for this session, as well as business policies and international affairs. He

Hastings Church Swept By $6,000 Sunday Blaze

Building Badly Damaged As Flames Rage For Nearly Two Hours

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 3. — The interior of Trinity United Church, Hastings, was almost completely gutted by flames in a Sunday morning fire which started half an hour before services were to begin. Firemen poured a steady stream of water on the blaze for nearly two hours before the flames were subdued, after $6,000 damage had been done. The building is of red brick construction.

The fire was discovered about ten o'clock by George Bonds, the caretaker, and only occupant of the building at that time. The basement near the furnace was all aflame and he was unable to do anything to prevent its spread except sound the alarm on the church bell. The furnace is believed to have become overheated during his fifteen minutes' absence from the church.

Organ Destroyed

Everything in the basement was completely demolished, including a piano, organ, and chairs. The $1,500 pipe organ in the main body of the church is believed to be destroyed by water. The pews were in good condition except for a few at the back which were scorched. Walls received a bad scorching and the floor of the church was left hanging on very slim timbers.

Loss was estimated at $6,000, and the church and contents were insured for $5,200, including $500 insurance on the pipe organ. This is the first fire Hastings has experienced since H. M. Fowlds Co. grain elevator burned about fourteen years ago.

Hastings Volunteer Fire Brigade aided by the fire engine were instrumental in keeping the loss down to a minimum, in view of the fact that many of them were yet in bed. Frank Sargent, one of the volunteers, received cuts about the face and was treated in Dr. Campbell's

Negotiations To Start This Month On New U.S. Trade Treaty

OTTAWA, Jan. 3—(CP). — The Cabinet will meet to-morrow as the Government launches the last part of its preparations for the Parliamentary session which opens January 27.

During the next 24 days the administration is expected to fill five Senate vacancies, possibly announce what steps it intends to take regarding unemployment insurance and put finishing touches to the Throne Speech which will announce its legislative program.

In a New Year's message from Finance Minister Dunning the nation read there is no hope for a balanced budget this year. The Finance Minister did not promise to balance the country's books when he made his budget speech last April, but some had believed he might do so.

His message said expenditures necessitated for drought relief on the Prairies and falling railway revenues had rendered such ha hope untenable. He hoped the deficit at next March 31 would be within $35,000,000.

Negotiations were expected to start this month for a new trade agreement between this country and the United States, following the announced intention of both governments to produce a substitute for the existing pact. Bargaining will probably take place in Washington.

Wounds Kill Third War Writer After Shell Hits Auto

Fourth Is Injured As Correspondents Cover Battle Of Teruel In Spain

ZARAGOZA, Spain, Jan. 3 (AP)—Edward J. Neil, Jr., Associated Press war correspondent with the Spanish Insurgent armies, died yesterday of shrapnel wounds he suffered Friday while reporting the Insurgent counter offensive on the Teruel front.

The 37-year-old white-haired war correspondent failed to rally after blood transfussions, administered at the Red Cross Hospital here, 100 miles north of Teruel.

He was the third to die of wounds caused when a 75 millimetre shell struck an automobile in which four correspondents were seated at the village of Caude, five miles from Teruel.

Bradish Johnson, correspondent of the magazines "Spur" and "News Week," was killed and E. R. S. Sheepshanks of Reuters, also brought to Zaragoza, died Friday night. Harry Philby of The Times of London was injured slightly.

For a time Sunday Neil had seemed out of danger. He had been given one blood transfusion at Caude before being brought to the hospital here. Other transfusions followed.

Fellow journalists and Insurgent press department officials were with Neil at his death. He had suffered 34 wounds in his legs and abdomen and fracture of one leg. Insurgent General Franco expressed deep sympathy.

Smiths Falls Turkey Has Silver Diet

Smith Falls, Jan. 3.

THE goose that laid the golden egg hasn't much, apparently, on the turkeys in the Ardendale district, 60 miles west of Smiths Falls, scene of a recent gold strike.

A. R. Gladden, Smiths Falls man, bought a turkey near Ardendale last week for the New Year's dinner, and on cleaning the bird found three small silver nuggets in the gizzard. He is also saving several bits of rock, also found in the gobbler's gizzard, for further examination.

Germany will buy 300,000 cases of citrus fruits grown in Egypt this season.

Two Babies Born On New Year's Day

AT both hospitals in the city the New Year was marked by the arrival of baby girls.

Mrs. Albert Watkins, 586 Water street became the mother of a fine baby girl at 9.45 a.m. on the first day of the year. She was attended at Nicholls Hospital by Dr. G. R. Scott.

Eight o'clock the same night Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald, Lakefield gave birth to an equally fine girl baby at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Hay Goes Down 150 Feet Through Ice As Trucker Leaps Clear

Lindsay, Jan. 3 (CP)

ROSS Curry, Haliburton, scrambled to safety when his truck loaded with hay, crashed through the ice of Scribbaw Lake, 14 miles north of Haliburton village, yesterday.

The cab was submerged but the top of the truck remained above the ice until the hay was removed when it sank to the bottom, about 150 feet.

Curry had a like experience on Moose Lake last winter when a truck loaded with wood went through the ice. An attempt will be made to salvage the truck that sank yesterday.

Troops Lock in Battle In Knee-Deep Drifts

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Jan. 3 (AP).—Fighting in knee-deep snow, insurgent troops today reported taking the strategically-important town of Villastar in a swift right flank action on the Teruel front.

Governments reinforcements sent to Villastar, five miles west of Teruel, were powerless to halt the insurgent attack, a Salamanca communique said.

TEXANS SPEEDING OWN NEWSPRINT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 3 (AP).—Cranston Williams, secretary-manager of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, said yesterday "the only definite protection that American publishers can have to prevent arbitrary price fixing (on paper) by Canadian manufacturers and Americans operating in Canada, co-operating with Canadian politicians, is to develop the southern pine newsprint industry."

Williams expressed hope that "plans will be completed soon which will bring about production of newsprint at the first mill in Texas about January 1, 1939."

Reporting an increase in price of newsprint paper today of 17.5 per cent. to publishers generally and 20 per cent. in Texas, Williams said:

"It looks to me like the immediate effect of these increases is to cause publishers to reduce consumption. Figures already show more newsprint production and greater capacity than demand. The price has been raised without consideration of the law of supply and demands, and it seems to me that publishers are going to have to reduce consumption to bring about reasonable prices."

Highest honor that can come to a girl from the tiny Bavarian village of Oberammergau is to play the role of the Virgin Mary in the Passion Play. In more than 300 years only one girl has twice been chosen for the coveted honor—Miss Anni Rutz, who is shown here in Hollywood, Calif. Miss Rutz, who has never used powder or lipstick and braids her hair in becoming simplicity, will return soon to her native mountain village for the election of the fortunate one who will be chosen to play the role in 1940—and she hopes to again win the honor. The famous play was started in 1634 as a promise to God to check the Black Plague.

TRAFFIC TIED UP IN HASTINGS AREA

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 3.—Traffic was tied up on the provincial highway from Cobourg to Norwood for a few hours in the wake of the New Year's eve snowstorm. Motorists reported huge drifts of snow eight feet high on both the highway and Hastings-Campbellford road. Many cases of motorists being stuck on the road were reported.

The loose snow made it nearly impossible for trucks to move on Front street. A few Hastings young people, who had visited out of town for the evening were forced to "hoof it" home, when their cars refused to push through the snow.

VIOLENT DEATHS TOTAL 14 TO MAR CANADA'S HOLIDAY

TORONTO, Jan. 3 (CP)—Canada left the holiday season behind today and her people settled down to the work of a new year after a long week-end marred by 14 violent deaths.

Ontario and Quebec with five led the death toll. Seven of the fatalities resulted from traffic accidents. Others were from a variety of causes.

Young 1938 was ushered in efficiently from coast to coast Friday night in celebrations that equalled pre-depression standards. A more formal observance of the new year occurred Saturday in Ottawa at the traditional Governor General's levee when Lord Tweedsmuir received in the Hall of Fame at Canada's parliament buildings.

Ontario's official reception was unique. With Chorley Park, the vice-regal mansion, closed Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews held his first reception in the province's legislative chamber which was dressed up for the occasion.

Four On Prairies

Only other Canadian provinces to report fatal accidents were Manitoba and Alberta. Each had two.

The death list:

City and Provincial Police reported the holiday weekend was unmarred by a single accident of any consequence, notwithstanding that road conditions throughout the district were bad.

"No, sir," was the reply. "But I don't feel very well."

Ice Bugs Found 'Out of Bounds' May Upset Old Theories

Insects Resembling Crickets Discovered In B.C. At Only 1,660 Feet Up

KAMLOOPS, B.C., Jan. 3.—(CP).—Hailed as a "revolutionary find," nine specimens of the rare "ice bug" have been discovered by two members of the Dominion Entomological Department near Kamloops at a lower altitude than they were known to exist.

G. Allan Mail announced yesterday he and J. D. Greigson found the bugs, less than an inch long with a light brown shell somewhat resembling crickets or cockroaches. The find was made at about 1,660 feet near Mount St. Paul, across the Thompson river from here.

The grylloblatta campodeiformis as it is known to science, has been discovered only in some six other places in the world, all at about 6,000 feet.

"I don't know where they went in the hot weather," said Mr. Mail, for the bugs were found on a mountain face with a southern exposure subject to terrific summer heat.

Prof. G. J. Spencer of the University of British Columbia Zoology Department, said the discovery was "revolutionary." The bugs' presence at less than 2,500 feet would upset previous theories, he said.

Young Woman Gives Returning Officer Argument—Wanted To Put Ballot In Box

AMONG the last to enter polling sub-division No. 16 at South Central School before the polls closed at five o'clock Saturday afternoon, a young woman is reported to have given the deputy returning officer quite an argument and to have almost forfeited her vote as a result.

The young woman, stated to be on the Normal School teaching staff, reportedly insisted she had the right to place her own ballot in the box and argued strenuously when the D.R.O. requested her to hand the ballot to him.

The argument was going strong, when one of the special election constables in the adjoining subdivision "butted in" to quote the D.R.O. and supported the young woman in her contention she had the right to place her own ballot in the box.

"I did not argue further with her. To save any trouble I told her I would grant her the privilege of placing her own ballot in the box, if she would let me see my initials on the ballot and place it in the box as I directed", the D.R.O. declared in relating the unusual incident.

The matter was later reported by him to Returning Officer S. E. Armstrong, who upheld the D.R.O. in the action he had taken, and agreed the voter might well have forfeited her vote under provisions of the Municipal Election Act.

The Act requires that a voter shall make an X opposite the names of the candidate, he (or she) wishes to vote for, and shall so fold the ballot paper that the names are not seen, and forthwith hand it to the D.R.O. to place in the ballot box in the presence of those present in the polling station.

Section 114; sub section (d) says that the voter shall, "Then deliver the ballot paper so folded to the deputy returning officer."

Intermarket spreading, involving southern buying against sales at Chicago, and minor seaboard purchases provided bulk of trade earlier. However, Canadian wheat sales to Europe were mostly from stocks afloat.

EX-NEWSMAN DIES

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Jan. (CP).—Thomas J. Holden, 66, former newspaper man, died in hospital here Saturday. He started his newspaper career as a printer and later took up editorial work. He was employed on the old St. Catharines Journal, and later on the St. Catharines Standard as a reporter and city editor.

HOW NURSE CURBED HER RHEUMATISM

Rheumatic Pains are no respecter of age, or social position. Rich men, poor men; women and idle women all provide victims to this demon of pain. When Nurse Isaacson found that she had been singled out she set to work and cleared the Rheumatic Pains away with Fynnon Salt.

"I am a private nurse," she writes, "and had Rheumatism since the War, having got very wet at night when in charge of tents at hospital grounds. That started the Rheumatism. It got into my hands, showing its forming lumps in my finger joints. I attended to them to a Nurang Matron and she told me to try Fynnch Salt. I have only taken one packet and am just starting another, but the lumps are much smaller and you can tell what that means to me in my work. You can bet I shall tell others with Fynnon Salt and sing its praises everywhere."

Even stubborn cases will generally respond if you take Fynnon Salt every day. In a few days you will notice a new suppleness in the joints, and blessed freedom from pain. Fynnon Salt is a proven British remedy, is now obtainable at any drug store—75c a large package. If you have any difficulty getting supplies, write: Fynnon Salt Agencies, St. Gabriel Street, Montreal.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

HALL'S BRIDGE

On Wednesday the annual entertainment for the Sunday School scholars of St. Matthew's Church, Hall's Bridge, with their parents and friends was given in the Parish Hall. The program, arranged and managed by the Rev. E. C. Moore, assisted by his son, Mr. Godfred Moore, consisted of magic lantern slides depicting the stories of "Gulliver's Travels," "Little Red Riding Hood," and "Jack and the Beanstalk." At intervals between the pictures, carols were heartily sung by the audience, and in conclusion, refreshments, provided by parents, were served. Presents from a large and beautifully decorated Christmas tree were distributed, the absentees not being forgotten. The evening's fun stopped at 10.30 p.m., when all dispersed to their homes, after having spent a very enjoyable evening.

On Christmas morning a Communion service was held in the church at 9 o'clock, the Rev. Moore officiating.

Amongst those visiting their friends and relations were Miss Ethel McCaffrey of Toronto, who is spending the vacation with her sister, Mrs. Harry Shearer.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Chesser (nee Gloria Barr) came from Toronto on a visit to Mr. Chesser's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Barr, returning on Sunday evening.

Miss Viva Shearer, Peterborough, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Shearer.

Vincent Graham, Toronto, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Graham, for Christmas.

On Christmas morning several parties from the village visited Peterborough to witness the wedding of Dr. Richard Carveth of Toronto and Miss Margaret Wilson, formerly of Hall's Bridge.

HAVELOCK CLUB HOLDS BANQUET

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 3. — The Girls' Club of the United Church held its annual Christmas banquet recently in the church basement. Misses Peggy and Natalie Clarke surprised the girls by bringing in a roasted turkey, which they bought with pennies saved during the year. About 8 o'clock Santa Claus made a surprise visit and presented the girls with many beautiful gifts from the tree, and then took a photo of the group before leaving. Miss Minnie Williams, instructress of the club, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers from "Her Girls." The prizes for the year were presented by Miss Williams as follows: Highest number of points, Miss Muriel Russell, an autograph quilt; second highest, Miss Viola McGowan, an afghan; for perfect church attendance and Sunday School attendance, beautiful books were awarded to Misses Eileen Brisbin, Ruby Johnson, and Muriel Russell.

HASTINGS "CHIVARI."

HASTINGS, Jan. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Abbott, newlyweds, were accorded a real old fashioned chivari on Friday night, the day of their wedding. The bride was the former Mrs. Bert Sherman. Many of Mr. Abbott's fellow employees and friends armed with noise making equipment of every description called at their home and kept up the racket until the groom appeared at the door and led them downtown, where they were given treats, the bride being deserted on her wedding night.

U.S. CHECK SHOWS 7,822,912 JOBLESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Administration leaders surveyed the United States unemployment problem anew today in the light of census figures that between 7,822,912 and 10,870,000 persons were out of work in November.

John D. Biggers, Ohio glass manufacturer who supervised a voluntary registration of the unemployed, said the number out of work had increased since the count was made.

The Biggers census and surveys made by the Works Progress Administration and other agencies will form the basis of decisions on the future of federal relief.

Biggers said 7,822,912 persons, returning cards distributed by postmen, signified that they were out of work and wanting employment. A house-to-house canvas of certain "test" areas showed this report to be 72 per cent complete, and thus the higher figure of 10,870,000 persons actually unemployed was projected.

Some government economists said unemployment probably would be most pronounced in January and February because of a seasonal "slack period," but that jobs might increase in the spring.

PROVINCIAL POLICE FIND WOMAN DEAD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 3.—Found dead in her room when a rear door was forced open by Provincial Police, Mrs. James Lasher was said to have died from heart failure according to a report given The Examiner by Coroner Dr. E. A. Stuart.

Neighbors became alarmed when they noticed a night light burning on a kitchen table late in the morning, and after trying to gain entry to the house, summoned Provincial Officer D. G. Campbell, who forced his way into the house to find Mrs. Lasher dead in bed.

A widow for nearly twelve years, she leaves one daughter, Mrs. J. Seabrook of town. Seventy-six years of age and in apparent good health, her death came as a shock to neighbors who had seen her around the day before when she had been down town doing her shopping as was her daily custom.

GEN. CHIANG QUITS PRESIDENT'S JOB TO LEAD ARMIES

SHANGHAI, Jan. 3 (AP)—China's military leader — General Chiang Kai-Shek—stripped himself of civil administrative responsibilities today and concentrated his efforts on effectively resisting the Japanese invaders.

It was made known simultaneously China is training, behind the lines, 800,000 recruits to support the 90 divisions—approximately 900,000 men—trying to hold back the Japanese.

Chiang Kai-Shek became commander-in-chief of the army and temporarily took charge of the navy while Finance Minister H. H. Kung, succeeding him as president of the executive Yuan, assumed the highest civil administrative functions. Other important changes in key posts and ministries were made.

The drastic shake-up, designed to stiffen military resistance and give Chiang Kai-Shek freer play of his recognized skill as an army leader, was reported to have brought conservative elements in the government to greater prominence.

No Slackening by Japs

Meanwhile the Japanese were rushing their military campaign ahead, resisted but not halted in efforts to force China into submission.

Latest Japanese gains were in rich Shantung province, where the invaders captured the city of Taian on the Tientsin-Pukow railway. Chinese troops blew up a bridge and withdrew across the Wen River, establishing a new defence line at Tawnkow.

Chinese air activity was marked by an attack on Nanking. Only vague details were learned. The Chinese said they bombed a Japanese airdrome outside the former Chinese capital, destroying two planes on the ground.

At Canton, city officials threatened to destroy the populous port rather than surrender it to Japan's threatened south China offensive.

Christmas Concerts

S. S. 3, BURLEIGH.

The annual Christmas concert of S.S. No. 3, Burleigh, saw the school crowded with parents and friends, who greatly enjoyed the program put on by R. Dunford and his pupils. Mrs. G. Kilborn, musical supervisor, was present to lead in the musical numbers. The program was as follows:

Recitation, Doris Bolton; Welcome by seven pupils; carol, alto and soprano; recitation, Madeline Stone; carol, by three girls; recitation, Milford Bolton; dialogue, "Mock Wedding"; recitation, Kaye Fraser; three-part hymn, alto, soprano, and baritone; recitation, Douglas Dunford; carol; recitation, Everett Bolton; recitation, Lillian Windsor; carol; dialogue, "The Five-Fifteen", carol.

At the end of the program jolly old Santa Claus appeared and distributed the many presents.

FOR the splendid vote given me throughout the city I am deeply appreciative. To all my supporters I extend my grateful thanks.

Your confidence in me shall be justified.

STAGE FINE DANCE AT SPRINGBROOK

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Jan. 3.—A social evening and dance under the auspices of the Men's Association of St. Mark's church was held in the Orange Hall at Springbrook on Wednesday evening, Dec. 29th, and considering the many counter attractions in the vicinity, was well attended. Excellent music was furnished for round and square dancing by Miss K. Doyle, piano; Mattie Bell, banjo, and Doug. Jones, violin.

Herb Jones acted as floor manager in his usual capable manner.

An excellent lunch was served shortly after midnight and the winners of the door prize and cutwalk were decided at this time also, the door prize going to Mr. Clarence Thomson and the beautiful New Year's cake to Miss Margaret Brown and Mr. Carl Heath.

All those attending report a splendid time.

BIG APPLE BARRED.

HASTINGS, Jan. 3.— The "big apple" dance is taboo in this quiet, peace-loving community. Patrons to the local dance hall are met with two signs placed on posts within the hall stating "The big apple dance is prohibited in this dance hall." Few residents ever saw an exhibition of this dance and evidently are not likely to in Hastings.

HALL'S BRIDGE

On Wednesday the annual entertainment for the Sunday School scholars of St. Matthew's Church, Hall's Bridge, with their parents and friends was given in the Parish Hall. The program, arranged and managed by the Rev. E. C. Moore, assisted by his son, Mr. Godfred Moore, consisted of magic lantern slides depicting the stories of "Gulliver's Travels," "Little Red Riding Hood," and "Jack and the Beanstalk." At intervals between the pictures, carols were heartily sung by the audience, and in conclusion, refreshments, provided by parents, were served. Presents from a large and beautifully decorated Christmas tree were distributed, the absentees not being forgotten. The evening's fun stopped at 10.30 p.m., when all dispersed to their homes, after having spent a very enjoyable evening.

On Christmas morning a Communion service was held in the church at 9 o'clock, the Rev. Moore officiating.

Amongst those visiting their friends and relations were Miss Ethel McCaffrey of Toronto, who is spending the vacation with her sister, Mrs. Harry Shearer.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Chesser (nee Gloria Barr) came from Toronto on a visit to Mr. Chesser's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Barr, returning on Sunday evening.

Miss Viva Shearer, Peterborough, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Shearer.

Vincent Graham, Toronto, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Graham, for Christmas.

On Christmas morning several parties from the village visited Peterborough to witness the wedding of Dr. Richard Carveth of Toronto and Miss Margaret Wilson, formerly of Hall's Bridge.

HAVELOCK CLUB HOLDS BANQUET

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 3. — The Girls' Club of the United Church held its annual Christmas banquet recently in the church basement. Misses Peggy and Natalie Clarke surprised the girls by bringing in a roasted turkey, which they bought with pennies saved during the year. About 8 o'clock Santa Claus made a surprise visit and presented the girls with many beautiful gifts from the tree, and then took a photo of the group before leaving. Miss Minnie Williams, instructress of the club, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers from "Her Girls." The prizes for the year were presented by Miss Williams as follows: Highest number of points, Miss Muriel Russell, an autograph quilt; second highest, Miss Viola McGowan, an afghan; for perfect church attendance and Sunday School attendance, beautiful books were awarded to Misses Eileen Brisbin, Ruby Johnson, and Muriel Russell.

HASTINGS "CHIVARI."

HASTINGS, Jan. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Abbott, newlyweds, were accorded a real old fashioned chivari on Friday night, the day of their wedding. The bride was the former Mrs. Bert Sherman. Many of Mr. Abbott's fellow employees and friends armed with noise making equipment of every description called at their home and kept up the racket until the groom appeared at the door and led them downtown, where they were given treats, the bride being deserted on her wedding night.

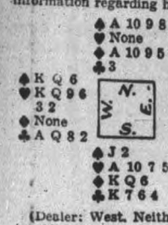
"The Authority on Authorities"

WAITING FOR INFORMATION BIDDING the opponent's suit usually is for the purpose of showing a big hand which guarantees game, or ability to take the first trick in that suit. It can serve other purposes, such as temporizing, in order to give your partner a chance to convey some additional information regarding his cards.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West's opening bid on this deal was 1-Heart, which North overcalled with 1-Spade. East passed and South called 1-No Trump. West rebid his hearts and North now bid 3-Diamonds, to which South responded with 3-No Trumps. West now put in a bid of 4-Clubs and North 4-Diamonds. When this came around to South, he did not relish a minor game, in view of the active bidding by [illegible]. He was not certain that [illegible] first overcall of 1-Spade [illegible] a five-card suit, as it might have been made on a four-carder to keep the bidding at the one level.

South, however, decided that there was one way to find out if the spades were longer than four cards, so he bid 4-Hearts. West, of course, doubled this, and North went to 4-Spades. South had achieved just what he was after, so passed.

The club J was led and the suit continued. North ruffed the second round and drew trumps, giving up one to West. Three tricks were lost, one diamond, one club and one spade, making game. With the distribution of the cards, game in diamonds was impossible.

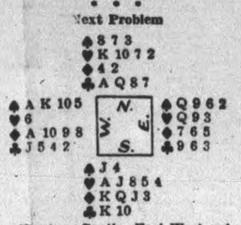
Next Problem



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

How should South play for 4-Hearts, which West doubled, after the leads of the spade A and K, followed by a third round?

MONDAY, JANUARY 3, 1938

What Voting Day Revealed

The one-year term brought three new aldermen to Peterborough City Council for 1938. Five members of the 1937 council were returned, and Ald. Wilson whose term had not expired, leaves six of the old council in office. R. M. Glover headed the polls when he offered himself for office two years ago, and he did the same again this year. On the daylight saving vote there were 4626 votes polled. If that represents the total number of people who voted then Ald. Glover secured a total of over 71 per cent. of the total vote. And that is high as such things usually go. Ald. G. N. Gordon who went back to the polls when he had another year to serve; did so because he said he wented the endorsation of the electors. He received that for which he asked and was the second man on the list. Seldom do three candidates run so close as did Ald. Stocker, Cotton and Juby. Their totals were:

Ald. Stocker	2099
Ald. Cotton	2084
Ald. Juby	2077

There were but 22 votes between third and fifth places.

The three who headed the one-year term had somewhat the same experience:

H. J. McCannan	2390
W. F. Huycke, K.C.	2239
H. I. Bradburn	2127

So there is nothing in the belief that it is difficult for a new man to find his way to the City Council, for these three one-year men, all new, were able to secure support which was greater than that extended to some who had already served and shown their worth.

* * *

Just a word for those who ran and met with defeat. There is no reason why such an individual should have any feeling of defeat. The plain truth is that the candidate who runs and is not successful is in a better position than the individual who does not run at all. He has at least come forward and offered his services, and in so doing has discharged any obligation he feels he may owe to his community.

The Examiner regrets the defeat of Ald. James Dutton. He has been a tireless and an intelligent worker. His integrity has never been questioned nor could it be. James Dutton has always been a plain, outspoken man. Before he entered City Council he was identified with the work of relief in Peterborough, having had much to do with its management since its inception, and to that work he was named after entering Council. Experience in other cities shows that the man who is identified with Relief often goes down at the polls. It is a necessary and highly important work, but it never makes a man popular. Peterborough has lost the services of a good public servant in the defeat of James Dutton.

There is still a vacancy in the Council, and that will be filled by appointment. It was caused by the resignation of Ald. Sloan. He resigned prior to the 15th day of December, and by so doing placed in the hands of Council the right to name his successor to complete a two-year term. The 1937 Council did not make the appointment because those who were approached and who seemed to be the logical ones to take it did not desire to do so. Had the resignation come after the 15th day of December the seat would have been filled by the process of election.

It is here that there is opportunity for the city to retain the services of James Dutton. As the candidate with the highest vote in the list of those who did not succeed in gaining election the offer of the existing vacancy should be extended first to him. And when the offer is made the Examiner frankly suggests to Mr. Dutton that he should accept it. There are several reasons for this, but for the moment we mention one only: Mr. Dutton has his hand on the new East-West road scheme more throughly than any other man in the city. He knows well every move which has been made, understands exactly where the opposition exists and where and how it can be met. That plan is so near to success now that Peterborough needs Mr. Dutton in an official capacity to deal with it. The Examiner would respectfully urge Mr. Dutton to consider the matter from that standpoint. By reason of his intimate knowledge of the situation he is best qualified to carry on to completion a project for which the Peterborough of the future will have ample reason to thank his farsightedness and his persistence.

People in Peterborough said definitely they wanted daylight saving time, and the vote was so decisive there can be no argument about it. The dates were inserted in the bylaw, so it will become effective June 14 and remain until September 5. The city had an experiment with it last year and it must have convinced a number of voters that the plan was sound enough. Over the week-end the Examiner received several letters objecting to what the people had voted for, but when the people vote this paper is ready to accept their answer.

Our present method of dealing with such a question is far from the best. The government should make the regulations and avoid all the mussed-up conditions we experience during the summer, but the government is not apt to touch the question. It knows that daylight saving is not popular with the rural ridings and fear of antagonizing that vote causes the government to leave in the hands of the municipalities a question which should be dealt with in a general way rather than by community opinion.

The organization of the Suburban Ratepayers' Association in North Monaghan apparently did what the members hoped for—that is, it threw control of the council definitely in the hands of the suburban community. The manner in which the vote was split can be seen by the fact that Councillor-elect Grady who headed the poll, received not one vote in the one strictly rural polling place in the riding, viz., No. 5 Town Hall.

Deputy-Reeve Johnston who was elected by acclamation, is the one farmer in the North Monaghan council for 1938.

They Are Well Organized

There was a rather significant remark made by A. D. Runions at the testimonial dinner tendered him in this city by the young farmers of the county. Just this: "When my wife and I drove in to Peterborough four years ago we were complete strangers. Now I can name at least 98 per cent. of the people in this room." And that was no idle boast, but it was a statement which few people could have made. There were at least 250 in that room, from all sections of the county as well as from the city.

That wide acquaintance gives a fair idea of the way in which there are organizations centred in the office of the Agricultural Representative which reach into all corners of the county. Shows too the extent to which these organizations are actively engaged in furthering the work which is going on at our farms. The young people are organized intelligently and helpfully in the county in a way which has not been done in the city. In calf clubs, grain clubs, stock judging education and competition, the junior farmer section of the Agricultural Society, in school fairs and so on these people meet together, and at the same time they meet their Agricultural Representative. There are few people who can come into a community as large as Peterborough county and at the end of four years say they can name 98 per cent. of a great gathering such as said farewell to Mr. Runions.

Those Christmas Trees

The Examiner received a greeting card, and on the outside was a picture of a man taking a Christmas tree out of the woods. His tree was green but not so with the others. They looked as though they had been burned over or else were not of the coniferous variety. The lettering under this stated: "The Last Christmas Tree, Peterborough County, 1950."

On the other side was the statement that in United States there are two states where Christmas trees cannot be exported; also that California in 1937 bought 250,000 Christmas trees from Newfoundland because they could not buy them in their own state or any other state in the union.

The last statement was the most worthy of note: "Trees sold in Peterborough county, 5 to 10 years old, for from three to six cents each in the woods." We could not find any record of sales being made at so low a price as three cents per tree, but we did hear of trees ten years old being sold for ten cents each, and those of less size at much lower figures than that. Certainly there can be no profit in selling a tree ten years old for ten cents, and yet it is done. Such a tree has passed the age of uncertainty; it has shown that it is going to live and grow into a larger tree. In our day we would probably not see such a tree turn into what we call commercial timber value, but the tree is on its way to that stage. So far we have done very little about it. People who want to sell Christmas trees are at liberty to secure them where they can. And while these sturdy little trees are being cut and paid for at ridiculous prices we plan to plant more trees of the kind which are being unprofitably marketed at Christmas. We need Christmas trees of course, but the problem does not seem to add up right when looking for the answer.

Teachers Who Are Not Paid

Teachers have not been doing well in Saskatchewan; not for some years. It is probable that at the end of the year 1937 arrears in their salaries would total $1,000,000. We have before us a statement that the morale of some of the teachers has been adversely affected, and that is probably correct. Also there is the added suggestion "that something should be done about it." And that of course is what people say about anything when they do not know of anything better to say.

The Examiner received a letter from a farmer in Saskatchewan a few days ago and he spoke of a school not far from his place where the teacher had not been paid "in full or anything like it for six years. For the last two years she has received enough to buy her clothing and get something to eat. That's all." The farmer was moved to admiration for the spirit shown by this teacher. He writes: "She could have gone back East any time but she wanted to stay with it and see it through. When things get right here again we'll see she is attended to, but it has been a tough and a hard time waiting."

The unfortunate part is that in such a case a teacher has to share the conditions of the community in which she lives. She is employed to serve people who for the moment have no money, and the moment has been extended to about seven years. If the employers—in this case the drought-stricken farmers—have no money, then the employee—the teacher—cannot hope to be in a more favored position. The teacher has to share the poverty which is the common lot of the entire district. There is something to be said for the teachers in Saskatchewan to whom $1,000,000 is owing in back pay, and yet who keep on teaching because there are children who should be going to school. As long as the country keeps on producing people with that outlook we need no be alarmed about the future of our citizenship.

Why Blame The Year?

We read that people in New York were glad to see the end of the year 1937. Particularly those in the financial district. The year had started well, but the end was not according to the liking of those who dealt in stocks. They were certain the year 1937 had not used them well and they purchased little noise makers for five cents to show what they thought of 1937.

Perhaps that is one way of looking at any given year, but 1937 was not different to other years. The days came one at a time and the New York people and those elsewhere could do with them what they wished. The year 1937 did not shove prices up or down. The actions of the people who were living and working in 1937 did that.

The year itself went about its business in a regular way. It brought its spring and summer; it brought rain and warmth and that in turn caused produce to grow. Likewise it brought a time of reaping so there would be sufficient to eat. Perhaps people had a good time making merry at the going out of 1937, but actually it was no better or no worse than the people made it.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is hard to say whether it is more painful to be held up or held down.

Some folk paid $15 a couple in Toronto to watch the New Year come in and by the time 1938 really arrived they couldn't see a thing.

A United States expedition will try to climb an unscaled peak in Venezuela, discovered by a plane. We could name a few folk we would like to see volunteer for the attempt.

Roosevelt is planning new controls over American business. The problem seems to be just how much control the aforesaid business can stand and still continue to function.

Two elected members of the Legislature may get government posts and the only fly in the ointment is that the appointments would mean two by-elections.

Prince Edward Island is the only province in Canada that has no legislation governing wage scales, so that progress is being made. The difficulty is that there is no uniformity about the thing.

Gananoque water commissioners have resigned because the town council has been trying to dictate what use should be made of a $3,500 surplus compiled by the Commissioners. It seems to be a weakness of municipal politics to try to override the jurisdiction of the other fellows.

COUSIN EZRA

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Cousin Ezra's full of woe, just now he's feeling rather low, and rather hard to cheer; and it is kind of tough I think, to see my cousin on the blink, so early in the year.

¶ Now Ezra had resolved a lot, to do things which he really ought, his motive was real good; he'd do some kindly thing each day, and help the folk who passed his way, and act like what he should.

¶ The widow who lives next to him, is gentle, pretty and so slim, and not so very strong; the snow drifts at her place were big, so Ezra figured he should dig, it would not take him long.

¶ So Ezra scooped and shovelled hard, and cleared the snow from out her yard, and levelled all the banks; 'twas lovely what the widow said, and Ezra's face and neck went red, she smothered him with thanks.

¶ When Ezra turned toward his home, they say he coughed up quite a groan, his joy was cut in half; his wife had got the broom and spade, through banks of snow she had to wade, she'd shovelled out a path.

¶ When Ezra spoke she never heard, he dug but she said not a word, a coolness so I fear; it grieves me that it turned out so, the widow and her pile of snow—just starting the year.

ACCORDING TO A British newspaper there is much unrest among parents of young apprentices in the Royal Air Force over the decision to send 60 young boys from Cranwell Airdrome in Lincolnshire to Hong Kong and Singapore. Most of the lads are 19 or 20 years of age with at least two years' home training still to serve and some of them have been up only once or twice.

Eventually however the family fortunes improved and the future ambassador got a chance to go to Harvard and eventually into the banking business.

A Queer Defence Plan.

THE PEACE-LOVING land of 6,000,000 people sandwiched between Norway, the Baltic Sea and Finland has not had a war since Napoleon straddled Europe last century but that has not prevented Sweden's military chiefs devising the strangest defence idea on record.

Now It's Valuable.

FIFTEEN million tons of blast furnace slag, once a useless by-product for which research has now found a definite commercial value was produced by the United States steel industry in 1936, it is estimated.

For years the makers of pig iron and steel were faced with the problem of disposing of the slag or cinder formed during the refining of iron and steel and slag piles grew to such an extent that they covered thousands of acres of valuable land. Applied research, however, has revealed many practical uses for slag although the tonnage produced still exceeds the demand.

Crushed and screened blast furnace slag has been found useful as railway ballast, concrete aggragate, road material, covering material for roofs, a filtering medium in sewage-treatment beds and even as beds for oyster culture. About 4,250,000,000 tons of such slag is commercialized annually at an average value at producing points of approximately 90 cents per ton.

Another class of slag is granulated slag, prepared by forcing a stream of water or steam against the stream of molten slag emerging from the furnace. It is used as a component part of standard cement, as an insulation for concrete highways, in gas and water filtration, in highway and railway embankments, in cement building blocks and as a soil corrective agency. Over 2,000,000 tons of granulated slag with a value of about 25 cents per ton are marketed annually. Of that amount an estimated 500,000 tons is used in cement manufacture, displacing limestone valued at approximately $1.50 per ton.

Making the Gospel Appeal to Each Age

Paul Was a Modern Preacher When Delivering Message; Man Should Be Encouraged to Reason Things Out

(Letter in Montreal Star)

SIR,—PLEAS HAVE been made by readers for a return to gospel preaching. One, though objecting to modern preaching to suit people of the present age, upholds Paul and Spurgeon who were certainly modern each in his day. Paul to a distressing extent endeavored to fit the gospel to his hearers.

Many gospel hymns were inspiring and stimulated a desire for spiritual uplift but religion was made too static:—"All fully done long, long ago and nothing remains for me to do," a sentiment often as soporific as the ancient sale of indulgences. And a gospel testament was printed with red markings to emphasize passages deemed vital, but though many pointed to Christ almost none of His teachings were stressed, not even the "Sermon on the Mount," a general summary of His gospel and including the "Beatitudes."

Gospel means good news and the gospel heralded by the angels was, "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people —glory to God in the highest and on earth peace." It is obvious that the world needs an arousing to real religion, something which guides our mind to the relation we humans bear to life, its source, its future and this present. Religion claims a Creator ultimate and who continues coeximant throughout His creation always. Religion is one, really, but opinions differ as to obligation and destiny, and men are apt to follow some guide blindly, often cruelly, and in violence of our highest inborn instincts. But here is a point of supreme importance, that all founders of the great religions commanded in some degree the Golden Rule, allegiance to God and consideration to man. Teachers and leaders have often forbidden men to reason, but Jesus commanded all our mind to be stimulated and claimed to show us clearly of His Father and ours not a merciless tyrant but bearing our sufferings with tender compassion, Himself supreme in conformance to His golden rule of love, mercy and justice.

Cost of Operating Government House

Cost to the Occupant Does Not Seem to be Known; Public Funds Used to Provide at Least $48,481.

(Woodstock Sentinal-Review)

WHILE VARIOUS statements have been made as to the cost of maintaining Ontario's Government House, the public accounts disclose the expenditure in the fiscal year ending last March as $22,022.83: That is through the Public Works Department, and has nothing to do with $12,459 required for maintenance of the Lieutenant-Governor's office, which will have to be carried on in any event.

In a letter to Toronto Saturday Night, recently, protesting against closing of Government House, Mr. F. D. L. Smith alluded to "the $30,000 or $40,000 spent annually by the Lieutenant-Governor out of his own pocket." He was clearly offering an estimate only, and one cannot but wonder if it is near the mark; because the government has always taken care of some of the principal items.

For example, there was paid from public funds last fiscal year $9,975 for salaries; $3,820 to gardeners and firemen and for repairs to grounds; $4,638 for fuel, light and power, $2,697 for repairs and contingencies; $797 for telephone service, and so on. That leaves to the lieutenant-governor the cost of food, linen, certain domestic help, automobiles, etc. On the other hand, His Honor was voted $2,000 last year for contingencies in connection with the office, but spent $5,400, the difference being authorized by treasury minute. Then, of course, the lieutenant-governor of Ontario receives $10,000 salary from Ottawa.

That is to say, the Ontario government contributed $34,461 for maintenance of the office and of Government House, and the Dominion contributed $10,000 as salary of the incumbent. If in addition His Honor has spent "$30,000 or $40,000" annually from private means, he must have bought a lot of groceries. Probably Hon. Albert Matthews will not entertain as assiduously in his own residence, and as for fuel, light and power, he has to meet those bills anyway. We could be wrong, of course, but it does not appear that the new incumbent need be very seriously out of pocket on the proposition. At any rate, we defer expressions of sympathy.

When Men Fought With Their Bare Fists

They Slugged Then Until They Could Slug No More; John L. Sullivan Died in 1918, and Was Penniless

(From the New York Times)

ON A JULY afternoon, forty-eight years ago, John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain were facing each other in a turf ring at Richburg, Miss. For more than two hours they had been fighting, the world's championship at stake. The 2,000 gamblers, sports and loggers who watched wondered how much longer the fight would continue.

Both fighters staggered. Both gasped for breath. Then Sullivan swung a bare, bloody fist. Kilrain, dazed, wilted to the ground. It was the forty-eighth time he had been knocked down in this fight; his opponent had gone down only twenty-seven times. This latest knock-down ended the seventy-fifth round.

The thirty-second rest period ended, the victim of the knock-down shuffled his feet, but could not rise from his chair. A helper tossed a towel into the ring. Gamblers and sports howled hoarsely. Sullivan grinned and spat blood and swaggered as the undisputed bare-knuckle champion of the world. His opponent, who two years before had fought a 106-round draw with the champion of England, slowly realized what had happened.

Kilrain—he was Christened Joseph John Killion — fought a few more luckless bouts, then retired in 1896. Sullivan went on to a spectacular career of roistering and fighting which ended when he died in 1918, penniless.

But Jake Kilrain lived on, as innkeeper, rowing coach and park laborer. Last week he died in Boston, aged 78, a grizzled old man who had only two major regrets — that his son, Cecil, never became a famous fighter, and that the towel had been thrown into the ring that July day in 1889.

Found How Loan Sharks Do Business

Collect Interest Rates That Are Beyond All Reason; On Small Loans They Keep Increasing Penalties

(St. Catharines Standard)

THE TORONTO Better Business Bureau is doing a good job in exposing the loan sharks who are doing business in this country. Of course, it is better for any household never to make a loan of any kind, to pay as you go, but there are occasions and events in household history when such is impossible. A recent bulletin issued gives outrageous cases of gouging in Toronto. It is amazing that this usury can happen in this day and age but we quote from the bulletin:

Sometime ago the Bureau, just to prove that "Loan Sharks" were operating, borrowed $50 on two different occasions within one month. The first time this amount was borrowed for a period of two months. We paid the loan back in two months, plus an amount of $10 and we, therefor, paid in interest and charges at the rate of 13.3 per cent. per month or 160 per cent. per annum.

The second loan for a similar amount was made for the same period of time. This time we returned $70, representing the original sum of $50, plus $20 which works out at the rate of 283 per cent. per annum.

Now, let us take the case of two individuals who made complaints to the Bureau during the last few weeks. One of these persons borrowed $10 in a moment of weakness and signed a note for this amount, receiving $9.90 for a period of one week. He kept on renewing the loan of $10 every week, paying 50c, and this has been going on for nearly six months, so that he has paid $12 and yet the company from which he borrowed this money claims that he has only paid $3 on the principal. In other words, he still owes $7 of the original amount, although he has paid $12.

Not content with obtaining 50c every week, this particular "Loan Shark" charged this individual 50c every time he failed to make a payment at the end of the week.

There are legitimate companies doing business for families. It is quite true that they charge higher interest than the banks, but necessarily so, on account of the security. What misery and distress are added to distress by the sort of performance above related!

Bible Message for To-day . . . .

Maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters.—Ps. xxiii, 2.

When the poor and needy seek water, and there is none, and their tongue faileth for thirst, I the Lord will hear them, I the God of Israel will not forsake them. I will open rivers in high places, and fountains in the midst of the valleys: I will make the wilderness a pool of water, and the dry land springs of water.—Isaiah, 17, 18.

Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding. He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength. Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall: But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.—Isa. xl, 28-31.

To the Editor

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Editor Examiner:

Sir: This is the period of stocktaking, which should be mental as well as merchandizing. Were a ship at sea to be threatened with impending disaster, it would instinctively rush to the mind of each seaman or passenger, individually or collectively, to further every means to save life or property. The world is our ship, and if you think it too large a community to be any responsibility of yours, you are not using your God given mind, but merely "jazzying around" on the surface, as too many do, because it's easy.

Our world is facing two ways,— a heaven on earth, through the astounding advances of science and invention, and the will of a bountiful God, —or hell, through the same inventive genius, but directed by malevolent influences uncurbed. Have we nothing to do about it? Men of goodwill have had twenty years, "Ye are my witness" The first phase of world war, revolutionized civilization. Not a living soul has been unaffected. The last phase, feverishly prepared for, has, on three continents shown unparalleled vindictiveness.

"It cannot happen here," a pious hope only. If we are Christian, then our love must bear fruit for Ethiopia, Spain or China, as for Britain and America. If our Christianity reacts for "ourselves only," we have no defense from ruthlessness unrestrained. To shuffle off our responsibility is to bury our parabolic one talent in the ground, with the baleful consequences therein promised.

What can we do?

For hundreds of years Britain and America have been binding all races into one. Continue this universally, with an industrial system based on service, and equitable distribution system of all production. Thereby we shall occupy our vast open spaces, destroy racial rivalry and national ambition. If organized Christianity can set this example, then only can it be of God. Surely the long talked of unity of Christendom is with diversity, not necessarily uniformity. "Except your righteousness exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no wise enter into the Kingdom of God.

Yours truly,
CATHOLICITY.

THINGS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

The Firemen's Annual Ball

One of the gayest of the many gay events of New Year's Eve was the annual ball held by the members of the Peterborough Fire Department.

Approximately two hundred and fifty guests danced to the music of Don Rathbone and his 9-piece orchestra. Near midnight, colored caps and noisemakers were given out, and in a truly merry-making mood, the year 1938 was welcomed, with the bright scene enhanced by the vivid decorations. Red, white and blue twisted streamers covered the walls and were looped from the ceiling lights. Lacey nets in the same color scheme hung from the ceiling beams, and from the wide panels in the patriotic colors behind the orchestra stand, bright letters put forth "Greetings to all, 1937-38."

Patrons and patronesses of the dance were His Worship, Mayor George A. Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald, His Honor Judge Smoke and Mrs. Smoke, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C. and Mrs. Gordon, J. J. Kawartha Club Dance

The annual New Year's Eve party at the Kawartha Club was one of the jolliest in the club's history.

By way of novel decoration, a canopy of green, red and white streamers stretched from the entrance across the solarium to the lounge, and was held with large rose clusters. Mose Yokom and his orchestra supplied gay music, and near midnight, noisemakers and colored hats added to the fun. As the Old Year faded, the guests joined hands, while the orchestra played "Auld Lang Syne."

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Tuesday, January 4.

Judging by the predominant planetary configurations, this should be a particularly lively day that may bring surprising news regarding new propositions. It may be necessary to travel. Contracts and business should flourish, but be careful with writings. The mind will be attuned to high vibrations.

Those whose birthday it is will have a very lively year, with new business new contracts and sudden changes resulting from hasty news. This may call for readjustment of the environs and interests. Read papers cautiously before signing.

A child born on this day may be an original thinker, with proclivities to explore strange fields of thought and action, probably in realms of science or nature's finer forces. It may have a "good business head" and attain success if properly controlled and educated.

Students May Ban Public Petting | Dorothy Dix | Girls Getting New Ideas

THE student newspaper of one of our largest coeducational universities has started a campaign to suppress public petting, and asks the school authorities to take vigorous measures to chase Cupid off the campus.

Let us hope and pray that this reform will sweep the country, for there is no other one thing that gets more upon the nerves of the beholders and fills us with a greater nausea than the spectacle of modern youth doing its love-making with a total disregard of the time, the place and the proprieties that makes us blush for those who have no sense of shame for themselves. A cynic has said that there are things that are worse than immoral. They are bad taste. And this is one of them.

Now considering petting, there are three schools of thought. The one held by the petters is that it is an innocent diversion and that, anyway, it is nobody's business where they do it, and that if it makes other people slightly queasy to look at long-drawnout kisses they can shut their eyes and go hang. And bad cess to them!

The contention of the moralists, on the other hand, is that playing with TNT or airplane stunting or automobile racing are safe sports for the young compared to petting parties. They say that a boy and girl can get as drunk on kisses as they can on bootleg liquor and be just as irresponsible for what they do as any sot who stumbles over the brink of a cliff into the precipice below.

They say that petting is the first aid to most of the unsuitable marriages that end in divorce; that it is the top of the slide whose bottom is Avernus for girls; that if the Boy Friend would sit on one side of the room and the Girl Friend on the other and megaphone their sentiments to each other it would save them, and the balance of the world, a lot of trouble.

The third point of view on petting, which is that of most of us, is—oh, well, the youngsters are going to pet. Nobody can stop 'em. All we ask is that they do it in private and not force us to have to assist, as the French say, in their billing and cooing.

We are tired of seeing girls with their arms draped around youths who are driving automobiles and are so distracted between love and guiding the car that they are a menace to everybody on the street. We are sick of looking at cuddy little things at the movies with their heads pillowed on the shoulders of their escorts. We are so fed up with boys walking with their arms around their sweeties. And we are, oh, so weary of beholding all the kissing and the fondling and the necking and hand-holding of calf lovers. It would be such a blessed relief if only the petters would do their petting at home instead of abroad.

One wonders, anyway, what is the matter with the young people that they do not realize that there is a time and a place for all things, as the Good Book says. Do they not know that the thing that is beautiful and poetic in one setting is common and vulgar in another? Is love to them only a physical thrill? Is there nothing sacred to them about it that makes them want to hide it in their holy of holies, and that would make them feel that it was profaned if they dragged it down the streets and called upon the rabble to look at it? Are lovers' kisses no longer a sacrament, but something for the candid camera?

Have young people no sense of humor that they do not see what figures of fun they make of themselves when they do their courting in public? "All the world loves a lover," says the old proverb, but it also loves to laugh at him when he displays his emotions like any bumpkin. Why people should look ridiculous and common and unsophisticated when they are petting and caressing each other, I don't know. They just do. It is easier to understand why we are always embarrassed at the spectacle of public petting. It is because we feel that we are seeing something that should have been private and that we should not see.

So it is good news that the young are going to crusade against petting. It will spare us oldsters our blushes.

"I've never been to a night club in my life . . .

my modern daughters' problems are no mystery to me" . . .

"PERHAPS I don't 'get around much' in my daughters' sense of the words, but there are few of their problems that I can't help them solve. Things certainly have changed since I was a girl . . . but I keep in touch with this changing world through a friend I share with millions—DOROTHY DIX. . . .

"It has been maybe thirty years since I first came across the writings of Dorothy Dix, and through those years I've come to call her friend because about the only difference between us is that she has taken the world into her heart, while I have had to concentrate on raising my own family. Essentially we're pretty much the same woman, and she speaks my language. . . .

"She has common sense, humor and a temper. She can laugh, sympathize or get good and mad and raise merry Ned if need be . . . and I've often figured that if she knows how to help thousands through their troubles, her system certainly ought to work for me and mine. . . .

"Maybe I've never written to her for advice, but what she says about other peoples' problems I can apply to my own family . . . and it works.

"Not that you have to have troubles on your mind to turn to Dorothy Dix. I read her column when my heart's as calm as a summer sea. A heap of life and living passes through her hands . . . real experience of real people . . . and I don't know of anything more interesting. Do you?"

Emphatic Approval Is Given Record Of Alderman Glover

about five months ago, will be appointed by the council.

Glover Led at 30 Polls

Regarding the twenty candidates as one field, Glover led at 30 of the 39 polls, Gordon at 6 and Huycke at 3.

Glover divided the ten polls in the south ward with Gordon, each getting five, and swept the five in the centre ward, nine in the west ward, nine in the north ward and wound up with two of the six polls in Ashburnham.

Gordon was high man at No. 1 poll King Edward School, No. 5 poll at Sacred Heart School; polls 6 and 7 at South Central School, and 8 at the Prince of Wales School; he also topped the list at No. 39 poll, Meyette's house in Ashburnham.

Huycke ran up the biggest votes at No. 5 poll, Immaculate Conception School and at polls 37 and 38 in the Ashburnham town hall.

The Group Leaders

Considering only the fourteen candidates for the two-year terms as one group, Glover got most votes at 33 polls and Gordon at 6.

Scanning the results in the one-year group only McCannan topped the list at 19 polls, Huycke with 11, Bradburn 5, Edgar 2 and Vinette 2.

Huycke led at polls 34, 35, 36, 37 and 38 in East City, at 1, 3 and 7 in the south ward, and 21, 22 and 24 in the centre.

Bradburn was high man at No. 10 poll South Central School, No. 11 at the city hall, at St. Peter's School and Queen Mary's School, polls 20 and 23 respectively, in the west ward, and at No. 26, Central School, in the north ward.

Edgar's best showing was at polls 6, South Central, and 8, Prince of Wales School; and Vinette led at 33, McCormick's, farthest north on the west side of the river, and 39, Meyette's in Ashburnham.

McCannan was the leader at the other 19 polling places.

The Second Highest

Again grouping the entire twenty candidates together, and including ties, the number of second highest votes was distributed as follows: Gordon 11; Glover 7; McCannan 7; Juby 5; Bradburn 3; Cotton 3; Edgar 2; Huycke 2; Stocker 1; Vinette 1.

For these second positions Gordon and McCannan were tied at No. 4 poll, Sacred Heart School; Glover and Edgar were tied at poll No. 8, Prince of Wales School; and Gordon and Cotton were tied at No. 17, South Central. These comments are based on the unrevised results as tabulated by the Examiner Saturday night.

McCannan was second man, in the field of twenty, at polls 4 and 9 in the south ward, 15 and 18 in the centre, 27, 28, and 31 in the north.

Juby's five were at poll 14 in the centre ward, 16, 19 and 23 in the west, and 25 in the north.

Cotton's three were at No. 17, South Central, No. 22, St. Peter's in the West, and No. 39, Central in the north.

Stocker was second highest at No. 32, Jarvis' in the north ward.

Early Returns Slow

The poll return were received for the first time in the new office provided this year for the mayor at the city hall. E. A. Outram, assistant city clerk, was at the telephone, and City Clerk Armstrong waited downstairs for the deputies to bring in their ballot boxes to him as returning officer for the elections.

Only an Examiner reporter was present with Mr. Outram until 5.17 when A. A. McIntyre, a former mayor and present member of the Utilities Commission arrived, followed by Sergeant of Detectives Meagher who handed in the vote on daylight saving at poll No. 14 in the police court room. Sergeant Meagher was engaged on the poll staff. The first count gave a three-to-one decision for daylight saving, 79-26, sounding the keynote for the results that followed.

At 5.30 poll No. 1 at King Edward School reported 61-44 for summer time. Tom Brown arrived next, and then Nagle Phelan.

At 5.21, poll 25, at Blade's greenhouse in the extreme northwest corner of the city, was the first to send in an aldermanic count. The vote there for the one-year term put Herb McCannan in front but only two up on Herb Bradburn. John Edgar was third and Wilfred Huycke fourth.

At 5.29 poll 12 in the city engineer's office reported its count for the one-year men. McCannan was again in front, Huycke second and Bradburn third. Half an hour had gone, and only three or four polls had been heard from.

At 5.33 Mr. Bradburn was the first to arrive, ready to face whatever music the ratepayers had prepared for him. He was enlisted to compile the count of the one year group, and Mr. Phelan was assigned the job of totalling the returns for the two year candidates. The first poll to greet Mr. Bradburn was McCormick's house at 377 Water Street, the far north of the city. It gave Joseph Vinette, employee of the Auburn mills, a plurality, with McCannan second and Bradburn third.

At 5.40 Fred Holmes sent in the one-year figures at poll 12 in the city hall. McCannan, Huycke and Bradburn were the top three. McCannan and Huycke were the next candidates to arrive, and by that time the accomodation in the mayor's office was reduced to standing room.

First Complete Reports

At 5.48 the first complete returns came in from poll 15 at the city hall, but only a minute ahead of poll 15 in the same building. That was largely explained by the fact that the vote was much lighter in the centre ward than in the other four. The standing of the top flight of aldermen at No. 15 was: Glover, Juby, Dutton, Stocker, Cotton, with Gordon in sixth position, followed by Tuggey and Crough. Of the others Johnson and Lewis were tops six votes each, Powell 4, Dainton and Lundy 3 each, and Harold Phoenix 1. The figures from that first poll encouraged the hope that Dutton would get the vote most of his colleagues of last year declared he should get.

Poll 12 added to Glover's plurality with Gordon second to him; Stocker next, then Juby and Tuggey, tied, and Crough, Johnston and Cotton.

At. 5.50 poll 25 at Blade's gave Glover a further plurality, with Juby, Gordon, Stocker, Cotton, Tuggey and Dutton following. At 5.55 poll 29 at the Central School phoned its two-year figures: Glover 65, Cotton 56, Gordon 52, Tuggey 48, Stocker 46, Juby 41, Dutton 39, Crough 23, and so on.

At 5.58, poll 1 at King Edward School, one-year, Huycke 53, McCannan 48, Bradburn 46, Edgar 41, Vinette 37, Low 22.

At 5.59, returns from McCormick's poll 33, were complete, Glover, Gordon, Crough, Stocker, Cotton, Juby, Johnston, Powell, Dutton.

One Hour's Results

At 6 p.m. the on-year results from poll 32 at St. Peter's School in the west ward gave Huycke 67, McCannan 66, and Bradburn 64. The first hour after the closing of the polls had still left wide spaces of the tabulation sheets vacant. Opinion at headquarters agreed that daylight saving would carry with a substantial majority, that Glover would head the aldermanic polls, and that McCannan, Huycke and Bradburn seemed to be on the way to election for the 1938 term in the council. Complete returns were by that time in from polls 12, 15, 32 and 33; the first two at the city hall, 32 at Jarvis', corner of George Street and Park Hill Road; and 33, McCormick's. Bates' store was next with the two-year count, Glover, Gordon, Stocker, Tuggey and Johnston leading there.

At 6.05 Glover arrived. Nine polls gave McCannan 422, Bradburn 404, Huycke 385, Edgar 275, Low 225 and Vinette 217.

At 6.08 "Bob" Cotton was greeted by the office crowd.

At 6.09 complete figures came from No. 21 at St. Peter's School. Glover was up on Gordon, and Crough was third. Huycke was given a bulky boost at that poll. According to Mr. Phelan's count, eleven polls gave Glover 793, Gordon 595, Stocker 519, Cotton 494, Juby 470, Dutton 396, Tuggey 385, Crough 357.

"I'd rather be trimmed myself than see Jim Dutton left out," Alderman Glover commented to the Examiner. Other expressions afterward by other friends of Mr. Dutton, including Mayor Macdonald indicated that they felt keenly the defeat of Aldeman Dutton generally regarded as the most indefatigable member of the council whose service to Peterborough as chairman of the relief committee was in itself a job few other citizens would have accepted.

More centre and west ward returns were added to the list and at 6.30, seventeen polls gave Glover 1294, Gordon 962, Stocker 823, Juby 770, Cotton 763, Dutton 662, Tuggey 656, Crough 597. And that was the eventual order of their standing when Ed Humpage ran the complete figures through an adding machine.

Gordon's First Poll

At 6.35 No. 1 poll at King Edward School gave G. N. Gordon his first plurality. He got 69 to Glover's 63. A few minutes later No. 8 at Prince of Wales School gave him another, 82 to Glover's 78.

The returns from Meyette's house, corner of Armour Road and Hazlitt Street, in Ashburnham, indicated neighborhood preferences that were not influenced by most of the other sections of the city. They wanted slow time by 64 to 55; they gave Gordon 80 votes to Glover's 56; and naturally they showed a strong sentiment for their neighbor to the north beyond the park, Joseph Vinette. He headed the one-year group there with 74, Huycke 50, McCannan 30 and Bradburn 29.

The totals from twenty-five polls were: Glover 1959, Gordon 1562, Stocker 1230, Juby 1200, Cotton 1192, Dutton and Tuggey 978 each, Crough 955.

Poll No. 6 at South Central School was the second frown at daylight saving. The vote was 42 for and 51 against.

Poll 19 at the Prince of Wales School was possibly typical of the west ward attitude—Glover 152, Juby 117, Stocker 112, Cotton 101, Dutton 82, Gordon and Crough 70 each. They laid in a 151-34 vote for daylight saving, and for the one-year aldermen — McCannan 114, Bradburn 9?, Huycke 74, Low 71.

Twenty-eight polls placed Juby temporarily ahead of Stocker. At 7.15 the vote from No. 7 poll, South Central School, gave Mr. Gordon another plurality. He led Glover there by 65 to 50, and daylight saving came through with a scant margin, 49-46.

Tuggey in Sixth Place

Polls three and four at the King Edward and Sacred Heart schools put Tuggey ahead of Dutton, and thirty-two polls moved Crough into seventh place. The vote with seven polls to hear from was, in part, Glover 2572, Gordon 2064, Cotton 1624, Stocker 1630, Juby 1594, Tuggey 1329, Crough 1295, Dutton 1252.

The next poll to report was No. 23 at Queen Mary School, again in the west ward, Glover 202, Stocker 159, Juby 150, Cotton 139, Dutton 129, Gordon 76, Tuggey and Crough 53 each. That left Dutton one behind Tuggey, and moved Crough back to eighth place.

Ashburnham town hall, No. 38, was next, giving Glover 69, Gordon 66, Crough 51, Stocker 44. Poll No. 18 at the Prince of Wales School, more west ward votes, gave Glover 128, Cotton 106, Juby 100, Stocker 98, Gordon 62, Tuggey 56, Crough 35. At that stage Dutton was 1500, Tuggey 1472 and Crough 1434.

The last four polls to report were 35 and 36 at the Immaculate Conception School, 9 at the South Central and No. 20 at St. Peter's School. Their figures did not alter the standing of the candidates. Glover was well out in front with 3300, Gordon next with 2502, Stocker 2099, Cotton 2080, Juby 2077, Dutton 1662, Tuggey 1619, Crough 1585.

Huycke In Second Place

Meanwhile the tabulation of the votes for the one-year men had been proceeding without any material change. Seventeen polls had placed Bradburn second to McCannan, but the next poll came from the Ashburnham hall bearing a plurality of 40 to Huycke and transferring him to second position which he maintained to the final count—McCannan 2390, Huycke 2239, Bradburn 2127, Edgar 1626, Low 1264, Vinette 1102.

KING CAROL

TATARESCU

TITULESCU

With the government of Premier George Tatarescu, his strongest supporter, beaten in recent elections, King Carol II, of Roumania, will take control of any new cabinet and rule as a virtual dictator, Balkan political observers believe. Coupled with defeat of Tatarescu was the sudden flight of former foreign minister Nicholas Titulescu from Roumania after winning a seat in the elections. A bitter foe of fascism, Titulescu returned to his native land after many months of exile with a guarantee from the Iron Guards, militant Fascist organization, that his life would not be sought. The Iron Guard group withdrew the guarantee after his political success. Titulescu and Tatarescu, political rivals, are shown here, as is King Carol. The map discloses Roumania's position in the Balkans, and also the large areas which the country gained as a result of the war and which dictates her foreign policy of close alliance with France and opposition to any treaty revision which might give sections of her territory back to former enemies.

ICE BUGS FOUND OUT OF BOUNDS

Toronto, first discovered "ice bugs" near Banff, Alta., in 1913, at 6,500 feet. In Toronto last night he said the insects found here might be of a different race of the same species found at Banff.

The insects endure at low temperatures and usually live on mountains near the edge of glaciers. Dr. Walker said they generally live through the day under rocks and come into the open at night.

Specimens were found last year at a 6,000 foot altitude in Montana.

Mr. Greigson found a specimen on Mount St. Paul in November, 1936. Mr. Mail came here a year ago and last Wednesday three specimens were found, six more discovered the next day. Mr. Mail said ice had melted from the mountain side and the insects were found behind damp, cold rocks.

The specimens were being kept in a tin can with moss at a temperature of about three degrees above freezing. Mr. Mail, who hopes to study their habits, said they would become dormant and probably die at zero temperature and could not survive anything warmer than 70 degrees.

NORTH MONAGHAN PUTS IN POWER SUBURBAN SLATE

North Monaghan voters on New Year's Day elected the slate of the Suburban Ratepayers' Association. W. J. Grady headed the polls with 433 votes, Alex Archibald, who was making his first bid to municipal office, was second with 410 votes and John Barns, a member of last year's council polled 321 votes. Bert Arnott and Robert Dobbin, two members of the old council, were defeated.

A very small vote was polled at the Town Hall on account of blocked roads and the farmers were unable to get out to vote.

Mr. Grady headed the polls at Dickson's Barber Shop and Confederation School while at the Town Hall he failed to poll a vote. Alex Archibald ran a close second at Confederation School and headed the polls at Matchett's house but only got two votes at the Town Hall. Mr. Arnott was first at May's School and polled a good vote at the Town Hall in which polling subdivision he resided some years ago. Robert Dobbin, veteran campaigner and a man who has possibly given more years of service to the municipality than any other resident, headed the polls at the Town Hall but was low man at all the other polls. Mr. Barns polled a good vote at the five subdivisions.

The council this year will be composed of four from the Suburban section as Reeve James Milby was given an acclamation and Deputy-Reeve Melville Johnston will be the only representative of the rural area.

The vote was as follows:

	Archibald	Arnott	Barns	Dobbin	Grady
No. 1—Dickson's Barber Shop	89	21	65	13	110
No. 2—Confederation School	181	53	114	36	194

until Poll 39 in the north end of Ashburnham reported that an adverse vote was recorded the figures there being 55 for and 64 against. The other polls to reject daylight saving was No. 38 also in Ashburnham which registered 45 for and 64 against—even that was a mere slap on the wrist compared to the jolt summer-time got at the same poll four years ago when only 16 voted for daylight saving and 85 opposed it—and Poll 6 in the south ward with 42 for and 51 against.

Some Big Majorities

Every other division in the city, including Ashburnham and south south ward polls that rejected summertime in 1934, swung round to support the scheme on this occasion. The biggest votes in its favor were in the "Forest Hills" section of the west ward Division 23 showing 192 to 21 in favor. Division 19, 151 to 34 and Division 16, 142 to 20. The bylaw of course had a majority in every ward.

Daylight saving has been kicked around before the people for some 23 years. It first came on the scene in 1916 when a motion in council to adopt the system was defeated by a vote of 5 to 4. Two years later, however, daylight saving was adopted on a national basis as a war measure.

In 1921 the people got their first chance to vote on the thing and a bylaw to adopt the summertime plan was rejected by 624 to 437. For seven years it was a dead issue; then in 1928 another bylaw was submitted and it too was turned down by a majority of 343.

Next year its proponents tried again and this time there was a surprising turnover, daylight saving being adopted by 1524 to 838, the biggest favorable majority, until Saturday's vote. In 1930 there was another vote on the question and the summertime idea was endorsed again, this time by 2825 to 2500.

To sum up daylight saving has been carried three times and repected three times by the electors. The total majorities in favor of the scheme, however, have reached a mark of 2575 while the adverse majorities on the three occasions when it was defeated total only 584. It has been given its biggest majority now and incidentally more people voted on the question than ever before.

By reason of the passing of the bylaw Peterborough will go on daylight saving on June 14 and remain on the summer time schedule until September 5.

ABERHART ASKS FAITH

EDMONTON, Jan. 3—(CP).—Faith, courage and determination were urged to-day in a New Year's message by Premier William Aberhart of Alberta to the people of the Province and the Dominion. He wished all "a full measure of happiness and prosperity."

The Premier said: "Let us hope that the New Year will bring about a wider participation in the wealth that our vast natural resources endowed by the Creator, will permit. We have plenty for all."

When the snow-laden roof of a motion picture theatre at Tokamachi, Japan, collapsed at least 70 persons in the audience were killed and 58 were injured.

Mrs. Alice Laking, 34, of Hamilton, was killed on the Niagara Highway when a car driven by her husband, Albert Laking, skidded and crashed into a ditch. Six other persons were shaken up.

William Ernest Ransome, president and general manager of Stewart-Warner and Alemite Corporation of Canada, died in Belleville Saturday following an operation.

Sport Accidents

Three persons were injured one critically, in accidents on Toronto's civic hockey rinks and toboggan slides. Marian Knox suffered a fractured spine when a toboggan struck a tree stump in High Park.

David Roy, Toronto street car motorman, died as he was operating a one-man car. He brought the car to a halt before he dropped dead in the vestibule.

Attending a rally of young people in Delta Collegiate auditorium at Hamilton on New Year's Day, Daniel T. Leigh, 51, collapsed and died from a heart attack.

Edward J. Neill, Associated Press war correspondent with the Spanish insurgent forces, died Sunday from wounds sustained when he was hit by a shell fragment.

Fire Losses Increase

Ontario's fire losses during 1937, according to official reports, amounted to $7,914,496, an increase of $304,623 during the year. There were 15,071 fires.

In his annual economic review, Hon. Chas. Dunning says that the Federal budget would have been balanced in 1937, if drought hadnot struck the Prairies.

In Toronto on New Year's Eve a bread wagon driver and a messenger boy were held up and robbed by unarmed thugs.

Two employees of the Department of Highways were injured on Saturday. The men, W. A. Bailey and A. Robertson, were sanding the road near Sheridan when they were struck by a car driven by a Buffalo man.

Scarlet Fever Spreads

A scarlet fever outbreak at The Pas has spread to Cranberry Portage, where eight cases are reported. There has been one death.

Sir Robert G. Vansittart, for seven years permanent Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in the British Government has been appointed chief adviser to Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary.

Louis Maille of New Liskeard had both feet badly frozen when his team of horses and a loaded sleigh broke through the ice on Lake Temagami.

A gasoline explosion in a garage at Kenora while the fire department was fighting a blaze brought death to Fireman John Robinson and injury to six others including the fire chief and two policemen.

office.

Fortunately, a new Communion table dedicated in 1937 and to have been used on Sunday morning for the quarterly Communion service, was saved. A new pulpit Bible, the minister's and choir gowns were also untouched.

A joint service was held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday night, at which Rev. F. W. Newell, minister of United Church, and Rev. D. K. Perrie, minister of the Presbyatrian Church, officiated.

Plans were discussed for the immediate rebuilding of the church at a meeting of the Board, at the conclusion of the evening service. In the meantime, united services will be held in the Presbyterian Church, evening service at seven o'clock and afternoon Sunday School at 2.30.

The Examiner, in an interview with Mr. Newell on Sunday night, learned that some time in 1936 the church was to have celebrated its 75th anniversary. The church was erected in 1863 and an addition added in 1909 during the pastorate of Rev. C. W. Barrett, now of Woodbridge. The church is valued at $17,000.

The two Hastings aspirants for Reeve took an active part at the fire. L. E. Kelly aided in passing sandwiches and coffee to the firemen, while Reeve Fairman aided Fire Chief Fred Dodd in directing the firemen to best advantage.

FATALLY FROZEN

HARROW, Ont., Jan. 3.—(CP).—Found lying partially frozen on the front steps of his rooming-house on Wednesday, Charles Dyson, 60, prominent shoe merchant in this Essex County town, died to-day. He had been unconscious since being discovered.

When found, the lower part of Dyson's body was frozen stiff and the upper portions were partially paralyzed. Death was due to exposure suffered when he spent most of Tuesday night, scantily clad, in below-freezing temperatures.

15 SURVEYORS LOST SIX WEEKS SAVED IN QUEBEC

The eight others will be carried in Spradbrow's plane from the camp today.

They are: Alfred Gulle, 28, Ville Marie; Joseph Dorval, 21, Quebec, Que.; L. P. Pelletier, 28, Kamouraska, Que.; Girard Beacher, 32, Three Rivers; Edward Cyr, 22, Ville Marie; his brother Leonard Cyr, 29; Joseph Laflamme, 25, Lauzon; and Octave Lapointe, 35, Ville Marie.

Cry From Jay.

Staggering from weakness and crying from happiness, the surveyors crowded about Spradbrow as he made a perilous landing between two rapids into the 300-foot clearing. Without wireless, the party had no way of sending out word of their plight. A brief search was successful when Rodolphe Houde, who engaged the party, found the food cache was untouched and organized the search on December 29.

Houde, who flew in with Spradbrow and came out on Sunday with the six men, termed Lieut.-Col. Guenet the hero of the party. He said the leader—"the boss" to Edward Paris—kept up the men's spirits until the plane arrived and kept his men working in an effort to maintain their strength as much as possible.

Guenet, 52, said from his bed in the Catholic Mission here, "We still could have made another month," adding, "I'm very, very glad to be out." A reserve officer in the Levis, Que., Regiment, Guenet looked forward to soon rejoining his wife who said in Levis last night she is keeping "two or three big turkey dinners" for her husband.

Bernier is receiving medical treatment at the hotel here. The other six are quartered in the Roman Catholic Mission were Fathers Edouard Meilleur and M. Beaudet —though they would not admit it—gave up their own beds to the patients. The little mission is fully equipped to care for the men.

Often 35 Below

Bitter weather prevailed during December, Lieut.-Col. Guenet said, 35 to 40 below zero for days at a time. Fog frequently shrouded the frozen country. His faith he and his men eventually would be rescued never wavered, he said. "I knew Mr. Houde would come to us."

Roger Guenet, a survey student who for the past three years has accompanied his father on trips through the wilderness, said he would be "glad to get home to see my mother, sister and brother." Goedet, on his first survey party, said "I had lots of confidence in Lieut.-Col. Guenet." His words were echoed by Audet. Lamarre termed the trip "the hardest experience I've had in my life."

The survey party was flown into the north last Aug. 25. A 96-mile line from Lake Evans to the Ontario-Quebec boundary was to be surveyed —Bernier said 13 miles of the line remained to be completed. The work was to have been finished Dec. 10, the men planning to be at their homes for Christmas.

Hunted Cache Daily

The little party was unable to find the food cache, placed by Houde Oct. 22. Two or three groups went out daily in search of the cache. The last food in the camp was eaten Nov. 22. Hunting in the intervening days was poor. In 30 days, only 14 rabbits were killed.

Plenty of fuel was available, and the men had tents and warm bedding. They were bothered but little by the cold weather. Lack of food left the men in a weakened condition with Bernier the worst of the little party. Of his reception Pilot Spradbrow said: "They threw their arms around our necks and cried."

Word of the party's finding brought happiness to many Quebec homes. Young Dorval's family in Quebec city termed it the "happiest moment" of their lives when they learned Joseph was safe.

BE EXTRA CAREFUL

Treat Colds Proved Way

Doubly proved—in world's largest colds-clinic, and by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind. No "dosing." Just massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Relief begins almost at once. And long after sleep comes, VapoRub keeps right on working. Its poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm, relieves irritation and coughing, helps break local congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

'36 Failure Weakened League Still Fights For Peace

Nyon's Pirate Patrol Proves Only Bright Spot In Weak Year

GENEVA, Jan. 3 (CP-Havas).—Conflicts convulsing the world, from Spain and its Civil War to China and the Japanese invasion, reverberated during 1937 in the halls of a League of Nations dedicated to the ca[illegible] mony.

Weakened by failure of the 1936 sanctions against Italy, Geneva took no direct action in settlement of the Iberian and Far Eastern crises. Italy and El Salvador announced their resignations from the League, a loss of strength only partly relieved by admission of Egypt.

Nevertheless the Council and Assembly, while unable to regulate the disputes in East and West, reaffirmed the principles of the Covenant and denounced violations of treaties before the court of world opinion.

The Spanish question with its international complications was discussed repeatedly in the League halls, but dissension barred the way to steps permitting an early peaceful termination of the civil strife.

In May and September the Council seconded the Spanish non-intervention principles evolved at London and reaffirmed the territorial integrity and political independence of the nations which are members of the League.

A resolution submitted to the League Assembly in September—calling for a revision of the non-intervention policy if violations of the London agreements continued—fell through, however, due to a lack of unanimity among member nations.

Helped by Nyon Success.

This set-back within the League was balanced in some measure by the success in September of the Nyon Nine-Power Conference, which led to establishments of an international anti-piracy naval patrol in the Mediterranean. Creation of this patrol ended an epidemic of mysterious attacks against shipping in the inland sea. The parley, however, was not held under direct League auspices.

The League was saddled with another grave problem in September when the Chinese Central Government brought its conflict with Japan to the attention first of the council and later of the assembly.

Confronted with Chinese charges that Japan's armed operations were aimed against the territorial integrity and independence of China, the assembly ruled that Tokyo's moves were contrary to Japan's pledges under the Washington Nine-Power Treaty and the Kellogg-Briand Pact outlawying war.

Later the assembly took steps which led to a conference of Nine-Power Treaty members at Brussels to discuss the Far Eastern crisis. Although this parley did not result in any effective action the Far Eastern problem remains on the league agenda for the next council meeting January 17.

Treads Tragic Trail

From London to Hollywood, to Tehachapi, California's prison for women—and finally to the State Hospital for the Insane, was the path followed by beautiful Jean Hepburn (ABOVE). In quest of "publicity" she burglarized several Beverly Hill homes. Prison life was too much. She has lost her sanity.

FIVE NEW MEMBERS FOR TIDY TEDIES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 3.—The newly organized Tidy Tidies Club held their third meeting on Wednesday last at the home of Miss Vera Clark when five new members answered the roll call.

The singing of O Canada and the Lord's Prayer in unison brought the meeting to order and then the roll call was given. The next meeting will be held at the home of the Misses Grace and Jean Lewis when the roll call will be "An article I intend to make for my clothes closet and why." Miss Dorothy Curle was appointed programe conveneer for this coming meeting.

Following two vocal selections with guitar accompaniment by Miss Betty Green the hostess served popcorn and candy and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

ROOSEVELT'S AIMS STIR UNCERTAINTY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(AP).—An unusual atmophere of suspense created by uncertainty over President Roosevelt's program for dealing with the business recession dominated the start to-day of a new session of the United States Congress.

Legislators were aware Mr. Roosevelt had been subjected to a cross-fire of advice—from one group they wanted him to assert an aggressive liberal leadership and from another that counselled moderation.

There were advance hints, from unusually well-informed quarters, however, that the president had decided to subordinate discussion of domestic problems in his annual message to a report on the troubled international scene.

Besides to-day's message, Mr. Roosevelt will submit another important document — next year's budget estimates—either to-morrow or Wednesday.

Democratic as well as Republican leaders forecast that the session's accomplishments would depend to a large extent on the nature of these two messages.

MORE EMPLOYMENT GOOD PROSPECTS AS 1937 DEPARTS

OTTAWA, aJn. 3—(CP).—Canada enters the new year with a quiet confidence based upon accumulating evidence of a substantial improvement in economic conditions said Hon. Norman McL. Rogers, minister of labor, in a New Year's message.

With the exception of the drought areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta where recurrent crop failures had caused the acute distress, the forward movement had been general throughout the Dominion, the labor minister pointed out. There had been a marked revival of industrial and commercial activity and an encouraging increase of employment.

"Returns of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics indicate that the physical volume of business in mining, manufacturing, construction and distribution in the first 10 months of 1937 was 11 per cent greater than in the corresponding period of the preceding year, and only six per cent lower than in 1929, the most active year on record," Mr. Rogers' message proceeded.

"Mineral production was up 15 per cent over the last year and higher by 46 per cent than in 1929. The volume of manufacturing was 12 per cent higher than in 1936 and almost up to the level of 1929. The total value of construction contracts was higher by 40 per cent than in 1936, although still below the level of the pre-depression years. A material factor in this improved showing was the financial assistance given under the Dominion Housing Act and the Home Improvement Loans Act.

"Statistics compiled by the Economic Section of the League of Nations in Geneva showed notable gains during 1937 in the physical volume of world trade. There still exists, however, a regrettable lack of balance between production and effective demand in many parts of the world, a condition which has hampered recovery ever since the Great War. The world economic system is made up of many interdependent parts which cannot operate independently of one another. The welfare of other countries, in this sense, is bound up with our own and political turmoil must cease in the world at large before a stable and balanced economy can be realized.

Fewer Unemployed

"Employment for the first 11 months of 1937 averaged 10 per cent higher than the same period of 1936. The most conspicuous improvement was shown in logging, 48 per cent; construction, 32 per cent and manufacturing, 11 per cent. Unemployment among trade union members showed an improvement of 20 per cent over the preceding year. The improvement in the employment situation is also revealed in the registration figures of the National Employment Commission. In the month of October the number of fully-empoyable persons on the relief lists (non-agricultural) in Canada was 119,000 compared with 214,271 in Oct., 1936, being a reduction of more than 44 per cent.

"Notwithstanding the progress already achieved we must continue to be sensitive to the distress which exists in different parts of our country," Mr. Rogers contifued. "There must be no slackening of co-operative effort to consolidate and extend the gains of the past year and afford large opportunities of employment for our people. Unemployment has been reduced substantially, but in Canada, as in other countries, we are confronted with residual problems of the depression which cannot be ignored without grave injury to the morals and technical skill of our potential working population.

"During the past year, on the recommendation of the National Employment Commission, a rehabilitation program for unemployed young people had been worked out in co-operation with the provinces and now is in effect. More must still be done to re-establish employable persons now on relief. To this end the governmental agencies may reasonably expect the full support of the business community, not only because of the large public expenditures being made on relief, but equally because of the widespread distress and suffering which have been wrought by the lack of remunerative employment in recent years.

Refers to Strikes

"In Canada, as elsewhere, periods of business recovery have generally been marked by an increase in the number of labor disputes with the curtailment of production and loss of working time which are inevitably involved in industrial strife. Unfortunately, the record of industrial relations throughout Canada during the past year has not been free from interruptions of work through strikes. It is, however, to the credit of both employers and employees that acts of violence were rare and in most cases settlements were reached by direct negotiation or conciliation without severe loss of production. For this record we have reason to be thankful.

"It is noteworthy that most of the strikes during 1937 were declared in connection with demands for increased wages or for collective bargaining through union organization. As minister of labor it is my duty to point out that many of these interruptions of work could have been avoided if the difficulties had been discussed in their earlier stages by orderly methods of conference and negotiation. It must be remembered that when labor disputs develop into strikes we have economic warfare, which is justifiable only by way of last resort.

"It must be remembered also that the success of collective bargaining rests finally upon good faith and mutual understanding. Once these relations are established between employers and employees they supply the best possible guarantee of industrial peace. They facilitate the discussion of particular disputes in a spirit of tolerance and forbearance. They also encourage the recognition of the mutual interest of employers and employes in continued production and a restraining sense of obligation on the part of both to the community at large. We must seek to establish these conditions over a steadily-increasing area of Canadian industry if we wish to secure for our country the full benefits of economic recovery.

"In conclusion let me express my thanks as minister of labor for the support which has been given by the public to this branch of federal government service during the past year and extend my best wishes to all for a prosperous and happy New Year."

Dead Litter Nanking Streets After Capture By Japs

From Nanking, China's ancient walled capital, came stories of atrocious horrors committed by the victorious Japanese forces following their capture of the city, with hundreds of Chinese civilians reported as slain in an orgy of murder and destruction. This picture would seem to bear out that report. With the city wall and one of its arched gates as the background, a scene of bloodshed and havoc is unfolded with the bodies of dead Chinese littering the streets. Little else is visible but wreckage, except for the Japanese soldiers.

Leamington Rescinds Town By-law Licensing Slot And Coin Machines

Leamington, Ont., Jan. 3. TOWN council last night rescinded a by-law licensing slot machines and coin devices. Annual fees under the by-law were $100.

The by-law was passed here February 8, 1937, and a second by-law was passed in June, amending the original law slightly to add the provision that machines might also be licensed by the town for four months at a $50 fee.

Mayor H. S. Ludlum said: "In view of the decision of the court of appeal on a similar by-law in Kingston, I thought the council here should have the responsibility of rescinding it. The Kingston by-law was, in intent, the same as ours."

(A by-law of Kingston municipal council was quashed December 1 by the Ontario court of appeal. The by-law, designed to license and regulate slot machines, was held to be, in effect, an attempt to legislate on matters governed by the criminal code.)

EDWARD OLSON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 3.—The funeral of the late Edward Olson took place on Friday morning. A brief service was held at the home of C. E. McElwain at 10 a.m., being conducted by Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth, who was assisted by Rev. A. E. Pepper, rector of Shannonville, at the home and graveside. Tributes to the memory of the deceased were paid by both ministers. Most of those in attendance were shipmates of the late Mr. Olson and at the conclusion of the service in the home, Capt. E. Knusden of Belleville led in the recitation of the Lord's Prayer in the Swedish tongue while shipmates gathered around the casket.

The pall-bearers were: James Fowler, Jack Sutherby, Harry Blaind, Elmo Macdonald, Albert Whitehead and Phil Loft.

EDWARD OLSON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 3.—Following an illness of six months' duration, Edward Olson, a former resident of Pointe Anne, passed peacefully at the residence of C. E. McElwain, Marmora, about 3 a.m. on Wednesday. Mr. Olson, who was in his 63rd year, was born in Sweden and for some years sailed the seas on boats operating out of Scandinavian ports. On coming to Canada about twenty years ago, he obtained employment as a sailor and for the past five years sailed under Capt. E. Knutsen of Belleville on the fine freighter, the Canada Cementkarrier sailing the Great Lakes to Fort William and Port Arthur with cargoes of cement from the mills in Eastern Canada. The late Mr. Olson was a first-class sailor in every way and enjoyed the respect of his fellow sailors and senior officers. In religion, he was a member of the Lutheran Church and while living in Point Anne, attended St. John's Anglican Church there.

Mr. McElwain, with whom the deceased made his home, was a former resident of Point Anne and it had been sincerely hoped that the health of the late Mr. Olson would have been regained by the rest he was taking.

New found friends in Marmora join with older acquaintances at Point Anne and elsewhere in mourning his departure. No relatives survive him.

The funeral service was conducted at the residence of Mr. McElwain at 10 a.m. Friday by Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth. Interriment took place in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

WILLIAM J. COTTRELL.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 3.—After a two-year period of failing health, William John Cottrell passed away at a home in Frome, Somerset, England, on December 18th, at the age of 82. The late Mr. Cottrell came of a line of Cottrells whose connection with the famous village of Cheddar, Somerset, England, extends back at least two hundred and fifty years, beyond which time no vital statistic records are available.

He was a stone mason by occupation, and his labors for the firm by which he was employed, often took him to places miles from his native village. Until reaching an advanced age, he was hardly ever under a doctor's care. His chief recreation was gardening. So industrious was his nature that he favored a recreation almost as arduous as that of his regular employment.

Some of his [illegible] years were spent at Swansea [illegible] Wales, and his chief delight [illegible] was to narrate experiences when he worked as a farm hand in the State of New York. The greater part of his life, however, was spent at Cheddar. He was a great admirer of the late President Garfield, and seemed to appreciate the fact King Edward VII. observed his birthday on the same day as his own occurred—November 9th.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Emily Sendell, to whom he was married in St. John's Church, Weston-Super-Mare, on December 26th, 1887—two sons, William James of Marmora, Ontario, John Hugh of Swansea Borough Police, Swansea, Wales, and one daughter, Mrs. Edward Northam, Westbury-sub-Mendip, Somerset, England.

The remains were conveyed to Cheddar on December 20th, the funeral taking place the following day, with interment in St. Andrew's Churchyard, Cheddar.

Revealing Known And Unknown Facts About "Popeye's" Amazing Early Life

CHAPTER ONE

Rumors now current that Popeye as born at the age of 40 and is eadily growing younger are totally nfounded. The horseshoe-fisted ilor was only two or three years d at birth, a normal infant in very way. He was always willing to take his pipe out of his mouth for the morning bottle of malted hardtack.

Impressed by early home training, as No. 185764, Popeye refrained from getting into serious fights until he was almost 4 and the keeper tried his patience once too often. He was a prize baby in many shows and always took great pride in his [illegible]tillon measurements.

Unfortunately, Popeye was born an orphan. Today he often says: "Blow me down, I never had no ma or pa. That's why I'm a orphink." One of the hard-hitting mariner's chief charms is his ability to reason things out.

The accompanying unretouched picture shows the gifted infant Popeye himself, at the age of 2 weeks. Earlier pictures do not do him justice, because in all of them particularly the one taken many years before and captioned "Spinach," the photographer's head-clamp is plainly visible and also his brother, Joe, who has often been mistaken for Popeye.

Notice the article Popeye has clamped in his manly teeth. At first glance it appears to be a bottle, but in reality it is a hickory pipe which has suffered a stoppage in the stem. Popeye has refused to be daunted by the molar which has shaken loose and clogged his "briar." He is endeavoring to blow it on through into the bowl, with a result which is plainly evident.

The attractive piece of furniture at the right is a loving cup presented to Popeye by other inmates in token of his long-distance yelling prowess.

"Popeye The Sailor" Starts In Today's Issue Of Examiner

Packs Mighty Wallop And Has Inordinate Love For Spinach

"Popeye the Sailor," who makes his bow to the readers of the Examiner in this issue, has a heart of gold. He packs a mighty wallop, and has an inordinate love for spinach—almost as great, indeed, as the love of Olive Oyl for Popeye.

In the present episode Popeye and his friend Wimpy have been slaughted by a cut-throat sailing captain and his crew who set sail for the Valley of the Goons intent on killing Goons for their skins, which are valuable. In the meantime Popeye and his friend have been having a rough time with the crew until Popeye forcibly impressed himself upon them to their regret. Upon reaching the island where the Goons are located, Popeye was delegated by the captain to the unwelcome task of skinning the Goons. Popeye rebelled and not only refused to skin the Goons but also defied the captain or his crew to proceed with the gruesome task. A terrific battle ensued between Popeye and the gigantic captain to decide the fate of the Goons and Popeye eventually overcame his adversary. He promptly despatched the crew from the Island and then suddenly realized that he and Wimpy were marooned. While searching for food the luckless pair were arrested by the Goon police force and Wimpy was marched away to be hanged. Realizing Wimpy's predicament Popeye broke out of jail and stormed the Kings' palace to plead for Wimpy's life, only to learn, to his great amazement, that the King of the Goons is his old friend King Bozo. Now go on with the story in the Examiner every day.

Hogmanay Dance Caledonian Club.

The annual Hogmanay dance held in the Woodmen of the World Hall under the auspices of the Caledonian Club on Friday night was the usual successful celebration. Good music by the club's orchestra, assisted by A. Milne with his bagpipes, and a jolly crowd of Scots with their friends, helped to make the occasion an unforgettable one.

In the absence of the president, W. Petrie was master of ceremonies, and saw that the guests had a good time. The custom of seeing the Old Year out and the New Year in is celebrated by Scotch folks the world over, and usually by a Hogmanay dance similar to the one held in this city. Dancing commenced at nine o'clock, and many of the old tyme dances, such as reels and scottisches, were enjoyed. About eleven o'clock refreshments were served, which included tea, sandwiches, shortbread and cake. After these were done full justice to the company prepared for the chief event of the evening—the dying of the Old Year and the welcoming of the New. All joined hands and formed a circle and in umison sang "Auld Lang Syne" until twelve o'clock, but the tune was changed to "A Guid New Year tae ane an' a'," after which the company shook hands and wished each other "A Happy New Year." Dancing was again resumed and continued till "the wee sma' 'oors," and thus another Hogmanay dance was brought to a happy conclusion.

A door prize was won by Miss K. Paterson. Spot dances claimed as the lucky winners Mr. and Mrs. S. Pooley and Mr. and Mrs. K. Shadgett.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Petrie, Mr. and Mrs. O. Sugden, Mr. and Mrs. W. Young, Mr. and Mrs. T. Lister, Mr. and Mrs. F. Elliot, Mr. and Mrs. J. Withers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Boorman-Rose.

At three o'clock in the afternoon of New Year's Day, a wedding of much interest was solemnized in the Salvation Army Temple, when Anna Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rose of Bolivar street, was united in marriage to Lester E. Bronze chrysanthemums, palms and fern decorated the Temple.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. R. G. Routly, with vocal selections by the Songster Brigade.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her Army uniform, with bonnet. Her flowers were red roses, combined with Scottish heather, and tied with Stuart tartan ribbon, sent by her aunt, Mrs. Pollock, from Scotland.

Following the ceremony, a reception attended by over one hundred guests was held in the Lower Hall, beautifully decorated for the occasion in pink and white. A silver basket of daffodils centred the table, charmingly arranged with the bridal colors and silver services. Two telegrams of congratulation from the Old Country were read by the best man. They were from the bride's aunt, Mrs. D. Pollock in Aberdeen, Scotland, and the bride's cousin, Dr. W. Pollock, in Torquay, England.

The happy couple left later to spend their honeymoon in Toronto, and on their return will reside at 320½ Charlotte street.

DOROTHY DIX

Her Dramatic Life Story Told in Four Chapters

CHAPTER I

Early Life

In private life Dorothy Dix is Mrs. Elizabeth Meriwether Gilmer, a white-haired, twinkly-eyed, soft-drawlin' Southern lady. She lives in a spacious home in New Orleans, furnished in quiet elegance with antiques she has gathered personally on her many trips throughout the world.

She is barely five feet tall, a strikingly handsome woman with tremendous vitality and great mental vivacity. She is an indefatigable worker, keenly interested in every letter that comes to her desk, with a sincere desire to make every sentence of her daily column ring true to the noble purpose of her life.

Not always has her life been a "bed of roses." Readers sense this when they see how shrewdly she advises the people who write her in great distress.

She was born in a famous old Colonial house at Woodstock, Tenn., in those troubled days following the Civil War.

As a child she was thrown very much on her own resources. She never bought a plaything, nor saw a theatre or a big city. She loved horseback riding, and became a crack shot. But best of all, she loved to browse amid the fine old classic library of her home. By 12 she knew her Shakespeare and Scott and Dickens by heart and had read Motley's "Dutch Republic" and Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire." She attended a female academy, where she was graduated at 16. Yet she was always quite sure that her real education came from those solemn leather-bound books in her grandfather's library.

"Having finished school, I tucked up my hair and got married, as was the tribal custom among my people," she writes of this next period of her life—"expecting to settle down on Main Street and spend my life as a Main Streeter, but fate had other plans for me."

A very grim fate awaited the young bride. Within a few months after her marriage her husband was smitten with a physical and mental ailment that made him an invalid. "I did not know a thing on earth to do to make a dollar. . . I agonized over the horror of dependence, until I grew ill and was sent to the Mississippi Gulf Coast to recuperate."

Desperately trying to find some solution to her problem, she happened to meet the dynamic Mrs. Eliza Poitevant Nicholson, owner and editor of the New Orleans Picayune. Mrs. Nicholson, her next-door neighbor, had noticed the sad face of this thoroughly wretched, baffled girl. One day Mrs. Gilmer showed her new-found friend a piece in Negro dialect she had written, entitled "How Chloe Saved the Silver." Mrs. Nicholson's keen editorial eye immediately detected a genuine gift for writing. She promptly bought the piece for $3 and ordered Editor Nathaniel Burbank, of the Picayune, to hire the author. Her job was to do odd jobs for the woman's page—her salary was to be $5 a week.

The kindly Mr. Burbank found her an enthusiastic student.

Seeing the young girl's eagerness to write something distinctively her own, Editor Burbank set about planning a column for her to do each week.

"We'll call this feature SUNDAY SALAD," he said. "Make its base of crisp, fresh ideas. Over them pour a dressing mixed of oil of kindness, the vinegar of satire, the salt of wit and a dash of the paprika of doing things."

"Yes, sir," said the young Mrs. Gilmer, eyes shining.

"How do you want to sign it? With your own name?"

The young lady thought fast . . women had to have pen-names then. She had always liked "Dorothy" . . and from an old black mammy's husband on her girlhood plantation home came the "Dix" . . from "Mister Dick's." So "Dorothy Dix" was born!

Destined to become the widest read, most popular column in the history of journalism, from its very inception it followed Mr. Burbank's recipe and soon won a wide following among readers of the Picayune. She started by writing little blurbs of fashion notes, odd paragraphs, dramatic criticisms, book reviews, menus . . anything and everything that a woman might like . . and from this modest side-dish, with its simple ingredients, has grown the Dorothy Dix column of today . . a daily talk about human problems which is read by men and women from New York to Shanghai, from London to Capetown in the greatest newspapers of the world!

CHAPTER II

Beginning Her Career

When Dorothy Dix started her career as a writer for the woman's page of the New Orleans Picayune it was most unusual for a woman to be earning her own living . . especially one reared in the luxury of a Southern plantation. Her young husband's health continued to decline, and life seemed very dark indeed for this intensely human wisp of a girl with her great yearnings for the ease and comfort of a home. Hard work and long hours of writing and study were, to her, a godsend.

Every time she wrote her Sunday column she resolved to make it better. At every opportunity she talked to her readers, studied their tastes and shared their dreams, their troubles and their aspirations. Gradually her reputation grew. Her fame and name spread throughout the South.

"I pondered for a long time on what line I should take," she explained, "and then it came to me that everything in the world that had been written about woman, and for women, except the truth. They had been celebrated as angels. They had been pitied as martyrs. They had been advised to be human doormats. I knew that women knew they were not angels, and that they were tired of being martyrs and doormats. They were fed up on fulsome flattery and weary of suffering and being strong. So I began writing for my sex the truth, as I have seen it, about the relationship of men and women."

It was not long before this column attracted the eyes of Mr. William Randolph Hearst, who had come riding out of the West with ambitions to establish his newspaper dynasty. He made her an offer which seemed to her, then, more money than there was in the world. But, he wanted her to come to New York, which seemed millions of miles away to this warm-hearted Southern girl, with her deep love of the Picayune and her associates there. For an entire year she held off. Then, in 1901, she wired her acceptance, packed her old-fashioned grip and boarded the train for New York.

New York scared her. She missed her old friends, the gentle courtesies of her beloved South. She experienced all the loneliness of a girl making her way in a big city. At first, the job was no fun . . getting acquainted to new ways, crisp orders and the bustle of what was a thriving metropolis. She did a great deal of routine work, wrote woman's page stuff and even served as a secretary to a Hearst executive. In New Orleans she had once been a local personality; there in New York she was lost in a big office.

Then she got her "big chance." Her articles attracted the attention of Foster Coates, known to newspapermen as "the circulation doctor."

From the newsroom of the New York Journal he telephoned to Dorothy Dix.

"Come down to my desk," he said. "I want you to take a trip for the paper."

That "trip" made Dorothy Dix!

"Stepmother murdered her husband's 18-month-old baby in New Jersey," said Coates. "There's your story . . stay with it clear through the trial . . file your copy by wire!"

And off to an unknown town in New Jersey, clutching a roll of bank notes for expenses, marched Dorothy Dix. She had learned enough from her previous experience never to waste the time of a busy editor . . simply not!

That first big case of Dorothy Dix's, which was to make her byline as familiar as many a paper's logotype, took place in Mount Holly.

To use her own words: "I got there without even a toothbrush . I got into the jail and talked with the murderess. It was a swell story. Then I found the telegraph office. I had never filed a wire story in my life. I remembered sitting there, agonizing over whether I should skeletonize . . cut out every 'and' and 'but' and 'it' and 'the.' Then I gritted my teeth and said: 'I'll file every word of it, just as if I were writing it in the office, and I don't care if it breaks William Randolph Hearst! I filed 1800 words, night press rates, collect!"

For the next twenty-four hours the young reporter on her first big story was on pins and needles. Then came a wire from Foster Coates: "Great story; keep it up."

And that minute, says Dorothy Dix, she was the happiest woman in America.

DAY WILL COME WHEN MILK IS PUBLIC UTILITY

The day of municipal distribution of milk will come, Dr. J. B. Reynolds, president of the Toronto Milk Producers' Association and former Ontario Agricultural College head, told a Men's Forum audience in George Street United Church, Sunday afternoon. He warned that not too much must be hoped of such municipal distribution, however.

"On the face of it and theoretically, if the people managed their own distribution of milk they could save the cost of overlapping and dairy profits to shareholders," he said.

"Practically, you would have to remember that municipal distribution of milk would have to be handled by politicians. How much graft would result?"

The milk authority said municipal distribution would have to be tried in a small way at the start, in a town of less than 2,000 population. Even in Peterborough, the problem of switching over would be great. In Toronto, $8,000,000 would be required to buy existing dairies. New Zealand, he said, has had municipal distribution for the past twelve years, yet the consumer there today is paying 13 cents a quart, two cents more than Peterborough consumers, and producers are receiving less than in Ontario.

Delivery Costs 3 to 4 Cents

Dr. Reynolds stated consumers must be agreeable to paying current high prices for milk if they are going to demand modern delivery services. Three to four cents of the price of a bottle of milk is delivery costs, he said. Telling of a meeting of Toronto housewives he encountered last week, he said:

"The opinion held by thirteen Toronto housewives regarding dairies is that they are nothing but a gang of cheats, robbers, and extortionists. Like most of the public these women came to a meeting last Wednesday with incorrect facts and nothing could make them see the true picture. Of the eleven cents you pay for a quart of milk in Peterborough, three or four cents goes toward delivery costs as in Toronto. The public will not forget the days of "jug and dipper" distribution and realize that they are to-day demanding very rigid examinations and pasteurization of this liquid food."

He said the co-operative ability of Toronto dairies seems to be "very feeble." In any scheme of co-operation, the city would have to be divided into zones. When any such attemp is made, the dairies want to know who is to get the slums and who is to get Rosedale, he said.

Dr. Reynolds commented on pasteurization, "Scientists and doctors generally agree that pasteurization does not destroy the quality of milk to any noticeable degree. It does destroy germs, however, and makes the food safe. We as producers have supported pasteurization because it ensures safe milk and a product we can sell with an easy conscience."

He decared many "so-called" co-operative dairies are working a big racket.

A Fist Waves

Looks like what the English call a spot of bother for Adolf Hitler, but as a matter of fact the man with the fist is Fritz Todt, general-inspector of German auto roads, introducing Hitler to veteran roadworkers. The picture was made in Berlin.

SALVATION ARMY PAYS PHONE CALL TO GIRL'S MOTHER

Prompted no doubt by the best of intentions, a young woman in Toronto recently telephoned her mother in Peterborough under circumstances that occasioned some unnecessary concern and needless expenditure.

The desk sergeant at the police office answered the phone the other evening and was told by long distance operator, a party in Toronto wished to get in touch with her mother here. Would the police locate the woman and have her call back?

Police sought out the woman concerned. She was not in very fortunate circumstances and could not pay for a call. Police refused to take the expense because the call was not an emergency one in the generally accepted sense of the meaning.

Naturally anxious to receive her daughter's message, not knowing whether or not the call was the messenger of bad tidings or good, the woman asked the Salvation Army for assistance and obtained it. After finally getting her phone connection with Toronto, she was greeted by her daughter with the wish—"Compliments of the season. Happy New Year mom."

A Call To Prayer

To All Who Call Upon God Through The Name Of The Lord Jesus Christ.

To all who call upon God through the name of the Lord Jesus Christ:

The Ministerial Association of Peterborough, in common with Christian leaders throughout the world, issues a call to prayer and worship for this week upon which we have entered.

Services have been arranged in the different churches of the city each week night at 8 p.m. We ask for your cordial co-operation and support.

There never was a time when the need of united intercession was greater than at present. The Christian forces are confronting an absolutely unparalleled situation across the breadth of the world.

It is without precedent in respect to the open doors of opportunity that are available. On all continents the doors are open to the friendly and constructive ministry of Christianity.

The world situation is unprecedented in its urgency. What we do, we must do quickly.

"The work which centuries might have done Must crowd the hour of setting sun."

There are rising tides of nationalism, racial patriotism and prejudice. The world, both Orient and Occident, is still in a pastic state. In what moulds shall the new world set? Shall they be the moulds of selfishness, materialism and militarism, or those of idealism, unselfishness, Christ-like ministry and constructive co-operation?

The world situation is one unparalleled in danger. Our western civilization has unfortunately spread corrupt influences amongst the less highly organized lands and races of mankind. There has also arisen several most sinister anti-religious movements presenting rival claims to the allegiance of man, notably of youth.

There has come forward a generation who have thrown off the restraints of religion, and of social sanctions which have held their ancestors for centuries, and who are largely without accepted, unerring guiding principles to-day.

Decisive influences are at work in the economic realm, in international affairs, and in race conflicts.

In this situation nothing short of the work of the Holy Spirit, a manifestation of superhuman wisdom, love, and power will prevail. We are persuaded, however, that it will come in answer to believing united intercession.

We therefore call upon all Christians in this city and district to stir up the gift of prayer that is in them. Let us unite in the secret place, and in groups during this universal week of prayer. This is the most potent and Christ-like ministry that we can render.

Issued and signed by those present at the New Year's meeting on Monday, 3rd January, at 10 a.m.—C. Warrander, J. Douglas Paterson, V. E. R. Zufelt, Jos. H. Sutcliffe, Alfred T. Barr, Wm. McArthur, E. W. Young, F. W. Craik, E. W. Rowland.

County Highways Are Opened City Has Big Gang At Work Clearing Snow From Streets

Only Few Minor Accidents Reported By Police Over The Weekend

Although over five inches of snow fell as an accompaniment to the birth of the New Year, a check up reveals there was a minimum of inconvenience to rail and other vehicular traffic throughout Peterborough district.

Carried forward for a strong nor'easter the light snow, drifted in places it is true, but did not pack as heavier snow would have done. So light was the snowfall that the railway companies did not find it necessary to put their snow plows into commission, and both C.N.R. and C.P.R. operators report all trains arrived and left Peterborough on time.

On the county road system two snow plows worked incessantly all day Saturday and Sunday, but County Engineer A. E. Chalmers declared this morning, "the county road system will be all pretty well opened up by noon today". Plows were up in North Dummer and at Douro Church. City Engineer Roy H. Parsons had an extra gang of 45 men and 12 trucks out helping to clean up the confusion of snow left by the storm in Peterborough's business section. Early New Year's morning the plows were out opening up the streets to enable voters to get to vote.

Trouble At Springville

On the provincial highways out of Peterborough, motor travel was practically uninterrupted, with exception of trouble experienced by a Peterborough - Hamilton Transport on Springville hill early on New Years' morning.

Coming back to Peterborough without chains the heavy vehicle got stuck in a snowdrift on the hill. An American car came along and got stuck also, and Duffus' Ltd. tow truck which was sent out from Peterborough to assist the American car found itself in a similar plight. Another truck owned by Harvey Sanderson of Smith Township managed to plow through the snowdrifts with ease. The driver had chains on his wheels and rendered assistance to the three other vehicles that were snowbound on the hill.

At the height of the snowstorm Friday afternoon a motor car ran into a ditch at Scott's Corners when the driver was presumably unable to see the traveled portion of the highway. The driver escaped injury.

One motorist reported 16 cars and trucks in ditch between Peterborough and Myrtle on Saturday.

The Highway's Department snowplow went through Peterborough early New Years' morning, but at Bewdley it was temporarily held-up when the driver had trouble with the lighting system.

Towing Skiiers

Provincial Motorcycle Constable Lloyd A. McClure had a clean sheet following the week-end vacation. He had no accidents of a serious nature to report. The officer declared he did however have occasion Sunday to warn several motorists of the danger of towing skiiers behind their cars.

"I do not intend to issue any more warnings in this connection", the officer declared. "But I do warn that in future reckless driving charges will be laid against all motor drivers who are caught towing skiiers behind their vehicles on the highway."

Taxi drivers of the city reaped a rich harvest New Years' Eve and on New Years' Day. The only complaint of the taxi men seemed to be that the business came in such heavy volume they were unable to take care of it all.

New Years' morning one driver told an Examiner reporter he had worked without ceasing all through the night. "We answered an average of 10 telephone calls a minute through the greater part of the night", he said, "and in many cases we were unable to send a cab because they were all out on other calls".

That was the general experience of the taxi men. The driver for another local firm declared they had kept track of the calls responded to by two cabs over an eight hour period. "From 8 p.m. New Years' Eve until 2 a.m. next morning two cabs worked 80 calls", he said, "and the gong was pretty tough in most sections of the city which were blocked with snowdrifts".

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

SCHOOLS RE-OPEN.

Peterborough's schools re-opened this morning after the Christmas holidays, with the attendance at several schools out down to some extent by the mild epidemic of scarlet fever prevalent just now.

WIN BOWLING PRIZES

Winners of the turkeys in the New Years' Day bowling tournament at the Y.M.C.A., were declared as follows: H. H. Graham, 660; J. E. Smith, 606; H. Vass, 567; W. Brown, 533.

FOUND AFTER THE DANCE.

The firemen reported to-day that they found at the Legion Hall after the dance on New Year's Eve a man's left-hand white buckskin glove and a small ladies' bag. Owners may have same by telephoning Fire Hall.

MALE VOICE CHOIR.

The Peterborough Male Voice Choir will practice in the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. This is the beginning of two or three months' extensive practice, preparing for three concerts that are now in sight under the leadership of Charles Renaud.

C.P.R. TRAFFIC HEAVY

C.P.R. Passenger traffic at the local station Sunday evening looked like pre-automobile days with the crowd of people leaving Peterborough as their holiday period ended, and the first Monday of the new year called them back to work and to their homes in Toronto and other cities in western Ontario.

WANTED CONSERVATIVES.

The Examiner had many inquiries on Saturday as to various points in connection with the election, but the most unusual was the case of the elector who gravely requested the newspaper man to give him a list of the Conservative candidates who were running for the Council. He wanted to make sure that he did not vote for any Liberals other than Alderman Gordon.

MASTER OF LODGE.

Eric L. Palin, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Palin, St. Catharines, and a brother of Mrs. Robert Pilling, McGill Street, was recently installed as Worshipful Master of Maple Leaf Lodge, No. 103, A.F. and A.M., St. Catharines. One of the youngest Worshipful Masters in the Province, Mr. Palin was a former resident of Peterborough, having been well known in local sport circles.

VITAL STATISTICS.

Births, marriages and deaths for the year just ended outweighed by a small margin in each of the three departments, the births, marriages and deaths for the year 1936. Vital statistics on file at the city hall give the following comparatitve figures: 1936: Births, 667; marriages, 270; deaths, 425: 1937: Births 671; marriages, 280; deaths, 433. Figures for December last were: Birth, 40; marriages, 19; deaths, 32.

OUT IN FORCE

The snowstorm that ushered in the New Year turned the city and district into a paradise for skiers who were out in the hundreds. Jackson Park, Chemong Hill and Prophet's Hill was dotted with winter sports enthusiasts. The Peterborough Club had a strong turnout at latter locality where skiing conditions were ideal. No accidents to skiers were reported, the heavy carpet of snow reducing the danger.

THE VOTE ANALYZED.

An analysis of the vote in Saturday's election shows that 4,626 electors voted on the daylight saving issue and presumably the same number on the aldermanic ballots. Alderman Glover polled 3,300 votes or 74 per cent. of the total, while Alderman Gordon was supported by 54 per cent. of the voters who exercised their franchise. None of the other successful candidates polled 50 per cent. of the votes registered, Alderman Stocker being closest with 45 per cent.

CONDUCTED SERVICE.

Professor Coggan of Wycliffe College, Toronto, conducted the devotional service at the Ministerial Association meeting this morning. His subject: "Our Vocation as Ministers, as Servants of Christ, as Ambassadors, and as Fellow-workers with God," was closely followed. He also conducted alternate and silent prayer. The motion of thanks to the guest speaker was moved by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, seconded by Rev. J. F. Craik.

TWO RARE PENNIES

Two English pennies of rare vintage are in the possession of Charles Smith of Campbellford. They are dated "Georgius II, 1737" and "Georgius III, 1175." An amateur coin collector, Mr. Smith is wondering if anyone in the district can beat those two specimens. Another unusual coin was brought to The Examiner today by E. W. Lloyd, dated 1871 and bearing the likeness of Queen Victoria, the coin is a Prince Edward Island issue.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

"God" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, Ont., on Sunday. The golden text was, "Thy way, O God, is in the sanctuary; who is so great a God as our God?" (Psalms 77, 13.) Selections from the Bible included the following from Isaiah 45, 22: "Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbood included the following: "The starting-point of divine Science is that God, Spirit, is All-in-all, and that there is no other might nor Mind—that God is Love, and therefore He is divine Principle."

FRACTURED HIS LEG.

Frank Ottney, young son of Ed. Ottney, of Weller street, fractured his leg a few inches above the ankle when his skis crossed on the descent of Prophet's Hill, north of Jackson Park. Two doctors attended him, placing the leg in a cast.

BUILDING FIGURES DECLINE.

Four hundred and twenty-seven building permits were issued in 1937 for a total value of $199,686. The figures showed a decrease of $69,478, the total in 1936 having amounted to $269,164. During the month just ended, only four permits were issued for a volue of $935. In December of the previous year seven permits were issued for a total value of $3,585.

HERB BOURNE'S WORK

Harold Rye is getting a lot of the credit in the Monaghan suburbs for the success of the candidates sponsored by the new association of ratepayers. Probably in the rural districts the credit will be turned to blame. Mr. Rye says the suburban ratepayers did the job largely themselves by putting forth strong candidates and then getting behind them. Herb Bourne is mentioned in despatches from the south for a thorough job of getting out the Claraday vote. The next meeting of the Ratepayers' Association will be held on the first Monday of February.

Tars Repair Vessel

Seamen of the British gunboat Ladybird upon arival at Shanghai are pictured repairing damage done to the vessel when it was attacked by Japanese bombing aeroplanes on the Yangtse shortly after the U.S.S. Panay was sunk. The tars found it necessary to plug a hole in the boat's hull down near the waterline.

CUSTOMS RETURNS UP $746,534.82 DURING PAST YEAR

A clear picture of the great gain made in Peterborough industrial activity in 1937 over 1936 was presented today when Customs and Excise returns for the year were revealed at an all-time high total of $2,115,161.05. The total represented a gain of $746,534.82 over 1936.

Collector W. M. Lang viewed the record as a clear indication of sustained business recovery in the city, pointing out that increased Excise tax collections were largely responsible for the gain. Import duty collections also increased along with the improvement in local business activity.

"If Peterborough is to feel the business recession now in existence in the United States, no suggestion is contained in those returns," Mr. Lang commented. "Every month in 1937 showed a gain over the corresponding month of 1936."

The comparative totals for the two years were:

	1936	1937
January ...	$98,923.95	$124,616.76
February ..	101,813.59	124,164.62

With The Boy Scouts

In conjunction with our item regarding amateur radio broadcasting station. We are pleased to report that one of St. John's troop of Scouts has his station listed in "The Yeoman," the Toronto Rover Scout newspaper. It is listed as follows:: VE3ANE, operator Stroyan Leith, P.L. of 1st Peterborough troop. He is the only Scout amateur in this city. Address, 563 Gilmour, 40-metre band at noon or after 4 p.m. week-days. Night 80 metres, middle C.W. band, 2-tube—TRF. We wish Stroyan good luck in his radio work.

The New Year opens with no troop or pack reports sent in. But I think it would be well to remind all Scouters to make their plans and preparations for their summer camp. It is the best plan to start a troop savings account for that purpose and each boy deposit a small sum each week toward his summer vacation.

Invitations are being sent out for the preparation of an Australian jamboree, to take place in New South Wales. The date has been fixed from December 29, 1938, to January 9, 1939.

It would be a good thing to have a Peterborough Scout as our representative there. Peterborough has always been behind in this sort of action. Why not give this serious thought.

Monday night, January 3, the Rover Council will meet to discuss the final preparation of the first joint social between the two crews.

Thursday, January 13, is the night of the Scouters' Club. No place has so far been arranged for. Probably some group will be kind enough to offer their quarters for this meeting. If so please phone me at 3067.

FOX PARTY OPENS SERVICES IN CITY

An eager, enthusiastic audience filled the Full Gospel Pentecostal Church on Sunday evening to hear the Fox Evangelistic Party in the first service of their Peterborough visit.

Three members of the Fox Party are Canadian born, and came originally from Ontario. Several years were spent also in Edmonton, Alberta. Lorne Fox, the leading speaker and musician of the group, was incurably afflicted fourteen years ago with St. Vitus' Dance, streptococcic poisoning, and heart enlargement. Mr. Fox spent the greater part of five years in bed, and was practically helpless. Mr. Fox was finally given two years at the most to live, by some of Edmonton's leading physicians—and then through prayer he was miraculously and instantly cured.

Mr. Fox plays several instruments, including piano, piano accordion, Hawaiian guitar, violin, and pipe organ. The nightly musical programs include a number of Mr. Fox's own piano compositions, such as "The Fall of Jericho," "The March of Armageddon," "The Storm," and others. Mr. Fox and his party three years ago presented a program over the network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and their programs have been featured also over many of the leading radio stations of the United States.

A wide variety of musical presentations is the leading feature of the services. Edwin Wirkala, song leader of the group, plays Hawaiian guitar duets with Mr. Fox. Mrs. Lorne F. Fox, contralto soloist, sings in trios with Mr. Fox and Mr. Wirkala. Miss Ethel Fox alternates with Mr. Fox in the speaking, and also plays piano duets with Mr. Fox.

The Fox Party will extend their visit in Peterborough for the next two weeks, with services every night (except Saturday) at 8 o'clock. Music lovers are promised a real treat of sacred music.

WILFRID HUYCKE LEADING FIGURE OF WAR EPISODE

A tribute to Alderman-elect W. F. Huycke, inspired by his election to the city council, was written for the Examiner by a Toronto friend of his who was in the army with him in France, and was a visitor in Peterborough New Year's night. He said that few of Mr. Huycke's fellow citizen's had ever heard of the episode for which he was recommended for the Victoria Cross.

The incident is recalled by this war time friend of Mr. Huycke and is published herewith.

"A fine soldier and hero in the person of Wilfrid Huycke was elected to the Peterborough council Saturday.

Mr. Huycke, as far as can be ascertained, holds the unique position of being the only Commissioned Officer who served in the Canadian forces, to be recommended for the Victoria Cross following the signing of peace. This recommendation was made to the Minister of National Defence by men who served under Mr. Huycke, almost three years after the war. The Minister of National Defence and the Adjutant General for Canada approved the recommendation but expressed regret that time limitation for such recommendations had passed and that nothing could be done.

A man who served under Mr. Huycke's command relates that about ten days before the Armistice several units of the Field Artillery were halted in a town called Oisey, some few miles from Mons. This town was a food distributing point for refugees from the surrounding country and at that moment had a population of some six thousand people, mostly women and children, whom a few hours previously, had been liberated from the German occupation. This town was also a rail head and huge supplies of ammunition were dumped there awaiting distribution to the fast advancing troops of the Canadian Corps. The field artillery units were drawn up in the town square ready to dash forward under cover of darkness. Gun limbers and firing battery wagons were heavily loaded with high explosive ammunitions, horses already hitched and drivers mounted ready to move into the line, when without warning a number of German field guns opened fire on the Town Square. Shells fired with unerring accuracy crashed into the gun limbers and almost the first man to fall was the commanding officer. Soldiers accustomed to shell fire reeled under the fury of bursting steel and wounded horses charging madly added to the confusion.

It was then that Mr. Huycke took over command and mounting a gun limber ordered that the Town Square be cleared. This was promptly done but not before several gun limbers loaded with ammunition had been wrecked. He ordered that the horses be cut loose from these and led out of danger. At that moment what might have been the greatest tragedy of the war was averted. The steel covering of a gun limber had been ripped away by a shell and the wicker baskets holding high explosive shells caught fire which would reach the shells in seconds. One can only visualize what would have happened had the fire touched off that limber full of high explosives, with hundreds of shells packed in the wagons nearby and thousands of shells piled at the rail head some six hundred yards away. Mr. Huycke realizing the terrible danger ordered everyone to keep clear and without hesitation rushed to the gun limber and tore the burning baskets away from the shells. Although his hands and uniform were badly burned he succeeded in putting out the fire and in so doing saved a town from complete destruction.

The disregard for his own safety, the cool courage and unselfish devotion to duty saved hundreds from certain death. His demonstration of bravery quickly rallied faltering troops.

Following this accident she entered her home, where she fainted causing facial bruises. Tall reeds along Yangtse river bank screen Panay survivors from further attack as they rush wounded to safety on improvised stretchers.

Survivors are treated for injuries in a court yard at a little Chinese village near Hokuton.

Their ship sinking rapidly, seamen of the Panay load the wounded aboard a flat-bottomed scow before abandoning the gunboat.

GRACE CHURCH S.S. HAS FINE PROGRAM

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 3.—The basement of Grace Presbyterian church was seasonably decorated on Thursday night for the annual Sunday School entertainment, T. W. Belch, superintendent, occupying the chair, and the attendance being larger than usual.

The program was opened with a recitation, "Greetings" by Master Lindsay Belch, and the primary class, directed by its teachers, Mrs. Alex Miller and Mrs. H. R. Williams, sang "Away in a Manger," with the little girls dressed as angels, and the small boys as shepherds.

Recitations were given by a number of scholars including Norma Gray, Wilma Hubbeard, Betty Forsyth, Norma Ball and Gerald Deyell, while the little songsters, Elizabeth Williams and Betty Wright, were warmly applauded. A very pretty drill, "The Christmas Pudding," was well presented by Miss Margaret Armstrong's class, a "Star Drill," following, which was executed with equal precision, rhythm, and grace.

The little folk of the Primary class also gave a picturesque drill, and the program was concluded with exercises that took in the pupils of two classes taught by Mrs. N. Belch, and Miss Armstrong.

For the smaller scholars the climax of the evening was reached with the arrival of Santa Claus, when gifts were distributed to all, including bags of candy and nuts for everyone present.

Buyers Refuse Quarter Cent Increase So Lunenburg Fishers Loaf

Lunenburg, N.S., Jan. 3 (CP). LUNENBURG'S famed fishing fleet remained at anchor today after demands of fishermen for ¼ cent a pound increase on haddock were rejected. Fish buyers said at a conference with fishermen there would be no increase in prices.

Captain Angus Walters, president of the federation's station 101, said he doubted if the buyers could get enough fish to meet the market's demands while the fleet remained in port.

Skipper of the Bluenose, champion of the North Atlantic fleet, Captain Walters expressed the fishermens' determination to see this thing to the finish if we never cast another hook in the sea this winter.

"We asked them for a measly ¼ cent on haddock only to be effective during the two months of the year when fishing is a real hardship. And they turned us down."

GIRLS' KLIM CLUB HAS BUSY SESSION

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 3.—The Girls' Klim Club met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Thorndyke, with fifteen members in attendance. The chair for the business session was taken by the president, Jean Belch, plans being laid to have the next meeting on Saturday, January 15, the place to be announced later.

Ruby Falls will be housekeeper for the opening meeting of the New Year, and dish washers will be Martha and Jean Belch. The making of junket will be studied and the leader, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, will review "Milk for the Family Menu."

The proper way to make custard was taken up at Wednesday's gathering, the leader having two samples illustrating the right and wrong method, one fact emphasized being that too much milk to the quantity of eggs will result in a leathery product.

Each girl brought a cup custard, and these were judged; this is an important activity, since at the annual Achievement Day judging of custards will be a feature, and if the girls go to the various exhibitions they will also be required to show their skill along this particular line. Taste, appearance and texture are outstanding points considered in the judging.

Mrs. Armstrong made a Spanish cream, under the girls' observation, and while it was cooling, she further demonstrated the making of cornstarch pudding, one being tinted pink, the other left plain white. A letter was read from Miss Eadie, from the Department in Toronto, congratulating the club on its organization and the fine work being accomplished, and telling of the number of other clubs which have been started in the province this fall, it being evident that this work is growing by leaps and bounds.

Homework assigned for the January meeting was the making of cream soup for the family; one milk dessert with the recipe placed in the Record Books, and also to name six other ways of serving milk, and to give the recipe for the two each individual member liked best, same to be placed in the books.

The food which had been prepared was enjoyed before the girls left for home, Marian Belch being housekeeper, and looking after the cleaning of the kitchen; dish washers including Isabelle and Luella Kennedy.

The vote of thanks to Mrs. Thorndyke for the use of her kitchen was voiced by Martha Belch and Isabell Aiken.

SPORTS CHAMPIONS of 1937

(By Centraj Press Canadian)

Here is the array of men and women, automobiles and boats, who contributed to the sports history of the past year with new records, new titles and new thrills for the fans. An imposing array, to reign for a year and perchance be replaced by others as 1938 slips into eternity.

HARRY COOPER, of Chicago, who won the Canadian open golf title played at Toronto. The "Lighthorse" played consistent golf on a wind and rainswept course to take Canada's biggest money tournament.

HENRY COTTON, of England, for his brilliant showing on the links winning the British Open title. He also defeated Denny Shute, U.S., P.G.A., winner, in a special match.

ROSS "SANDY" SOMERVILLE, of London, Ont., who retained his Canadian amateur golf title.

JACK ADAMS, manager of the champion Detroit Red Wings, who captured the Stanley Cup for the second consecutive year under his genial coaching.

CAPT. GEORGE EYSTON, of England, and the powerful automobile which he drove over the Salt Flats, of Bonneville, Utah, to set a new world land speed record of 311.42 miles per hour.

DON BUDGE, of Los Angeles, Calif., who came in to his own as a net star by winning the United States men's singles tennis championship and the Wimbledon title. These two titles followed his great showing in leading the U.S. Davis cup team to victory and the regaining of the old tennis mug.

WAR ADMIRAL, three-year-old son of Man O' War, owned by Samuel D. Riddle, winner of the Kentucky derby, the Preakness stakes and many other stake races, to be stamped as the outstanding thoroughbred of the year.

SIR MALCOLM CAMPBELL, of England, who turned from car to boat racing, and broke the former record held by Gar Wood of the United States. He drove his racing boat, Bluebird, over the waters of Lake Maggiore, Switzerland, at a speed of 129.5 miles per hour.

DOROTHY ROUND, of England, who caused quite an upset when she captured the women's singles title at Wimbledon this year.

JOE LOUIS, of Detroit and Chicago, the Alabama Negro, who knocked out James J. Braddock to win the heavyweight championship of the world. He became the first colored fighter to capture the crown since Jack Johnson's time.

RANGER, owned and skippered by Commodore Harold Vanderbilt, which repelled another "attack", by T.O.M. Sopwith, of England, on the America's Cup. Sopwith's Endeavour II was soundly trounced in four straight races off the New England coast.

CELTIC RETAINS SECTION MARGIN SCOTTISH LEAGUE

GLASGOW, Jan. 3 (CP Cable). — Two smashing defeats by Glasgow rivals ushered Rangers into a bleak New Year in Scottish football. Celtic sent the Light Blues down 3-0, New Year's Day, at Celtic Park, and Partick Thistle made it two straight on Rangers' own ground today by winning 3-1.

Celtic captured maximum points for the holiday program by trouncing Queen's Park 3-0 at Hampden Park, retining leadership of the major league with a one-point margin over Hearts. The Edinburgh club defeated Dundee 2-1 today after dropping a point on the holiday through a 2-2 draw with Hibernians.

Rangers and Falkirk are tied for third place in the league standing, with the latter having a slightly superior goal average. Falkirk lost an opportunity to oust its rival when held to a 2-2 draw at Kilmarnock.

CLOSE CONTESTS Y.M. WATER MEET

The Y.M.C.A. pool was the scene of several close races Saturday night as the "Y" Boys' department held their opening swim meet of the year.

In the 16 and under events, Ted Clarke and Jim Joiner led the way in backstroke, while Al Marshall showed a burst of speed in the 40 yards breast stroke, setting a new tank record for the distance of 28 1-5 seconds, cutting 1 4-5 seconds from the old record.

In the senior 100 yards event, Stan McBride and Alex Carlisle battled all the way until McBride's greater strength pulled him ahead in the last few yards.

Paul Hickey deserves a great deal of credit for his demonstration of swimming in which he used three different strokes. Paul started to swim last summer and is doing remarkably well considering his handicap of having only partial use of one leg due to infantile paralysis.

A big feature of the meet was the demonstration of ornametal and trick swimming by Hazel Bradley, Izabel Young, Lily Long and Ruth Daliday, members of Miss Caroline Littlefield's Y.W.C.A. Silver Finnettes. In the large Y.M.C.A. pool the girls were given a better chance to work, and it was a real treat to watch them in action.

Gord Minty, "Y" swim coach, was pleased with results of the meet and is hoping to arrange a number of dual meets with outside clubs.

Complete results were as follows:

Skiing Hints

By Fritz Loosli
INSTRUCTOR, TORONTO SKI CLUB

Much controversy and much criticism has arisen over the different methods of teaching in ski schools in Europe and in America. We have to admit that the ski schools in the Alps have reached a high degree of efficiency from which much may be learned on this continent. It is quite true also that their organization, under practically complete control of the government, has stamped out instructors unable to qualify each year for a new season of teaching. But the militarization of ski instruction has taken away from the instructor the elasticity of teaching required for different types of individuals.

After the Swiss school had set out a definite technique of instruction, based on all styles and different technique used up to that time, the high speed technique came along, bringing much confusion to instructor and pupil. At first, the forward lean (VORLAGE) was considered strictly a racing technique and was entirely omitted in class instructions. But skiers and pupils, watching slalom and downhill races, were much interested in the smoothness and rhythm displayed by the racer, and finally the new technique was added to the curriculum, though it was taught only to the most advanced pupils interested in competitive skiing.

Needed New Methods

A great deal of ski literature tried to explain and describe the racing style with its advantages and disadvantages, but to the beginner and average skier it all seemed vague and almost beyond reach. Was it absolutely necessary to have years of skiing and racing experience before such grace and ease in downhill running could be attained?

As long as the strict and rigid method of instruction was used it seemed an impossibility to try to bring the tempo turn into the teaching of the average skier. The high seepd technique as its name indicates, could only be taught when the skier was running very fast. Pupils learning the standard method stopped by the ski schools were lacking something which could not be found or defined. Much physical strength was required to execute each different turn. To add more confusion to ski teaching in Canada and United States, the method used by the Swiss or Arlberg school did not quite meet the type of mentality on this continent.

The instructor in the Alps is often flattered beyond reason, and when teaching, the instructor simply orders and commands without permitting the pupil to question or reason with him. He is a superman to the pupil and wants to be considered as such. But on this continent the teacher and the pupil are merly two human beings, one expressing his thoughts and the other receiving. The pupil wants the right of knowing why and how, the advantage or disadvantage of anything he is learning.

Personal Touch Required

After years of experience in Canada among Canadian skiers, I found that ski instruction had to be taken differently in order to keep on friendly terms and still not lose the confidence the pupil has in you. The lack of long runs in Ontario and the tendency of laying out slalom courses which are too acrobatic and detrimental to rhythm and speed has to be overcome by a teaching method appropriate to our terrain. The increased interest in high speed and tempo skiing has produced a teaching method which is trying to link standard and high speed running technique. My new teaching method is based entirely on rhythm from the very beginning. Weight shifting is done effortlessly without complicated contortion of body and limbs.

In a series of articles which will appear daily in these columns, I will try to outline the rhythmic instructions which has succeeded far beyond expectation, and prove that standard and high speed technique are now one.

CURLING

Echoes From No. '8'
By HERB MARTIN

By the small margin of eleven shots, the President was victorious over the Vice in the annual event held on New Year's Day. This competition is held at the same time in different clubs all over Ontario, and it is looked upon as the "official" opening of the curling season.

Vice Jimmy Richmond started off the morning by handing the President, E. R. Shirley, a real trimming to the tune of 18-6, and we must admit it was a good example to all of Jimmy's hired help, but as the day wore on it was found that the President's boys were a little too good, and the deficit was soon wiped out and a victory for Ernie assured. When Walter Oke handed J. J. Howden that 16-4 defeat in the afternoon, Jimmy conceded the win to Ernie. Out of the 13 games played, the President's side won 9.

The Green brothers, playing on the Vice side, broke even... We don't know why, but it did appear to us that the most popular spot on No. 8 was over at the water fountain.

Our Ladies' section is being represented today (Monday) in Toronto at the Granite Club by a rink skipped by Mrs. O. DeGraw, and assisted by Miss H. Fanning, Miss H. Munroe and Mrs. R. Turner. They are playing for the Robinson trophy.

ROSSLYN PARK WINS.

LONDON, Jan. 3 (CP Cable).—In an English Rugby Union game played today, Rosslyn Park defeated Fettesian-Lotteitonians 22-19.

FOREIGN SOCCER TEAMS IMPROVING

The recent visit of the Czechs to the British Isles has convinced the experts over there that the day is not far distant when one of these foreign teams will win their first game on English soil. There is one thing all are agreed on — foreign teams have nothing to learn from the Britons so far as the finer points of the game are concerned, and that goes for Germans, Austrians, Italians and Hungarians, as well. A surprising feature of the games is the way in which the visitors conduct themselves on the field. Rarely have any of the players been cautioned for rough play. Of course, things are different when they are playing on their own ground, before their own supporters.

First Hockey Game On Tuesday Night

The O.H.A. Junior B season opens here to-morrow (Tuesday) night at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock Street Rink when the young Redmen of Belleville pry off the lid against the local Colts. Popular prices, from 25 cents up, prevail for this tussle, and reserved seats may be had to-night by 'phoning the rink. A big hockey crowd is expected out to see the puck season inaugurated and the 1938 edition of the Junior Colts in action. Both teams are reported in good shape and a slambang dashing style of hockey is anticipated. The ice should be fast for this fixture.

Belleville's lineup is likely to be: Goal, Carson; defence, McCreary and O'Neill; centre, Storms; wings, Rowbotham and Ronsky; alternates, Muir, Goyer, Amo, McGuire, and Green.

The Colts, managed by Pat Haydon, may line up like this: Goal, McNabb or Heath; defence, Al Clark and Brady; centre, Gee Clark; wings, Jopling and Tompkins; alternates, O'Leary, Craig, White or Creighton, Walker and Berwick. Referee is unnamed. While the Colts are big and fast, the Belleville team must have a real scoring punch, judging by their 11-3 opening O.H.A. win over the Havelock Juniors last week.

COSTLY EXTRAS

For 62 years doctors have been coming daily to this Hospital to donate their time without charge. During the past year over three score of them donated 40,000 hours of work to the task of giving sick and injured children the very best chance for the recovery of health and happiness.

Crippled? Deformed? Hurt in an accident? Suffering from Disease? Just "yes" to any of these questions has always opened the doors of this institution to children in need of hospital care.

No distinction has ever been made in respect to race, creed or circumstances.

The Provincial and Municipal Governments each contribute a fixed amount per day for those who cannot pay. But these grants do not contemplate the cost of medicines, operating rooms, oxygen, X-rays, plaster casts, anaesthetics, special diets and extra nursing—and they do not provide for the cost of many, many other necessary items.

Each year we depend on public subscriptions to cover these extra costs. Won't you help this very worthy cause?

Please send your gift direct to 67 College Street, Toronto. We employ no canvassers.

As Manager Of Syracuse Club Bottomley May Get A 'Break'

Not Lefty's Sweetie

Here is Edna Torrence, Hollywood dancer, who denies any romance with "Lefty" Gomez, ace Yankee hurler, who reportedly will file a divorce suit against his wife, June O'Dea, dancer. Miss Torrence says, "Lefty is a grand person, but any report of anything serious between us is absurd. He's just a pal of my brother."

Sunny Jim Never Wanted Job As Baseball Boss In Big League

By Central Press Canadian

Exactly six hours after Gabby Street's appointment to the managerial position of the St. Louis Browns was announced, came a news flash that was so intertwined with the earlier news that it appeared to be staged. Jim Bottomley, whom Street succeeded, had landed a new job. He had signed as the new manager of the Syracuse Chiefs of the International league.

Bottomley, in strictly a baseball sense, will be attempting a comeback despite the fact that he is almost a novice at managing a ball club. All his experience in such a role embraces two and a half months with the Browns. He disappointed every one. When he assumed control the Browns were in seventh place, thirty games behind the league leaders. When the season was over the Browns were eighth, almost sixty games to the rear.

Never Wanted a Boss Job

The most poignant peculiarity of the Bottomley career is that he never seriously nursed managerial ambitions. Always he spoke of his Missouri farm. When he was through as a player, he said, he would return to it winter and summer. But somehow he was persuaded into becoming manager of the Browns, and now that he failed in that capacity, he seems determined to stick it out for a long while, or at least long enough to prove he can be a successful leader, given half a chance.

In signing with Syracuse, Bottomley becomes subservient to the Cincinnati Reds, since that club has not only a working agreement with the Chiefs, but reputedly an active financial interest, too. Perhaps Warren C. Giles, general manager of Cincinnati, who indirectly was responsible for Bottomley's losing his Brownie position by revealing his name among the applicants for the open Reds job, engineered the Bottomley-to-Syracuse move.

It May Be a Springboard

Syracuse should be a springboard from which to bounce back to the majors. Bottomley will be well supported, for the Reds, with a reserve list of thirty-nine players and with a farm system that is growing stronger each year, should send Syracuse enough talent to make that club an important contender in next year's race. It appears that Bottomley fell into a soft berth this time.

Whether or not Bottomley himself will remain active he did not indicate. Last year the Chiefs' first baseman was Frank McCormick, one of the outstanding players in the league. McCormick is back on the Reds' roster, and so are two other first basemen—Les Scarsella and Buck Jordan. The chances are one of the three will be sent to Syracuse for the next campaign, in which case Bottomley could devote all of his time to managing.

Until Bottomley became linked with Syracuse, the man most prominently mentioned to replace Mike Kelley of the Chief was Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, now unemployed, having been given his unconditional release by the Reds as the last season ended. So Cuyler, who has many qualities that are characteristic of a successful pilot, may definitely retire from organized baseball if nothing promising turns up before long.

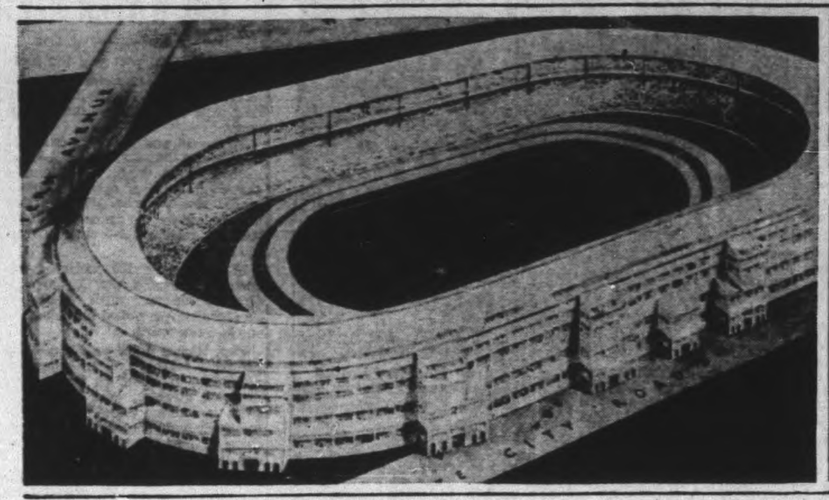
Maxie Can Still Take It

After an 18-month layoff, and not getting any younger, Max Schmeling, of Germany, is evidently just about as good as ever. From his showing against Harry Thomas in a recent "tune-up" bout for his title fight with Joe Louis next June, he can still take it and also hand it out. In the action photo here, Herr Maxie is seen, RIGHT, taking one of Thomas' hard upper-cuts flush on the chin. From the expression on his face, it is apparent the punch was not of the powder-puff variety.

Canadian-Born English Sports Promoter Enlarges White City



Canadian-born Brigadier-General A. C. Critchley, formerly of Calgary, Alta., has become the czar of sports in England. Here is an architect's drawing of the White City stadium in London, England, as it will look when enlarged to accommodate 163,000 spectators. Critchley will spend $1,250,000 on the enterprise and will also be assisted by the government in his latest venture. They will establish a new underground (subway) spur to serve the stadium, providing service for 1,000 passengers per minute. The outstanding English sports promoter is pictured on the (RIGHT). Incidentally, it will be the world's greatest sports stadium.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

SCOUTS' Puck loop opens with three games on Wednesday. The Lakefield lads play Immaculate Conception, St. Luke's meet St. James, and St. Peter's play Sacred Heart, first one at 7.30 and each lasting an hour—games being played in Lakefield. St. Mary's of Lindsay have a bye, to meet the local loop team finishing third in group semi-finals, while the first two also playoff in home-and-home tilts. Entry fee is a buck and they go by O.H.A. rules. No one but invested scouts or scouters may play. The Scout masters are S. Leggitt, W. Flint and R. Baldwin. This is the second season for the scouts' hockey circuit and it looks like a good one. Schedule and rules are listed elsewhere in tonight's paper.

QUINTE COLUMNIST, after reading our remarks on the last game, says: "The Liftlock City scribe may think his charges are some potatoes, but if their showing of Monday is any criterion of their strength of the season, the Petes will have to board up their goal with two-by-fours if they expect to beat the Fliers. Of course Calladine and Ellis will be with the Petes when they come here Tuesday to meet the Air Force." No, it is no criterion—whatever that means—but the locals will be at least 50 percent stronger shortly than last Monday. And it strikes us as rather pitiable that a writer must boost an outside team, like the Fliers, when his home squad—even with imports—cannot hold their own in competition.

* * * * * *

LET'S DUCK hockey for a minute to mention some pugilistic dope. The Riverview A.C. is staging a most promising mitt show at the Armouries on Thursday e'en, with a bunch of outstanding Toronto and local ringmen tossing leather. Buddy Redmond meets Bobby Quirt in a curtain-raiser and two local gees, Joe Hobbins and Jack O'Neill—both middleweights—clash for three rounds. Jerry Belland, 135, takes on Phil Morris of Toronto; and Pat Jordan, 133, meets Tommy Foster, colored Toronto mittster. Both are three-round bouts. Three main bouts of five rounds see local and Toronto headliners clash, two of 'em repeat matches and real grudge battles. Norm Bowler, 147, is slated to tackle a tough hombre in Art Darnbrough, Ontario welter champ. Len Minicola, 135, fights Joe Genovese in a return bout, the Toronto Italian being sore over the lost decision in the last. And Nick Orlando, 135, has a return scrap with Bev. Carter, colored Toronto boy who also states "we wuz robbed" in his last fight here.

FOLLOWERS OF the fistic game—which some call the manly art but which Runyon says is the sour science of self defence—can't go wrong on this card. They will see four or five, anyway, dandy fist fights with no love lost between the combatants. Local fighters are promising to win more decisively here than ever and the visiting fighters say you have to kayo a guy to win in this town. It will be a fine evening for fight fans.

GETTING BACK to the ice game, the Petes play an O.H.A. senior "B" tussle tomorrow night in Belleville against the Trenton Fliers. Local lacrosse and rugby squads have cleaned up on the Fliers in the past year but our pucksters were rubbed out by the R.C.A.F. fellows last winter. It may be different this time, but the Trenton team will still be tough. Pick Hines' lineup this fracas will be in all likelihood: Goal, Clarke; defence, Barnes and Williamson; centre, Calladine; wings, Starr and Vitarelli; alternates, McDougall, Gratton, Kingdon, Weir and Eddis. That's the way it looks though there may be a change. After this game, either Harding or Clarke will be kept as the reguiar goalie and the other will turn out with Herb Payne's intermediate Bees. The Fliers and Petes play here on Friday.

OUR O.H.A. season opens tomorrow (Tuesday) night at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink with a junior "B" fixture between the Belleville boys and ye local Colts. The youngish Bellevillains, fresh from an 11-3 opening win over Havelock, will storm the Colts' corral, with a lad named Storms doing much of the storming. He got four goals and three assists for the Thomasites to start the season. He is main centre with Rowbotham and Ronsky flanking him. Second line is Muir, Goyer and Amo. Carson is in goal with O'Neill, McCreary, McGuire and Green on defence. The team is said to be fast, husky and full of fight—quite an improvement over last year.

* * * * * *

MANAGER PAT Haydon has lined up a likely looking raft of Colts and we look for a lot of speed, plenty of beef and the usual slam-bang exciting junior style of hockey in the outfit. The kids battle their heads off every minute and fans should flock to this first fixture. Either McNabb or Heath will be in goal. Defence so far consists of Clark, Brady, Berwick and Walker. First line looks like Gee Clark between Jopling and Tompkins—and that'll be a honey of a line, no spoofing. Second set should be Ike O'Leary between Craig and either White or Creighton. There are four of last year's stars on this prospective setup, several imports and several ex-City Loop aces. The boys are rounding rapidly into shape and should fly o'er the frozen surface with the celerity of bad cheques bouncing back. Yeah, the fray ought to be faster than a Mae West radio program—than which there is no whicher, mes amigoes.

FULL SCHEDULE of the Church Puck Loop is due in tomorrow's sheet. Games at All Saints' rink this twilight (Monday) are: George St. Bantams vs. St. John's at 6.00, All Saints vs. St. Paul's Juveniles at 8.00, and Murray St. Seniors vs. George St. at 9.00. At the Quaker rink tomorrow at 6.30, the George St. Juveniles clash with Mark St. Lots of la-de-da activity expected from here in for the Church Leaguers, and it started off with a bang last week when a team manager got peeved and yanked his squad off the ice during a game, thereby losing by default. No doubt, this will be dealt with later by the powers that be in church puckdom. 'Tis no skin off our nose.

Southend Loop tilts tonight at the Sacred Heart rink: King Edward Bantams vs. Canucks at six, and Beavers Midgets vs. Bombers at seven . . . . Whitby is at Oshawa and Port Hope at Cobourg in district intermediate "B" openers tonight . . . . Our Bees go to Port Hope on Thursday . . . . Entries to the Senior City Cage Loop close tomorrow eve at 6.45 at a meeting of those interested in the "Y" . . . The "Y" fencing group has meetings at 6.30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday . . . . Carnera Stricken In Budapest

Primo Carnera, once heavyweight champion of the world, is pictured here, weak and ill, in a Budapest hospital. He was stricken when he went to Budapest for a scheduled fight and was without funds at the time this photo was made. Later, about $16,000 of his money that had been tied up in litigation in the United States was released and returned to him.

Nels. Stewart's Comeback Brings Rave From Writers

They Also Enthuse Over Campbell And Ion As N.H.L. Arbiters

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—If one were to ask the various managers in the National Hockey League to name the outstanding player of the present ice season, most of them would answer "Nels Stewart." Some already have gone on record in picking the veteran forward of the New York Americans as making the most amazing comeback in recent years.

A couple of seasons ago the Boston Bruins figured he was all through and willingly unloaded him on the Americans. Every one else thought he had reached the end of the trail. That is, every one except Red Dutton, the American boss.

"Why," explained Dutton at the time, "Stewart has been an outstanding player for years. He's never taken too many bumps, he's just a couple of years past 30, and I don't see why he should be considered all washed up.

They're Great Pals.

"We were on the Maroons together for several years, and great pals, too. I'm sure Nels will play hockey for me, and it will be the kind of hockey that will make every other team in the league wish they had him."

Dutton had the right idea, for with the Americans Stewart has taken a new lease on life.

The Americans call him Sam, the other teams Big Poison, and the goalie a darn nuisance. But Dutton declared Stewart is one of the finest fellows that ever lived and a grand hockey player.

"When Stewart came to New York," related Dutton, "he told me he would give me the best he had in him. I believed him, for I've never known Nels to go back on his word. But, honestly, I didn't have any idea that his best was going to be so good. You couldn't buy Stewart now at any price."

They Talk Frankly.

Dutton didn't mention the part he has played in bringing Stewart far along the comeback trail. They know each other perfectly. They talk to each other just as frankly as when Dutton was on the backline and Stewart played up front with the Maroons. They argue, even get angry for a few moments, but there is a friendly understanding, and Dutton has done much to build up Stewart's confidence which was shattered badly when he joined the Americans.

The bench polishers around the league appear to agree that Clarence Campbell and Mickey Ion rank tops among the referees. Several have declared themselves on this matter, although not for publication. Each comes from western Canada. Campbell is a Rhodes scholar, new to the officiating ranks, but Ion has been facing off the disc for years.

Their decisions are made in hair-trigger fashion. It doesn't take a split second for them to make up their minds, and many of the others who might well wait at least a couple of seconds have been trying to follow this style.

Sometimes Reverse Selves.

The result of this imitating hasn't brought up any unfortunate situations, but in their zeal to make quick decisions several referees have had to reverse themselves on minor rulings. Frank Calder, president of the league, doesn't want too many mistakes, and he thinks that certain officials might try not to be so quick on the trigger, and thus avoid being forced to change their decisions.

GOLDEN BEARS BEAT ALABAMA BY 13-0 COUNT

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 3 (A.P.). —It's hard to prove anything by the results of the New Year's Day crop of United States "bowl" football games except that the fans will turn out in great numbers any time to see good grid teams. However, a survey of Saturday's half-dozen games from Florida to California reveal two significant facts.

The first is that in spite of all the sure-hot passers and slippery ball carriers, a strong, fast-charging line still is the best weapon in football; the second that a couple of teams that haven't scouted each other and proceed on the theory that the safest system is to score early and often can stir up a lot of excitement.

In every one of Saturday's contests, from the Pasadena Rose Bowl where California's "starless" team conquered Alabama 13-0 before a record crowd of 90,000 to the Miami Orange Bowl, where Auburn turned back Michigan State 6-0, the linemen were the heroes.

It was the California line, backed by an alert secondary defence that rendered ineffective the tide's speed and air game, that ripped Alabama apart in two long touchdown marches. It was the Auburn line that held Michigan State to 40 yards gained by rushing. It was the power of the Rice forwards that finally halted all-American Whizzer White in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas and carried the Owls to a 28-14 triumph over Colorado.

The forward walls also were the deciding factors as Santa Clara whipped Louisiana for the second straightyear 6-0, before a 45,000 turnout in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl; as the all-star East and West teams battled to a scoreless stand-off before 59,000 fans at San Francisco and as West Virginia beat out Texas Tech, 7-6 in the Sun Bowl at El Paso.

Most of the fireworks were set off in the Cotton Bowl where 37,000 fans saw White personally account for the two Colorado touchdowns in the first quarter only to take a sound beating at the end.

ADA FILES TRY AS DAVIS UP CHALLENGER

YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP).—Canada has not competed for the Davis Cup for three years, has returns a 1938 challenger, while eight European nations also have filed entries, the United States Lawnnis Association announced Sat.

Ent for the 1938 Davies Cup playoff close until Jan. 31, and officials considered the big early list indication that there would be a large number of challengers this. Under Davis Cup regulations any nation with an official tennis governing body (there are forty) is eligible. Last year there twenty-four challengers for the trophy, then held by Great Britain.

So Canada is the only nation to enter in the North American zone, which, like the European zone, is open to all nations. The deadline for South American zone entries is last September with no challenges, and none have been received in the Pacific section.

In hope the eight nations which already have challenged, in the order in which their entries were received, are: Great Britain, Switzerland, India, Jugoslavia, Australia, Rumania, Greece and Czechoslovakia.

Germany, beaten by the United States in the inter-zone final last year, France, are almost certain entries in the European zone. Australia is likely to compete in the American zone, although in past years Australians have competed both here and in Europe.

Leafs Riding The Top Spot In Canadian Section Fight

Maroons Suffer Double Setback—Toronto Defeats Canadiens 6-4

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP).—Consolation comes hard when world champions like Detroit Red Wings are groping around in a sub-cellar searching for just one win to keep their self-respect and finding nothing but grief.

There should be a bit of it for the Wings, however, in the thought that Chicago Black Hawks aren't so hot either. Beaten 4-1 by Boston Bruins last night and robbed of Mud Bruneau for the season by injury, the champs are admittedly groggy. But they shouldn't be counted out yet.

Never too steady in this campaign, Hawks were beaten 4-2 by Montreal Canadiens last night and are still only six points up on Red Wings. With just a few breaks the Detroiters could soon fix that.

They can hardly hope to finish first in the National Hockey League's American Division as they did last year. Bruins, riding high and seemingly capable of keeping it up, are too far away with their 18-point lead over Jack Adams' team. But there seem few good reasons why Wings can't beat Hawks out for a play-off berth.

They seem to have a better chance than Montreal Maroons have in the Canadian division. Beaten by New York Americans 3-1 at Montreal Saturday and 2-1 at New York last night, Maroons haven't moved a step since they took Canadiens two weeks ago.

They are bogged down in the Canadian division cellar with Canadiens and Americans tied for second place nine points ahead of them, and Toronto Maple Leafs riding the top spot 12 up on Tommy Gorman's Montrealers.

Toronto Beats Canadiens

Leafs had a margin of five points for 24 hours after they swept through Canadiens to a 6-4 win at Toronto Saturday night, but the Canadien and American victories last night sliced their margin.

Losing games has become routine with Red Wings and they mightn't have minded last night's loss to the section leaders so much if Bruneteau had not been put out of action. The Winnipeg boy fractured his right arm above the wrist in a third period collision with Red Beattie of Wings, and probably will be out for the rest of the schedule.

As usual, the Boston youngsters provided the fire while their defence bottled up the Wing attacks. Bobby Bauer scored two goals, Porky Dumart got another, and Bill Cowley took one too. Gordy Pettinger, traded by Wings to Bruins recently, assisted on two counters.

The only goal Wings got as they extended their winless streak to nine games was a freak affair. Marty Barry's long drive from left wing was caught by Tiny Thompson, but the puck slipped through his fingers into the net.

Tommy Gorman's return to the Maroon bench failed to prompt Maroons to any new efforts. They were no better than when the deposed King Clancy was piloting them.

In Montreal, Eddie Wiseman drove home Americans first goal in the middle fram and Sweeney Schriner and Joe Lomb made it 3-0 in the third before Gus Marker put Maroons on the summary.

Close at New York

It was closer at New York with Schriner winning the game by his third period goal after Nels Stewart's second period goal had pulled Americans up from behind. The Montrealers had taken an early lead on Herb Cain's counter.

In the game at Toronto Saturday night Canadiens had a one-goal lead from the second minute until Leafs turned on them midway through the second period and slapped in three counters.

They tossed in a burst of three more in the third. Canadiens kept in the fight with a second-period goal and two more in the third, but were never able to even tie the score.

Paul Haynes, Rod Lorrain, Pit Lepine and Toe Blake scored for Canadiens. Gordon Drillon extended his scoring lead with two goals for Leafs; Bill Thoms, Nick Metz, Jimmy Fowler and Bob Davidson getting the others.

In Chicago, Blake was the star with three goals. He had scored two of them before Hawks came through with a counter by Paul Thompson in the second. Lorraine also scored for Canadiens and Doc Romnes for Hawks.

SIX CAGE TEAMS PLAY NEW YEAR'S

Six teams entered the New Year's Day basketball tournament at the Y.M.C.A. The "Chimps", after losing their first game to the Tigers, came back in the finals to beat that same team 14-7.

In the first round the Lions, Seals and Tigers were the winners and the Bears, Jeepers and Chimps the losers. Each of these sections had eliminations with the Chimps representing the first round losers meeting the Bears the best of the three winning teams, with the aforementioned result.

The players of the various teams were:

Bears—C. Cadd, H. Hammell, D. McPherson, E. West, E. Downing, W. Ferguson.

Lions—E. Creighton, R. Harle, C. McGee, H. Marsh, D. Sedgwicke.

Jeepers—J. Craig, J. Gemmell, L. Grose, P. McArthur, R. White.

Seals—J. Dundas, R. Dyer, V. Holmes, W. Lewington, G. McIntyre.

Chimps—G. Gunsolus, H. Galley, H. Smith, L. Thomas, C. Davern.

Tigers—Owen, G. Broadley, K. Gadd, A. Holmes, J. Dougherty.

The play was rugged throughout with numerous penalties. A. Holmes with a total of 13, and H. Marsh and H. Smith with 9 were the leading scorers.

The two finalist teams each secured pound boxes of candy.

Contented Smile

Johnny Revolta, well known pro, who won the $10,000 Miami-Biltmore golf title with a total of 282 strokes, is seen here as he smiles after receiving the handsome size cheque. He won this richest golf tournament by one stroke over Jimmy Thomson and Dick Metz who were tied for second place.

Alabama Mascot

Pictured in the role of Stephanie in "Jezbel" is lovely Margaret Early, who was the mascot of the Alabama team in its New Year's day gridiron classic at the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Cal. Miss Early, who is only 17, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Early, former federal relief administrator for Louisiana.

FUTURE IN DOUBT

LIVERPOOL, England — (CP). — The future of Fleetwood, Lancashire Combination soccer club, is in doubt. Receipts at home matches this year have been far below the sum required to operate the team.

ACE SPORTWRITER DIES OF WOUNDS IN SPANISH WAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP).—There's a big, broad grin on the face of the robust, restless young giant, who, with characteristic Irish humor, autographed his picture: "Nine years in double harness—and not an argument."

It's typical of Edward Joseph Neil, Jr., who died of wounds suffered while "covering" the Spanish War. His sports-writing career was indelibly identified with th e "golden decade" of United States sports; who always wanted to be where the action—or argument was thickest; and who died covering the Spanish Civil War—from the ringside.

To millions of sports-page readers who appreciated his rare gifts of descriptive writing, to hundreds of sports champions, leaders and coworkers who knew Eddie Neil's magnetic personality as well as his extraordinary talent, his death came a great personal shock.

He Knew Them All.

With flair and flavor, Neil captured and dramatized the spirit of United States sports achievement at its peak. He combined power of analysis and observation with extraordinary personal enthusiasm for the things he saw and described.

DR. MACGILLIVRAY DIES IN GUELPH

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 3.—(CP).—Funeral of Rev. A. J. MacGillivray, one of Canadian Presbyterianism's most noted figures, will be held here to-morrow with burial in Woodlawn Cemetery. For the past 25 years he was minister of Knox Presbyterian church, Guelph.

Dr. MacGillivray, who was moderator of the General Assembly in 1926, had the difficult task of straightening out the situation that developed when Presbyterians split over church union, died in Guelph General Hospital Saturday after a short illness.

Born near Port Elgin, Ont., 70 years ago, Dr. MacGillivray served his church for more than 40 years. After receiving his early education at Ridgetown, he was graduated from the University of Manitoba, received his Master of Arts degree at Princeton University and took a theological course at Princeton Seminary.

His first charge after his ordination in 1894 was Oklahoma. Four years later he moved to London and was instrumental in the building of a new church for the congregation of St. James. Later he went to Vancouver to take charge of St. John's church, which was also built during his pastorate.

CHAPTER 29.

It was a strange and rather spectacular thing for Olga to do— offering Mimi part of her grandfather's money if she would marry me. But I was sure she was right when she said that her inheritance had made her uncomfortable, and she took this way, in part, to square things. "I shall tell Mimi that she can have it if she will marry you."

I protested, "Don't tie any strings to it. She must be free to decide."

"Are you afraid to put her to the test, Jerry? If she loves you, she won't question any conditions I may make."

"But her pride——"

"Pride?" With scorn, "Peacock feathers—! Vanity—! Everyone in that family has been willing to take things at my hands. If they had been proud, they would have worked their fingers to the bone before they would have accepted a favor."

I knew that what she said was true, and that I, too, had wondered that they could take so much and give so little.

Yet I argued with her. Defended them. And at last said, desperately, "I will have nothing to do with it, unless she is left free."

She was as obstinate as I, "Then I shan't offer it, Jerry. I am giving it to you as much as to Mimi. And I won't have Mrs. Le Brun sharing it.

At last I weakened. "I want her to be happy. And I can make her happy."

"Of course you can. Shall we call it settled then?"

There seemed nothing else to do but acquiesce, yet I was still doubtful when she announced her plans.

Mimi was to make her bow to society in 10 days. Invitations were already out to the dance in the rose ballroom.

"I shall tell her then, Jerry. In the library. And you shall be there."

She was so sure that things would go well with me that I tried to share her optimism. On the back of my own invitation to the ball, Mimi had written, "I am going to give you two dances, Jerry. And we will sit out one of them. I have a thousand things to say to you."

On that hope I lived. I was restless, eager. In 10 days, perhaps, my world would change. Yet when I allowed my thoughts to dwell on Olga's fantastic scheme I found myself liking it less and less. It would mean that I must go to Mimi with my hands empty—. That she would give and I would take. . . .

Yet I saw no other way out of it.

Before the night of the ball, two things happened—I had a letter from my father in which he refused to lend me money, and I discovered that Lionel had paid his debts by pawning Bernice's pearls.

I did not learn this latter fact from Lionel. I had gone to his room after my visit with Olga. He was not yet dressed for dinner, and as I was ready, I sat down in a big chair by his table to wait for him. There was a reading lamp on the table which drew around itself a golden circle, and just beyond the circle I was aware of a flash of vivid green. At first I thought the light was playing tricks on me; then I saw that an open leather jewel-case lay among the books, and in the case was a string of pearls with an emerald shamrock clasp.

Bernice's pearls! There was no mistaking them! She had offered them on the altar of her love for Lionel, and I knew how lightly he had accepted the sacrifice.

I did not want him to know that I had seen them—so I laid the evening paper over the leather case, and the next day when he told me jauntily that he had managed to get some money, my cheeks burned with my knowledge of the truth.

The letter from my father was so like him that I felt no sense of indignation or of anger at his refusal to grant my request.

"I can't do it, Jerry. The thing that I want for you is strength, and I pray every night on my knees that it may be given you. You will never have it as long as you lean on me. You have been more than fortunate—although I am not sure even yet that it is good fortune to have an income provided which will permit you to go on with your chosen work. If that income has not been sufficient, it is because you have not learned the first lesson a man has to learn, to live on what he has, no matter at what sacrifice.

"Does this sound harsh? My dear boy, you know my love for you. So I shall not offer any excuse. Except perhaps this one— that to let you have the money would be to deprive your grandmother and your aunt of the things I had hoped might make them comfortable this winter. And I know you too well to believe that you would want me to do that. There must be a new heating plant of some kind, if we are to be warm. Our old stoves are not adequate. If I send you the money, I am afraid your grandmother's ancient bones will ache.

"I have this to say, however. Why not come to us for a few months? You ought to be able to do some writing here in this quiet place, where you will be undisturbed by outside forces. Spend your Christmas with us Jerry, and our hearts will be glad. Then if you want to go back—God speed you.

"As for the woman you love. If she really cares, she will find it out when you are away from her. Her heart will travel to you across the miles.

"Write to me at once and let me know that you understand this letter and my motive in failing to let you have the money. The fact that I want you to have it more than I want my mother and sister to have new stoves shows how my sense of justice is blurred by my affection for you. I'd rather freeze all winter than leave a wish of your's ungranted. So you see how weak I am, and it takes the memory of your mother's voice. . . . 'You must think of his good, Stephen,' to hold me to my purpose."

I have my father's letter yet, and have copied it. It shows the battle which he fought between his love for his son, and his fear that he might spoil him.

I answered at once, and told him that I understood, but that I could not be sure of coming to him at Christmas time. Things must work out for me a bit before I made my decision. I did not tell him that my fate hung in the balance, and that if I came to him my hopes would be dead.

The picture which the rose ballroom presented on the night of the crowning event was an unforgettable one of loveliness and luxury.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SNOW SLIDE

Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow, was singing one morning. She was standing near the front door, looking out of the glass upper half of it by standing on her tiptoes and Bunty sang:

"The snow is falling thick and fast.

It really was. That's why the orphan rabbit sang. Then, all of a sudden, she heard back of her another voice singing:

"The snow is falling thick and fast,
Please step aside so I may go past."

Baby Bunty was so surprised she hopped aside instead of stepping and then she saw Uncle Wiggily twinkling his pink nose at her.

"Oh, where are you going, Unkie Wig?" asked the orphan rabbit.

"Out in the snow to look for an adventure," replied Mr. Longears.

"Please, may I come?" asked Baby Bunty.

"Have you had your breakfast?" Uncle Wiggily inquired.

"Oh, yes," replied the orphan rabbit.

Through the Storm

"Then hop along with me," invited the rabbit gentleman, and Baby Bunty hurried to put on her warmest fur coat. Soon the two were hopping through the snow storm, over the fields and through the woods, up hill and down.

Now here we go! Sit tight!"

"What kind of an adventure do you think you will find Unkie Wig?" asked the orphan rabbit using all the baby talk words she was allowed to speak.

"Oh, I never can tell until I find it," said Mr. Longears.

"But we're having a lovely time, aren't we?" asked Bunty.

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose faster, for it was getting cold, "we are, Bunty."

"I just love to be out in the snow," said Bunty. "Don't you, Unkie Wig?"

"Yes, it's fun," agreed Mr. Longears. "And now, Bunty, you had better take hold of my paw."

"Why, is there a Bad Clap coming after us?" asked the orphan rabbit.

"No, but we are going up hill and it is hard to climb a hill in a snow storm. I will help you up."

Uncle Wiggily helped Bunty to the top of the snow hill. Then the rabbit gentleman looked at his watch to see if any of the hands had gone on a strike, which they had not, he was glad to note. But, all of a sudden he shouted:

"Oh, my goodness!"

"What's the matter?" asked Bunty.

Snow Slide

"Don't say a word. Just sit down with me on this thin cake of ice which will be a sort of sled," said Uncle Wiggily. He took from a small pond on top of the hill a sheet of ice. It was covered with a film of snow like a cushion.

Uncle Wiggily shoved the ice sled to the top of the hill. He sat on it and made Baby Bunty sit in front of him.

"Oh, this is going to be good!" laughed the orphan rabbit. "We are going to have a snow slide, aren't we?"

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily, "we are. And I hope we may be in time," he said as he looked at his watch again.

"In time for what?" asked Baby Bunty.

Uncle Wiggily didn't answer. He was too busy tucking Baby Bunty's fur coat around her legs so they wouldn't be cold.

"Now here we go! Sit tight! I'm going to push off and we are going to slide fast!" cried Uncle Wiggily, looking at his watch once more. Baby Bunty couldn't understand why he did this.

And if the pickled watermelon doesn't fall in the chow chow and turn into salami, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily on time.

CORPS OF WEATHER EXPERTS TO GUIDE ATLANTIC FLIERS

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP).—An international corps of meteorologists will watch over pilots when passenger-and-mail flights are made over the North Atlantic Ocean. Gales, snowstorms and just plain bad weather are common in what weathermen term "the worst storm area in the world."

Upon a "ground crew" of wireless operators and weather forecasters will depend the success of the 3,000-mile airway, from Foynes, Ireland, to Port Washington, N.Y., via Botwood, Nfld., and Shediac, N.B., by wireless, the meteorologists will follow each plane throughout its flight to give warning of atmospheric conditions and to be ready for any emergency.

Elaborate preparations for the start of the flights are being made, officials of the meteorological service of Canada said here today. But they stressed "there is no hurry" to begin the service. Safety is the prime requisite. A year of mail flights beginning, perhaps, in 1939, will be necessary before passengers are carried over the stormy ocean.

Andrew Thomson, meteorologist, explained the set-up of the service, tested last summer when the Imperial Airways' Cambria and Caledonia made experimental trips. The governments of Canada, United States and Great Britain and their meteorological services are working with air-transportation companies in establishing the airway.

Divided Into Zones.

Each leg of the route has been divided into zones—the two-leg hop from Port Washington to Shediac to Botwood covers five such divisions—and as the big planes pass from one zone to another they are advised of weather conditions in the area ahead. Frequent reports of weather over the full route will be sent.

Before each flight composite weather maps of the route will be drawn from information gathered in the constant wireless exchanges between Port Washington, Shediac, Botwood and Foynes. Whether flights will be feasible will be decided on the basis of this map. Once in flight, the pilots continually will be advised of possible changes in conditions.

The trouble spot of the trans-Atlantic route is the 1,900 miles of open sea between Newfoundland and Ireland. Admittedly, the weathermen know little of that stormy area. Weather maps on the ocean will be based on information sent in by ships at sea, the reports being relayed to the plane en route.

Under the proposed system of wireless communication — pilots of the trans-Atlantic planes must report to their base every half-hour—the approximate position of each machine in flight will be known at all times. If no report is received for an hour, the meteorological service's emergency system goes into action. Ships near the spot whence came the last report will be requested to begin a search.

The meteorological service will be the guardian of the trans-Atlantic airway.

Rabbits Only Food For Months Deserted Miners Relate

Appendix Victim's Heroic Struggle Through 30 Below To Fort Brings Plane

SIOUX LOOKOUT, Ont., Jan. 3. —(CP).—Tale of hardship and suffering was told to-day by three miners rescued by plane Christmas Day 200 miles north of here.

Edward Shumalak and Carl Shumalak, cousins, and Frank Rollo said their only food since the end of October had been rabbits. Their condition became so desperate Edward Sumalak, suffering with appendicitis, braved 30-below-zero weather to struggle through to a trading post at Fort Hope.

Shumalak said he and his companions had been taken to the mine to work and left there. He left a letter addresesd to Dr. J. T. O'Gorman, Sioux Lookout, and a week later this was picked up by a pilot who stopped at the trading post to refuel.

Dr. O'Gorman communicated with the Ontario Attorney-General's Department. Word was then received by Crown Attorney Earl Popham at Kenora, Ont., ordering the chartering of a plane for a rescue flight. Pilot Bob Smith made the rescue flight.

When found the men were haggard, their hair falling out with scurvy because they had been without vegetables for three months. Rollo, the cook, said they were offered work at $5 a day by a man who said he was manager of the mine.

"When we got there we found that were only two other men working there, and 14 Indians," he said. "Toward the middle of September the Indians quit and the manager left by canoe, promising to send supplies to the men left behind and to get medical attention for Edward, who was bent up with appendicitis."

BACK TO HOME FOR FIRE

Called from his own fireside by a fire summons, a man in Scotland ran to the fire station, took his place on the engine and was carried back to his home, his chimney being on fire.

It was the last time that I was to take part in such festivities. I did not know it then, but in a few days I was to leave behind me, forever, this world of silken shining beauty, of rosy effulgence, of care-free indulgence, of gay assumption that nothing in the world mattered but a good time.

Olga had let me come early, and I was at the door when Mimi arrived. The fur of her gorgeous wrap reached to her ears, and above the fur was the radiance of her glance, the beauty of her hair. For once she had foresworn her favorite colors, so that she matched the ballroom in her rosiness. As her cloak fell back, I caught my breath—she was exquisite, so absolutely a creature of the world which encompassed her—silver slippers, silver butterflies on the rosy tulle.

She gave me her hand and it went to my lips. Neither of us spoke, yet my heart cried out to her, and I think the cry was answered.

We had only that moment, for Mrs. Le Brun, who had stopped to speak to Olga, came up to us. "The guests are arriving, Mimi," she said, "you'd better run in and be ready for them—" Then she spoke to me with an air of maddening patronage. "You've been a good boy, Jerry. You can see her now as often as you wish. The danger is over."

She swept on and up the stairs, leaving me stranded on the shores of apprehension. She seemed so secure, so triumphant.

Yet nothing could rob me of the rapture of the thought that Mimi was under the same roof with me. That I could feast my eyes upon her. I made my way to the balcony, and looked down to where I could see her standing just beyond the arched entrance to the ballroom. She saw me, and fluttered her fingers up towards me in a charming gesture. I waved back, and sat there for a long time alone, gazing down. I saw Andy, erect and assured of manner, standing with an irritating air of proprietorship beside Mimi. I saw Mrs. Barry and Bernice—with Lionel in attendance—I saw Katherine Merrill and Stiles Sanderson, and the Ammidon twins—. I saw Olga elbow to elbow with Mrs. Le Brun, and regal in gold tissue and the family diamonds. Many times in later years the scene was to come back to me—the fluid color of it—the astonishing separation of it from all that had to do with squalor and sordidness—its absolutely artificial quality and its fascination.

Many single incidents stand out in my memory of that night, yet, except for the final dramatic climax, none more vividly than my talk with Bernice.

We had danced together, and afterwards had wandered out into the great sunroom, which, with its Italian marbles, its gay tropical birds on perches lent itself perfectly to the decorative scheme of a rose garden, overtopped by a sky of turquoise silk.

Bernice had seemed to me quite like the girl I had first met, gay, irresponsible, audacious.

PEACE VIA GERMANS

Reports were that Germany's Ambassador to China, Oskar Trautmann, would present the proposals to the Chinese Government.

NOTHING TO BLOCK BOOM SAYS FORD

DETROIT, Jan. 3. — (AP). — Henry Ford in a statement on business conditions to-day said "there is nothing to prevent our going ahead" and revealed he expects to produce a low-priced tractor of unusual design within a few months.

No details for the tractor were made available.

Expressing his opinion the United States was on the verge of an era of greater production, the founder of the Ford Motor Company said: "Almost every reason for the temporary stoppage (of business) can be discounted. The people are naturally cautious at this time of the year because they want to know how the rest of the winter will be.

"They have heard so many threats that they are waiting to see. Well, that is all right," he said. "What they will see will not be as bad as it sounded.

"One thing we must learn is that we were on the right track a few years ago and left it. When we made plenty of things that people used to love, we were able to make them at low prices, and people were able to buy them, and this made work for more men.

"There is no way of changing that cycle, and no way of improving it—working and using and making things better and easier to get is all there is to it—and the sooner we get back to that the better it will be. There is no use waiting for some one else to start—this thing will get started, as it always has, by individual initiative."

"WE WANT TO LIVE DAY"

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 3 (A.P.). — A proposal for a "We Want to Live Day" to replace "peace strikes" held on many United States college campuses each April was introduced to-day at the National Student Federation Convention here.

Several resolutions dealing with world harmony were presented and these emphasized a trend away from the attitude of "peace at any price."

SEEK OLD QUEBEC ART TREASURES

MONTREAL, Jan. 3 — (CP). — Discovery of numerous art treasures on ancient French Canada was reported to-day by Jules Bazin, one of six investigators commissioned to record historic relics of Quebec province and to fill in the gaps of history.

Surveying paintings and art objects in old village church and raking through musty archives and records, the investigators sought to catalogue relics and reconstruct the provincial life of a century or more ago.

Results of the survey, made during the summer, will be forwarded next week to Jean Bruchesi, Assistant Provincial Secretary, said Bazin, Librarian of Montreal Beaux Art School, who worked in Montreal district with Gerard Morrisette, Provincial Director of Drawing.

"One of survey's objects," he added, "was to record the work of Quebec artists in the 18th centruy, lost with the influx later of German, Italian and English influences in the art field."

Their true value unknown to the priests, "many treasures were found in old churches of the province's villages and hamlets. For instance, in the parish church of St. Martin Village, we found two valuable paintings by Francois Malepart Dit Beaucourt, prominent artist of the time, dated 1793 and 1794."

"And in a tiny church in a nearby town we unearthed two gold and silver Eucharistic wine cups, bearing the stamp of the FrenchCanadian silversmith who made them more than 100 years ago," he said.

Of the other teams, Antonin Bernier and Raymond Parent delved into Montreal's archives, while Gordon Neilson and Maurice Gagnon examined records and relics of the Lower St. Lawrence River region, from Quebec City down along the Gaspe Peninsula.

NINE WOMEN J.P.'S

TORONTO, January 3—(CP).—There are nine women Justices of the Peace in Ontario, the Department of the Attorney-General said to-day. Miss Wilhelmina Bellinger, secretary to Magistrate Lester Clayton, Ottawa, is the latest woman appointee. She is 28.

An Ottawa despatch said Miss Bellinger was the youngest woman J.P., but the Attorney-General's Department said there was no way to check this. "We don't ask them their age when they're appointed," it was said. "And in these days when grandmothers look so much like debutantes we can't tell."

Five Highlights Of Jap Note

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (AP). — Highlights of the Japanese reply to the British note protesting against Japanese attacks on British vessels in Asiatic waters:

The incidents in question in each case were due to the fact (Japanese) units concerned had taken for granted that under such circumstances as prevailed at the time, all foreign warships and merchant vessels had sought refuge from the scene of fighting and the vicinity and there could be no vessels left in these localities other than those of enemy character, and also due to the fact that owing to thick fog and haze, visibility was poor."

"There is no room for doubt but that they (Japanese units) did not intentionally attack the vessels, knowing them to be British."

"As soon as the Japanese naval bombing squadrons and the military unit discovered the vessels were British they ceased firing and the Japanese military unit afforded assistance in taking care of the dead and wounded on H.M.S. Ladybird."

"As regards the assertion that the commander of the Japanese military unit involved spoke of having received orders to fire upon all vessels on the Yangtze, it has been established that the order referred to all vessels used for military purposes by the enemy and were not to the effect that vessels belonging to third powers should be attacked."

"Misunderstandings of this nature, which arose in connection with conversations between Rear Admiral Holt (British) and the commander of the Japanese unit at the time at Wuhu, are considered to have been the result of language difficulty."

WOULD YOU BUY IT AGAIN?

All merchants — nearly everybody who makes a living by selling something — can be divided into two distinct groups:

GROUP ONE: The merchant whose goods give so little value that he, like the old-time vendor of gold-bricks, cannot expect "repeat" orders. He must make all his profit from the first (and only) sale. Then he must seek buyers not yet familiar with his goods or reputation.

GROUP TWO: The merchant whose goods are sold in the hope of winning the purchaser's continued patronage. He can expect only a moderate profit. Thus, one sale per person is not enough. Each article must be good enough to make the buyer want to buy it again.

The merchants who advertise in The Examiner belong in Group Two. They could not stay in business unless they earned "repeat" orders — unless they gave you honest value for every dollar you spend with them.

That is why each article they sell you must be so thoroughly satisfactory that you would later answer "yes" to this, the most important question a Peterborough merchant can ask a customer; "Would you buy it again?"

"Did you say Paradol?"

U.A.W.-ENDORSED LABOR SLATE WINS IN OSHAWA

Allan Mann Returns As Smith's Reeve In 3-Cornered Fight

Martin P. Coughlin Elected in Douro; McDonald and Milby Prospects for Warden

With a plurality of 130 over Reeve George Mullen and Charles Westlake, Allan B. Mann of Bridgenorth regained the reeveship of Smith township, while Harry Fowler won the deputy-reeve's position in a contest with Fred Armstrong, last year's deputy, Wilbert Rosborough and Hilliard Dunford.

Mr. Mann carried four of the six polls in the township for a total of 422 votes. Mr. Mullen received the highest vote at the other two polls and an aggregate at the six of 290. Mr. Westlake was third with 184 votes after making a strong bid in the western section, but dropping behind sharply in the north and east.

Harry Fowler piled up enough votes at Bridgenorth and Milburn's School in the west to coast along through third and fourth positions at the other four polls for a total of 318. Fred Armstrong carried two polls with a total of 214 that left him in third place behind Wilbert Rosborough, who was the leader at Pollock's house and received considerable support at five of the six polling places. Hilliard Dunford was fourth, getting at Young's Point 69 of his total of 99.

The net results of the Smith balloting displaces the two representatives of the township in last year's County Council.

Accompanied by Mr. Fowler, his deputy, Allan Mann, goes back to the county forum with a determined purpose to make some effort to upset the equalized assessment of the county which gave Smith the highest valuation of all the municipalities while Otonabee dropped to second place on the assessment sheet with such satisfaction to its ratepayers that Reeve W. A. Anderson and Deputy-Reeve Harry Reid were accorded an acclamation with the other members of the township council. From Reeve-elect Mann's declaration at the Smith nominations the recent readjustment of the county assessment is still an active issue, and his experience in the council fully equips him to promote his local cause at any opportunity that presents itself.

Although George E. Mullen defended himself with all the argument that could be fashioned in his appeal to the Smith ratepayers, it was evident that the distinction of having

VETERAN MEMBER SIR GEORGE PERLEY PASSES IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Jan. 4—(CP)—Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley, veteran member of parliament for Argenteuil and chief lieutenant of Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett, died at his home here early today. He was 80 years old.

Sir George Perley

Sir George had been in his usual, vigorous health, attending the governor - general's levee and making a round of calls New Year's Day. Just a week ago Sir George and Lady Perley had given a large dance for a debutante granddaughter.

Active in Canada's political life for more than 40 years, Sir George had been cabinet minister, high commissioner to London and Acting Prime Minister during absences of Mr. Bennett. During the war he played a prominent part as minister of overseas military forces, high commissioner in London and as a member of the Imperial War Cabinet.

Little Ill-Health

Sir George had given no indication of ill health before retiring last night. Active participation in the holiday festivites had left him in the best of health, as cheery as ever. After attending the Governor-General's levee Saturday he proudly told a member of his family, "I looked around and I was the oldest man there."

Always looking and acting like a man far younger than his years, Sir George had gone north on a fishing trip early last Fall and later spent a holiday at Virginia Hot Springs.

Often Aided The Poor.

Sir George was a real benefactor to the poor, although his philanthropies were always quietly carried out. A keen golfer, Sir George was on the links as frequently as time would permit and he was an ardent fisherman.

In the House of Commons, Sir George commanded the respect of all parties and his voice was frequently effective in the orderly settlement of heated debate.

Sir George was the son of a prominent Ottawa Valley lumberman and was regarded as a very wealthy man. Despite his wealth, he lived quietly and his tastes were simple.

PORTERS DESERT REDFERN PARTY

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Jan. 4 (A.P.). — The Waldeck Expedition searching for Paul Redfern, American aviator missing 11 years, was marooned to-day on a rock in the Upper Cuyuni River, about 150 miles from here.

The expedition reported its porters had deserted and its food supplies running low.

Theodore J. Waldeck, explorer, left his party into the jungles from Bartica, 50 miles south of here, on December 13 aboard three specially constructed boats. It was the 13th expedition to search for Redfern, who vanished in 1927 on an attempted non-stop flight from Georgia to Brazil.

With Waldeck are Mrs. Waldeck, W. A. Chandler, New York sportsman, and Dr. T. J. Fox, Boston, the party's doctor.

They left Georgetown on December 12 to search for the American flyer.

Last Minute News Flashes

BASRA, Iraq. — Maryse Hilsz, noted French flier, missing since Sunday on a Saigon-Paris flight, was found to-day about 45 miles from Jask, Iran, according to reports received here. She was uninjured and her plane undamaged, the reports said.

Plane Rescues 15

Fifteen surveyors, lost for 39 days in barren wilderness east of Moosonee, were rescued from death by starvation when Pilot G. Ralph Spradbrow, (PLANE BELOW) spotted their camp alongside the Missikabi river, while on a searching expedition. The men were stranded foodless when they failed to locate a food cache placed for them when they entered the area for survey work in November. Spradbrow was joined by Pilot Walter Woollett (LOWER), in his rescue mission.

ALDERMAN DUTTON WILL ACCEPT COUNCIL VACANCY

The vacancy on the aldermanic board caused by the resignation of M. R. Sloan over five months ago, is to be filled by appointment. There remains an unexpired term of twelve months yet to run.

Defeated by a narrow margin at the polls on New Year's Day in his run among the slate of two-year candidates, James Dutton has been mntioned in many quarters, as one of the most likely men to whom first offer of the appointment might go.

The Examiner interviewed Mr. Dutton this afternoon and asked him if he would accept the appointment were it offered to him. It was a question, he said, that had been put before him by a large number of people throughout the city, and he had been strongly urged to accept the offer if it was made.

Declaring that he intended to continue serving the city to the best of his ability whether he remained out of the council or went back into it, Mr. Dutton decided, "The least I could do, if I should be offered the appointment is to accept it."

Prepared to Serve.

His acceptance of the appointment, he hastened to explain, would

12 New Members On The Council Of United Counties

W. E. Ball Elected Reeve of Millbrook; Howard Fairman Defeated in Hastings

Twelve of the forty members of the 1937 council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham will be missing when the new reeves and deputy-reeves assemble at Cobourg late this month to elect a Warden, and organize for the year's business with special attention to the January sessions.

Seven of the changes have occurred in Northumberland and five in Durham. Of the municipalities nearest to Peterborough Hastings village turned in the sharpest surprise. Reeve Howard G. Fairman was defeated by Councillor Lou E. Kelley by 22 votes. His leadership in stirring up a deputation to urge the Department of Highways to assume the county road from Cobourg to Hastings and Norwood by way of Roseneath, it was fancied at this distance Reeve Fairman would renew favor with the Hastings ratepayers, but apparently the long experience of Mr. Kelley counted heavily to his credit in his thrust for the reeveship.

New Millbrook Reeve

Over in Millbrook W. Ed Ball was chosen as successor to Reeve Percy Stinson in a spirited contest with P. I. Bentley. The contestants were colleagues in the council, and both made the move upward when Reeve Stinson announced his intention to retire from the municipal service.

In Campbellford Chas. H. Calver was promoted from the deputy's position to reeveship, succeeding Ernest H. McKeel. Calver was opposed by T. E. Hall. He is one of the prominent members of the counties council, but for all his ability he will not have an easy task exceeding the contribution by Reeve

JAP FLIERS RAID CHINESE AIRBASE 600 MILES INLAND

SHANGHAI, Jan. 4 (AP)—Japanese infantry columns today drove deep into the "Holy Yand of China" —Central Shantung Province—and reported capture of cities more than 50 miles south of Tsinan, the already occupied provincial capital.

(Domei, the Japanese News Agency, in a dispatch to Tokyo said the Japanese vanguard had captured Chufu, 70 miles south of Tsinan, where Confucious, China's great sage, was born in 550 B.C.

(The Japanese army said it would accord full protection to the tomb of Confucious at Chufu and the great Confucian temple.)

Japanese planes also carried destruction into central China in what a Japanese naval spokesman said was a campaign to "crush China's reorganized air force," including "large numbers of Soviet planes."

Forty Japanese planes from bases near Shanghai flew to Hankow, nearly 600 miles up the Yangtse River, and delivered a crushing blow at the new Chinese airbase there, the spokesman declared. He said all Japanese planes returned safely.

Chinese admitted they had suffered 5,000 casualties in fierce fighting for control of the Shantung Railways, but declared Japanese losses also were heavy.

Given Canada Lead Says Millard Party Organizer

Mayor-Elect McLeese Beats Alex. Hall by 737, And Auto Workers Put 6 Members on Council of 10

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 4.—(CP)—"Oshawa has given the lead to all Canada," C. H. Millard, Ontario organizer of the United Automobile Workers of America, said today after a U.A.W.A.-endorsed labor slate won control of the municipal council in yesterday's election.

"Citizens need not be afraid of labor councils," said Millard. "In New Zealand and other countries where labor men are at the head of affairs, everything is running smoothly and there is less suffering among the people."

Millard said the automobile workers would support the six union men elected to the council but would demand "a strict account" of their efforts.

Six U.A.W.A. candidates were elected to the council while Mayor-Elect Alex McLeese is an honorary member of the union. He defeated Mayor Alex Hall who leaped into prominence last spring at the time of the Oshawa General Motors strike.

One labor candidate won a place on the Board of Education. Both union aspirants to the public utilities commission were defeated.

McLeese Now Out on Top.

Mayor-elect McLeese said last night after victory was conceded: "Last year I was the underdog in Council. To-night I'm out on top. I will approach my duties humbly and will attempt to do the best for citizens as a whole."

Said Mayor Hall: "You have elected a Labor Council and a Labor Mayor. The best thing you can do is get behind them and support them. In offering myself for re-election, I would not be dictated to by any one group."

McLeese polled 2,378 votes, 737 more than Mayor Hall. Ald. Stewart Alger, third Mayoralty candidate, had 1,152 votes and A. N. Sharp, fourth candidate, Welfare Board chairman, had 1,002.

Ald. Clifford Harmon, Labor, headed the poll for the 10 Council seats. He had 3,022 votes. Next came Ald. Coleman, 2,840. Dr. Grant Bird, Ontario Conservative candidate in the last general election, was third with 2,792. In fourth place was John Stacey, former Mayor, with 2,700.

Fifth and sixth Council places were taken by Labor with E. E. Bathe having 2,666 votes, and Finley Dafoe 2,590. J. C. Anderson was re-elected with 2,418. Last three places went to Labor men—William Walker 2,032, James Haxton 1,992, and William Harmer 1,787.

SHOTS AT SOLDIER AND THEFT OF CAR YIELD SIX YEARS

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 4 (C.P.).—Joseph Hill of Oshawa to-day was sentenced to a total of six years in the Kingston Penitentiary for an escapade more than two weeks ago when he stole a car, carried a revolver and shot at Sergt. Mark McDermott.

Hill had stolen the car when Sgt. McDermott was coming out of a house to get into the car and the soldier, jumping on the hood of the car, was given a thrilling 70-mile-an-hour drive for three miles.

Hill, in getting out of the car, brandished a revolver and fired at McDermitt. Hill was arrested and in court was given one year for stealing the car, two years for carrying concealed weapons, and three years for shooting. The sentences will run consecutively.

MISSING FORD POLICE HEAD'S DAUGHTER WED

Feared Abduction Turns Out Elopement

DETROIT, Jan. 4 (A.P.). — Capt. Donald S. Leonard of the State Police announced to-day Gertrude Bennett, missing 18-year-old daughter of Harry Bennett, Ford Motor Company personal director, and Russell Hughes were married early last night in Auburn, Ind.

Capt. Leonard said he learned of the marriage from the County Clerk at Auburn. He said, however, the couple had not been found.

The marriage, Capt. Leonard said, was performed by Miles Baxter, Justice of the ePace, at Auburn.

Miss Bennett gave her birth date as May 2 ,1918, which would make her 18 years old. She actually is 17.

Turmoil at Her Home

YPSILANTI, Mich., Jan. 4—(AP)—The turreted, castle-like home of Harry H. Bennett, Ford Motor Company executive, seethed with activity to-day as an intense search was directed for his missing daughter, 17-year-old Gertrude Bennett.

Miss Bennett, a student at Michigan Normal College here, has been missing since Monday afternoon when she was last seen by friends on the campus.

Although a small army of investigators at first discounted the possibility of a romantic escapade, it was learned a young man who has been her escort on several occasions did not return to his home last night.

Capt. Leonard said the young man is Russell Hughes, 20, also a Michigan Normal College student. A search was started for him when it was learned he had notified his residence at nearby Dixboro, Mich., he would not be home on Monday night.

Capt. Leonard said that if Miss Bennet was with Hughes he had no fears for her safety.

Bennett Often Threatened.

The chief cause for alarm in connection with the case was due to the prominence of the girl's father, chief of the far-flung Ford Motor Company's personnel and head of its private police force.

Bennett has been threatened with death frequently and attempts on his life have been made in recent years. Violence to members of the family has been threatened by crank letters at various times, it was reported.

Spacious grounds at the Huron River home of the Bennetts near here today were tramped by newsmen, photographers, curious spectators, state policemen, federal bureau of investigation men and numerous agents of Bennett's police force.

The last word from the missing girl was apparently contained in a note which she sent to her older sister, Billie, Monday. The note said:

FIND POLL CLERK DEAD AT HASTINGS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 4. — Edward Perrault was found dead in his room at 9.30 on Monday morning when Village Constable W. Wildman forced open the side door of his residence. The body was still warm.

He was to have been a poll clerk for the municipal election held here yesterday, and when he had not put in an appearance at 9 o'clock, the time for opening the polls, W. Boyle went to his house a short distance away. Failing to get an answer when he rapped on the door, he summoned the constable.

Coroner C. C. Armstrong of Warkworth was called and he attributed the death to heart failure.

Mr. Perrault was in apparent good health and his death comes as a shock to the neighborhood.

The deceased was a bachelor. He leaves one sister, Mrs. Margaret Murphy of Peterborough.

Italy's Gift Radios Bring Arabs Correct British News

BBC Rebroadcast From Palestine Puts One Over On Duce's Propaganda Experts

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(A.P.)—The British Broadcasting Corporation carried its Arabic broadcast to the Holy Land partly through Italian-distributed receiving sets, it became known today.

The Italians are credited with giving to Arabs thousands of medium wave sets, capable of getting Bari, Italy, news broadcasts but unable to receive short wave programs from Daventry, England.

To overcome this, the B.B.C. rebroadcast its initial program in Arabic last night over the Palestine medium-wave station.

The nightly news broadcasts are designed to offset Italian radio propaganda to Arabic countries of the near east by providing straight news summaries of the day's events.

Notables of the Arab world witnessed the first of the broadcasts at Broadcasting House last night. Prince Seisal Husain, son of the Imam of Yemen, spoke briefly, welcoming the broadcasts as a great development promising to promote understanding between peoples. The charge d'affaires of the Egyptian embassy, the minister for Saudi Arabia and the minister for Iraq also spoke.

About To Be Marooned, Fishers Ask For A Doctor For Winter

Parish Priest Sends Plea To Halifax—No Medical Aid For 100 Miles

HALIFAX, Jan. 4 (CP).—A young doctor willing to administer to the 2,000 residents of the St. Margaret's district near the north tip of Cape Breton Island, isolated most of the winter ,was sought today to avert a threatened "medical crisis."

In telegrams to Nova Scotia newspapers last night, Rev. Paul MacNeil, Roman Catholic priest at St. Margaret's, said the population was without "doctor or hospital facilities within 100 miles" and two persons were "fighting serious illness without competent medical attention."

The priest said the "serious situation tends to make people panicky." He asked assistance in having a doctor placed in the area or weekly communication by boat set up. Within a few weeks the northern communities would be isolated, he added.

Dr. P. S. Campbell, chief Provincial health officer, said efforts would be made to find a young doctor willing to practice in the area. But another Halifax physician, Dr. H. L. Scrammell, secretary of the Nova Scotia Medical Board, did not know where one could be obtained. Every recent Nova Scotia medical graduate had been placed, he said.

A coastal boat calls at Bay St. Lawrence in the St. Margaret's district twice weekly until winter, when the service is discontinued. Last trip of the season was made last week. Voyages are continued to Dingwall, about 10 miles from St. Margaret's, until ice closes that harbor, usually in the latter part of January, while roads between Dingwall and St. Margaret's are impassable except on foot in winter.

Ask Double Bounty On Prairie Wolves

Regina, Jan. 4 (CP)

DICK HALL, M.L.A. for Athabaska, will urge upon the Government necessity of increasing the bounty on timber wolves in the North as a means of protecting big game. He said wolves were hunting in packs of 25 and 50, and big game was being forced out of the North in search of safer quarters.

He will recommend the bounty be increased from $5 to $10 a head. As a conservative estimate he considered every timber wolf in the North would kill at least 20 big game animals in a season. Recently he saw three timber wolves kill a woodland caribou within half a mile of his cabin on the shore of Lac La Ronge, 135 miles north of Prince Albert.

Canada Almost Forcibly Annexed By U.S. Back In 1870

Vancouver, Jan. 4 (CP)

CANADA narrowly missed forcible annexation by the United States in 1870, according to J. W. Dafoe, editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, who ascribes development of confederation in Canada as a defence against expansionist desires of the United States following the American Civil War.

Most astonishing thing about Canada was that it ever came into ... Mr. Dafoe in an address to the Canadian ... was no basis for citizenship.

Many Americans in 1870 thought it was the destiny of the United States to take possession of the North American continent, Mr. Dafoe said, and in June, 1870, many residents of British Columbia asked the United States to annex that territory.

The offer of Sir John A. Macdonald, then Prime Minister to give British Columbia a railway in 10 years was the apparent turning point, and the next year British Columbia agreed to confederation.

Crippled Wife Dies In Blazing Cabin As Blind Man Fights Fire In Vain

Alexandria, Ont., Jan. 4 (CP)

A 74-year-old blind man made an unsuccessful fight today to beat out flames that burned down his home and cremated his bedridden wife.

Angus Cameron, blind for 40 years, lived in a log cabin with his wife, 85 and an invalid. During the night flames escaped from the stove, setting fire to the ceiling. The wife directed the feeble efforts of her blind husband to control the fire. It was a losing fight.

The man stepped outside the door to catch his breath. He tried shovelling snow on the burning cabin. It burned higher.

Worn out by his efforts and the smoke, Cameron could not find the door to re-enter the house.

Neighbors found him several hours later, still leaning on the shovel. His home was burned to the ground—his wife dead.

BILLION DOLLAR DEFICIT IS SEEN IN U.S. BUDGET

New Business Ease-Off Foils Balance Hopes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP) — Usually well-informed officials predicted to-day President Roosevelt's budget for the next fiscal year would carry a $1,000,000,000 deficit and that he would revise his estimates deficit on this year's budget to $1,250,000,000.

They made these forecasts after Mr. Roosevelt told the United States Congress yesterday the budget for the 1939 fiscal year, beginning July 1, would be unbalanced but the deficit would be smaller than this year's.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, commenting on the president's announcement, said that business conditions had changed the situation completely since he and Mr. Roosevelt had expressed hope in the fall of achieving a balance.

"If business should pick up, we could still balance the budget," he said.

"If business should pick up, we could still balance the budget," he said.

The president expects to send his 1938-39 budget to Congress tomorrow, but probably will tell the lawmakers that next year's relief needs annot be estimated for a few months. The budget figures on naval construction also will be tentative.

TORONTO BROKER IN HUNT MISHAP DIES OF WOUNDS

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (C.P.). — John Aitken, 33, prominent young Toronto stockbroker, a nephew of Lord Beaverbrook, famous Canadian-born British publisher, died on Monday as the result of a hunting trip accident near Uxbridge, 30 miles northeast of here, last night. J. Mauns Aitken, Toronto, father of John, is Lord Beaverbrook's brother.

With three hunting companions, Aitken was returning by sleigh to Uxbridge where they had left their car, from Stretonville, where the Aitken summer cottage, also used as a hunting lodge, is located. The gun Aitken was carrying accidentally discharged in the sleigh.

Mr. Aitken was rushed to hospital here after receiving treatments from Drs. Wilson and McClintock of Uxbridge. He died a few hours after arrival. The charge from the gun went through the left arm, punctured a lung, and entered the abdomen.

Mr. Aitken spent the New Year holiday shooting near his cottage at Stretonville. He was returning to Uxbridge in a sleigh with Robert H. Wright, S. J. Buckley, and Roland Kline, hunting companions, when Aitken he was carrying discharged. Mr. Aitken, who was 33, is survived by his widow and three children, Joan, Wendy and John. The funeral will be from Rosedale Presbyterian Church on Wednesday.

ROSS IS ELECTED IN CLOSE FIGHT

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4.—Defeating Frank Lee in a close fight William Ross became Deputy Reeve of the Township in Seymour's only election fight this year, the balance of the council having been returned by acclamation. Answering the question regarding the purchase of the Presbyterian church shed by the township, a majority of 130 voted in favour of the proposition. Seymour's council for 1937 will consist of Reeve Robert Innes, Deputy-Reeve William Ross, Councillors Robert Bateson, Melville Wight and John Kelly.

Parlor Bottle Trick Proves Too Sharp

Portland, Ore., Jan. 4. (AP) SOMEONE suggested parlor games at a family reunion.

So Mayor Joseph K. Carson sat balanced on the curved side of a milk bottle, feet outstretched, and tried to write his name on a piece of paper.

The bottle collapsed. Three stitches were required to close the Mayor's wound.

"I should have known better," he grumbled.

2 REEVESHIP TIES AS 250 ONTARIO CENTRES BALLOT

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (CP)—Two tie votes in the balloting for township reeves, the election of an aldermanic candidate who at present is busily engaged in the Arctic and the holding—accidentally — of an election that was quite unnecessary enlivened proceedings as more than 250 Ontario municipalities went to the polls yesterday.

In the majority of the small towns, villages and townships which elected officers for 1938, voters balloted only for councillors or school trustees. More than 185 reeves previously had been elected by acclamation. But there were enough candidates for senior offices to make things interesting. Many plebiscites also were decided upon by ratepayers.

More than 70 reeves were elected in yesterday's voting. Thirteen mayors also were chosen by voters, in addition to the 26 elected by acclamation after last week's nominations and subsequent qualifications. In four municipalities, "local-option" votes brought citizens to the polls.

A Tie Vote

John L. Campbell and John W. Codling, each with 499 votes, finished in a tie for the reeveship of Bosanquet township. At noon Wednesday township clerk Victor Fuller will cast the deciding vote. Bosanquet is in Lambton County. In Biddulph township, in adjacent Middlesex, a similar situation exists. Cecil McRobert and Myron Culbert tied for the reeveship after unofficial vote counting. Official figures were not announced.

Alderman Al Cheesman, well-known airman, was re-elected to Port Arthur's council. But unless he returns from the Arctic before Jan. 10 to attend the inaugural meeting he will not qualify to take his seat. There is little chance he will be on hand, for Pilot Cheesman expects to be engaged all winter in a search for six Russian fliers.

With Sir Hubert Wilkins and Air Commodore Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, Cheesman is searching for Sigismund Levaneffsky, lost since last Aug. 13 with five fellow Russian airmen on a trans-polar flight from Moscow. The scene of the search is frigid Beaufort Sea, at a point 1,000 miles north of Barrow, Alaska.

Something Different

The Middlesex county village of Glencoe provided something new in the way of unique elections. Ratepayers had to stand the cost of an election in which voters defeated a candidate for the reeveship who Commander on the flight was Capt. Edward Musick (inset). Britain's Imperial Airways will shortly pioneer a 1,600 mile route from Auckland to Sydney, Australia which, with the clipper service, will give North America five-day connection with Australia. Steamers require approximately three weeks to make the trip.

Christmas Time Parole Useless In Ontario

Jail Governors Lack Alabama's Faith—"Never See Most Of Prisoners Again"

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (CP)—Officials in charge of prisoners in Ontario's penal institutions lack the faith in their charges that was shown by Alabama's and wardens of jails in that southern state.

At Christmas, 550 men and women prisoners of the state were given temporary paroles so they might enjoy the holiday season with their families. Despatches said the majority of these "good conduct" jailbirds returned.

Governor Harry G. Denning, Toronto jail, said the idea might work with first offenders, but with "repeaters" never.

"In the majority of cases," said Governor Denning, "you would never see the prisoner again. But there are the odd good prisoners with whom the idea would be a success."

Dr. J. D. Heaslip, superintendent at the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph, said that before a similar idea could be attempted in Canada existing laws would have to be changed.

SURVEYORS' CHIEF LOSES 50 POUNDS ON DIET OF BUNNY

MOOSONEE, Ont., Jan. 4.—(CP). —A hardy band of French-Canadian woods surveyors, the privations and hardships of six weeks of near-starvation only a memory, looked forward to-day to a happy re-union with the families they last saw four months ago.

Two nine-passenger airplanes will carry the 15 men from this James Bay town which has sheltered them since Saturday. Once in their Quebec homes the men's thin frames again will fill out, according to the party's leader, Lieut.-Col. J. Romeo Guenet, and they again will be "sound and strong."

Pilots G. R. Spradbrow and Babe Woollett, who brought the little group of emaciated men from the survey camp 60 miles south-east of here where for 39 days they existed virtually without food, will fly the surveyors out of Moosonee today. The point in Quebec to which they will be taken has not yet been determined.

however be governed by a single purpose. "It is possible," he said "that in my position as an alderman I would be able to offer better service than in my capacity as a private citizen. But whatever happens I shall be prepared to go on serving the community at large to the best of my ability."

While he was a member of the city council during a two-year term, Mr. Dutton gave outstanding service as chairman of the relief committee, and prior to that served for many years as a member of the Central Charity Relief Board during a period when the relief problem was acute.

His sphere of public service to the city and district has also included work on the Board of Education and the Advisory Vocational Committee; on the Chamber of Commerce and as president of the Central Ontario Highways Association.

During the afternoon and evening the guests were received by Mrs. N. Broad and Mrs. Bruce Leslie. After congratulations were given and received Mrs. Freeman Howes of Roslin, conducted the way to the dining room, where a dainty lunch was served. Mrs. Hitchett of Roslin and Mrs. Wallace Sills of Latta poured tea, while Misses Freda, Ileen and Jennie Sager, and Margaret and Dorothy Leslie served the refreshments.

Lifford District Snowed Under With All Car Traffic Halted

Worst Storm In History Cuts Off Mail And Bread Deliveries

LIFFORD LINE, Jan. 4.—One of the worst storms in history was experienced in this locality on Friday afternoon and evening. The exceptionally high wind with a liberal fall of snow completely blocked the roads for motor traffic and in many places it was impossible for a team of horses and sleigh to progress without considerable shovelling. On Friday night two cars proceeding from Lindsay to Bethany and Port Hope respectively, were marooned at Mr. E. Lathangue's gate and the occupants of same spent the night at the comfortable farm home. The male occupants proceeded by team and sleigh to Bethany the following afternoon while the remainer of the party and the two motors remained until early the following week, the roads being opened on Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. Clarence Page of Oshawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Page, motored from that city to Lifford on Friday evening to spend the holiday, but he was unable to make Lifford hill, however, and his car also spent the week-end on the roadside, while a more reliable mode of travel was employed to make the return trip to the motor city on New Year's afternoon.

A group of Fleetwood youths motored to Bethany on Friday evening

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Wheat Advances Five Cents

All wheat futures and July rye skyrocketed the five-cent allowable limit on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Bulges of Liverpool futures and North American wheat export sales, estimated at 1,250,000 bushels, supplied buying power which left wheat 5 cents up at the close, May $1.25¾ and July $1.16¾.

Sales of Canadian wheat estimated at 500,000 bushels, revival of mill demand and aggressive commission house support sent the July future up five cents to $1.16¾ and May 4¾ cents higher at $1.25½. It was the largest advance in July wheat since touching a seasonal low level of 97⅝ cents less than two months ago.

Overseas firms were credited with purchases of Winnipeg futures, while sales of United States winter wheat, estimated at 750,000 bushels was a constructive influence. Stock markets also were firm.

guns, ready to defend themselves against attacks by the Japanese air squadrons. The planes however, made no move to molest the warships.

The Japanese air raiders were said to have dropped about 70 bombs, "a majority missing their objectives." The big Hanyang arsenal appeared to be the main object of attack.

Three Chinese were killed and 16 injured, the advices said.

Chinese declared their heavy anti-aircraft fire kept the attackers above 8,000 feet, while eight Chinese planes, "some flown by Russians," took the air to drive them off.

They said one Chinese plane was shot down.

Bridge Valuable Artery.

A new artery for shipment of war materials into China has been opened with completion of a bridge linking British and Chinese sections of the Hong Kong-Canton motor road.

Long lines of trucks carrying bombing planes of American and Italian make have moved out of Hong Kong toward Canton since the bridge was finished New Year's Day.

Hundreds of trucks of American and German make have been assembled at Hong Kong and driven into the interior. The liner Conte Verde last week brought from Italy 1,400 tons of aerial bombs which were transported to Canton. Other shipments of explosives have arrived at Hong Kong almost daily from Europe.

Japanese Consul General Suemasa Okamoto presented concrete proposals for greater Japanese participation and influence in administration of the Shanghai Municipal Council to Cornell S. Franklin, the Council's chairman.

Long Is Returned As Mayor For 4th Term In Campbellford

Charles Calver Defeats T. E. Hall For The Reeveship Of The Town

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4.—F. F. Long was returned to serve his fourth term as mayor of the town of Campbellford when he defeated A. J. Meyers in the civic election contest held here on Monday by a majority of 224 votes. Increasing his majority by 137 from the 87 plurality he was given over Mr. Meyers in the election contest in 1933, the mayor's policy was given emphatic approval by the voters who flocked to the poll yesterday in one of the keenest contests on record. The Mayor was elected by acclamation in both 1936 and 1937.

Charles Calver who for the past two years has been deputy-reeve, having been elected to the office in 1936 and receiving an acclamation in 1937, defeated T. E. Hall by a majority of 226, while N. A. McColl, chairman of the Finance committee on the council, headed the polls with 703 votes and A. E. Burgiss, a new meber, was second with 570. P. H. Macmillan was re-elected and stood third on the list of councillors with 563 while Harvey Donald and J. R. Battisby were given 563 and 529 respectively. James L. Dorie was returned to the council for another year and nosed out John O'Sullivan, a member of last year's council, by 101 votes. P. J. Kelly, who also sat on the council last year, was defeated and W. S. Wiggins and R. H. Cole were also left.

Dr. H. O. Richardson headed the poll for School Trustee and H. A. McArthur, the only new member elected to the board, stood second. Nosing out C. W. Palliser by 5 votes J. A. Irwin was returned with a total of 484. Mrs. Eupehemia Hollings, the only woman candidate, was also defeated.

Percy M. Locke was given an acclamation to the Deputy-Reeve's chair, having retired from the council last year and J. O. Benor was also eletced by acclamation to the Water and Light Commission.

Lost $67,000

Henry Klidzia, 46, of Newark, N.J., told police that he has lost $67,000 in cash from the pocket of his sweater, while he was loading garbage on a truck. On investigation, an even more amazing story was unfolded, Klidzia averring that he brought a fortune of $310,000 when he came from Russia 32 years ago. Most of the sum had been lost in pinochle games and the stock market, he said, but a substantial amount was still in the bank. The $67,000 was not part of the original amount, but was inherited in 1918, said Klidzia, who claims relationship to the late czar.

RIVERSIDE PLANS RELIEF INQUIRY

RIVERSIDE, Ont., Jan. 4 (CP).—Charges that six families on relief had received more than $100 worth of clothing in two months, while other relief recipients were forced to "wrap themselves in rags" were made by Councillor Joseph Chauvin at last night's inaugural meeting of the 1938 Town Council.

The charges, directed against Joseph Sibue, relief administrator, were made in response to a request that all citizens or members of Town Council having any complaints against the relief administration should present them to the town treasurer. The council is preparing to conduct investigation into relief affairs.

"I have discovered that six families of medium size were allowed $109.98 for clothing from October 1 to November 26," said Chauvin. "We have been notified of people in town being forced to wrap themselves in rags," he added. "Every time we asked the administrator about them he said we had no money to clothe them."

Sought As Queen Of N.Y. Smugglers

Playing the game of "foil the photographer" is Mrs. Gussie Firstenberg, pictured as she arrived in New York. Mrs. Firstenberg's coyness may have been due to the fact that United States customs officials were said to be waiting for her so that they could offer her Uncle Sam's hospitality immediately. Behind it all is the allegation that Mrs. Firstenberg is the "queen of smugglers", who for years has been eluding authorities while members of her ring smuggled in some $13,000,000 worth of precious stones without paying Uncle Sam a dime in duty.

ANNUAL CONCERT SCORES SUCCESS PLAYLET ENJOYED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 4.—For more than fifty years, in the present church, St. Andrew's Sunday School has observed its anniversary occasion at the New Year, and again this season on Saturday evening, New Year's Day, the school presented its concert, with the superintendent, Mr. W. F. Fallis, in the chair.

Unfavorable weather conditions and roads lessened the attendance, but it was an appreciative audience that gathered at 8 p.m. to listen to a program in which each class, or a combination of classes contributed one number, the whole providing a most commendable entertainment.

The children of the primary department and the junior classes gave the opening numbers consisting of motion songs and other suitable selections, following which the girls of Della Mae Sisco's class presented a dialogue, "Living the Christmas Spirit." Those taking part in the three-acts were Lillian Foottit, Dorothy Sisco, Phyllis Lunn, Joyce and Luella Kennedy, Velma Thornton, Leitha Edworthy, and Elsie Theobald. These girls later sang, "Star of the East," arranged in a pretty grouping.

Bible Story Illustrated

Piano solos were played by Edward David, and Ernest Powell gave some clever imitations, using his violin as an accessory. Evans Hatherly was heard in a recitation, "The Way a Boy would do Things," and Mrs. Ridge's class of boys presented a very effective arrangement of the Bible story of Samuel, "And the child grew before the Lord." George Sisco gave the prologue and Jack Kidd and Fred Ridge filled the roles of the priest, Eli, and the boy, Samuel, respectively. The stage was lighted only by a many-branched brass candelabra, and had a background of dark green.

Miss Ethel Hatherly's recitation, "The Road to Heaven," drew warm applause from the audience, and Allen Ellis followed with a medley of airs played as a bass solo, while Fred Ridge gave a seasonable reading. The concluding number was a cleverly-presented playet, "Maids of All Nations," given by the girls of Miss E. L. Hetherington's class, with Gordon Muspratt as the bachelor globe-trotter, who arriving at home after a long absence, finds himself lonely and decides to choose a wife to grace his apartment and share his lot in life.

Just whom to choose was the difficulty, and in retrospect he sees pass in review before him the 'maids of all nations,' whom he has met on his world-encircling tour, the final choice being after all given in favor of the Canadian girl, Esther Might, very attractive in white and red shirt-waist suit, bare headed, and carrying her badminton racquet. Others who presented themselves for inspection, in the review pageant included: Jean Fisher, Hawaiian maiden, with wreaths of blossoms, summery flowered dress, and carrying a guitar; Mary Burnham, a dainty Japanese girl; Edna McKnight, who recalled memories of moonlight nights in sunny Greece, wearing white and silver; Kathleen Smith, in Turkish costume; and Dorothy Sisco, who brought to mind classic Italy;

Next came Anna Rowland, as a Dutch girl, and Dorothy Smith as a German frau; Jean Stinson had all the vivacity of Paris, and Lenora Davis the stately costume and air of a Spanish young lady; Cleopatra and the banks of the Nile were represented by the entry of Margaret Smith, while a trio of claimants from the British Isles were well represented by Dorothy Smith, as an English maiden, Jean Burnham as Irelaid, and Leatha Rowland as a Scotch lassie; Mrs. J. Ridge made an excellent Minnehaha in full Indian costume, and while all were attractively posed for the final tableau, Jean Stinson sang, "Bonnie Mary of Argyl."

Worship Service

On Sunday at 2.30 p.m., the school climaxed its anniversary with the annual public worship service, with Rev. Frank Langford, D.D., of Toronto, as the guest speaker, the superintendent, an dthe pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, being also on the platform.

Following the hymn, "Tell me the stories of Jesus," Dr. Langford gave a very fine address, with special reference to retaining the interest of the younger boys and girls, telling the story of the Good Samaritan in vivid language, and then recounting stories of modern times, after the manner adopted by our Lord in his teaching by means of anecdote.

A highlight of the service was the presentation of the awards won during the year, twelve being present every Sunday: Leona Manley, Mary Dawson, Stewart Murney, Jessie Dawson, Jessie Murney, Roy Dawson, Marguerite Murney, Stanford Brown, Harry Freelove, Elwood Fallis, Gerald Todd and Anna Manley.

For verses, 150 being required in the year to receive a prize: Betty Lunn, Brentin Dawson, Donald McKnight, Orval Challice, Charles Sanderson, Elsie Theobald, Linda Murney.

Certificates for successfully passing the annual examination in Temperance, none of whom made under 97 marks, were given to the following: Jack Kidd, David and Evans Hatherly, Elsie Theobald, George and Teddy Sisco, Linda Murney, Dorothy Sisco, Phyllis Lunn, Robert Theobald, Teddy Stinson, Roy Dawson, Joyce Kennedy.

Rev. Archer Wallace, D.D., of Toronto, keeping a promise made when preaching anniversary sermons here one year ago to give a book to all scholars not missing a Sunday in 1937, had sent the books and these were presented to thoes entitled to them, in addition to the award given by the school.

The reports for the day, and year, as given by the secretary, Oliver Brock, showed 212 scholars present on Sunday; offering $7.84; for the quarter—attendance 704, average 131; verses 770, average 64; offerings $62.10, average $4.85. For the year: attendance 45,625, average 125; verses 2479; collections, average $4.58.

Special Prizes Presented

Rev. Mr. Sisco presented the special prizes he had promised to members of the Young Worshippers' League for attendance at church 52 Sunday mornings in the year: Roy Dawson and Teddy Sisco had a perfect record. The rest of the Y.W.L. awards will be given out next Sunday morning. Five of the regular attendance awards given in the Sunday School went to children in the Primary Department. The blessing which dismissed the congregation was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Langford.

Regular promotions in the Sunday School will be made on January 9. In connection with the fact that the four members of Mrs. (Rev.) A. L. Sisco's class, Gordon Might, William Ridge, Byron Fowler, and Fred Brown, are being moved on to the Young Men's Bible Class, Mr. W. A. O'Brian, teacher, a pleasant surprise was prepared for Mrs. Sisco after the service on Sunday, when her scholars called at the Parsonage and presented her with a handsome electric table lamp.

The gift was given in an informal manner, and as a token of the deep appreciation felt by the boys for the faithful and efficient instruction, regular attendance, and service which the teacher they are about to leave had given in their behalf, while they had been members of her class.

Three lions were killed with three bullets shot by Gert Duvenhage, a young farmer, near Gravelotte, South Africa, after the beasts had killed several of his donkeys.

Wealthy Man Slain

The most prominent Roman Catholic in China and often referred to as the "Chinese Rockefeller," wealthy Loh Heh Hong was assassinated by two orange peddlers outside his home in the French concession at Shanghai. Loh had long been regarded as pro-Japanese and this was believed motive for his murder. A leading philanthropist, he had been decorated many times by foreign governments.

New Deal Bombards Big Business

HAROLD ICKES — JAMES H. RAND, JR. — HENRY FORD — TOM GIRDLER

Big business in United States was again subjected to attack by the inner circle of the Roosevelt administration when Interior Secretary Harold Ickes accused "concentrated wealth" of opposing government attempts to revitalize business. The speech is regarded as indicating a new drive for anti-monopoly legislation at the next congressional session. Tom M. Girdler, head of Republic Steel; Henry Ford, motor magnate and James H. Rand, Jr., president of Remington Rand were singled out by Ickes for special attack as leaders of the capitalistic group. His speech was broadcast from Washington.

MORE FOOTWEAR EXPORTED

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—(CP).— The Dominion Bureau of Statistics today reported November export of Canadian-made leather footwear was valued at $91,579, a large increase compared with $62,769 in November, 1936. Imports of footwear during November increased to $93,817 from $78,934 in the same month last year.

BLIZZARD BLOCKS LINDSAY ROADS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Jan. 4.—All day New Year's and Sunday a big gang of men was engaged in digging Lindsay out of the week-end storm—the biggest blizzard experienced in this section in years. The streets were piled several feet high with snow and all kinds of traffic was at a standstill. The leading roads out of town were completely blocked while on the Lindsay-Toronto and Lindsay-Peterborough highway dozens of cars were stalled, their occupants being forced to seek shelter in near-

The snow fell heavily in the northern section of Victoria and in Haliburton, but, strange to say, there was no blizzard. The Haliburton train arrived in town in good time on the holiday, and the passengers were surprised to see the mountain of snow in this section. The Toronto bus due to arrive in Lindsay at nine o'clock New Year's night, did not reach here until six o'clock Sunday morning. The Bobcaygeon bus driver thought he could weather the storm on New Year's Eve, and with nineteen passengers on board, struck out for the village. He was marooned a short distance from town and the passengers spent the night at the home of Mr. F. Hardy.

E. Schickeler, of Wilberforce, had a narrow escape from serious injury on the week-end when his car was struck by the I. B. & O. train. He was driving to the station for some freight, and thinking the train was pulling out, drove on to the crossing to find that it was backing up. The driver escaped with a bad shaking up.

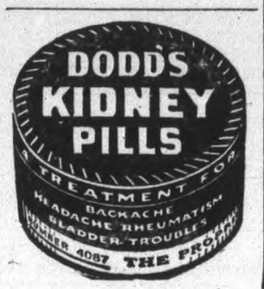
Miss Gertrude Pogue, of Reaboro, now a missionary with the Sudan Interior Mission at Addis Ababa, Africa, is reported to be seriously ill. She had a serious operation for appendicitis, and her condition is far from being satisfactory.

SHORTER POLICE

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(CP-Havas).—The minimum required height of prospective recruits in the London Metropolitan Police to-day was reduced from five feet, nine inches to five feet, eight inches. It was explained police work currently involves many tasks in which a good physique and intelligence are more necessary than an imposing stature.

TRIPLET CALVES

LINDSAY, Ont., Jan. 4—(CP).—J. A. McGillivray, former Warden of Victoria County, said to-day a cow on his farm had given birth to triplet calves early New Year's Day. Statistics show triplet births are about as rare to cows as they are to humans, occurring once in 18,721 births.



CHEERFUL REPORTS FEATURE ANNUAL CHURCH SESSION

FRASERVILLE, Jan. 4. — Fraserville congregational meeting was held in the church on Thursday evening.

Following the opening of the session by a Scriptural reading and prayer by Rev. Mr. Cook in the chair, Jean Holden was chosen secretary. The reading and adoption of the minutes of the last annual meeting was followed by reports of the past year's work from the various organizations of the church.

Ray Finlay, superintendent of the Sunday school, Mrs. Ray Finlay, missionary supt., Eric Clark, secretary, and Ray Bothwell, treasurer, all gave very encouraging reports for the Sunday school.

Mr. Finlay was unanimously chosen superintendent for the coming year.

Mary Atchison, past president of the Young People's Society, reported an active year for the young people with the total money raised $62.17. After giving $10 to missions, $20 to the church, they purchased one dozen Canadian hymnals for the Sunday school and a half dozen hymnaries for the church.

A prosperous year for the Woman's Association was indicated in the reports read to the congregational meeting by Mrs. J. O. Pue, secretary, and Mrs. Ray Finlay treasurer.

The association is carrying forward a balance on hand.

The Associate Helpers' report was given by Mildred Moncrief. Up to the present there is $4.00 given in the mite boxes.

W. G. Waterman gave the treasurer's report of the church.

The election of officers then took place with the following result:

It was a happy New Year's greeting that Machado extended.

WE NEED YOUR HELP— THIS YEAR! EVERY YEAR!

Needy children from all over the Province are treated regardless of race, creed or financial circumstance.

This policy has been continued for over 60 years in the firm belief that everyone who understands the facts would want this great work to continue... would agree that no Ontario child should be denied a chance for health or escape from deformity if mere money makes the difference.

Over 95% of our beds are in Public Wards.

The Hospital receives no support from the Toronto Federation for Community Service because patients are accepted from all parts of the Province.

We must therefore appeal to a humane and generous public to take care of an annual deficit... this year it is $78,930.53.

• Please mail a donation to the Appeal Secretary, 67 College Street, Toronto.

The thanks of little children will be your reward.

The Hospital for Sick Children

IRON LUNGS produced in the race against time when the lives of children from all over Ontario were at stake during the Polio Epidemic. They provided the only chance for life during the critical stages of the disease.

Every morning in the year famous surgeons come to our operating rooms to donate their services. More than 8,100 operations are performed annually. But there are many extras involved and the maintenance of this necessary service is very costly.

Something Wrong

Rev. E. N. O. Kulbeck, pastor of Grace Tabernacle in Woodstock, paid a fine some weeks ago because neighbors complained there was too much noise coming from his place of worship late in the evening. It was also ordered that services there would have to cease at 9.30 in the evening.

The existence of that order applied on the eve of the coming year and the pastor, in compliance with it, used his own home for the purpose of holding a watch-night service instead of holding such a gathering in the church.

And regardless of any court order to the contrary, that does not make sense. There were probably other churches in Woodstock where a watch-night service was held. And we have no doubt if Woodstock is like other cities there would be gatherings in a good many places where the coming of the New Year would be greeted with a degree of noise and acclaim not usually heard at the midnight hour. But nothing would be done about it.

That is what makes it so strange to find a church in Woodstock where people could not gather together on New Year's eve to hold a watch-night service. There is something wrong about it.

Killed While Getting News

Edward J. Neil, correspondent for the Associated Press with the insurgent armies in Spain, is dead from wounds he received on New Year's eve. Three newspaper correspondents were killed at the same time when a shell struck the car in which they were riding.

The reading public may not have a clear idea of how war news is secured, but the death of three correspondents from one shell tells its own story. Tells of men in search of reliable news being within the range of fire. Then men from the press go into such places because they want news; they have been sent there for that purpose, and their whole training and experience has made them certain the only way to get news is to go where it is taking place.

The Sixty Families

United States may not be able to pay much attention to world trouble because it has a war on at home. Not the kind of war where people get killed, but the sort where the United States government is engaged in fighting what it is pleased to term the concentration of the wealth of United States in a relatively few families. Sixty to be exact.

Within recent days there have been three successive broadcasts or broadsides let loose by government officials. Two of them by Robert Jackson, assistant Attorney-General, and the third by Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior in the government at Washington. One does not need to be much of a political prophet to see that it means that Congress at its next session will proceed with the enactment of more legislation to break monopolies.

It could not be held that the wealth of United States is in the hands of sixty families, because there are 120,000,000 people in the United States, and in many families outside the charmed circle of the leading sixty there must be a great deal of money or its equivalent. The drive of the government is against the concentration of power and wealth as it affects industry and business in general. Mr. Ickes says these huge corporation have within them the power to bring on a depression, the power to run up prices on the stock market or to cause them to recede; also that they possess the power to put the prices of commodities at such a figure that people will be forced to stop buying. In other words, the power of the sixty families is so entrenched in what the world calls big business that it can dominate the situation. The sixty families in this way are said to be the rulers of all the other families making up the total population of 120,000,000 people.

There can be not the least doubt that what is called "big business" in United States desires above all else the downfall of the Roosevelt administration, and that was the attitude taken during the time of the last presidential election. And for that reason the administration is bent upon a war for trust-busting, a popular enough scheme with several former administrations, but one which seems to have done everything but bust the trusts.

There have been so many similar utterances made in United States telling what the present and past governments intended to do to "business" that one may well be left wondering whether the latest outbursts have their birth pains in plain government propaganda. The government of United States has demonstrated that it knows how to spend money, but it has not yet shown that it possesses a better knowledge of business than those at present engaged in it.

We Have Some Hardy People

A party of 15 men engaged on survey work for the government of Quebec missed supplies of food which had been left for them. The direction which their work would take them was known, and the food had been cached at a spot which they should have reached. The result was that for 39 days they had nothing except the meat of 14 rabbits. They had a supply of drinking water, and they had plenty of matches so it was possible to keep warm. But they had virtually nothing to eat and the weather was cold. The country for miles around was muskeg.

Plans called for a plane to take the party out by the 25th of December, and the plane flew to where the food supply had been left, but the pilot saw it had not been touched, and that told him plainly something was the matter. He went for help, and his promptness and careful observation saved the lives of 15 men. When rescued members of the party, all French-Canadians accustomed to outdoor life, were so weak they could not walk, and so overcome with emotion that they could give no other expression to it save by tears.

The man in charge was intelligent because he knew how to conserve the strength of starving men and also how to treat them so they would not collapse. He insisted toward the last on some exercise each day. One man relates that when he tried to chop down a tree he could swing the axe but twice because there was no strength left in him. But the manager understood well enough that the chief danger he and all his men faced was the loss of body heat particularly when for 39 days nothing had been eaten which would aid in producing it. That 15 men should pass through such an experience and emerge suffering nothing worse than weakness can be expressed in only one word—remarkable.

Then there is the story of Mr. and Mrs. H. Martin who decided some time ago that they would remain no longer on their farm near Weyburn, Sask., where they had no crop since the year 1929. They gathered together such of their possessions as they could carry and strapped them to their backs and started walking to High River, Alberta, a distance of 350 miles. When night overtook them they slept in the open. Occasionally, but not often, they were given a lift by some motorist.

Reaching Calgary Martin tried to get work but failed. Then the trip was continued to High River where a job was found at $1 per day and board pulling stumps. After that Martin found work driving a tractor, and finally he and his wife found places on the same farm where they are stopping until they look for land of their own. Shortly after arriving there Mrs. Martin went to hospital at High River and a daughter was born to her. The Martins were convinced they could not get along where they were, and they did not ask the government to attend to their affairs. With packs on their backs they went their way toward new land. Considering the case of the 15 men who lived for 39 days with virtually nothing to eat and Mr. and Mrs. H. Martin we come to the conclusion that we have some hardy people living in the Dominion.

Better Than The Tenth!

From a farm correspondent who wishes to be known only as "Young Farmer" the Examiner received the following note:

"This winter we have a furnace in our farm home. You wrote once that on your Tenth Concession there was a gay old heater in the parlor. Ours has been taken out and sold and now it is warm even in the spare bedroom. I dare say that is a step ahead of what you had on your Tenth Concession."

Right. There was no central heating plant on Lot 4, Concession Ten. We do not believe there was on on the Tenth, not even in the church at the corner of the Broken Front Road and certainly not in the one-room school. It was necessary to go to the village to find such a thing. After driving in on a cold day it was quite the thing to go and stand over the big round register in the floor of the corner store, and after doing that one could at least start home knowing that the pedal extremities and the framework in general had been well thawed out, but as a rule the drive of eight miles back to the Tenth took away that comfortable sensation.

But no person actually suffered from the cold on the Tenth. Quite true the stove in the parlor was not in regular operation, so the parlor door was shut most of the time. Grandfather's enlarged picture which stood on an easel beside the parlor organ and the flowers on the red carpet stood the cold well indeed. Nor did the Indian ornament on top of the heater seem to mind in the least that the fire was not in the stove. If company arrived unexpectedly then they sat about in the kitchen beside the range for a while until some person operated on the heater in the parlor. There was nothing unusual about that because all the folk along the concession and on the side lines did the same thing. But when that parlor heater got a start and half a chance it attended to business like a stove should, and people would always say "My, it's nice and warm in here." That was considered a compliment on the Tenth, and in 15 minutes after that stove got going the frost would be off the front window. That was one way you could always tell along the Tenth if any of the folks had company in. The frost would be off the parlor window.

Upstairs it wasn't so simple. The stove pipe from the parlor stove went through the spare bedroom, but heat there was wasted as the place was not often used unless it was at a time when there was a vacancy in the pulpit at the church and students were coming to stay at the house before doing the preaching at the church on Sunday.

In the upstairs hall there was the pipe from the kitchen range, and attached to it was what they used to call a drum. Whether drums are still fashionable we do not know. But it threw out a fair amount of heat, but not often did the kitchen range fire stay in over night and when the range quit so did the drum. When the weather turned cold sleeping was all right; of course you could see your breath but they used to say that was a good thing because it proved your insides had not turned cold. It was getting dressed in the morning when the cold hit hardest, but that made for a degree of speed which would never be possible or necessary in a warm room. There was no lingering.

Grandfather had the best seat in the house for the cold days, as he had a deep old easy chair pulled in near the rear of the kitchen range. From there one could almost reach a stick out of the wood-box and put it in the stove without getting up, and that was worth considering too. Yes, the kitchen range was the main source of heat on the Tenth; it was beside the oven door the bread was set to rise; it was in the oven that boots were dried on wet days, and that kindling wood which was a trifle green was allowed to dry out and emit a pleasant smell as it did so. It was on the back of the range that the teapot stood between dinner time and supper, waiting for the addition of a little more hot water for an added cup of tea during those hours. Tea experts would scoff at such a thing today, but it was the manner of the Tenth. Those who are going in for a central heating plant in the farm home are no doubt enjoying a bit of comfort which was unknown on the Tenth Concession, but that which we had not experienced we could not possibly miss. Life was very good there.

NOTE AND COMMENT

American banks have so much money on hand they have been lending it to the government without charge. A lot of folk could tell them where the stuff is needed more than there.

Complaints are made that the United States is dumping surplus goods into Canada. It is an old habit and it has never added very much to the prosperity of this country.

Careless pedestrians are undoubtedly a problem but until they start crashing into motor cars and upsetting the machines they will still be a lot less harmful than careless drivers.

There were no films to inflame the people of United States when the Maine was sunk but they managed to work themselves up into a war fever without the stimulus of the news reels.

A scarcity of small town doctors is reported in a number of American cities. Evidently the young men of the profession have no desire to become Dr. Allan Roy Dafoes.

Pembroke police commission has decided that a fifteen mile rate is fast enough for driving on streets in the business section. Now the trick is to sell the idea to the folk who drive cars.

Toronto's traffic toll took 68 lives in 1937, an increase of one over the previous year, while 3571 persons were injured. Such a record shows why it is necessary to keep alive organizations like the Safety League.

American publisher has offered $10,000 bonus to the parents of the first set of quintuplets born within eight miles of his home town. He must be the same individual who offered to provide a pension for the widow of the unknown soldier.

The first coin having reference to Edward VIII that came to the attention of collectors was the penny of New Guinea. The one-tenth pennies are now rather scarce. They were sent into the interior where it was discovered that they made excellent washers with which to nail tarpaper roofing. They were much cheaper than the washers sold by hardware companies.

The Sale of Flags

FORTUNE tells us that the firm of Annin and Company of New York which claims to be the largest flag house in the world sold 50 per cent more American flags last year than in 1936. The total for the year is estimated to run about 25,000,000 or about one flag for every new Bible printed.

Annin's have been selling flags since the early 1800's when Alexander the primordial Annin ran a ship—chandlery business with his three sons. Their flags have waved over the inauguration of every American president since Zachery Taylor's. In 1847 they supplied the flags carried into the Mexican war; in 1861 their flags were used by the Union forces in every engagement on sea and land; in 1917 the first American troops to reach France carried Annin merchandise.

Some Action Needed on Slot Machines

Plan in Force at Present Too Irregular For Fairness; Brantford Goes Ahead With Law to Regulate Machines

(Brantford Expositor)

PERHAPS MANY of the citizens of Brantford in the midst of the festivities of the Christmas season overlooked the recent by-law that was passed by the City Council "to regulate, supervise, and license coin operating, vending and amusement machines." The license fee will be one hundred dollars for the first machine and twenty dollars each for the others on the premises. The by-law is an attempt on the part of the Council to establish some sort of inspection and regulation of these machines, which not only exist in large numbers in Brantford, but also throughout the entire Province.

Regulation by municipal councils has been rendered exceedingly difficult by the legal decision recently rendered in this Province by the Court of Appeal. The by-law passed by the City of Kingston to prevent any person whether as owner, or tenant, or occupant of a house or building to keep or permit to be kept thereat or in connection therewith any sort of slot machine or gaming device of any kind without first having obtained a license therefore, which was very drastic in its scope, was quashed by the Court of Appeal of Ontario in its entirety, with costs against the city. The judgment stated clearly that no municipal council could license for the benefit of the municipality things which were forbidden by the Criminal Code.

The trouble is that there is no precise definition regarding the nature of these machines so as to determine whether or not they are illegal. Their owners endeavor to operate the machines so as to escape technical violation of the law, although they may be used for gambling purposes. As these machines are regarded generally as merely gambling devices, protests have been made against permitting their operation by many municipalities.

Those that are illegal can be suppressed under the criminal code, and should not be licensed. The Provincial Police of Quebec Province are charging those found in possession of any of these gambling devices, commonly called slot machines, with keeping a betting house under article 986 of the criminal code, which provides for a penalty of from two hundred dollars to one thousand dollars and costs or a jail sentence, or both. That is certainly the way to deal with slot machines that operate contrary to the law. The police authorities have to decide what machines are illegal regardless of whether or not they have a civic license.

In view of legal decisions the attempts to impose license fees as high as $500 or $1,000 have been of no avail since such high fees have been regarded by the courts as being prohibitory. The remedy appears to be concerted action on the part of the municipalities of Ontario to persuade the Federal Government, or the Provincial Government, whichever has jurisdiction in the matter, to abolish all these gaming devices. The use of these machines was prohibited in the State of Michigan and it is stated that many were then shipped to Ontario.

The question is one in which citizens of all classes, including churches, the Salvation Army, Young Men's Christian Associations, and all other moral agencies should take action to obtain legislation to drive the objectionable type of machines in their entirety out of the Province. The Social Service Council of Canada has called attention to the fact that the use of all such machines "tends to initiate youth in gambling habits, takes from them their meagre allowances, and often proves the first step in the career of a confirmed gambler." The situation has reached a stage where suitable action should be taken to deal with it. There is no doubt that some of these coin operating devices constitute the most insidious forms of gambling and their use should be prohibited.

How the Name Ralph Connor Began

Author Had It Selected For Him in Interesting Way; Publishers Were Cool Toward the First Books He Wrote

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

A SHORT time ago our Attic Salt Shaker, apropos the death of Rev. Charles W. Gordon, cited from the reminiscences of George H. Doran, the publisher, how Dr. Gordon came to be known to the reading public as "Ralph Connor." According to Mr. Doran, the minister wrote some articles for a missionary magazine in Toronto called "The Westminster," and the editor, Rev. James A. MacDonald, wrote back to ask what name should be signed to them. The reply came by telephone, "Cannor," and Mr. MacDonald, thinking that was a misprint, changed it to "Connor." That name did not sound complete by itself, and the editor added the prefix "Ralph," for no other reason than that it seemed to be euphonious. That version is not quite correct.

About eight years ago a Times-Journal man interviewed Dr. Gordon and asked how he adopted that name. "I didn't adopt it," he said. "It was imposed upon me." And here is the exact story of how "Ralph Connor" came into being as told to The Times-Journal man by Dr. Gordon himself.

In the late nineties he went to Toronto to try to obtain financial support for the British Canadian Northwest Mission, but met with little success. "When I got back to Winnipeg," he said, "I wrote an article about the work of the Mission for "The Westminster" and sent it to Toronto. I did not sign it, and Jimmy MacDonald wired asking what name should be put to it. As I looked out of the window I saw the name "Canadian Northwest Mission on the door of the building, so I decided to take the first three letters of the two names—'Can Nor'—and linked them together as 'Cannor.' I wrote out a telegram and handed it in. The telegraphist apparently thought there was something wrong with it and that it was a mistake for 'Connor,' so he turned it into 'Connor' of his own volition. Jimmy didn't question the name, but he felt it should have a Christian name and he prefixed 'Ralph' of his own accord."

So it was a telegraphist who broke regulations by altering a name without authority who was mainly responsible for the creation of "Ralph Connor."

The "Jimmy MacDonald" referred to was the late Rev. Dr. J. A. MacDonald, one-time minister of Knox Presbyterian church, St. Thomas, and afterwards editor of the Globe.

It is interesting to learn, also on the authority of Dr. Gordon, that Mr. MacDonald asked "Ralph Connor" for further articles about mission work in the Northwest and these were subsequently incorporated as "Ralph Connor's" first book, "Black Rock." Mr. MacDonald tried to get a publishing house to accept the work but none would do so and he published it himself from the office of "The Westminster." Mr. MacDonald encouraged "Ralph Connor" to write a real romance of evangelical life and "The Sky Pilot" was the result. Mr. MacDonald published that, too, as no regular publisher would take the risk with such an unusual subject. "The Sky Pilot," however was an instantaneous success, and in fact, was the best seller of all Dr. Gordon's novels. After that, of course, publishers literally tumbled over themselves to get "Ralph Connor's" books, and the house of Doran was the lucky one.

TOLD IN RHYME

To write you in rhyme
I'm taking the time
For I've something I do want to say,
I've just put it off,
(Now please do not scoff)
Till I must no longer delay.
There's no need to tell
You know it full well
Your paper is one of the best,
There's news of all sorts
With plenty of sports,
(The Editor's page leads the rest.)
Your rhymes all the rage
You've a great Sunday page,
There's Roberta's great psychology
There's wisdom and war
(Now what's it all for?)
And the children love Uncle Wiggly.
But it isn't for praise
My voice I would raise,
'Tis far better I think you'll agree,
We must think of others,
Since all men are brothers,
So this is the reason—you'll see.
This boy in the west
Is one of the best,
The letters he writes are quite fine.
'Twas truth that he told
And tho' he's not old
There was courage between every line.
Do you think one or two
Or perhaps quite a few
Would feel since its mentioned they should Spare a dollar or dime
At this glad New Year's time?
('Tis an ill wind blows nobody good.)
He may not be poor
Of this I'm not sure,
And again may have little to eat
'Tis little 'twould take to give him a break
At least we could send him a treat.

Then Paul stood in the midst of Mars' hill, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious. For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you. God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things; and hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation; that they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us: for in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring.—Acts xvii: 22-28.

FROM BEVERLEY SUTTON

Readers of the Examiner will recall a letter written to this paper by Beverley Sutton of Sceptre, Sask., telling of the experience of living in the drought area. A kindly resident of this city, recalling Beverley's letter, saw to it that a Christmas parcel was sent to him, to which the following reply has been received:

Dear Friend: Your letter received which was a very pleasant surprise for me, as this Christmas outlook wasn't so very good. We children always have made up little gifts for children, who would otherwise be without. This late years have made it very, very hard to do. And this year it seemed impossible.

However when your generous gift arrived it renewed the Christmas spirit in us all. It's wonderful to think of you, a stranger, thinking of us in this dried-out area. We shared our treats with others thus, you have made several children happy this Yule-tide. Thank you so much. I hope you and yours have a bright happy and prosperous year.

The Commission at Regina sent a relief car here from Wallaceburg of fruits and vegetables for some reason they put us in Temsford district just that once and we got our share from Perth. That car, happened to be nearly all potatoes and turnips, but we were very thankful for them. The Peterborough cars would be sent to some other dried-out area. Just mentioned this as some may wonder why a card of thanks wasn't sent them. Most everyone sent cards to the Perth people thanking them.

FRANCO MASSES 800,000 TROOPS FOR '38 CAMPAIGN

By Juan Burgos
(Copyright, 1938, The Havas News Agency.)

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, France, Jan. 4 (C.P.-Havas). — One of the most formidable war machines of modern times, grouping 800,000 well-disciplined fighting men, was at insurgent General Franco's command today as he mapped 1938 campaign plans designed to sweep the Spanish government from Eastern Spain.

Although the insurgent commander's hopes of achieving complete victory in 1937 did not materialize, moves to strengthen the insurgent armies were pushed throughout the year. The results have been impressive and presage—in view of the equally high-pitched government preparations—battles of important scope this year. The current struggle for possession of Teruel, involving an estimated 200,000 men on both sides, is striking evidence of the forces now at the disposal of the two factions.

At the beginning of 1937 General Franco' fighting manpower did not exceed 100,000 soldiers. To-day he has 800,000 men, supported by all weapons of modern warfare, including heavy and light artillery, tanks, bombers, and pursuit ships.

In addition to the land forces, insurgent naval units, blockading the coastline, are aiding the insurgent command.

The insurgents enter the New Year in an advantageous position as compared with the early months of 1937, due to increased military strength and a series of victories in the field which brought valuable regions under their control, including important mining and industrial zones.

Franco now rules a little more than three-fifths of Spain's territory, with 13,500,000 inhabitants. Thirty-six of Spain's 50 provinces are in his hands.

OBITUARY

MRS. RACHEL ANNIE FAULKNER.

OMEMEE, Jan. 4.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Faulkner, held from the home of her son, Norman, in Omemee recently, was largely attended in spite of weather. Although ailing for a little better than five years, her death came very unexpectedly as the late Mrs. Faulkner was up and around as usual until a few days before her death. When she was seized by a heart attack, she was removed to Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, for treatment. But in spite of all medical aid could do, she passed peacefully away.

The late Mrs. Faulkner was the widow of Andrew Faulkner, and was born in August 25, 1871, in the Township of Hamilton and the County of Northumberland. She was a daughter of the late Walter Petty and Elizabeth Wellwood. She lived the greater part of her life on the Second Line of Emily Township, where she and the late Andrew Faulkner farmed. She won many friends in the neighborhood, as she was of a bright and cheery disposition, and was always ready to lend a helping hand wherever it was needed.

Until about three years ago the late Mrs. Faulkner went and made her home with her youngest son, Norman, in Omemee.

The service was conducted by her pastor, the Rev. F. G. McTavish, of Omemee United Church. He spoke very impressively of the deceased, and took for his text the 21st verse of the 1st chapter of Philippians: "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain." The hymns that were used were "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "Abide With Me."

Left to mourn the loss of a loving mother are four sons and two daughters: Elwood, Harry and Lyell of Emily Township and Norman of Omemee; Mrs. George Magee (Eveleana) and Mrs. Leslie Burgess (Della), also of Emily Township. Twenty grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; two brothers, David and James Petty of Muskegon, Michigan, also survive. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, a token of the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The pall-bearers were her four sons —Elwood, Harry, Lyell and Norman, and two grandsons, Earle Magee and Russel Faulkner.

The flower-bearers were Messrs. Samuel Carew, Leslie Burgess, Earle Magee and Bill Faulkner.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral of the deceased were: Mrs. Ethel Faulkner, Miss Bernice Faulkner, Mr. Russel Faulkner and Mrs. Earle Kimmerly of Oshawa, Mr. and Mrs. Will Somerville and Mr. John Somerville of Uxbridge, Mr. Lloyd Bagshaw of Sunderland, Mrs. Wm. Petty, Mr. American Faulkner and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wagar of Peterborough, Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C., and Leslie Frost, M.P., of Lindsay.

Interment was made in Emily Cemetery.

GORMAN WANTS LIONEL CONACHER AS COACH OF MAROONS

Big Train Prefers To Remain With His Political Machine

'Tay Pay' Finding No Sympathy In Efforts To Improve His Machine

MONTREALY, Jan. 4.—(CP). — This hockey season is full of sad characters like Jack Adams and Tommy Gorman. It's pathetic to watch these gentlemen who have shared the Stanley Cup for four seasons biting the tassels of Bond street scarfs while their hired men take it on the chin.

Manager Adams of Detroit Red Wings has been sitting on a bench all season bending a hard hat over his ears in consternation, but the tall, suave Gorman has only lately forsaken corridor clumping for a spot on the hot seat. Now Montreal Maroons' president, manager and coach qualifies as the No. 1 object of sympathy in the National Hockey League.

Not only are the mercurial Gorman's Maroons mashed down into the bottom of the Canadian division table. But criticism is being aimed at his far head because he fired King Clancy from the job of manager and coach. And all Gorman efforts to strengthen his founder on the cold rock of other N.H.L. managers it seems, was none too ed when he had

After Hooley

Gorman to pry Hooley S York Americans laugh if you have respective. When Gorman Stanley Cups with Chicago and would have been funny been caught dickering American player.

But that's exactly what he was after and not only an American, but one he had discarded himself. The Maroon manager sought out Frank Calder, League president and guardian of the orphan Amerks, suggesting that if Hooley wasn't going too well with the New Yorkers he might find it comfortable spending his hockey old age in a Maroon sweater.

Calder said no dice and Gorman thought the incident closed until Manager Red Dutton of Americans bared his secret last night. And Dutton, lord a managerial underdog himself, heaped humiliation on with a shovel by sugesting Gorman could have Smith for one of Tommy's good forwards, say Bob Gracie —and a nice slice of cash. Dutton can afford to be that way these days.

Saving face quickly in the manner of hockey managers, Gorman immediately announced that he expected to learn in a couple of days whether Lionel Conacher, his old ice general, would give up politics and return to Maroons as coach.

Conacher, risking his famous goaltending shins at a Muskoka skiing resort, paused in a slalom long enough to retort he was too busy with his job as a member of the Ontario Legislature even to talk hockey.

Finds Little Sympathy

So that's the way it is to-day. Gorman, having thrust himself into the coaching spot by firing Clancy, finds little sympathy in his efforts to improve Maroons. Unless he can spot it in the attitude of a Montreal amateur named Ernie Mundey with whom he is reported negotiating.

Or in Adams, who must take his world champion Red Wings into Montreal to-night for a meeting with Canadiens. Red Wings will be seeking their first win in 10 games while the Habitants attempt to hold their Canadian division second place tie with Americans.

Dutton's men, fresh from two week-end triumphs over Maroons, look for their first victory over Rangers this season in New York. Patrick's team has beaten them 1-0 and 2-0 in previous clashes.

In contrast to Gorman and Adams are Conny Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs and Art Ross of Boston Bruins who carry on their old feud in Boston to-night. The teams meet as division leaders and Ross and Smythe are almost happy enough to praise referees. Bruins have been too strong on defence for the high-scoring Leafs in their previous meetings this season, winning 3-1 and 3-2.

Now A Colonel

Katherine Rawls, international swimming star and recently voted the outstanding woman athlete in the United States for 1937, is pictured here laughing happily as she holds the scroll which makes the aquatic star a colonel on the Florida governor's staff. The presentation was a feature of the show of champions which is part of the United States Aquatic Forum holding its third annual meeting at Las Olas Casino, Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Miss Rawls gave a swimming demonstration just prior to the presentation and showed the assembled spectators just what makes her click so expertly in water.

PLAN 33 GAMES YANKS SCHEDULE

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The world champion New York Yankees announced a 33-game spring training exhibition schedule to-day. The champions will play 15 games against St. Louis Cardinals, Cincinnati Reds, Boston Bees, and Brooklyn Dodgers, and 18 games against minor league opposition. The first squad of Yankees, consisting of pitchers and catchers, will report to Manager Joe McCarthy at St. Petersburg, Fla., on February 27, and the second squad on March 6.

O.H.A. Junior Tilt At Brock Wednesday

Sustained speed is the order in O.H.A. junior games and this should be demonstrated Wednesday night at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink when the district junior "B" schedule opens here between Belleville and the Colts. The youngsters never ease up but battle their heads off all the way, travelling at a fast clip with no thought of stopping for breath or bodychecks. Belleville, fresh from an 11-3 win over Havelock, must have a powerful scoring machine in junior ranks this year, but the Colts always turn out hot teams in group competition. These long-time rivals ought to dish up a dandy battle for a big crowd of fans as the 1938 puck season in Peterborough commences tomorrow.

DRILLON RETAINS HIS TOP POSITION IN SCORING TOTAL

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 (CP) — It's still Gordon Drillon and the rest of the league, so far as the race for individual scoring honors in the National Hockey League is concerned. The young Toronto Maple Leaf picked up four points during the last week, and he stayed out in front by an increased margin.

On eleven goals and thirteen assists, D twenty-four points, acco night's official Five points behind ticians place Harvey Sylvanus Apps, teamand Cecil Dillon of New York ers, the United States section ler.

Scorers in Toronto said Apps had been given an additional assist there in Saturday night's game against Montreal Canadiens, a report on which had not yet reached N.H.L. headquarters. The extra point would put the Leaf alone in second place, with twenty points.

Dave Schriner, New York American's unobtrusive wingman, went out into the lead in actual goals during the week. He has found the net an even dozen times, one more than Drillon and George Mantha of Montreal Canadiens.

Top man in assists, according to the league's figures, is Drillon. He has helped out on thirteen goals. But Apps will be tied up with him when the extra Toronto assist is credited to his total.

The dubious distinction of league "bad man" still goes to Allen Shields of Montreal Maroons. His forty-five minutes on the penalty bench put him four "ahead" of another Maroon, Baldy Northcott.

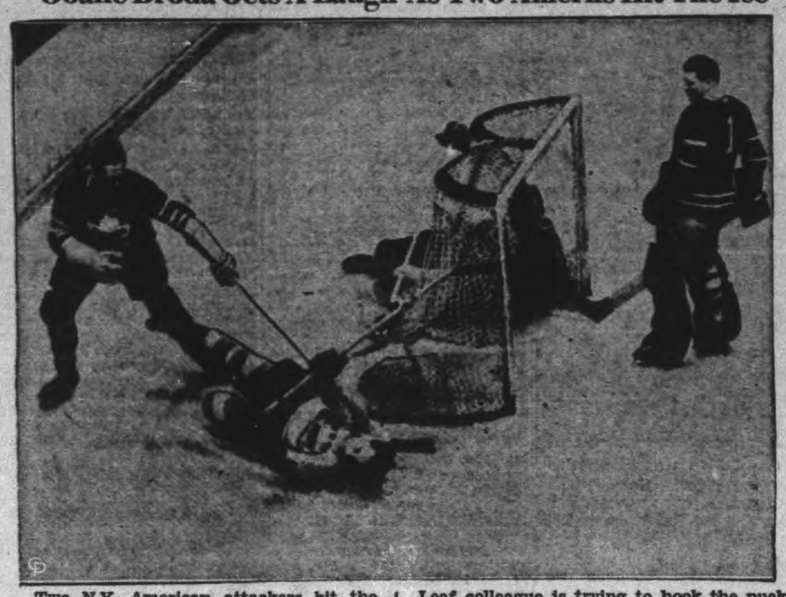
Heads For N.H.L.

Just a year out of amateur company, "Bummer" Doran, former Northern Ontario puck star and ace with Sarnia's Stars of the International Junior, busy all winter in the fur biz back in major hockey company. Jack Adams, of Detroit, has received permission from Toronto Maple Leafs, who own Doran's contract, to give the lad a spell on the Red Wing Team.

Goalie Broda Gets A Laugh As Two Amerks Hit The Ice



Two N.Y. American attackers bit the dust—or the ice—when they came roaming in on "Turk" Broda's goal during this game between Toronto Maple Leafs and the Amerks in Gotham, and Broda, reversing the usual role, gets a laugh. His Maple Leaf colleague is trying to hook the puck from beneath the fallen Amerk after the latter came to brief in trying to poke it into the corner of the net. Amerk. No. two is all tangled up in the twine at the other corner. Broda proved invincible in this outing blanking Dutton's men 3-0.

ROSS OFFERED AMBERS MATCH

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The 20th Century Club started negotiations Monday for a welterweight championship fight in March between Barney Ross, welter king, and Lou Ambers, lightweight titleholder.

Bill Farnsworth, general manager of the 20th Century, said that he had obtained agreement from the Ambers' camp for the proposed Madison Square Garden bout. He said he was confident that Ross and his managers would accept the bout within the week.

Ambers' manager, Charley Goldman, agreed readily for a "reasonable percentage" because Goldman wants Ambers to meet Ross during the indoor season, before putting the lightweight crown on the line against Henry Armstrong in an outdoor summer show.

Ross returned Sunday with his bride, the former Pearl Siegel of New York, from a honeymoon cruise to the West Indies. To-day at his hotel he indicated to reporters that he would like to tangle with Ambers in the Garden, if his managers, Sam Pian and Art Winch, could come to terms with the 20th Century.

Clancy Planning Holiday In Florida

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (C.P.).—Frank (King) Clancy, lately coach of the Montreal Maroons in the National Hockey League, declined on Monday to enlarge on his resignation from that post last Thursday.

At the time of his resignation he intimated he might have something further to say to-day, after talking over the situation with his father, the original King Clancy. With the New Year's holiday intervening, Clancy announced to-day the whole thing was "a closed book" as far as he was concerned.

His immediate plans call for a holiday, presumably in Florida, for a month or six weeks. "After fifteen years, I think it's about time I took a real holiday," he said.

BIGGER THINGS PRO FOOTBALL

By Joe F. Carr
(President, National Professional Football League).

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4 (A.P.). — Fresh from its finest season in both attendance and specacular play, the National Professional Football League looks forward to even greater things in 1938.

Our selected draft system, under which the weaker teams are given first opportunity to negotiate with graduating college stars, showed its effect for the first time during 1937, and was a heavy factor in providing the tight, colorful race.

The eastern division surprised everyone by jumping up on even terms with the western half in strength this year, while Washington's victory in the playoff game gave the east the national title for the first time in years.

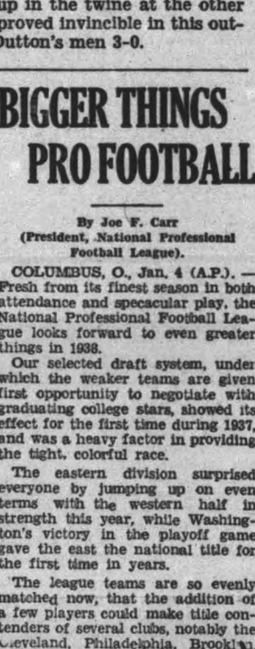
The league teams are so evenly matched now, that the addition of a few players could make title contenders of several clubs, notably the Cleveland, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, and Pittsburgh teams. Cleveland's entrance into the league boosted mid-west interest, and, although the Rams did not win many games, they were a better team than their record indicated.

The league's attendance showed a 15 per cent. increase and reached a new high.

The league will continue to play an open game, and increase scoring possibilities. The goal posts will remain on the goal line to permit more field goals, and forward passes from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage will be permitted as in the past.

Several applications for membership in the National League are on file, but I believe the present ten-club circuit will be maintained.

McCoy Gets $105



Nearly 14 years ago Norman Selby, who was Kid McCoy to followers of the ring, was arrested on a manslaughter charge. That is history now, and the gallant-hearted Kid has re-established himself in society, but only the other day he marched into the sheriff's office in Los Angeles and asked for the money that was taken from him the day of his arrest and never returned. It amounted to $105, and since McCoy never claimed it, the sum laid in the county coffers from that tragic evening. But McCoy, or Selby, suddenly remembered it and went along to collect. He got it, and here he is discussing the sudden windfall.

English Sports Promoters Race To Build Large Athletic Plants

Seek Stadiums Capable Of Accommodating 1944 Olympic Games Crowds

LONDON, Jan. 3.— (CP).— No keener struggle was ever waged on an English sports field than the present costly battle on the sidelines for supremacy in the sports promotion sphere between A. J. Elvin of Wembley and Brig.-Gen. A. C. Critchley of White City, native of Calgary.

Ultimate objective of both sportsmen is said to be a complete sports plant capable of staging the 1944 Olympic games or, if Japan should back down, the 1940 games.

Immediate objectives are stands capable of accommodating the money-making cup final and International football crowds.

The Football Association will announce early in 1938 the venue of these profitable contests for the eight years after 1944 when overcrowded Wembley's lease expires.

General Critchley made the first move by announcing an enlargement scheme for White City which would provide accommodation for 160,000 persons. Elving a week later announced he intended to go Critchley 10,000 better. His stadium would be the biggest in the world.

Elvin holds the Court cards because he has the present Football Association lease. But he wants the Football Association to take a share in financing the project whereas the Canadian plans to supply his own cash.

Each promoter has met the other step for step until London is probably the only city in the world that has two compact sports units of this colossal size.

At Wembley besides the football pitch there is a running and cycle track, greyhound racing track, speedway (motorcycle) track, the Empire pool for swimming, boxing and hockey accommodation, and the palace of arts for tennis, squash racquets and Badminton.

White City has much the same set-up with addition of exhibition space In conjenction with White City is the Harringay arena, where boxing, hockey and swimming are provided, and the Harringay stadium for Greyhound and speedway racing and athletics

Opportunities for taging profit-making sports events are being limited with the increase of sports facilities Two other big sports palaces are looking for a share of the spoils—Earl's Court and Olympia.

Seven Fight Bouts Here On Thursday

The Riverview A.C. is running its second amateur boxing show this Thursday night at 8.30 o'clock in the local Armouries. It is a seven-bout card, with two return grudge fights included, and another big gang of boxing fans is expected. Harry Hance is referee with Wilf Jones and Archie Menzies the judges. Outside of the first two all-local bouts, the rest are between Toronto and Peterborough pugilists, and the three main bouts are five two-minute rounds. Buddy Redmon and Bobby Quirt, 85-pounders, provide the curtain-raiser; and Joe Hobbins, 147, meets Jack O'Neill, 154, in the second prelim.

Jerry Belland, 135, tackles Phil Morris, 133, of Toronto; with Pat Jordon, 133, taking on Tommy Foster, colored Toronto lightweight, in another three-rounder. First main event is between Norm Bowler, 147, and the Toronto scrapper, Art Darnborough, 147, a Provincial champion. Next one is a return joust between Len Minicola, 135, and Joe Genovese, Toronto lightweight. Last but on the program features Nick Orlando, 135-pound ex-Montrealer who resides here now, and Bev. Carter, 135, colored flash of Toronto, also a return go. These last two ended with arguments over the judges' decisions last time in favor of local fighters, and they should provide real fireworks this Thursday evening.

DUFFERIN RACES BROUGHT TO CLOSE

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—Five horses were involved in a spectacular spill as the fall and winter racing season at Dufferin Park concluded Monday afternoon. Fortunately, none of the equines or their drivers sustained serious injury, but the majority of the sulkies were badly smashed.

The spill occurred in the final heat of the fourth race. Sharkey Grattan, fighting for the lead, stumbled and fell. The two pace-setters, The Admiral and Walter Ra, went down with him, while Mollie Hall and Blue Mountain Chilcoot, hard on the heels of the leaders, were unable to avoid the pile-up and also fell.

The Heiress, from the Pine Ridge Stables, London, swept wide of the mix-up and cantered home in front for her only victory of the day. Willis Grattan Jr. was second and Busy Grattan, also from the Pine Ridge Stables, took third spot. The latter, with one victory, a second and a third, topped the final summary, closely followed by Sharkey Grattan, The Heiress and Walter Ra.

STIRLING-CAMPBELLFORD E.P.L. HOCKEY RIVALRY FLAMES ANEW

CAMPBELLFORD DEFEATED 5-4 IN T. V. L. TILT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4.—Playing their second game in the T.V.L. schedule, Campbellford was defeated on Monday by Stirling in a fast-moving game of hockey which was anybodys game from the start. Although the score ended 5 to 4 in favor of the visitors, Stirling had the edge on the play from the start and having a heavier team, the visitors with several faces familiar when the rivalry between the two towns was keenest some years ago, kept the home towners on the jump.

Both teams opened at a fast pace which was sustained till the end of the second period when players showd some sign of tiring. Heptonstall and Fox played a great game in goal and though Fox was able to exhibit a little of he skill displayed in the league of former years, Heptonstall put aside several hard shots in the final period which gave the local supporters every hope that he would develop into a strong goaltender early in the season.

Reddick opened the scoring with a hot one shortly after the game had begun, but Stirling came back with Ingram, Morton and Butler tallying to make the score 3-1 at the end of the first period. Couch got the only penalty of the period for cross-checking.

Shortly after the second period had begun Lambert was given a penalty for slashing and though the visitors turned on the pressure it was not until the locals were again playing at full strength that Robertson sent another one home for Stirling. Free counted one for Campbellford in a scramble in front of the net while Morton scored the second goal for Stirling when Lambert was in the penalty box again.

Jack Phillips, centre player for the locals evened up the score for the inning when he beat the Stirling defence and put a hot one past Fox. The period ended 5-3 with Lambert getting two penalties and Geraldi of Stirling one.

Although showing some signs of tiring both teams worked hard at the beginning of the third with the visitors endeavoring to keep their lead and the locals trying to cut it down which they might have done had Lambert not been given a major penalty for arguing with the referee. With Campbellford a man short for five minutes and Stirling at full strength the locals were able to keep the play within their opponents' blue line and Reddick was given a big hand by the crowd when he scored from in front of the net when the puck was centered out from behind by Phillips. Heptonstall made a lovely save when with the whole team up the ice Ingram seized a loose puck and skated in on the goal, but was outguessed and the game ended with the score standing at 5 to 4.

Stirling — Goal, Earl Fox; defence, Ingram, Jones; centre, Robinson; wings, Fraser and Rogers; subs., Morton, Reid, Butler, Dainard, Geraldi.

Campbellford— Goal, Heptonstall; defence, Lambert, Wilkes; centre, Couch; wings, Reddick, Phillips; subs., Free, Blake, Keating, Jarvis.

NORWOOD JUNIORS DROP 7-4 BATTLE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Jan. 4 — Norwood Juniors defeated Havelock Juniors 7 to 4 last night, here, in the second game of the East Peterborough Junior "C" loop. The Norwood lads made a strong comeback from their loss to Havelock last week.

Attention was called in Monday night's paper to the fact that skijoring behind cars must be stopped. The Provincial Police have instructions to this effect, and skiers are asked to co-operate. As one of the officers remarked: there have been several people killed that way. Also the car driver may be charged with reckless driving, so let's heed the warning.

Another dangerous practice that should be stopped, is that of going over small jumps, such as the rock at Prophet's Hill, carrying poles. It provides a fine way of getting yourself skewered like a roast of beef.

Snow conditions are perfect, Jackson Park in particular drawing several hundreds on Saturday and Sunday. The park provides, along with Prophet's Hill, every variety of slope, and is excellent for beginners or more advanced skiers. On Sunday, several slalom courses were flagged, and the running of these shows a high calibre of control in the younger children, many of whom are developing well.

The usual class will be held at Victoria Park at 7.30 p.m. to-night (Tuesday), for Seniors only. Now that the Juniors are back at school, the period for them is on Saturday afternoons at Jackson Park, as in other years. The Junior section is under the supervision of Ed Bradshaw, "Waddy" Waterman and Jack Sullivan.

In connection with the classes at Victoria Park, it does not seem clearly understood that these lessons are free. The instructor, Jack Holland is an amateur, and is giving his time and knowledge at no charge. Non-members are welcome. If they develop sufficient interest, the club will be glad to have them join, but the main motive is to give a grounding in controlled skiing, which results in more pleasure for the beginner.

The skiers who intended going to Collingwood last week-end, cancelled their plans when a wire was received Thursday night stating that snow conditions in that town made it impossible to hold the races. Snow came Friday, but it was too late to reorganize the party. So the Collingwood meet probably suffered, to a lesser extent, the fate of the one scheduled here last winter.

An attempt will be made to organize a night run for this week. The executive meets to-night (Tuesday), and will probably start immediate action along this and other lines, now that the holiday season is over.

A month from now we have a big meet to handle—an Ontario Zone event, which will draw perhaps two thousand people from all parts of the province.

This means that the club must be at full strength, and so far the membership is not what it should be. Join now—the Secretary, Miss Lahring Parsons, will take your fees, $1.50), at 95 Hunter street west. This year's badge, now being made up, is of silk, and is given with your membership.

You will find on this page, each day for the next three weeks, a skiing article by Fritz Loosli, instructor of the Toronto Ski Club. We believe that Mr. Loosli is well versed in his subject, and study of the series compined with the practical work Jack Holland is supervising should build up your style greatly.

Remember—no more ski-joring behind cars, and don't carry your poles over jumps. There are no wound stripes given to wounded skiers.

TRAVEL BY INSTALLMENTS

Railways of London are selling tickets for holiday travel on instalments, the buyer paying a certain amount each week in advance.

Bright Spots On Drab Maroon Line

Though Montreal Maroons have not been clicking in their N.H.L. campaign as yet, executives of the team are mightily enthused over the showing of this pair of recruits and figure they have a couple of future stars. The rookies are Maurice Croghan (LEFT) and Des Smith, both defencemen. Both are six-footers weighing in the neighborhood of 175 pounds and so far their work has been the bright spot of a rather drab Maroon season.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

NO O.H.A. junior "B" game here tonight, the scheduled opening tilt betwixt Belleville and our Colts being postponed till tomorrow (Wednesday) at 8.30 p.m. at the Brock St. rink. Manager Eddie Thomas of Belleville sent word that he couldn't ice a full team tonight as some of his players, attending Albert College, weren't back from vacation for this twilight. The local ossifers didn't like the idea of postponing the opening fray—and we certainly don't—but finally agreed when Thomas promised to pay advertising expenses. Personally, it looks to us like Mister Thomas wanted to see the R.C.A.F.-Petes' tussle in Belleville tonight. We don't like to see hockey games, which are scheduled, called off except when the ice is soft. It's pretty hard to be up to the canny Eddie Thomas. Well, anyway, the setto is billed now for Wednesday eve at the Brock.

THURSDAY P.M. at the ex-Summer Gardens on the Rue Brick, ye olde Blood and Thunder Loop opens with a biff and a bing and two or three bangs. With a double-header, starting at eight bells between Westclox and Southenders, and followed at nine by Hiawatha vs. Bewdley. In Lakefield on Friday, Millbrook and the Lakefield champs collide. And Westclox go to Lakefield next Tuesday. Local games in this lively league are always on Thursdays, two or three a night, while some struggles will be lined up for the Lakefield rink. We'll bet a maroon neckpiece against a thin dime that the Hiawatha-Bewdley go will provide more laughs and thrills than most O.H.A. scraps. These Rice Lake gangs are feudin' enemies in puckdom.

HERB PAYNE and his intermediate Bees open their schedule in Port Hope on Thursday. They haven't a home game till Jan. 17th, a longish time to wait to see how they go here. Either Harding or Clarke will be in goal, with Mick Magee, Jim Ellis and Buster Whitton on defence. One more to be named yet. First line looks like—according to Herb—Don Coughlin at centre with Jack Gardner and Les Burton on the wings. Second set will see Art Heal in centre between Finnegan Hill and Red Creighton. There are a few others still being considered for this team, chaps like Red Wakelin, Loucks and Prete. Herb has a good team there and is in a fine five-team grouping. Fans can bank on plenty of zip in these tilts. Canada Packers supplies the uniforms and the initials "C.P."—but not for us, though!—will be on the sweaters. However, the team will be sponsored by the Peterborough Hockey Club.

FIGHT FANS are going to have a flock of fistic action explode in their pans at the Armouries Thursday eve when the seven-bout amateur mitt card is staged. Two all-local bouts and the rest between good Peterborough pugilists and well-known Toronto thumpers. The card is listed elsewhere and if ya don't get at least four bruising battles—the kind that yank folks off their chairs like they (the chairs) were redhot—why, we'll give hillbilly impersonations anywhere for charity! If charity can stand it. Those two return grudge jams, or gems, between Minicola and Genovese, and between Orlando and Carter, are alone worth digging deep into the jeans. There should be several knockouts and a carload of excitement in the show.

DON'T SELL Norm Bowler short in his five-round joust with Art Darnbrough of Toronto. Bowler is a good scrapper. He saw the Provincial welter champ kayo Harry Low—sort of laid Low low—here last fight show, and he still feels he can hold his own with the murderous-hitting Art. He told us: "Peterborough didn't see Art opened up. He was just getting warmed up when it ended but this should be different. If I can stay five rounds the fans are going to see a better fight than it looks from the outside. Art didn't win his title for nothing, and he's not going to win this bout on nothing!" We like this spirit.

SORRY TO hear of the death in Belleville, over the weekend, of W. E. (Ernie) Rowsome. He was twice president of the Belleville Nationals in the C.O.B.L., once in '22 when the team won a senior Ontario championship and again in 1935. The club folded after that and looks like it'll be a few more years in the doghouse yet. Ernie Rowsome employed a number of the Quinte ball players in his firm, notably Jack (Chief) Williams, Sonny Green, etc. Along with the Peterborough officers, he took an active part in battling to have the C.O.B.L. enlarged several years ago, especially in trying to bring back Oshawa to the Central Ontario fold.

SEVERAL LOCAL basketball teams swing into action in district competition this weekend. In the L.O.B.A. loop of Central Ontario, Westclox gals from here open Thursday in Cobourg, whilst the Belleville belles play C.G.E. lasses here—likely at the Y.W. gym—on Friday e'en. In the school cage circuit of the Lakeshore section Friday, three P.C.I. teams—the senior girls, and junior and senior boys—trek to Cobourg for what we suppose is known as a triple-header. A couple of Lindsay teams come here the following fish day. The cage season will outlast hockey, hardwood having more staying power than ice.

SEVERAL MORE hockey schedules for local or district leagues are in tonight. Seems like a few more appear each gloaming, showing how big a game hockey is around here. Church Loop, School League and part of the Senior City Hockey Circuit, are listed this p.m., and we'd advise fans and players to clip 'em out for future reference. Of course, mild weather often balls up a schedule through the winter. Southend League and Scouts' Loop schedules were run yesterday. And we ought to get the Junior City League one in a day or two. League secretaries may obtain puck forms, to aid in picking up reports for publicity purposes, by getting in touch with us. We can't cover 'em all by any means, but will run everything that is sent in.

The Church Hockey League Monday night drew up the first-half schedules for the season. Postponed games must be run in before the second half commences. Regarding the protest of Mark St. on Player L. Clark's eligibility—of St. John's Juveniles—the executive stated that unless he produces a birth or baptismal certificate proving he was born since Jan. 1st, 1921, he is ineligible. The game ended in a draw and would, in case he is ineligible, be awarded to Mark St. Former church sports records show this player as over age. Following are the schedules:

CURLING

Echoes From No. '8'

By HERB MARTIN

The 1938 schedule got under way Monday night when every team scheduled to play was on hand and every ice taken by 7.45 p.m. And that is just the way it should be, and we believe that, even if each member has a schedule book, if the skips would keep in close touch with their rinks, there would be less substitution and the boys would take a greater interest in the game.

Most of the games were close, two of them going into extra ends. Geo. Hall led Wallace Harvey at the end of the sixth end by 8 to 1, but Harvey forced the issue and tied up the game on the last end, only to lose out in the overtime frame. W. Pratten and E. Shirley fought it out tooth and nail—first one up, then the other. Pratten was one down going home, and tied up the game, and was successful in winning out in the overtime period.

The other games were good, but these two get nod from No. 8.

This is a special notice to all curlers. Keep Saturday afternoon open. It's a date. More later.

Scores.

T. O. Donaldson 10, R. Dobbin 5.
A. Gates 17, I. Hamley 4.
G. Hall 16, W. Harvey 12.
J. Lowes 12, O. McGill 10.
W. Pratten 10, E. R. Shirley 7.
V. Currie 26, R. Bacon 7.

Skiing Hints

By Fritz Loosli

INSTRUCTOR, TORONTO SKI CLUB

The success of ski teaching depends a great deal on the state of mind of the instructor. The mental work required of the teacher to overcome the lack of confidence or fear of his pupil, is often as great and as tiring as the physical strain on the pupil.

The instructor must have a teaching method very elastic. Ten individuals may have to be taught in ten different ways. Monotony may be broken by a diversion of exercise, or different turns or movements may be taken in rotation. While there are quite a few hopeless instructors, there is no hopeless pupil as long as the pupil has a normal mind and physique. It is quite true that some will learn much faster than others, but if the instructor is clever and conscientious, any difficulties, such as fear, over anxiety, or awkwardness may be overcome by using artificial exercises.

Downhill Run Permitted.

It is customary to forbid the pupil at the beginning of the first lesson to run downhill; in my estimation this is wrong, for any child or any person who is not over seventy years of age wants to satisfy his or her first impulse in taking up skiing by the thrill of running downhill. When a pupil comes for his first lesson, I take him up a slope which is not too steep, about 15 degrees, and let him run downhill with feet fairly well apart for the first time, and then only manoeuvres and skiing on the level begin.

To illustrate more completely the rhythmic method of instruction adopted, I will try to take the reader through all the phases of a complete course of instruction.

FIRST LESSON.

It is absolutely necessary to see that the beginner has his skis well fitted with a substantial harness and proper poles. A downpull attachment is not essential, but quite a help for the forward lean required in the high speed or tempo turn. The boot should protrude about half an inch ahead of the toe iron, and the feet should be perfectly in the centre of the foot plate,, with the irons adjusted to the soles so that no side shifting of the boot is possible. The poles should reach about half way between your waist and arm pit. When everything is adjusted, teaching begins.

A child may be taken by the hand or even on your shoulder for the first ride, while a grown-up person is left to run free without advice. The first run usually shows feet wide apart with upper part of the body bent over too much and the poles held in front ready for an emergency, a result of unstead balance. It is important to choose a slope not over 15 degrees, with a flat start and level finish and not over 200 feet in length. Walking on the level should be the first exercise and should be practiced only for three or four minutes, followed with the step turn and kick turn.

Mr. Loosli demonstrates a method of taking a child on its first downhill run.

When ascending, side stepping should be practiced and the practice of the step and kick turn demonstrated on the level. Flexing the knees a few times will relax the fatigue of climbing.

Rhythm Necessary.

Now comes the time when an instructor should put his pupil in the proper frame of mind by making the explanations very casually, rather than filling the student's head with advice. I stand half way down the run for correcting wrong or awkward position. If the position is stiff, I oblige the skier to bob up and down from low to high crouch position in a properly timed rhythmic motion. A free run is allowed between each run where exercises are required.

The second exercise is shifting alternatively left and right foot about three or four inches forward with knees in half crouch position. This movement must also be rhythmic and timed properly.

Alternating downhill running with level skiing breaks the monotony, and if the skier seems a little awkward or slow in getting one movement, he should drop it for awhile and change to something entirely different. When coming again to the former exercise you will be surprised how easily the previous difficulties are overcome.

Two Rule Changes To Aid Offense Adopted By U.S. Grid Committee

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., Jan. 4 (UP).—Two changes in the football rules for 1938—both designed to aid the offense — were announced Monday by the National Football Rules Committee after a two-day session at this resort city on the gulf.

The changes:

1—Three consecutive forward passes (excepting on fourth down) may become incomplete behind the goal line without the loss of the ball.

2—The the ball goes out of bounds or becomes dead within 15 yards of the sideline, it shall be put in play at a spot 15 yards from the sidelines, instead of 10 yards as heretofore.

Under the 1937 rules, only one incomplete pass was permitted behind the goal line. If a second pass incompleted behind the goal line, it meant the loss of the ball.

Brown Bomber May Meet Galento

DETROIT, Jan. 4.—(AP).—John Roxborough, co-manager of Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, said Monday he was studying an offer of $100,000 for the Brown Bomber to fight Tony Galento.

"If this bid is genuine Julian Black and I will consider it," he said.

The proposal, submitted by Promoter Harry Mendel, was for a Louis-Galento bout in March or April at Atlantic City.

SEEDED STARS EASY VICTORS

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 4.—Bitsy Grant, diminutive Atlanta Davis Cup star, began a defence of his Miami Biltmore tennis title on Monday with a straight-set triumph over Charles Carroll of Miami in a first round that saw all the seeded players advance without difficulty.

Bitsy, who admits his footwork "isn't what it used to be," had no trouble disposing of young Charles Carroll of Miami, 6-1, 6-1. His service was good, he was stroking vigorously and the two games he dropped to Carroll were give-aways.

Bobby Riggs, who was placed ahead of Grant in the National rankings recommended recently by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, drew a first-round bye. He swings into action to-day against Bob Dickenson of Miami.

Of the five seeded stars who played yesterday, Charley Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., a former Miami Biltmore titleholder, had the most strenuous workout. He eliminated Bob McMillan of Madison, Wis., in straight sets, but was forced to 7-5, 6-2.

Murray St. Seniors Defeat George St.

Murray St. Seniors took a 5-2 Church Hockey League win over George St. at All Saints' rink Monday night in a fast fixture. Murray St. had a bit more speed and condition to lead 2-1, 4-2 and 5-3 in the periods. Whatman got three of their tallies in a starry showing. H. McNabb went better in goal than Ash. While Johnston and Foster, who scored, and E. Spencely also stood out for Murray. Hough and B. Parnall scored for George St., the former Deseronto player — now at Normal—going best, with the Parnall trio also effective. The teams:

Murray St.: Goal, H. McNabb; defence, O. McNabb, E. Spencely; centre, Johnston; wings, Whatman, Foster; alternates, Mann, F. Spencely, Barnes, Inkpin, Holmes.

George St.: Goal, Ash; defence, Rennie, Heard; centre, B. Parnall; wings, L. Parnall, Akers; alternates, Richards, Burnham, Hough, R. Parnall, Boulter.

Referees—S. Seabrooke, R. Rusaw.

St. John's Bantams Blank George St.

St. John's Bantams blanked George St., 5 to 0, in a Church Puck Loop tilt at All Saints' rink Monday evening. Though shy on players, St. John's were too good for their young rivals, the individual brillance of Crowter being the deciding point. He scored four goals, and Frank got the other. The losers showed better combination but were weak defensively. The teams:

St. John's: Goal, W. Moore; defence, Jamieson, J. Moore; centre, Crowter; wings, Frank, Smith.

George St.: Goal, Richardson; defence, Mason, Powell; centre, Saunders; wings, Burns, Craig; alternates, Smith, Kingdon, Burnham, Edwards, McCurrach.

Referee—D. Charlton.

Fred Fitzgerald, a new man, headed the poll for council, while Michael also a new face in municipal affairs, ran second. William Hayes, member of 1937 council, was third and Robert Bolton, a former member of the council, was fourth. Albert Darling, a member of the 1937 council, was defeated.

The vote for councillors was: Fitzgerald 380, Whibbs 350, Hayes 310, Bolton 308, and Darling 284.

ASPHODEL TOWNSHIP.

John McColl was elected by acclamation but there was an election on Monday when six candidates contested the four positions on the council board. James Humphries headed the polls, with James Healy second, Thomas Stevenson third and Alexander Lealtch fourth, Hilliard Neilson and Golden Andrews were the two defeated candidates.

The poll was as follows:—

LAKEFIELD VILLAGE

While Charles Tanner was given another term as reeve by acclamation there was a stiff contest on Monday for the council board with two of the members of the 1937 council William Nixon and Alex Macdonald being defeated.

David Millar headed the polls and the other three elected were Gordon Scriver, W. J. Hendren and Charles Armstrong. The results of the polls were:

Councillors	Ward 1	Ward 2	Tot.

1938 County Council.

The members of the County Council that will convene late this month are as follows:

Smith—Reeve Allan B. Mann, Deputy-Reeve Harry Fowler.
Otonabee—Reeve W. A. Anderson, Deputy-Reeve Harry Reid.
North Monaghan—Reeve James Milby, Deputy-Reeve Melville Johnston.
Dummer—Reeve E. N. McDonald.
Asphodel—Reeve John McColl.
Douro—Reeve Martin Coughlin.
Burleigh-Anstruther — Reeve Roy Brown.
Harvey—Reeve Wallace Shearer.
Ennismore—Reeve James Gifford.
Galway-Cavendish — Reeve John Clark.
Chandos—Reeve Allan Caldwell.
Belmont-Methuen—Reeve W. E. Griffith.
Lakefield—Reeve C. S. Tanner.
Norwood—Reeve J. R. Thompson.
Havelock—Reeve E. W. Seeney.

Wardenship Prospects.

With the retirement of Reeve Frank Leahy in Douro, who was regarded as in line for the wardenship, although not without opposition, an estimate of the prospects would indicate that Reeve E. N. McDonald, who is back from the battle in Dummer and Reeve Milby of North Monaghan are likely to be around the head of the line when new members get together at the ...t-House, or possibly before that, ...point the immediate successor to ...n Roy Brown. And that quick ...f the field does not entirely ... Allan Mann of Smith, who ... be knocking at the door ... has been away from the council precincts for a few sessions.

The last Reeve of Dummer was James Hawthorne, and before him John Darling, and North Monaghan's representatives in recent years were John McIntosh, who received the honor twice, and Harold B. Rye. Wallace Shearer of Harvey might be a possibility. Those who have already been warden of the county are: Tanner of Lakefield, Clark of Galway, Griffith of Belmont, Anderson of Otonabee, Gifford of Ennismore and Coughlin of Douro.

FAIRMAN BEATEN BY L. E. KELLEY IN HARD BATTLE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 4.—L. E. Kelley was elected reeve of the municipality of Hastings by a narrow margin of twenty-two votes over H. G. Fairman, reeve for 1936-37 at the municipal election held here Monday. Two out of three 1937 councillors were returned by a strong vote. Charles Lynch headed the polls with a vote of 290 and was followed by a close vote of 280 for Stanley Stevenson. Two new faces to be seen on the 1938 council are William McEachnie who took a vote of 270 and Eden Bonds, Sr., with a vote of 184. The three defeated were: Harry Dodd, 106 votes; George Smullin, 101 votes; John A. Tripp, 39 votes.

Herbert A. Stephenson was elected hydro commissioner for 1938-39 by a majority of 61 votes over Walter M. Fowlds, candidate for re-election.

Cigars were at a premium last night when successful candidates led their followers to Lynch's Hall where cigars and cigarettes were passed freely.

LIFFORD DISTRICT SNOWED UNDER

and thence to Nestleton. On returning their cars became lodged on the side line near the farm home of Mr. Willis Whiteside. A team towed it under cover at the farm buildings, where it still remains.

Hard Going to School.

Teachers and students in rural communities experienced considerable difficulty in reaching their schools on Monday morning. Several made the tedious journeys to their temporary homes on Sunday. Lifford school was not re-opened on Monday owing to the illness of the teacher.

Rural mail carriers have been unable to travel their routes and local bakeries have supplied their country customers by hailing any visitor to the village and sending out bread to any accessible point for distribution on foot.

Mr. and Mrs. George Chapman, regular attenders at Peterborough market, made their customary trip with their truck and a load of produce on Friday morning. They left Peterborough around eight o'clock to make the return trip but found traffic so retarded on account of the storm that they did not reach Bethany until 3 a.m. They were forced to spend the remaining hours of the night in the village and the following afternoon proceeded by team and sleigh to their farm home at Ballyduff. Their truck will follow. Never in history have so many motor cars spent week-ends on the King's highways of Manvers.

On New Year's Day Mrs. Cairns, mother of Mrs. Norton Mills, who for many years lived at Lifford and now lives one concession north and is one of several Lifford octogenarians, celebrated a birthday anniversary. Mrs. Cairns is enjoying comparatively good health and is an interesting conversationalist with her many friends who call at the home of her son-in-law to see her.

12 NEW MEMBERS ON THE COUNCIL UNITED COUNTIES

McKeel who, as chairman of the schools committee at Cobourg, was almost a committee of one when the troublesome detail of computing school grants had to be undertaken.

Innes In Seymour

In Seymour township Reeve John Currie withdrew at the end of his term, and was succeeded by Robert Innes, his deputy of last year who had previously served as reeve. Voting for the position of deputy-reeve yesterday William Ross was given a majority over Frank Lee.

Reeve Leslie Campbell retired in Cramahe, making way for the return of Charlie Quinn who presumably will be a candidate for the wardenship. The shift of the chairmanship of the council is to Northumberland this year, and among those who have a strong claim on the ground of experience is Mr. Quinn. Reeve Herman Morrow who returns to the council after a year's absence in Murray township is another and likewise Reeve Innes of Seymour. Reeves J. F. George, Pacey and Calver are also to be reckoned with, and Reeve Leslie H. Wilson of Cobourg is still another who may be considered in the presessional surveys and lobbying.

The Durham Front

Only five of the 1937 Durham representatives will not answer the next roll call of the council. Reeve Stinson of Millbrook retired, and another veteran who is gone from the ranks is the amiable Reeve A. L. Pascoe of Darlington. He is succeeded by a promising young administrator, Reeve Carruthers, who was deputy last year, and in the deputy's place is Arthur W. Annis, another member of the well-known Darlington family of that name.

W. R. Prouse succeeds Reeve Cecil G. Mercer in Hope, who defeated a former deputy, Stabley Gray. The new deputy is H. G. Woodley who was given an acclamation. J. N. Arthur Wood and Garnet Shield were also unopposed in Cavan.

LAKEFIELD HOUSE SCORCHED IN BLAZE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 4.—The home of David Curtain on Burnham street Lakefield, narrowly escaped destruction by flames Thursday morning, December 30, when fire broke out in a shed adjoining the residence. The flames spread rapidly and only excellent work on the part of the local volunteer fire brigade prevented the residence being destroyed.

The alarm was put in at about 3.45 a.m. by a neighbor, who saw the flames, and the occupants of the threatened house were awakened by neighbors. By 3.55 the firemen had arrived and had water playing on the flames. It took close to two hours to completely extinguish the blaze.

When Paris Faced Its Christmas Strike

Here is start of the strike which paralyzed Paris over Christmas when municipal employees joined truck drivers and grocery store workers in a demand for higher wages and the right to unionize. The strike started when these workers in a foodstuff warehouse "sat down" at their jobs. The government evolved a compromise with the strikers after threatening to man the utilities with soldiers and sailors.

BAILIEBORO ROADS BADLY BLOCKED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 4.—Friday night's storm filled township roads full of snow in most instances rendering motor traffic impossible. Many farmers have been forced to put their cars up for a time and resort to driving horses as a means of transportation.

Some of the township roads have been blown full of snow to the extent of three to five feet. It is many years since snow to that extent has filled the roads running north and south.

Roads running east and west were blown almost free from snow and only occasional banks block the traffic.

SURVEYORS' CHIEF LOSES 50 POUNDS ON DIET OF BUNNY

Quebec government survey party ran out of food Nov. 22. From then until New Year's Day, when Pilot Spradbrow brought supplies after flying over the camp while searching for the party, the men lived on 14 rabbits. Game was scarce in the frozen muskeg country of Northern Quebec.

Given tender care and nourishing foods by the Fathers of the Roman Catholic Mission here, the men were reported as fast recovering from their experiences. Even Leonard Bernier, considered in the most serious condition, was gaining strength so rapidly he expected to leave for home with his companions.

Broth and Egg-Nogs

The men lounged about the Mission yesterday. They were fed only chicken broth and egg-nogs—frequently. Too tired to speak much, the surveyors were content to take things easy, relaxing in the warmth of the Mission after weeks of bitterly cold weather, when temperatures frequently touched 35 degrees below zero. "We are happy," said Guenet.

Guenet, termed a hero by his men, estimated he weighed about 100 pounds. When he led the party into the Quebec wilderness last August his weight was 150 pounds. During the long wait for rescuing planes at the survey camp 13 miles from the Ontario-Quebec boundary, Lieut.-Col. Guenet's faith in the party ultimately being found never faltered. "We never gave up," the leader said.

Pilot Wollett participated in another rescue flight yesterday. A three-man party of surveyors searching for Guenet's party was reported lost. Wollett made a short flight to spot the trio, recruited from a district survey camp, picked them up and took them safely to their camp a few miles east of the provincial boundary. Their names were not learned.

"I called Ester (step-mother of the girls) and I have a four-six, also a W.A.A. dinner at 6.30-8.00. Go on home and I'll call you at Max' to come down after me.

"Trudie."

The note was interpreted to mean she had a class from 4 to 6 p.m. and a dinner engagement at the Women's Athletic Association quarters on the campus. "Max" was said to be Miss Maxine Wilbur, a school friend at whose home the girls visited frequently.

Note Genuine

Miss Billie Bennett received the note from her sister through a clerk employed at the college. It was said to have been definitely Trudie's handwriting.

She was attired in sports clothes and was believed to have carried little money when she left home. She has brown hair and blue eyes, is five feet one inch tall and weighs about 120 pounds.

Bennett's career is dotted with colorful episodes. He was a boxing champion in the Navy, a deep sea diver, an artist and an amateur detective before he became one of Henry Ford's right-hand men and an industrial executive of vast powers.

Since a concerted drive was started many months ago to unionize Ford Motor Co. workers, Bennett has been much in the headlines.

previously had announced he wasn't in the running. The whole thing was termed an accident.

It happened this way: The reeveship was the only office not filled by acclamation. John Curry, nominated both for reeve and council, qualified for reeve against Reeve W. J. D. Moss under the impression he was qualifying for a seat on the council. Then he announced he would not oppose Mr. Moss.

But because Mr. Curry had qualified, an election had to be held. Reeve Moss polled 138 votes. And though Mr. Curry had announced his withdrawal from the election, he got 38 votes.

Among many plebiscites before ratepayers, a by-law to abolish statute labor on roads carried 550 to 327 in Vespra Township, Simcoe County. The town of Bruce Mines, in Northern Ontario, voted 66 to 1 to accept a 10-year power contract with a Sault Ste. Marie power company to supply the town with electricity.

3 Centres Stay Dry.

The Western Ontario municipalities of Blenheim, Oil Springs, and High Gate voted to remain "dry" in local-option plebiscites under which sale of intoxicating beverages would be permitted. The Muskoka district town of Bala continued "wet" when voters favored retention of the existing licensing system.

Mayor E. U. Dickenson was re-elected, for the fourth time, in Walkerburg by an eight-vote margin over George Frye, his only opponent. The vote was: Dickenson 707, Frye 699. Mr. Frye once was a pupil of Mayor Dickenson who taught in the High School of the Kent County town.

Among Mayors elected were H. G. Pack in Orillia, George Buhler in Essex, Dan Kennedy in Leamington, John R. Joyce, Welland, and J. H. Fawcett in Harriston. By a margin of only 32 votes, W. H. Singer was elected to the Mayoralty of Niagara-on-the-Lake, while in Dresden a majority of nine elected A. Hoyles as Chief Magistrate.

FIRE LOSS DURING PAST YEAR IS LOWEST IN CITY'S HISTORY

Total Fire Loss In Peterboro In Past Year $3,347.03 Lowest Of Cities In Ontario

Chief Gimblett Acknowledges Support Given Him By Citizens In Prevention

Officially stated to be lowest in the history of the city and smallest in the entire province among communities of similar size, Peterborough's fire losses in 1937 totalled $3,347.03. It was a decrease of $45,545.59 over the fire loss figures for the previous year.

Alderman E. R. Wilson, charman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, said he believed the favourable position in which the city found itself in regard to fire losses, was largely due to the methodical inspection work carried out by the Fire Prevention Bureau established by Chief George Gimblett.

Doing Splendid Work.

Declaring that the importance of the work the fire prevention bureau was doing had been stressed in the city's efforts to have Peterborough's key rate for fire insurance reduced, Alderman Wilson said: "The Chief and his department is doing a splendid job as results show."

Proud of the low fire loss figures, Fire Chief Gimblett without minimizing the part played by the Fire Prevention Bureau under his direction, acknowledged the support he had received from the general public, in the eternal vigilance that is maintained against fire perils and hazards. "Without the close co-operation I have received from all citizens, such a fine result would not have been possible," he said.

502 Alarms.

Out of a total of 502 alarms answered by the department in the twelve months period just ended, there were only thirty-eight fires in which there was a loss. They were spread over the four areas into which the city is divided for fire protection purposes, as follows: East City: 78 alarms, 1 fire, total loss $6.75; Business section: 69 alarms, 5 fires, total loss, $774.97; South End: 180 alarms, 14 fires, total loss, $1,113.50; North End: 175 alarms, 18 fires, total loss $1,451.81. The largest single fire during the year was in a row of terraces on Downie street, just north of Hunter street, early last year. Loss in this instance was recorded at $562.60.

Of the total fire loss for 1937, $2,530.53 was on buildings and the balance of $816.50 on contents.

AIRPLANE PLAYS IMPORTANT PART IN OPENING NORTH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4.— The important part played by air transportation in the development of Ontario's North was interestingly describe in an address delivered at the Rotary Luncheon on Monday by Mr. A. L. Malcolm of Campbellford who as an engineer of the Ontario Hydro Electric system has taken a keen interest in the transportation problem as it affected the development of Northern Ontario's power and mineral resources.

Declaring that he would rather fly than go by motor to Toronto Mr. Malcolm paid a high tribute to the men who are taking part in this field of transportation in the North where he pointed out that with no mountains, and usually good visibility and a myriad of lakes to form an idea landing field were all conditions peculiarly favorable to air travel.

"Life in the North is much different from a well ordered life in a place such as Campbellford, and calls forth certain reserves and qualifications which are not needed farther south" said the speaker in opening his address.

The increasing use of the airplane has facilitated the opening of new territory and has turned what was formerly weeks of travel into a mere matter of hours and thus allowing a much greater length of time for the actual work, as well as enabling construction to get under way many months earlier than by former methods of transportation. One of the first items of equipment to be transported to the scene is a saw mill with which all the necessary lumber is sawed and this is brought in by a freight plane ranging in capacity from 1700 to 2700 pounds.

Tractors and Boats

Although the airplane plays its important part all through construction and particularly at the outset there is no major development that can go very long without a more substantial means of transportation. On the Lake St. Joseph, route to Rat Rapids a marine railway was built followed by an over land railway to take in the heavy equipment after the camp was established. Both tractor and boat play an important part in the stage of development requiring heavy machinery. The boats are operated on a schedule and where possible all heavy freight is brought on scows towed about 150 feet behind a small boat. Generally three such scows are brought up river with their load at the same time. Meat is brought in refrigerator, scows are brought up with a fresh supply of meat each week.

The important time reckoning periods in the north are the freeze-up and break-up periods and it is essential that all important equipment be in the camp before either of these periods when it is absolutely marooned for a period of anywhere from three to six weeks.

Powerful tractors with from three to four heavy sleighs or sloops carry tons of freight over roads that are little more than trails through the bush in winter. The driver, a seasoned man of the north directs its course day and night unprotected by either windshield or top from the rigors of winter. In the last trailer are the rest of the crew who sleep while not relieving at the wheel or having meals. A small scout plane operates from the base and watches the progress of the tractor immediately placing a skilled mechanic on the scene if anything should go wrong. Mr. Malcolm explained that the chief reason for enclosed cabs on the tractors being taboo was that in case they broke through the ice in crossing some lake the driver would have a chance to escape.

Freight Rates.

Comparative freight rates on a run of 65 miles from Hudson to Gold Pines were as follows: By water $7 per ton; by tractor, $60.00 per ton and by air five cents a pound or $100.00 per ton. The transportation of fuel oil forms a lucrative source of revenue to the air transport companies stated the speaker. Fishing in the north is almost too easy concluded, Mr. Malcolm drawing attention particularly to the English River which is fairly teeming with fish. Pickerel and lake trout are so plentiful that they are fed to the dogs while speckled trout abound in the smaller streams and creeks.

U. Morgan is alleged to have shot Faulding in a bizarre plot to commandeer the vessel and sail it to tropic ports—but was overpowered, stunned and thrown over the side. The yacht, after drifting for several days with its six survivors, was taken in tow by a coast-guard vessel and returned to port.

Hardest working men in Peterborough these days of heavy snow are probably the service station operators. At most stations, the mounds of snow which have been piled up by shovellers are now larger than at any time last winter.

RAILWAY RECORD ENVIABLE ONE LIONS ARE TOLD

"Although we have many times condemned railways in this condemned the railways in this country, they did a great deal to meet the situation, particularly in the lowering of freight and passenger rates," E. Vernon Morphet said in an address to the Lions' Club Monday evening, declaring commendation was earned by the railways for their record through the depression years. "They have had very stiff opposition during the last few years, due to the fact their rates are severely policed at all times."

Mr. Morphet called attention to the oft forgotten fact that there are more than two railways in existence in Canada. All felt the depression but all are doing business today, he said. The Canadian National operates about 21,906 miles of line and the Canadian Pacific approximately 21,235 miles compared with the largest single railroad mileage in the United States, the Pennsylvania which handles more freight and passengers than any other road on the continent, he continued.

Interesting figures on railroad mileage totals for various countries of the world were offered by Mr. Morphet. Some of the totals were: Russia, 47,867 miles; Canada, 45,626; India, 41.581; France, 39,550; Germany, 36,402; Australia, 30,717; Great Britain, 24,414; Argentine, 23,756; Brazil, 19,720; Japan, 17,142; Mexico, 16,443; Italy, 13,049; Poland, 12,853. The United States total mileage is 249,944, he said.

"Beginning in 1922, great strides were made in improvement of our railway service," the speaker stated. "Previous to that year railway equipment was in a run-down condition and box cars were of small capacity, motive power was, for the most part, made up of old-fashioned and small engines and freight trains were usually run as double headers. The heaviest capacity in box cars was 40 tons, generally the capacity was 30 tons. The road beds were laid with 65 to 80-pound steel.

"Now cars are of 60 tons capacity and the major portion of them 40 feet in length instead of 33 feet. On the main line rails are 130 pounds per yard. On the line through Peterborough, used as a main grain line, the rails are 100 pounds per yard."

WEEK OF PRAYER SERVICES OPEN

Answering to the call to prayer issued by the Ministerial Association of the city of Peterborough, in common with Christian leaders throughout the world, representatives from the various Protestant churches gathered Monday night for the first service of this universal Week of Prayer.

The services are being carried on for the convenience of the various congregations, with Trinity United and St. James' United Churches leading on Monday night. Rev. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's and Rev. E. W. Young officiated at Trinity, and Rev. C. C. Boyter of Park Street Baptist and Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United in charge at St. James'

The Rev. F. W. Craik, pastor of the church, conducted the introductory service, while Rev. Mr. Parr offered the invocation and read the scripture lesson from Philippines 2: 1-10.

Appropriate music arranged by Cecil Lapp, the organist, included a duet by Mesdames H. F. Doig and G. R. Butcher, and several prayer hymns.

A familiar subject, but one well worth reviewing, was chosen by the Rev. Mr. Boyter, who led in a brief but inspiring meditation upon the "Name of Jesus."

Names, said the speaker, are often given merely as a social badge or label, or to carry on tradition, but the name of Jesus indicates His character and work, for, when the angel spoke to Mary he said, "Thou shalt call his name Jesus for He shall save His people from their sins."

Thousands of Jewish boys were given the name of Joshua, which is the Hebrew form of the Greek word Jesus, because of the courage of this early Israelite leader. There is a contrast between the meek and lowly Jesus of the New Testament and the strong, iron-willed Joshua of the Old Testament. There is a parallel, too, between their names—both were true to duty in the face of death, were unafraid to declare the unwelcome truth and both rebuked evil.

But Jesus transformed the name of Joshua and changed our ideals of heroism. The name "Jesus" signifies "God is Saviour." He was God in the flesh, while Joshua was but His agent.

Down through the ages the greatest need of humanity has been for a deliverer, and he has been sought for in soldier, priest, prophet, and politician. But, deliverance through them has been only temporary because they did not deal with the root of the world's trouble, which is sin. The world will never be delivered from selfishness, envy and greed until the Saviour is given the right of way.

In closing, Rev. Mr. Boyter made a plea that all should unite in prayer to exalt, revere and confess the name of Jesus, for our only salvation is in Him. The hymn, "How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds," was a fitting conclusion to this first service of the Week of Prayer and Intercession in Peterborough.

Claim Victories

Both loyalist and rebel forces are claiming victories at Teurel, Spain, where bitter fighting has been taking place in spite of heavy snow storms. The rebels are said to have 150,000 troops in the area in an effort to recapture the city recently taken by the loyalists. The arrows indicate the direction of the rebel assault and the approximate battle line.

VERY FEW CHANGES OFFICIAL RETURNS

City Clerk Armstrong made an official declaration this morning of the results of the municipal elections with only a few minor changes from the figures received from the deputy-returning officers New Year's night and published in the Examiner Monday.

The vote on daylight saving was 3,095 to 1,532, the only error in those totals being one less in the column of the opposition. The Examiner's total of 'nays" was 1531.

Totals for the aldermen in the one year panel were changed by revision as follows: Bradburn 2108 instead of 2128; Edgar 1629 instead of 1626; McCannan 2,385 not 2,390; Vinette 1,094, not 1,102 as previously reported.

Several figures were changed in only two of the poll returns for the two year group. Cotton's total was 2,079 instead of 2,080; Lewis 773, not 776; Lundy 585, not 607; Phoenix 279 instead of 257. All the other poll returns were correctly received by telephone the night of the election.

Two Applicants Are Meeting Committee

Miss Young, assistant superintendent of the Children's Shelter in York County and William A. Turnbull an official of the Big Brothers Association were reported to be in the city this afternoon to confer with a special committee of the local Board of the Children's Aid Society. It is understood that the special committee who are seeking a successor to John A. Edgar as superintendent will report back to the Board at the regular meeting to be held on Tuesday of next week. Both Miss Young and Mr. Turnbull are university graduates and fully qualified social service workers, it was stated.

Firemen Battle Chlorine Gas

Memories of the Great War were brought back when Peterborough firemen were called upon to battle chlorine gas yesterday.

The alarm which summoned the firemen came from the home of James Guiry, 502 Water street. They found that a tank of the deadly greenish gas which felled thousands of Canadian soldiers one grey dawn at Ypres, was leaking through a hole in its side. Donning gas masks, two of the men lifted the tank out of the garage in which it was standing and buried it in the snow out side.

The gas was being used in the manufacture of a cleansing product.

MRS. R. E. BIRDSALL DIES AT HER HOME ILL ONLY FEW DAYS

Pneumonia unexpectedly took a prominent citizen of Peterborough County when Mary Katharine Birdsall, wife of Col. R. E. Birdsall, died at her home on Rice Lake early today. She had been ill only a few days.

Mrs. Birdsall was born in Ashburnham, eldest daughter of the late J. A. Butterfield of Norwood. She married Col. Richard Birdsall in 1885. Particularly prominent in church work, she was a member of St. Michael's Church, Westwood, and served there as organist for 25 years. Also she conducted a Sunday school in her own home for many years.

Widely known for her I.O.D.E. work, she was a member of the 57th Regiment Chapter, Peterborough, and was past regent and current vice-president of the 40th Northumberland Chapter, Norwood. She was one time member of the Provincial and Dominion executive of the I.O.D.E. On the occasion of her golden wedding anniversary on February 11, 1935, she was presented with a provincial life membership by the Norwood chapter.

Among her diversified interests were her office as vice-president of the first Women's Institute branch to be opened in East Peterborough. She was first lady associate president of the East Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association.

Surviving besides her husband are one daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Elmhirst, and one son, Col. Everett Birdsall.

The funeral will be on Thursday at 1.30 p.m. from the family residence to St. Michael's Church Westwood at 2.30 p.m. Interment in Westwood Cemetery.

REGENERATION IS THE NEED OF MANY

Claiming regeneration is the need of many persons in the church today, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr addressed the Week of Prayer service held in Trinity United Church last evening. He declared it is little use to have one's name on the church role unless attendance is regular.

Dr. Barr spoke of Peter, saying Peter began well and afterwards sunk low in the presence of a young girl standing beside a fire in an open courtyard. One of the characteristics of people on this continent is a tendency to start off in great excitement then "peter out," he said. He pointed out that Peter, however, after the risen Christ had met him, became regenerated and went on again to great victories.

Rev. George Easton was in charge of the service and welcomed Dr. Barr and Rev. E. W. Young to the pulpit. Mr. Young conducted the devotional exercises and used the copies of prayer suggested by the manifesto of the Ministerial Association. Music was under the direction of Miss Mable Clarry.

Bro. Johnston extended a vote of appreciation to Bro. Devitt not only for his assistance during the evening, but for coming down at all in view of the fact that he had been that day re-elected Reeve of Cartwright by acclamation.

Past Worthy Mistress Sister Cora Johnston expressed her sincere thanks for the hearty co-operation given her by the members and bespoke the same spirit of good-will for the new Wor. Mistress Mrs. Bradburn.

The evening concluded with lunch and a social half-hour over the teacups.

Presbyterians Win From All Saints

St. Paul's Juveniles, Church League champs last year, won from All Saints, 3-1, at All Saints rink Monday night. The losers were much faster but lacked the teamplay and tenacious checking of the Presbyterians. Mackness was strong defensively and scored two for the winners. Easton got the third goal. Mortimer stood out for the other crew and got their lone counter. Goalie McBride of St. Paul's and Carpenter of All Saints were two others who went good. The teams:

St. Paul's: Goal, McBride; defence, Mackness, McMillian; centre, Moorhead; wings, Easton, Dunford; alternate, Lockington.

Good Pie Paste Not A Mystery But Is Necessity For Good Pies

Must Be Good Flaky Thoroughly Digestible Crust To Receive Praise

THE memory of too much good food often is still too fresh in my mind to inspire very convincing food talk. But when I am hungry and it is time to do this job, then my hearties, you read about something worth eating.

But the serious subject of making pies and eating them and their peculiar virtues has been forcibly thrust on me by a much more famous cook than I ever hope to be—and my tune has changed—it has a much more bass-ic note.

However I have to make you slightly uncomfortable by laying down one inflexible condition—none of this praise of pie is true IF you can't make good, flaky, thoroughly digestible crust.

And what's nicer is that it is not a matter of "can make"—it is a case of "will make" good pastry.

Good pie paste is not a mystery.

Fool Proof Pie Pastry

Fresh shortening, pastry or cake flour (but never bread flour), ice cold water, extremely hot oven, thoroughly chilled paste, a light touch—all essentials, which prove that the art cannot be learned overnight or in one lesson—but that practise can make perfect.

The compromise I like to think even novices can have success with, is to use half of their shortening in the paste—and half of it to spread on the paste when it is first rolled out—this tends to make the paste flake—because the butter when rolled between the layers of folded paste, swells when baked at great heat—hence puffs the paste.

For a two-crust pie use 1½ cups unsifted flour, ½-cup pure fresh lard or ¼-cup pure fresh lard and ¼-cup pure fresh butter, ½-teaspoon salt, ¼-cup (4 tablespoons) ice cold water. Pinch the lard in with the finger tips until the whole resembles coarse cracked wheat. If all lard is used it need not be worked in so finely. Then add the water little by little working it in with the fingers or a pastry blender. Add just enough to make it hold together. Then roll out on lightly floured board.

If half butter is used slice it wafer thin from the pound block and lay these wafers on the rolled-out dough covering half of the surface—then fold over uncovered half and fold all into six layers. Cut in half crosswise. Then roll out to desired size—one crust for top—one for bottom.

Line pan with crust having tried to roll it to exact size. Fill in with fruit and sugar, dampen edge ever so little, apply top to fit, pressing edges together to prevent escapes of juices, and chill. Bake at 500 deg. Fahr. to start reducing heat to 350 to finish.

Apple Pie

The first fruits of the season need no spice—white sugar being sufficient to bring out their welcome fresh flavor.

But later on, beginning this time of year, a sprinkling of nutmeg or cinnamon, and maybe brown sugar in place of white makes a nice change and brings up the flavor of the apples.

Apple pie demands cheese, but none of your fancy varieties—just good Old Canadian Cheddar—the fancy varieties are too self-assertive, they detract from the perfection of the pie, and I think an apple pie that is served about one-third of the way between hot and cold is at its peak, that is if the apples are Gravensteins or Spies.

Mince Pie (The Perfect Pie for January)

We are having mince pie made from a jar that was a Christmas gift tonight, and I have been out skating and am so hungry I could eat the pie right now, plate and all.

The grand thing about a mince pie is that it improves with age, the only precaution one has to take being that when it is reheated it is thoroughly heated, not just warmed, or the suet will "clog" as my husband inelegantly puts it.

Same old Canadian cheese for mince pie too.

Pumpkin Pie

Recipes for pumpkin pie are becoming simpler but richer: Cream in place of some of the milk, and fewer spices. Three-quarters cup brown sugar mixed with 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼-teaspoon mace, ½-teaspoon ginger, ½-teaspoon salt. Mix 2 cups hot pumpkin strained (canned or freshly cooked) and mix well. In another bowl beat two whole eggs with a fork but not to a froth, then add 1 cup milk, 1 cup cream, 1 tablespoon melted butter. This will fill one very large pie or two medium sized ones, you may have to dip the remainder into the pie when it is in the oven.

Bake on lowest rack in oven with bottom oven on high for 5 minutes to bake through bottom crust quickly so it will not soak.

Now that I have given the old but delicious standbys their rightful places I want you—if you are true to the cookery page—to try a pineapple pie.

Using a can of crushed pineapple add 2 tablespoons minute tapioca and 1-3 cup sugar and let stand half-hour. Make your pastry and chill as directed above. Fill pineapple into shell and close up as directed above and bake on bottom shelf of oven for first 5 minutes with bottom oven on full to prevent soaking crust.

My first experience with this pie was in the South—it was served with Swiss cheese, cut in exactly the same shape as the size of the wedge of pie—it was a gustatory discovery for me—I will never forget my hostess nor her pie.

Dried fruits such as apricots, peaches, apples, prunes, raisins and dates are at the peak of their usefulness now—do do them justice—soak the fruit overnight in every case except the dates—and a little lemon rind grated added to each is an improvement.

Fried pies, made by rolling your pastry about 6 inches in diameter, spreading one-half with the prepared filling, covering it with sugar, folding over and sealing by pressing with tips of fork and frying at 390 deg. Fahr. in lard without turning. This with powdered sugar served almost piping hot is food for the best of us. Are you going to pioneer?

EVENING WRAPS VARY IN STYLE

Many Different Fabrics Are Also Used

(By Lisbeth)

Time was when velvet had things pretty much its own way in the matter of evening wraps. It is pretty popular today, but there are many other fabrics now used to vary the mode—fur, of course, metal cloths and wool. The heavier silks also are used for evening wraps.

Styles too are varied in evening wraps, so varied that there is a wide choice when it comes to choosing a model.

Reminiscent of grandmother's day is the quilted evening coat, left. It completely covers the body, touching the floor. Of bright red velvet, it makes a dramatic entrance wherever it goes. It is from Kalmour.

Another model also dramatic in its effect is the black soft wool, floor-length cape, shown right, with gleaming muskrat hair decoration, by the same firm. Wide, squared shoulders are accented by glittering metallic and brilliant encrustation motifs.

Pleats Used Freely

Pleats are being used freely by many Paris dressmakers, and one evening coat by Maggy Rouff shows wide Watteau pleats at the back of an evening coat— reminiscent, by the way, of the same kinds of pleats that adorned the backs of tea gowns of the nineteenth century, and which you may see in old prints.

The latest evening coats shown in Paris are as dramatic as possible—a startling effect seeming to be desired in this type of apparel.

Imagine a dahlia red velvet full-length evening cape, fastened at the left shoulder. Can't you see the sweeping gesture with which its wearer throws it about her and fastens it?

Rochas has a superb evening coat in grass green velvet with gold frappe Renaissance design. It has long sleeves in a series of little puffs.

Lelong's evening coats combine faille and velvet. He shows a very handsome one in grass green and one in blask in his mid-season collection.

So you see that there is, as I said before, infinite variety in evening coats and capes to take you to the swankier places.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE.)

Since we have discovered the following meat loaf recipe, Meat Loaves have graduated to company dishes, and look especially appetizing if served in a ring mould. The centre of the turned out loaf filled with fluffy boiled rice flavored with chopped pimientoes and butter, and the outside of the ring garnished with fried apple rings. (Don't you make fried apple rings? Merely slice cored unpeeled apples in halves crosswise once, dip in flour and gently fry in butter, turning once carefully when one side is golden. A grand emergency dish when green vegetables are scarce.)

Glorified Meat Loaf

Two lbs. shin beef put through butcher's mincer with ½ lb. smoked ham from the shoulder. To these add 1 cup sifted cracker crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon each catsup, Worcestershire Sauce, 1 teaspoon horseradish, 1 finely grated onion, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon parsley finely chopped. Mix well, press into ring mould (unless your angel cake tin is sacred to angel food cakes you could use it lacking a ring mould) which has been well buttered and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 35 minutes. When done pour off juice which is mostly fat which accumulates around edges and turn out on large round chop platter. Fill center with boiling hot fluffy rice flavored with butter and pimientoes, garnish edge with fried apples and serve. Green Salad is excellent with this.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Sorry to come bothering you but I mislaid my recipe for the pickled carrots and wanted all this kind of cooking done before the last days of Christmas. You will repeat it please.

I threw away that dumpling recipe you requested. Did you notice the same thing in the Cranberry pudding—no baking powder? Now I want to wish you a happy holiday season and long may you live to continue. Thank you.—Annie M.

ANSWER: Thank you for such a kind letter.

Sweet Pickled Carrots

Boil young tender carrots until three-quarters tender. Scrape and cut in thin slices and pour a boiling hot spiced syrup over them. Make syrup by boiling together 1 quart vinegar, 4 cups brown sugar (less sugar if you do not like them very sweet), 1 tablespoon of mixed cinnamon, cloves, mace and allspice. Allow to stand overnight in this syrup, next morning boil for 5 minutes. Then pack boiling into sterile jars and seal.

QUESTION: For so long I have wanted to write you and tell you how much I enjoy the cookery page. But now that I have started the one who is to mail my note is waiting, so must hurry. But at a very early date I am going to send you one of my very favorite recipes.

But the mission of this hasty note is to beg some recipes for candy. Do you happen to have one in which black walnuts are used? We just received a big box of those favorites yesterday.

I wish to make up a lot of candy for Christmas and would be very pleased and grateful for any recipes.

We have a Taylor thermometer and have a great deal of pleasure in packing boxes for friends, relatives and the children's chums, too.

I have one recipe which calls for the following but never get it cooked to the right degree, because it says cook to fairly hard ball and when we do it turns to sugar, and yet I have had it when it was very delicious toffee.

Could you possibly tell me to what degree it should be cooked?

Creamy Toffee

(reader's recipe to be corrected)

Two lbs. granulated sugar, 1 lb. butter, 1 tin Eagle Brand milk, ½ tin Edwardsburg syrup, vanilla. Boil until quite a hard ball when dropped in cold water and pour on buttered tins. Delicious. To vary it I sometimes put cocoanut in bottom of one tin and chopped hazel nuts in other tin and leave the third plain.

Kindly excuse haste and accept thanks for the pleasure I have received and the many, many delicious and interesting recipes.—M. T.

ANSWER: I fear a reply in the paper will not reach you soon enough so I must send you one by mail.

The temperature at which to remove the above toffee from the heat is 250—possibly 245 if you wish it a little chewy.

Black Walnut Kisses (pulled taffy)

Four tablespoons molasses, 4 tablespoons water, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 cup sugar (brown or white), 2½ tablespoons butter, 1 cup black walnuts. Boil slowly without stirring it forms hard ball (245) in cold water. Add black walnuts which have been ground fine, and pour on greased pan. Pull when cool enough to handle—until opaque. Cut into kisses with buttered shears after pulling and wrap in waxed paper squares.

Black Walnut Molasses Squares

Two tablespoons butter, 1 cup molasses, one-third cup sugar, ½ cup black walnut meats, few grains salt. Put butter in saucepan and when melted add molasses and sugar. Stir until sugar is dissolved, bring to boiling point and let boil until mixture is brittle when tried in cold water. During the first of the boiling stirring is unnecessary, but when nearly cooked it should be stirred constantly. Add walnut meats, cut in pieces, and sprinkle with salt. Turn into buttered seven-inch pan, cool slightly, and mark in squares using sharp knife.

We hope these recipes please you and that we can help you again. See Cookery Page three weeks ago for other candy recipes.

DOROTHY DIX

Her Dramatic Life Story Told in Four Chapters

CHAPTER III

Fame

Fabulous days, rich in human experience, followed in the trail of Dorothy Dix's first success as a "sob sister" in Manhattan. She was assigned to every important murder trial for the next twenty-five years. Tortured hearts poured forth their woes to her in prison cells, in brothels . . in drawing rooms and in the gutter.

What memories this little woman can conjure in her mind as she writes her daily column of advice in her beautiful home in New Orleans! Memories of love and hate, cowardice and courage, avarice and generosity, fine cleanliness and sordid sin. Memories of men and women in their moments of triumph and in their hour of despair!

One of her first famous cases was the trial of the young and beautiful Nan Patterson, one of the original Floradora Sextette, for the murder of Caesar Young, the bookie. The lovely but wayward Nan heard the Judge say after the "Not guilty" verdict: "Young woman, I have followed the evidence of your life as developed in this trial with horror and astonishment. Twice you have escaped execution . . life lies before you. As you leave this court I want you to go with the sound in your ears of the message of your Saviour: 'Go and sin no more!'"

"And an hour later," says Dorothy Dix, "Nan Patterson was hitting it up in the 'district.'"

What other woman has ever seen humanity thus? Seen it ascend the heights and wallow in the depths, stretched on the wrack of its own uncontrollable passions!

She sat beside "Lefty" Louis and "Gyp the Blood" in the famous Becker murder trial, where her tales of the gray murder car thrilled New York. She sat beside the sister of Albert Patrick at his trial for the murder of William Rice, the Houston (Tex.) millionaire. She saw the jury file slowly into the box to deliver the verdict . . and heard Albert's sister give a long, high-piercing scream as she read the yet unspoken verdict on the foreman's face . . Guilty!

She sat beside famed William Travers Jerome, the New York District Attorney, at what was perhaps the most sensational trial of the quarter century . . the trial of Harry K. Thaw, millionaire Pittsburgh playboy, for the murder of Stanford White, world-renowned architect. She watched Jerome fight fruitlessly and desperately to break down the testimony of the beautiful Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. Jerome leaned over to Dorothy Dix:

"She's lying, and she knows I know she's lying, but I can't break her," growled Jerome. "Now why?"

"Mr. Jerome," said Dorothy Dix, "that girl has been shaken awake night after night and questioned by a jealous husband — a greater expert than you. A jealous husband has any District Attorney lashed to the mast on cross-questioning.

What memories of human folly she can recall! The butcher-knife murder of love-mad Josephine Terranova, victimized by her own uncle . . the Gudensuppe trial, where suitor and sweetheart cremated the husband's remains in the same stove in which they cooked their unholy nuptial feast . . the Stevens trial . . the Hall-Mills case in 1926. Experiences that have given her the wisdom of the ages!

Her stories about the Hall-Mills case are regarded as the classics of all time in newspaper writing and reporting. True to form, she sat beside Mrs. Henry Stevens, sister-in-law of Mrs. Hall, who reached out, grasped Dorothy Dix's hand and held it like a lost child as she waited to learn if the jury would strike another blow at the Stevens family pride.

It is curious that all these experiences did not break the faith of Dorothy Dix in human nature. Quite the opposite. In all this whirl of experience she remained the womanly little lady from the South. On the silver screen the usual woman reporter is portrayed as a hard-boiled two-fisted girl with a perpetual leer on her face. In newspaper circles Dorothy Dix will always be remembered as a quiet, capable, sympathetic woman, with an uncanny ability to size up the underlying motives of the people, whose true-life dramas she witnessed.

It was inevitable that this career should lead to the writing of a daily column, filled with the wisdom that can be gained only by wide experience. People in trouble, sensing in her writings a sympathetic soul, turned naturally to her for guidance.

CHAPTER IV.

Today

In all her forty years of very active newspaper work Dorothy Dix held fast to the one great ambition of her life—to write a column on human problems that would be of genuine assistance to young and to old, to rich and to poor, and, of course, one that would be helpful to men and women alike.

This ambition was the inspiration of those long, gruelling years she spent as a reporter. She knew that there was no magic formula for the understanding of life; that if she wanted to qualify for such a serious occupation she had to study human motives and behavior from all possible angles.

"I have sat in prison cells and listened to the heart stories of murderesses," she once explained, "and have sat in luxurious drawing rooms while the guest of millionaires' wives. I have seen women in their moments of triumphs and in their hours of despair, and there is no joy or sorrow that can tear the human heart that I do not know. All of this has given me a knowledge and an understanding of human nature that no young girl or woman who has led just a home life could have.

"To me it seems a very serious matter to write what women will read in the privacy of their homes while they are rocking their babies to sleep; what working girls will read as they go and come from their work; what men will read while trying to find some key that will unlock the riddle of the human conundrum to which they are married, and what men and women will read in the stress of great emotional upheavals, when they are sorely buffeted by temptation.

"Many of the problems presented to me in the letters I receive are so intricate that only Almighty Wisdom itself can solve them; but to all I give understanding and the best idea I have in the shop."

Dorothy Dix never loses her interest in letters from her readers. She has a large study in her spacious home in New Orleans which, before the day is done, is literally blanketed with letters that come with every mail. She has a corps of secretaries and a chief secretary, whose task it is to keep this heavy correspondence running smoothly. Yet, with all this assistance, she insists on reading each note personally.

"These letters are my real pay for my work," she has explained, "and make me feel that I wouldn't exchange jobs with a President. They are amazing human documents, a cross-section of life, raw and bleeding, with nothing covered up. Most of them are written in terrible stress, many are heatbreakingly pathetic."

To many of these people she writes long letters of counsel; advice too intimate to appear in her daily column. It is, of course, possible for her to answer many of the problems presented to her in her daily column, but she likes to give a personal touch to her work in so far as her time permits.

Dorothy Dix's fascination with life never leaves her. Her eyes never stop twinkling with good humor. Life never bores her. She is just as much at home in a tenement room, where her welfare work often takes her, as she is in the mansions of the rich and powerful. She is literally worshiped by the people in New Orleans. A great university has bestowed upon her the honorary degree of doctor of letters. And though she sits on the Board of Directors of the newspaper where once she worked as a "cub" reporter, you will often find her enjoying a chat with a new member of the staff over an ice cream soda!

The same wisdom that she reveals in her advice is exerted on her own personal life. She keeps in excellent health; she has learned the art of forgetting her daily grind the instant she leaves her study. She is a well-known figure in New Orleans society, she loves to travel, is an inveterate walker and a charming hostess. Her love for people is insatiable, her patience with them is proverbial and her sense of humor is inexhaustible. She is a keen student of politics and international affairs, and likewise a shrewd manager of the large fortune she has earned by her writings.

And, above all, she is the best-loved woman in the world!

Teachers Address Queen Alexandra H. & S.

The first meeting of the year for Queen Alexandra Home and School Association held in the kindergarten room at the school drew a capacity attendance on Monday evening.

Mrs. L. M. Richardson, the president, presided for a short business session when the main item was the decision to co-operate with Inspector Wightman in the supplying of milk to needy children. This had previously been attended to by the Association alone.

For the main program of the evening, excellent addresses were heard from three teachers: Miss Verna Burgess, Miss Helen Staples and Miss Daisy Walker. Miss Burgess spoke first on "Health," as outlined in the present school curriculum. It was pointed out that health is placed first on the program of studies, not as a definite study, but as an ideal Through activity and experience, children are taught good health habits, proper nutrition and sobriety "Physical welfare is the foundation of successful school life," said the speaker. Miss Burgess discussed different methods by which health habits are being taught in the schools.

An exceptionally fine and understanding paper on 'Child Psychology' was given by Miss Helen Staples, who stressed as her main point, "What a parent or teacher really is, influences a child more than anything else." Pretended virtues have no real effect for good. "Put yourself in the child's place," was recommended by the speaker, as the first of four rules to follow; secondly, look for the good in the child; thirdly, watch for aptitudes, and, lastly, decide on the type of discipline—suppression or liberty.

Highlights of her trip to Japan during the past summer were discussed by Miss D. Walker in her interesting and entertaining manner. The routes covered, main cities visited, industries, habits and general conditions of the people were described. The travellers had found the people very likeable and most hospitable, providing a program of entertainment for the visitors. The influence of General and Madame Chiang Kai Shek on China was discussed by Miss Walker, who spoke also of the more prosperous conditions prevailing in Japan.

Mark Street Young People Meet.

Mark Street Young People's Union held their first meeting of the new year on Monday evening, January 3, opening with a sing-song led by Norman Hewitt.

The worship period opened with quiet music played by Elva Throop and was followed with a call to worship by the president, Miss Jennie Butcher.

The hymn "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" was sung, followed by a reading "Why Do We Pray?". Mary Ferguson read the scripture lesson and Jennie Butcher took the topic "Aims and Objectives of United Church Youth." The worship period closed with the hymn "Take My Life and Let It Be."

The Rev. E. W. Rowland then took charge for the installation of the officers for the new year. A period of recreation led by Carlisle Ferguson closed the evening.

Mark Street W.M.S. Elects Officers.

The last meeting of the year for Mark Street W.M.S. was held in the Ladies' parlor with a good attendance to enjoy the program scheduled for this important meeting.

Reports from the secretaries, and installation of new officers were the highlights for this occasion.

Mrs. H. Alton, first vice president presided for both the business and devotional periods. The Rev. E. Rowland gave a very inspiring address dealing with the real value of a missionary worker and the joy that comes to those being used of God in the Great Command "Go ye to all lands and preach the gospel to every creature."

The Auxiliary was sorry to accept Mrs. L. Matchett's resignation, "through illness in the home," who so capably presided for nearly two years.

The new officers for 1938 are as follows: President, Mrs. E. Rowland; 1st vice, Mrs. H. Alton; 2nd vice, Mrs. J. Dinner; 3rd vice, Mrs. Max Pomeroy; recording secretary, Mrs. S. Hick y-Freeman.

BANCROFT, Jan. 4. — A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Charles R. C. church, Read, Ontario, on Tuesday morning, December 28, at eight-thirty o'clock, by the Rev. Father R. A. Kerry, when Catherine Agnes Freeman, of Bancroft, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Freeman, of Read, became the bride of Mr. William Vincent Hickey, of Bird's Creek, youngest son of Mr. Thomas Hickey of Bird's Creek, and the late Mrs. Hickey.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charmingly gowned in a Coronation blue taffeta frock made on long princess lines. The gown was buttoned from the waist to the neckline, and had a short jacket of the same material, with frilled sleeves to the elbows. She wore a small blue velvet turban with matching veil and had white satin slippers with silver trimmings. She wore a beautiful gold locket which her great-grandfather gave to her grandmother on her wedding day almost sixty years ago. She was attended by her sister, Miss Roseleen Freeman of Belleville, who looked lovely in a gown of Paddy-green silk crepe with matching accessories.

Mr. Joseph Hickey, of Oshawa, brother of the groom, acted as best man, while Master John Freeman, brother of the bride, served the wedding mass.

At the offertory of the mass Miss Anne McWilliams and the Messrs Harry McWilliams and Bernard Freeman sang "O Salutaris." While the bridal party was leaving the church, "O Sacred Heart, O Love Divine" was sung by the choir.

After the marriage ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents to about fifty relatives and friends of the bride and groom. On Tuesday evening a reception was held at which the young couple were the recipients of numerous beautiful and useful gifts.

Following a wedding trip to Rochester, N.Y., and other points the young couple will reside on the groom's farm near Bancroft.

Guests at the wedding from a distance included the groom's father, Thomas Hickey of Bird's Creek, Thomas Cassidy of Stoco, Jack Hickey of Bird's Creek, and John Freeman of Marlbank.

Stenner-Thomas.

A pretty wedding was quietly solemnized in St. Peter's Cathedral when Zita Marie, daughter of Mrs. J. Thomas and the late W. D. Thomas, became the bride of George F. Stenner son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stenner of Lakefield.

The bride was becomingly attired in wine velvet. The attendants were the bride's sister, Miss Harriet Thomas, who was gowned in Royal blue velvet, and Robert Stenner, brother of the groom.

Following a honeymoon spent by motor to Toronto and Buffalo, the young couple will live at 389 Queen street.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"The wish falls often on my heart, that I may learn nothing here that I cannot continue in the other world; that I may do nothing here but deeds that will bear fruit in Heaven."

—Jean Paul Richter.

Dear Friends:

Wouldn't it be nice if we could restrict our learning to just what we COULD continue in the other world. Then we would not be petty or mean, for we would not want to carry such things into a fairer realm.

We would guard our thoughts so that they would be decent and clean, for that would be a bad thing to take with us, and would shame us before others, for there all thoughts are known.

We wouldn't do an unkind thing, nor a nasty thing, for that would be poor baggage to carry into that land of many mansions. We would leave bitterness out, for it has no place there.

We would leave injustice alone, for it would be a very heavy load to carry. And spite we surely would refuse to carry. We would not sorrow unduly, but let time do it's healing work, so that only joy and thankfulness for mercies received would go with us.

We would cultivate kindness, and generousity, understanding of the other fellow and his troubles. Along with those we would want sympathy, a respect for ourselves, and a similar respect for other people's feelings.

We would try to be large in our thoughts, not just thinking our own affairs are important, but that everyone's is important as they affect everyone else.

And we would want to feel that we had done our very best, not just when the boss was looking, not just when we expected visitors, and not just when someone else could see or hear.

We would like to feel that we were so worthwhile that we would be missed when we go, and welcome where we are going. That we took our work along as far as we were able, and left it in such shape that it would not be too hard for the next fellow to do who came after us.

Then we could go on with it in the next world. But—we have a tendency to think that this world is all that matters, and so we let ourselves down so often and get hurt in the process.

How many times I have pictured to myself that when I die, God my Father would be glad to see me. That He would stretch out His hand and say "Welcome. We are glad you have come." Or words to that effect.

And it has stopped me from doing many things which I have felt like doing when life has gone wrong or friends have seemed to forsake me when I needed them.

It has kept me from wounding others, for I know He wouldn't like it. It has enabled me to go ahead when failure seemed imminent, it has kept me plugging on when my heart was not in it.

And it has raised me from a sick bed to shoulder my burden and make the best of it, for I knew there would be an end to it all some day, and I wanted to go on from here free and untrammeled from a lot of left-over undone things here on earth.

Don't you hate to have some of the day's work go on to the next day? I do. And we will hate to think we didn't finish things as they should be done, before we set out on that journey. So let's all do our best, shall we?

Your friend,
ROBERTA.

CHAPTER 30.

"Something has happened to you," I told Bernice after our dance. "You act as if you hadn't a care in the world."

"I haven't." Then with a sudden change of tone, "Jerry, what is your idea of heaven?"

"Oh, a place of happiness, I suppose. Why?"

"If it is a place where we get what we want . . . well, I'm in heaven, Jerry . . . I am going to marry Lionel. . . ."

I was startled, and I confess, dismayed. "When?"

She hesitated, "Tomorrow. Oh, Jerry, I shouldn't have told you. But it slipped out. We meant it to be a secret."

"Do you mean that your father and mother don't know?"

"We couldn't tell them. . . . Do you think we are wrong? Do you?"

"I think you are taking great chances."

"But why? We've got to do something. Lionel needs money. And he can't get it. And-and I have some property in my own right——"

"And you will let him have it, as you let him have the pearls?"

Her cheeks were hot, "you knew that?"

"I saw them on Lionel's table. He doesn't know that I saw them."

All the brightness went out of her glance. "I've an awful time keeping it from mother. She wanted me to wear them tonight. I told her the clasp was broken . . . and I hate—lies."

I knew she was an honest little thing, sound and sweet under the overlay of frivolity. I tried to warn her. "Don't you see what a net you are drawing about yourself? And it isn't helping Lionel."

"Why not?"

"A woman doesn't help a man when she encourages him to do things like that . . . Lionel is my friend, but I should hate to see you marry him, Bernice."

"Jerry, don't—" her face was white.

The truth came to me then like a blow. "You are married already, Bernice?"

"Yes."

"When?"

"This morning. I am going to tell mother tonight. If—she and father don't forgive us, we are going away, and they'll want us back. They won't hold out."

"But suppose they should hold out, Bernice?"

"Then Lionel and I shall have each other."

The look in her eyes stopped the words that were on my lips. Why talk of a thing which was done.

I took her hand, "God bless you both, my dear."

She was wistful, "You are such a nice, old-fashioned sort of person, Jerry. Nobody but you ever speaks to me of God——"

"My father is a parson—perhaps that's why I do it."

"I think you'd do it anyhow."

We sat there in silence while a gaudy bird on a perch near us ducked his head in a sort of mad little dance, which seemed to match the mood of the dancers in the room beyond.

Before we went back to the others, Bernice made me promise not to let Lionel know that she had spoken of their marriage. "It just slipped out, Jerry. And you are so comfortable to confide in."

I saw her later dancing with Lionel— her face was raised to his, and its radiance swept it clear of doubts.

My second dance with Mimi came just before midnight, and it was then we had our chance to talk. That we might be absolutely alone, we fled to the Turkish Retreat, where Mimi sat like a rose among the puffy and gold cushions, and where one of Olga's awful screens hid us from any wandering guests who might drift into the room.

"What did your mother mean by saying that the danger was over?" I demanded.

"She thinks I am going to marry Andy."

"What makes her think it?"

She flashed a challenging glance, "Andy thinks so, too."

I stood over her. "But you're not. Oh, you couldn't do a thing like that, Mimi?"

"Why couldn't I? Jerry, listen. What other way is there out of it? I don't love him as I might— love you. But it isn't possible for me to marry you. It won't be possible for years. You mustn't think that I don't want romance. It was heavenly up there in Maine . . . You made me feel like the little girl I used to be . . . But I've got to be sensible. Mother and I can't go on this way. In spite of everything everybody has done for us, our bills are appalling. If I don't marry soon, I don't know what will happen to us. I can't work. And you wouldn't want me to, would you, Jerry?"

All rosy tulle and silver butterflies, who could link her with the thought of drudgery? eY¢ I said, "I'd rather have you work your fingers to the bone than marry a man you did not love."

She blazed, "Do you call that caring? If you cared, Jerry, you wouldn't want hard things to touch me."

I had ready for her my father's stern philosophy, "It isn't the hard things that hurt us."

"Oh, do you really believe that?" she flung back at me. "Do you think I'd be happy for one minute in ugly surroundings?"

She had me there. I could not see her in any setting but that of enchantment. I could not see her as anything but silken and shining.

But I stuck to my point, "You won't be happy with Andy."

"One side of me will. There are two Mimis, Jerry, the one I might be if it were possible for us to go on together, and the one I shall be if I marry Andy. I shall be happy in having lovely things, and social success—"

"Dead sea apples," said my father's son.

She sat there looking up at me with lovely wistful eyes, and I found myself saying, "If it were possible for you to marry me, would you be glad, Mimi?"

"It would be—all that I have dreamed, Jerry."

I caught her hands in mine and drew her up from the cushions, "Mimi, perhaps if we dream hard nough—?"

She escaped from me and perched herself on the arm of a chair at some distance, "We mustn't be silly—Jerry."

I was reckless, filled with the thought of the revelation which was to come to her before the evening was over. "Mimi, you say that I mean more to you than Andy. Prove it."

"How?"

"Give me two of his dances tonight—"

Her breath came quick—"But he'd be furious."

"Who cares?"

I could see that she shared my excitement. That to some extent I dominated her. "Say that you will," I insisted, yet was surprised when she yielded.

"Popeye" Life Story Is Replete With Thrills As Hardy Youngster Proves Metal

CHAPTER TWO

Poor little Popeye was an orphan, due to the fact that both of his parents were dead and also to the sad circumstances that he had neither pa nor ma. His clothing consisted mainly of old flour sacks, cigar coupons and old blades from a straight razor. Then Whaler Joe picked up the luckless lad on the docks and brought him a new pipe and a fascinating straw skimmer with handsome radio antennae by which marooned dandruff could send S.O.S. calls.

Popeye at the age of 6 began to fulfill his earlier promise. None of the bullies around the docks needed to lose their first teeth with the aid of a door knob. Popeye relieved them of useless bicuspids with his famous left-right to the jaw. He was a great factor for good in discouraging crap-shooting among the rough dock children. He did this by invariably making eighteen straight passes when he got the dice.

But times grew hard and Whaler Joe didn't catch many whales that year. Popeye had to sell his dice to the junk man for the lead in them. One day little Popeye came home through the snow with old Whaler Joe's evening slug of white mule, guarding the precious burden against the elements with his frost-bitten, fifty-pound boyish biceps. Then he fared forth again a-whaling with a bent pin and a spool of thread.

The whales noticed the tot's meager fishing equipment when he really should have come prepared with a net, and thrashed about impudently, giving, in a word, the horse-laugh to Popeye. Like a flash the quick tempered youngster called to the deep-sea upstarts.

"Blow me down, you——!"

There was immediately quiet like a pall around Popeye's frail bobbing craft. The largest of the whales, deeply offended, climbed into the boat and gave Popeye a jet of water straight on the chin. The boy grinned, feeling his strength for the first time, and delivered a fast one-two to the place where the whale's chin might have been. The big beast staggered and fell limply to the bottom of the boat.

Popeye brought home a nice string of whales that night.

Students May Ban Public Petting — Dorothy Dix — Girls Getting New Ideas

DEAR MISS DIX—Girls are always asking you how they can get a husband and why men are so much less inclined to marry nowadays than they were in the past. I can give them one reason. It is because girls have discarded so many of the little refinements that made them desirable to men. For instance: Recently in a crowded restaurant I was seated opposite a young girl. As soon as she was through her meal she got out something that I believe they call "a pack" and commenced grooming her face, eyebrows and lips and combing her hair. This operation took five minutes, after which she stored away her tools and pulled out a package of cigarettes and began blowing smoke in my face. Such conduct is, of course, common among young girls, but it shows a total absence of good manners and consideration for others; of delicacy of feeling and everything that a young man would wish for in his wife. Hence the increase in bachelors.

JOHN B. de C.

Answer:

Your experience is a common one, for you cannot nowadays go into any restaurant without observing a dozen women making up their faces and flavoring the food of those about them with stray hairs and dandruff as they comb out their curls or reset their water waves.

The sight would be repulsive if it were not so amusing. After these ladies who make their toilets in public have painted fresh roses on their cheeks, and applied another coat of calcimine and daubed more rouge on their lips, an expression of complete self-satisfaction and admiration steals over their countenances as if they said to themselves: "Here, is the perfect exemplification of feminine pulchritude. If you want to see Miss America look at me."

Surely the artist is worthy of her hire and we should not begrudge even the hairs in our soup to the fellow citizen who has got so much joy in doing up her face and feeling that she has made herself irresistible to all beholders. But, like you, I do find it disenchanting. I wish that they would do it in private; that some genius would invent a complexion that would stay on, and that was weatherproof and kissproof.

No doubt the modern generation of young men to whom none of the defects of the feminine person are hidden, take a girl's making up her face in public as a matter of course, but, nevertheless, it is a great mistake on the girl's part, because it is such a complete giveaway. It reveals her trade secret. It doesn't leave a man guessing at whether a girl's bloom of youth comes out of a bottle or by nature, and whether her golden locks are the gift of God or are only hers by right of purchase. He has seen her do her transformation act and while that may be honest, it isn't good business for the girl.

Once upon a time I heard some men of the world discussing what was subtlety in a woman. One of them said that it consisted in a man being married to a woman for twenty years without ever finding out if her teeth were her own or not. That idea still holds, in spite of all the practicality of today. Men are still fascinated by the things they don't know about women. They still like women to be mysterious and women make a fatal mistake when they throw away their forty veils of illusion.

Girls today are just as good-looking as they ever were. They are far better educated and more intelligent and interesting as companions, but there is no denying that they are less attractive to men. They have fewer dates and find it harder to get married. The reason is, I think, because they have made themselves too familiar to men, they have become too commonplace and unromantic. They have become chums instead of Lady Loves.

Men used to risk their lives climbing up to a lady's tower. Now they pass by her door though it is wide open and "welcome" is on the mat. Men used to beg a girl for a kiss, but now kissing has become a chore when every girl's lips are a free lunch counter. Men used to marry girls because it was the only way they could have their society. But now when they work with them and play with them all day they are fed up with their company and see no reason for assuming their board bills and shopping tickets. Which, after all, is the price women pay for being men's equals and the privilege of performing their toilet rites in public.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a daughter who will soon be 19. In June she and another girl ran off with two boys and had a double wedding and kept it a secret for several weeks. It nearly killed me, but I made the best of it. However, the boy couldn't support her and in six weeks she came back to me. Now she is in love with another boy. He hasn't a job and is a no-account, but she is crazy about him and insists on marrying him, though he can't even take care of himself. What can I do about it? WORRIED MOTHER.

Answer:

Your daughter seems to have a marrying complex, but I don't see how she can marry two lads in less than six months. The law isn't very sympathetic with love's young dream and makes committing bigamy quite unpleasant for those who indulge in it.

Of course, what's the matter with the girl is that she is too young to know her own mind and so she has crushes on every boy who comes along. It is a common phase of adolescence and as long as the girls have sense enough to realize that they are just playing at being in love it is a harmless diversion, but it is a tragedy when they rush into marriage.

The only thing you can do is to take your girl's mind off of boys, if such a thing is possible. Try to get her interested in some work, and at least have her taught some trade by which she can support herself in the intervals of being married and divorced. That will help you out some at any rate.

DEAR MISS DIX—What can I do with a wife who insists upon doing everything contrary to my wishes?

A HUSBAND.

Answer:

Take the opposite point of view. If she thinks she is spiting you she will do your way. Anything to be disagreeable.

For Wednesday, January 5.

A steadying influence pervades the astral atmosphere on this day. There is a prospect of resurrecting old, lagging matters and associations, and putting finances and possessions on a solid basis.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which there may be much definite headway in putting the fortunes on a firm foundation. This will come through intervention of friends and stirring up of stagnant business or the advanced values of old investments securities or property.

A child born on this day may be deep, studious, serious, trustworthy and ambitious, and should make a definite place for itself in business and in its private life, despite some vicissitudes.

Killed By Crash

These three Cuban fliers, making a goodwill Pan-American flight to raise funds for a statue to Christopher Columbus, were killed when their machines crashed on a mountainside during an electrical storm on a hop from Cali, Colombia to Panama. A fourth machine, from the Dominican Republic, made Panama safely after seeing the tragic end of its three companions. The fliers TOP to BOTTOM are Lt. Menendez, Lt. Jiminez and Lt. Basarrate.

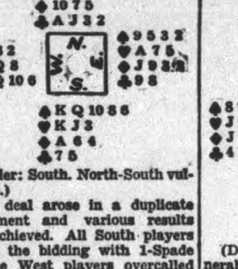
"The Authority on Authorities"

IT MAY NOT WORK

THIS BUSINESS of passing an opponent's overcall to lure him on toward a still higher contract, which can be heavily punished, is very nice when it works. But sometimes it doesn't, and your own failure to show strength causes your partner to drop the bidding without giving you another chance. If a game goes astray because of such a move, the perpetrator of it cannot help looking plenty silly to the others, regardless of whether he feels that way or still thinks he is smart.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

This deal arose in a duplicate tournament and various results were achieved. All South players started the bidding with 1-Spade and the West players overcalled with 2-Clubs. From that point on the bidding varied.

At one table North passed the 2-Clubs bid to await further action and, as East also passed, South decided to pass too. Being vulnerable and North being unable to take any part in the bidding, South feared further bidding might get him into trouble.

At another table the North player bid 2-Hearts over West's overcall, South 2-Spades, North 2-No Trumps, South 3-Spades and North 4-Spades, which was made.

Another pair reached 3-No Trumps by North doubling the overcall, South bidding 2-No Trumps, North 3-Hearts, South 3-Spades and North 3-No Trumps. This contract was also made.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY ON TIME

"Whee!" cried Baby Bunty, laughing with glee as she sat on the ice cake sled sliding down the snow hill with Uncle Wiggily.

"Whee! Aren't we going fast, Uncle Wig?"

"Not any too fast," said the rabbit gentleman and by looking over her left shoulder (for she was sitting in front of the rabbit gentleman) Baby Bunty could see him looking at his watch again.

"Are we in a hurry, Unkie Wig?" asked Baby Bunty.

"We are in a great hurry," said Mr. Longears. "That's why we are coasting down the snow hill so fast, Bunty."

"Are there any Bad Chaps chasing us?" asked the little orphan rabbit. She tried to look behind her but she could see nothing for Mr. Longears was in the way. "Are there any Bad Chaps, Unkie Wig?"

Instead of answering the bunny gentleman exclaimed:

"Hold fast, Bunty! We are coming to a bumpity umpity place!"

Up and Down

Surely enough, just then, the slab of ice with a snow cushion, which Mr. Longears and Baby Bunty were using for a sled, reached a little bump on the hill. Up bounced the sled. Up bounced the orphan rabbit and up bounced Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh! Oh!" gasped Baby Bunty.

"Hold fast!" warned Mr. Longears. Down bumped the sled.

Down bumped Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty.

"Thank goodness it isn't cracked!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"Do you mean the window on your watch?" asked Bunty.

"No, Bunty," answered Uncle Wiggily, "I mean our thin ice sled. I am glad it didn't crack when we bounded up and down."

"Oh, then I'm glad, too," said Bunty. "But we are going faster, Unkie Wig."

"We need to," said the rabbit gentleman. "We shall hardly be on time as it is."

"On time for what?" Bunty wanted to know. "Do you mean on time to meet some of the Bad Chaps, Unkie Wig? If they aren't behind us they must be in front of us. Are you going to meet them?"

"I hope not," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Then do you want to be on time for an adventure?" asked Bunty.

Instead of answering her Uncle Wiggily looked at his watch again and said:

"I think we shall be there on time. Hold fast again, Bunty, we are coming to the steepest part of the hill."

"Whizz! Whee! Whum!" cried the orphan rabbit.

Just in Time

Faster and faster the cake of ice sled slid downhill. Then, all of a sudden, Bunty cried:

"Look! There is the Hollow Stump School—my school, Unkie Wig."

"I see it," said Uncle Wiggily. He steered for the front door.

The ice sled bumped into the door, the ice cracked all to pieces and off tumbled the two rabbits into the snow.

"But never mind that, Bunty!" laughed Mr. Longears as he shook some snow out of his ears. "I got you here on time, Bunty."

"In time for what?" asked the orphan rabbit as Mr. Longears showed her it was just 9 o'clock by his watch.

"In time for school so you won't be late, Bunty."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the orphan rabbit. "So that's why you were in such a hurry? But you needn't have been. This is still the Christmas holidays, and there is no school. Ha! Ha!"

"Oh, bless my pink nose!" said Mr. Longears. And if the tennis racket doesn't wham the rubber doll around like a ball, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's apple.

SALLY'S SALLIES

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—Just saw the preview of "Love and Hisses," and the studio didn't exaggerate—Simone Simon can sing better than most movie stars. She'd be even more effective, though if they'd let her stick to the lower registers. And they probably will, now that they have showed off her voice and proved she can reach for them if she has to.

"Love and Hisses" is, of course, the Winchell-Bernie picture, and they are both good. So is Dick Baldwin, as Simone's rancher-sweetheart from Boise. At the preview Baldwin went into the theatre unnoticed but was swamped by fans as he came out. He's tall, dark and handsome.

How many youngsters would like to trade places with 15-year-old Anne Hanes who flew all the way from Winston-Salem, N.C., to Hollywood to attend the premiere of Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs"? Anne is the daughter of Robert M. Hanes, one of the most prominent bankers in North Carolina and, during her three day stay here, she was shown the town by prominent Los Angeles bankers. An aeroplane took her home just in time for Christmas.

Wayne Morris has bought a diamond ring for Priscilla Lane, which was all that was lacking to make their engagement official. Although the two kids talk sensibly to interviewers about the importance of their careers, Hollywood wouldn't be surprised to see them elope any week-end.

A shot in this picture shows a theatre marquee flashing an advertisement for Twentieth Century-Fox's "Sally, Irene and Mary." If memory serves, this is the first time the stunt has been used to exploit a picture still in production. Looks like the fine hand of Harry Brand, Zanuck's publicity head.

Those two comets of romance, Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor, are celebrating their reunion by transporting Barbara's racing stable from her ranch to Santa Anita. The star will have 11 horses running under her colors this year. She and Taylor are moving them to their new quarters in a swank trailer.

In spite of all the rumors, Dixie Dunbar insists she won't be married until she is 25. Which will be Jan. 18, 1943 . . . When and if the right man comes along, however, the star says she'll quit the screen and raise a family. "I want a half dozen kids," she says. . . . Might as well settle another rumor here. Franchot Tone is off for the east to join Joan Crawford. Intimates say they were never happier. . . . As waiters and patrons looked on amazed, Raoul Walsh and Lew Gensler ate four steaks at Dave Chasen's the other night. . . . Don't know any othes girl in Hollywood who has as many boy friends as Patricia Wilder. It was John King, whose arm she clung to at Clara Bow's "It" cafe.

Nearest thing to Aladdin's lamp is the prop department at a Hollywood studio. In "Food for Scandal," Fernand Gravet is supposed to serve Ralph Bellamy a steaming dish of snails. Now the California snail is smaller than the French variety, so what happened. So the prop department cabled Prunier's restaurant in Paris. Three dozen snails were rushed aboard the Queen Mary and, after the liner docked in New York, were shipped air express to Hollywood.

Quickies . . . Charlies Chaplin's son played tackle on the midget team of the Black-Fox military here and Paul Whiteman, Jr., also was on the squad . . . Basil Rathbone's son, Rodion ,has taken a tumble for Wendy Barrie . . . The Rathbone party was quite an affair . . . Norma Shearer, wearing white, was there with David Niven and Loretta Young with Caesar Romero . . . This will fit a few Hollywood eyebrows. Margot Grahame is reported to be signed up to write a fashion column in the Beaverbrook papers in England after the first of the year . . . Becky Bayer, R-K-O starlet, is the aspirin for Drew Eberson's headache . . . Anita Louise will be squired by Buddy Adler when she is guest of honor at the Biltmore Bowl . . . And Patricia Wilder, who didn't go east in time to see Wesley Ruggles off, is giving a party for 30 of Hollywood's younger set, at which all guests are to bring Christmas baskets to give to the poor.

Don't be surprised if Paula Stone and George Mason marry in spite of all their denials . . . Now that he's turned director, Buster Keaton's name will appear on the screen credits list as Joseph B. Keaton. . . . A Minneapolis gown shop offered to furnish Virginia Bruce a free trousseau, for the advertising value. . . . A Sunset boulevard restaurant keeps two cuts of New York meat in stock just to serve to Louis B. Mayer and his guests. . . . Harold Lloyd brought the family Christmas tree home from Kernville. He had to get permission from the forest rangers to do it. . . . And Luise Rainer is happy because Clifford Odets is flying to the coast.

Continued kindness of William Powell to Jean Harlow's mother wins the admiration of the film colony. Mrs. Bello is now on an extended trip to try and pick up the pieces of her life. Few know it, but her holiday is a gift of Powell. She left Hollywood planning to visit New Orleans, Havana and New York. "Go anywhere you like and stay as long as you want." Powell told her.

Arrival of Roger Pryor here, Jan. 4, doesn't mean that Hollywood will see much of Ann Sothern's band-leader husband. Pryor goes into the hospital immediately for a major operation and won't be out until just before his band opens in San Francisco on the 20th. A party of about 50 celebrities are planning the trip north to attend his premiere.

No annual award exists for animal actors, but Humphrey Bogart plans belated recognition. He's appealing to you fans to pick the best animal actor of the year and, when your choice is known, he'll present a bronze statuette to the winner.

We cast our vote right now for Asta, the wire-haired in "The Awful Truth." That is, unless Walt Disney's cartoon animals in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" could be considered eligible.

Hollywood has no kinder couple than the Basil Rathbones. They are a second father and mother to the little son of Richard Boleslawski, whose untimely death was a blow to the film colony. The Rathbones have taken the director's widow, Norma Drury, under their wing. And, for Baby Jan's Christmas, they bought an electric train that would make any little boy's eyes pop out.

The Gable fan club of Winnipeg show an astonishing disregard of the star's waistline. For Christmas, they sent him a crate of home made sweets, one gift from each member of the club.

There are 1,000 members, so figure it out for yourself.

In Toronto, Joan Bennett sent Daughter Melinda to Canada's famous child psychologist, Dr. A. N. Blotz. The result must have been a jolt. For the doctor, a consultant in bringing up of the Dionne quintuplets, discovered that Melinda is too well mannered. Liable to develop complexes from it.

Consequently, while Joan is completing her tour in "Stage Door," Melinda goes to a private school to be de-mannered.

The avalanche of criticism directed against the Mae West broadcast has scared Hollywood and has inspired a new zeal in the avoidance of offending religious beliefs. For instance, at R-K-O, we heard Irene Dunne question a sequence in the "Joy of Loving" script that calls for her to visit an amusement park on Sunday. The adapters argued that it was the only time the heroine, an overworked stage and radio star, would be free for such an excursion.

Marlene Dietrich and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are again a twosome, although he now enjoys no monopoly. Everyone comments on the gayety of the once masklike Marlene since her return from Europe. . . . Few saw the little comedy that marked the arrival of Paulette Goddard and Charlie Chaplin at the premiere of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." Alert theater employes discovered that a process server was lying in wait for Chaplin. They tipped the comedian, so Paulette walked down the aisle of fans alone, while Charlie slipped in the back door. . . . Shirley Temple gave the photographers a natural at the premiere. As soon as she sighted the seven dwarfs in the forecourt, she broke free and ran to play with them. Flash globes banged by the dozen. . . . The baby daughter of radio favorite James Wallington is to be christened at the Wee Kirk of the Heather, Forest Lawn, and in water brought from the Jordan river. Cantor, Deanna Durbin and others from the air show will be in attendance.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.—(CP) — Color cameras threaten to take the bloom off the lovely lilies of the screen.

Cosemetician Max Factor explained that's because light strains instead of heavy greasepaint are an absolute necessity with color films. And the lighter strains won't cover facial blemishes.

"It's becoming harder than ever to disguise the effects of outdoor exercise—sunburn and windburn," Factor said. Myrna Loy, an ardent gardener who freckles easily when she yields to the trowelling urge, is going to have trouble.

Special repaint jobs are necessary after Preston Foster returns from yachting with his hands showing wear and tear and Ginger Rogers frolics with her exuberant dogs.

Salt-water bathing and relaxing on the beach roughen movie stars' skins and cause peeling noses. Hair also is liable to bleach in the sun. "Outdoor recreation may be pleasant for some people," Factor declared, "but it's going to bring our film colony nothing but grief."

It's a seven-day wonder at M.G.M. that Myrna Loy is occupying the Garbo dressing room while her own is being redecorated. The Swedish star made the offer herself before leaving Hollywood. And she capped the gesture by having a bouquet of white roses delivered to Myrna on her first day of occupancy. Accompanying the flowers was a note hoping that Myrna would be comfortable in her borrowed quarters.

Isn't this the first time Katharine Hepburn has remained on the coast through the holidays? She's pulling out directly afterwards for a two-month vacation. Hollywood won't see her again until she reports to R-K-O for "The Mad Miss Manton".

Meanwhile, the question of whether the star is or is not married to Howard Hughes still is being argued over the tea-tables and the cocktail bars of the film colony.

Odd accident suffered by Porter Hall. In the new Bulldog Drummond thriller, he is supposed to uncurl a blacksnake whip and knock a rapier from the hand of John Howard. When they went to take it, the whip caught on a pair of antlers on the wall and socked Hall instead of Howard, knocking him so goofy they had to send him home for the day.

Two starlets are not speaking following the Al Vanderbilt cocktail party which started at 5 p.m. and went on until the wee hours. . . . Roger Pryor leased a private tire from Texas to Hollywood, so he could serenade Ann Sothern on Christmas and New eYar's Eve. . . June Lang and A. C. Blumenthal probably thought the lights were dim enough to hide that kiss they stole at the Cafe Lamaze the other night. . . . The marriage of Jayne Regan, St. Louis beauty, to Jerry Gose, Twentieth Century-Fox production manager, took Hollywood by surprise. Stafford Lambert was thought to be in favor.

The talk of Hollywood is the marksmanship of Howard Hill, the archery expert. He has been doing the fancy shots for "The Adventures of Robin Hood". He had to send an arrow to the steel breastplate of a moving horseman. Cowboy-actor Benny Corbett took the chance and Hill, after practicing the stunt 15 times with a dummy on a horse, scored a clean hit. The shaft came so fast it knocked Corbett out of the saddle.

FLIES KITE HIGH

LONDON—(CP)—Len Harvey has thrown down the gauntlet to the extent of $10,000 to any "big" British heavyweight boxed for another try at Tommy Farr's Empire title. Farr and Jack Doyle did not bite, so he made it an open offer.

To Try Comeback

There's gold in them there chains that Gloria Swanson wears about her neck with so much elan. Glorious Gloria was pictured as she arrived in Hollywood for a conference with movie executives in connection with a new picture in which she is to be starred as the first step on the "comeback" trail.

Comedian Marries For Second Time

Comedian Stan Laurel with his new wife, the former Illeana, Russian singer, are shown (ABOVE) upon their arrival in Los Angeles after their marriage. The couple were wed in Yuma, Arizona, a day after Laurel received a final decree from his first wife, Virginia. The first Mrs. Laurel hastened to Yuma and registered at the same hotel where Laurel and his bride were staying. It is said that she questioned validity of Laurel's final decree.

Lauder Entertains

Sir Harry Lauder, famed Scottish humorist, is official host at the Old Folks party in the town hall at Ruthergien, Glasgow, Scotland, and his face and that of his guest is wreathed in smiles as he pours the tea. Sir Harry sang several of his most popular songs to entertain the visitors.

Premiere Glamor

Glamours Marlene Dietrich and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are shown as they arrived together for a recent Hollywood premiere. The preview was of the Walt Disney masterpiece, "Snowwhite and the Seven Dwarfs," and it drew an audience comprised of the film colony's most noted socialites.

Most Canadians Are Smoking Cigars Of Five-Cent Category

Importation Of "Smokes" Into Canada Drop Several Millions

OTTAWA, Jan. 4. — Importation of cigars into Canada has dropped from 13,000,000 in 1913 to a meagre 300,000 last year, according to representations made to the Government by William Goldstein and Company, Toronto. To ascertain the reason for this drop the Government has instructed the Tariff Board to probe the whole matter of cigar taxation.

Hearings will be held shortly the Board thus undertaking a new duty which is not solely connected with tariffs. In the cigar inquiry it will investigate the whole field of taxation affecting that commodity—customs and excise duties and excise taxes. The Board's authority for this is derived from section .c r of the Tariff Board Act which empowers it to enquire into "any other matter or thing referred to it by the Governor-in-Council in relation to the trade and commerce of Canada.

Claim Taxes Out of Line

In a letter to Finance Minister Dunning, the company emphasizes that 85 per cent. of the domestic cigars smoked in this country are within the 5-cent category.

"It seems that the scale of duty and excise is entirely out of line with what it should be, thereby reducing both consumption and revenue," says the letter to the Minister.

"The fact of the matter is that if a man pays more than five cents for a cigar he gets poor value as compared with what he gets in other countries, and more especially in the United States."

Notices of the hearing are being mailed to the interested parties, together with the representations of the applicant campany.

Canadian-made cigars pay an excise duty of $3 a thousand and an excise tax graded from 50 cents to $16 a thousand.

Imported cigars pay a duty of $3.90 a pound plus 25 per cent. ad valorem.

Rates on Cigarettes.

In 1932, the Government reduced the excise tax on Canadian made cigarettes from $6 to $4 a thousand with the result collections today are higher than before. The consumption of cigarettes increased to such an extent, the decrease in excise rates was nullified.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 4. — The annual congregational meeting of the United Church was held in the church hall on Tuesday evening, following a pot-luck supper prepared by the ladies. The minister, Rev. E. M. Cook, presided over one of the most encouraging meetings held in many years.

Fred Barnard, superintendent of the Sunday School, reported all departments of the school fully functioning. The school was in excellent standing financially, with sufficient funds to purchase the ensuing year's suppy of lesson helps, papers, etc. Over $20 was subscribed from the Sunday School for the M. and M. Fund of the church. Special mention was made of the officers of the past year who were retiring from their respective duties.

The Women's Association reported receipts for the year 1937 as $264, the expenses $200, leaving a substantial balance on hand. The report was read by Mr. Cook in the absence of the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. C. Jewison.

The treasurer, Miss Jean Dawson, reported the net receipts for the church for 1937 as $750. The church insurance, wood and material for the ensuing year was already paid for and the only outstanding debts was $37 to the minister's salary before the books could be closed.

BLIZZARD FAILS TO STOP SERVICE IN APSLEY CHURCH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Jan. 4.—The watch-night service at St. George's church on New Year's eve, was well attended in spite of the snow storm which was raging at the time in zero temperature. The Rev. F. C. McMulkin conducted the service, the lesson being read by the Rev. R. M. McMullin, the minister of the United Church. Mr. McMulkin's New Year message was based on St. Paul's words, "Reaching forth unto those things that are before," stressing three important factors in the Christian life, the ability to forget, the ability to concentrate, and the ability to persist.

On Tuesday evening in the United Church to a fair sized audience the Rev. Mr. Kelly of Lakefield, gave a delightful rendering of "Dicken's Christmas Carol", which was received with much appreciation.

The Women's Guild of St. George's Church held a supper and dance in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening which was well patronized, proceeds amounting to about $25.00. The brothers Leahy supplied the music for the dance after which refreshments were served.

Mutiny, Murder Revealed As Yacht Towed To Port

DWIGHT W. FAULDING

A bizarre tale of mutiny and murder on the high seas was unfolded to coastguards and police when the trim schooner-yacht Afje (shown here), was towed into Los Angeles by coast guard cutters after drifting helplessly for days without fuel or water. The owner and skipper, Dwight W. Faulding, Santa Barbara hotel owner, was shot dead and his bullet riddled body dumped overboard by Jack Morgan, a houseboy turned pirate, according to stories told by the six survivors who also recounted how Morgan was later slugged and tossed into the sea by two members of the crew whom he tried to rule at revolver point. The yacht was disabled and drifted aimlessly for eight days off the California coast until sighted by U.S. navy aeroplanes.

BILLION NEEDED TO BOLSTER U.S. DEFENCES IN '38

More May Be Required Roosevelt Announces

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP).—A $1,000,000,000 fund for national defence formed a major part of the 1938 budget President Roosevelt transmitted to the United States Congress to-day. It will be the largest sum spent on the military establishments in peace-time.

Mr. Roosevelt called for army and Navy appropriations 98 per cent higher than those of the budget five years removed—1934.

Moreover, he told Congress, "I may find it necessary to request additional appropriations for national defence."

Declaring he was influenced by "world conditions over which this nation has no control," and "future events which to-day cannot definitely be foretold," the President recommended allotting to the national defence $991,300,000.

The Navy was given $569,827,400, the Army $418,479,000; total $988,623,400. Some more money in an emergency fund brought the figure to $991,300,000. The increase to the Navy was appreciably more than that to the army.

Significant of the times was provision made for strengthening defences in continental United States, in Panama and Hawaii.

No mention was made of the Island of Guam, fortification of which was forbidden under the nine-power treaty now denounced by Japan.

During the fiscal year 1939, beginning July 1 of this year, two battleships, two light cruisers, eight destroyers, six submarines and four auxiliary vesels are to be built.

Increases to the Army provided principally for augmenting the personnel of the regular army, National Guard and reserve.

FAMILY LIVE NUDE IN CANYON CAVERN RULED BY MANIAC

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (A.P.). — Search for a 38-year-old man accused of making his family live like animals in a cave for four months extended to-day into San Gabriel Canyon, 30 miles north of here.

Armed with an insanity warrant, sheriff's deputies sought Mark Silverman, to whom his sister-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Silverman, ascribed hypnotic power.

She allowed in an affidavit that if she undertook to send her brother-in-law to a nasylum, he would exert a hypnosis which might induce her husband, Michael Silverman, to kill their two children.

Four months ago, she said, Mark Silverman visited his mother's home, burned furniture and clothing, then forced the mother, Mrs. Rebecca Silverman, his brother Joseph 23, and another sister-in-law, Mrs. Becky Silverman, 19, to accompany him into San Gabriel Canyon.

In the rugged mountain country, almost within earshot of the town of Azusa, Mrs. Silverman asserted her brother-in-law and his captive family "lived like animals."

She said Silverman proclaimed it was sinful to wear clothes, forced his family to go nude and sleep on bare rocks, refused to let them eat nourishing food and contually harrangued that the end of the world would come on Christmas Eve.

Assessment Appeals Are Dismissed

Court of Revision Did Not Have Jurisdiction To Deal With Appeals of Hon. G. N. Gordon

In a judgment given Tuesday afternoon Judge Smoke confirmed the decision of the Court of Revision that it did not have jurisdiction to deal with the appeals by Alderman Gordon against the bylaws, passed by the ratepayers, fixing the assessments of the De Laval Company and the Canadian Raybestos Company. His Honour dismissed the appeals without costs.

Judge Smoke states that "if there was no jurisdiction in this (his own) Court", and he further observes that it was not laid down as a principle of law that the propriety of passing a bylaw could be brought in question before a tribunal such as the Court of Revision which in many instances was composed of laymen when the Municipal Act provided a simple procedure of determining such questions, and that right of appeal must be exercised within one year.

Mr. Gordon conducted his own case in the hearing of the appeals, F. D. Kerr, K.C., represented the De Laval Co; J. F. Strickland, K.C., the Raybestos Company, and City Solicitor John R. Corkery was present with instructions from the council to defend the validity of the two by-laws.

The complete text of Judge Smoke's decision follows:

"The appellant appeals to this court from the decision of the Court of Revision on the ground that the Court of Revision was wrong in failing to find that By-laws Numbers 3053 and 3054 granting to the De Laval Company Limited and the Canadian Raybestos Company, Limited, fixed assessments, were not renewals of fixed assessments and therefore that they are not operative and binding upon the assessor of the municipality.

Counsel for the municipality argues that there is no jurisdiction in the Court to determine the matter, and counsel for all parties argue that the by-laws are not renewals of fixed assessments, while counsel for the two companies argue that the appellant is estopped from denying the validity of the by-laws and that no right exists after the expiration of one year from the passing of the respective by-laws to attack them either by mo-

Stolen Bank Guns Used In Murder

MONTREAL, Jan. 5.— (CP).—Georges Dagenais, 20, and Maurice Guilbord, 16, wehe held by a coroner's jury to-day to have been criminally responsible for the slaying of Joseph Benoit, middle-aged tobacco merchant shot to death in view of his son when he frustrated a robbery in his shop last Dec. 23.

The youths were asked by Crown Prosecutor Ivan Sabourin where they had obtained the guns found when the lads were arrested last week.

"I stole them," Guilbord said. "I stole them in a bank several months ago. It was like this, I went out to rob a store one night but fell into a bank. The only things there were the guns so I took them."

The five-day week is being inaugurated in Capetown, South Africa.

37 Treated For Broken Limbs, Burns, Bruises, Gashes After Mad Rush For Exits

PAWTUCKET, R.I., Jan. 5 (AP). — Two hundred persons, mostly women, saved by spectacular rescue work, described today the horror of a fire that trapped them during a Beano party last night in the British-American Hall.

Thirty-seven, nine injured seriously, were treated for broken limbs, burns, bruises and gashes. Scores of others received first aid.

The blaze—its origin still undetermined—broke out in the cellar and first floor of the hall, in the heart of the Pawtucket business district. Deputy Fire Chief William Connolly estimated damage at $25,000

Firemen carried about 100 persons down ladders. Eight jumped from second storey windows, fearful they would be pushed out. Others were tumbled downstairs by the rush for exits.

FERRY SERVICE STOPS

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Jan. 4. — (CP).—Due to the quantity of ice formed in the St. Lawrence, ferry communication between Brockville and Morristown, N.Y., ceased for the season last night. The winter ferry, making use of a punt specially designed for use in ice floes, went into commission to-day.

6-Hour Hunt Finds Doctor Who Takes Pin From Tot's Throat In 6 Minutes

Windsor, Jan. 5 (CP)

WHEN Darlene Hogue, seven months old, cried incessantly yesterday, her mother, Mrs. Lawrence Hogue, felt sure she had swallowed something. Today the baby was recovering in a Detroit hospital after an operation for the removal of a safety pin from her throat.

The parents, after six hours of searching, located a Detroit physician, Dr. William A. Hudson, who specializes in removing foreign objects from the throat. An X-ray verified the mother's suspicions the child had swallowed something and six minutes later Dr. Hudson had removed the pin.

There was delay while Mrs. Hogue located her husband and further delays when the couple motoring to the hospital lost themselves several times. When they reached Detroit Receiving Hospital, Dr. Hudson had been called to another hospital for two similar operations. But he soon returned to the Receiving Hospital.

WIDOW DEMANDS CHAIR FOR 2 GIRLS WHO SHOT SPOUSE

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 5 (AP).—A widow steeled herself today to face two girls held on murder charges in the $2.10 holdup slaying of her bus driver husband.

She demanded the electric chair for both — mannish Mrs. Ethel Strouse Sohl, 20-year-old daughter of a Newark radio policeman, and wife of a reformatory prisoner; and movie-struck Genevieve Owens, 17, Ethel's chum since they met in the House of Detention.

"I want to see for myself what kind of girls could do such a thing," said Mrs. Theresa Barhorst of Totowa, whose husband, William, was shot to death and robbed on December 21 in Belleville as he neared the end of his bus run.

Joseph Cocozza, acting captain of prosecutor's detectives who cracked the case, said the girls, partners in a series of holdups, robbed "for the fun of it," and not for the money they took.

U.S. BUDGET SENDS DEBT TO NEW HIGH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — President Roosevelt sent the United States Congress a budget message today which projected new billion-dollar treasury deficits and a new public debt peak despite estimates of lesser spending.

His forecast for the 1939 fiscal year contemplated a $539,000,000 cut in government outlays—"the most important fact of this budget," Mr. Roosevelt said—but conditioned the reduction on an upturn in business and national defence requirements.

The president's big volume of budget figures estimated a net deficit of $1,088,129,600 for the current fiscal year and $949,606,000 for the next 12 months which he noted would be successive declines. The public debt, he said, would reach a $38,526,200,000 high on June 30, 1939.

In addition, Mr. Roosevelt left the treasury's doors ajar to the possibility of more spending for human relief and for armaments "due to world conditions over which this nation has no control."

The continued deficit was attributed to a sharp drop in expected revenue because of the business recession. Mr. Roosevelt acknowledged that for the first time since he Says Plan of Mandatory Jail Terms for Drinkers Will Get Full Consideration of His Government

TORONTO, Jan. 5—(CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn said today he favored mandatory jail sentences for drunken drivers. A proposal to make them so will receive the full consideration of his government, he said.

"Any person driving a car under the influence of liquor should go to jail," he said, pointing out many magistrates did impose jail terms on first offenders. The premier did not favor mandatory jail sentences in reckless driving first offences.

"In view of the various degrees of recklessness, the magistrate should have some discretion, but I repeat that any person driving a car under the influence of liquor should go to jail," said Mr. Hepburn.

The premier said he could not commit the government to legislation to make jail terms mandatory as consideration would have to be given by the attorney-general's department to such a step.

SALESMAN ROBBED

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—(CP)—Bruised and bleeding, his face badly battered, Tudo O. Roberts, 44, dragged himself into a waterfront office early today. Later at hospital he told detectives he had been beaten by three thugs who drove him for hours about the city and robbed him of $4, wrist watch and fountain pen.

Roberts, Toronto salesman for a Hamilton firm, said he went to a house with two men he met in a beverage room, leaving the house, he climbed into his car. Three men got in and started to punch him. They tossed him into the back seat and drove away.

$150,000 BLAZE SWEEPS FACTORY AT FORT WILLIAM

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Jan. 5. —(CP).—Preceded by several violent explosions that shattered windows for blocks, fire partially destroyed the plant of the Northern Engineering and Supply Company early to-day.

Firemen battled the blaze in bitter cold that touched 22 degrees below zero while frantic tenants of adjacent blocks, hurrying to the streets in night attire, were given shelter in nearby hotels.

Destruction of the warehouse and a large stock of heavy hardware and plumbing supplies, will bring the loss to about $150,000, it was announced.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. It was believed a steam boiler exploded. A series of blasts that followed probably originated among acetylene tanks stored in the warehouse, said the owners.

Within a few hundred feet of the plant at the time of the first blast was James Croll, janitor.

"I had just alighted from a main line street car," he said. "Suddenly the neighborhood seemed to shake as a piercing explosion took place.

ARRESTS SOLVE FOILED KIDNAP OF LAD, NURSE

Chance Police Pick-Up Results in Confession

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 5 (AP) — Two unemployed carpenters who bungled the $3,800 Christmas Eve kidnapping of four persons at Centerville, Ind., were behind bars today, State Police Superintendent Don Stiver said, because of the sharp eyes of three state policemen.

Stiver stated the carpenters—William Chester Marcum, 30, New Castle, Ind., and Harry C. Walter, 52, Muncie, Ind.—had signed confessions and admitted planning the crime "to get money to live on."

He said the men would be charged with kidnapping. Conviction would bring death in the electric chair, or life imprisonment.

State Detectives Ernest Richardson and Fred Fosler and Patrolman William Pickering "broke" the case yesterday while enroute to Muncie to make a "routine" arrest. Two miles south of that city they spotted an automobile of the make used by the kidnappers. They halted the car and shot a barrage of questions at the driver, Marcum. They said he admitted his part in the crime.

Nurse Identifies Prisoner

The officers rushed Marcum to Centerville, where they said Miss Norma Schroy, 17-year-old nurse and one of the four kindnap victims, exclaimed, "Yes, that's him."

Marcum then outlined the crime, Richardson said, and implicated Walter, arrested last night at his home in Muncie.

The kidnappers, threatening to "kill everyone," broke into the home of John L. Bryan, Sr., Centerville banker, late Christmas Eve. One gunman shoved three-year-old John Bryan, Jr., and Miss Schroy into an automobile. The other abductor ordered Mrs. Bryan and Julian Dunbar, grocery operator, into a second car.

Mrs. Bryan and Dunbar were released at New Lisbon, Ind., near Centerville. The nurse and the child were freed later at Greens Fork, in northern Wayne County. None was harmed.

PRISONER ADMITS MURDERING GIRL

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 5.—(AP) —The fugitive trail of Wendell Forrest Bowers, sought since December 13 in connection with the slaying of an attractive widow, was ended here today.

The 23-year-old youth, the federal bureau of investigation announced last night, confessed killing Mrs. Wilma V. Carpenter, 38, in her Philadelphia home.

Bowers, arrested here December 20 on a vagrancy charge, faces arraignment today before U.S. Commissioner Ray Kirchdorfer on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution on a murder charge against him in Pennsylvania.

Bowers in addition to the Pennsylvania and federal charges is being held under $2,500 bond on local charges of storehouse breaking, petty larceny and vagrancy.

Mrs. Carpenter was killed attempting to aid a friend, Miss Mary Griffin, 22, beauty shop operator, when they were attacked by an intruder.

Bowers confession, as announced by the federal bureau, said that after shooting Mrs. Carpenter and slugging Miss Griffin unconscious he attempted to assault the younger woman.

Invaders Impress Coolies To Help In 9-Day Looting Orgy At Hangchow

HANGCHOW, Jan. 1 (By Courier to Shanghai, Jan. 5 (AP).—After nine days of looting, disorder and fear, Japanese military police today had succeeded in restoring a measure of peace and order and reassuring the terrified population of this capital of Chekiang Province, southwest of Shanghai.

(The Japanese army announced capture of Hangchow December 24).

Residences of foreigners were among buildings looted in spite of the display of foreign flags and notices forbidding entry posted by the Japanese military.

Japanese soldiers and Chinese both took part in the looting. This correspondent personally witnessed many instances and was told of others by foreign missionaries who had seen them.

Great Street, the chief thoroughfare, hardly has a shop that has not been smashed open and looted. Japanese were seen carrying off property in motor trucks and on horses or donkeys. Chinese coolies were impressed to help.

There were no wholesale executions here such as marked the Japanese

Police Watch Robbers At Work, Fire 7 Shots, Then Grab Them

Prisoner Collapses When Told Vault He Thought Held $12,000 Was Empty

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (C.P.). — Police, tipped off a robbery was planned, watched two men hack at the vault in the Mutual Street Arena, early to-day. Four police fired seven shots into the air before they arrested Paul Gadway, 24, and Thomas McGrath, 27, both of Toronto, and charged them with shopbreaking, having burglars' tools, and attempted safe-cracking.

Gadway collapsed, police said, when he was told the vault was empty. He had previously said he expected to find about $12,000 there. It was stated, however, that receipts from the Armstrong-Quintana fight last night were only about $3,000, and even this was not in the vault.

The police received a tip yesterday. They went to the Arena when the fight was on, hid themselves, and waited. Early to-day they heard sounds in the room under them in which the vault was located. The police stole downstairs and saw two shirt-sleeved men swinging crowbars at the vault, they said. The pair were captured after a short chase in the building.

Three-Minute Eggs Depend On Place

New York, Jan. 5

A THREE-MINUTE egg is anything but that when cooked in an airplane. Tests conducted by Pan American Airways Transpacific clippers proved that a three-minute egg is a three and a half minute egg when cooked at 5,000 feet altitude and at 12,000 feet it is a four and a half-minute egg. The tests were conducted to determine altitude pressure effects on the boiling of eggs.

Limbless And Tailless Amphibians Swim In Reverse With Ease

TWO snakelike amphibians having neither limbs nor tail but possessed of the ability to travel backward or forward with equal ease, formed the latest New York aquariam attraction today.

New York, Jan. 5 (CP)

The amphibians — vertebrates intermediate between reptiles and fish — one prefers to be offhand about it—were brought here from Peru. The nearest taxonomists of the aquarium have come to identifying the specimens is to say they are members of the genus tiphlonectes.

C. W. Coates, aquarist and taxonomist of the first order, said the specimens were equipped with "dermal exoskeletons," something pretty tiny but in the nature of a fin, which enabled them to go into reverse with such ease.

C.N.R. Plans to Float New $50,000,000 Bond Issue Monday

Aim to Reimburse Ottawa for Loans Since 1932; Cheers Dealers as Good Sign in Economic Lines

OTTAWA, Jan. 5.—(CP)—A new $50,000,000 Canadian National Railways bond issue to reimburse the Government for advances made since 1932 for redemption of debt and capital expenditures by the road was announced yesterday by Finance Minister Dunning.

The bonds will be guaranteed unconditionally by the Canadian Government. Books will open next Monday morning and will be closed at the discretion of the Finance Minister.

The issue will consist of two maturities. Four-year, 2 per cent bonds dated Jan. 15, 1938, and 13-year, 3 per cent bonds, dated Dec. 15, 1937. The four-year bonds will be non-callable and the 13-year bonds will be callable at the option of the railway company as a whole only on or after Dec. 15, 1945.

Offered Through Bank of Canada.

The 4-year-bonds are priced at 99.25 to yield approximately 2.20 per cent, and the 13-year bonds are priced at 97 to yield approximately 3.29 per cent. The issue will be offered though the Bank of Canada and subscriptions will be made through chartered banks or recognized dealers.

Principal of the four-year bonds will be payable at the head office or any agency of the Bank of Canada, and interest will be payable at any branch in Canada of any chartered bank. Principal and interest on the 13-year bonds, which will have the same terms as the $20,500,000 issue sold in December, 1934, will be payable at any branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Canada (Yukon Territory excepted).

Since 1932 the Canadian Government has made loans to the C.N.R. for capital purposes and the loans were never refunded.

The new Government-guaranteed bond issue will be used by the railway to repay the Government for the loans.

A Finance Department official estimated Government loans to the C.N.R. from 1932 to the beginning of 1938 amounted to $41,000,000.

See Promising Sign.

Officials of leading bond houses said last night that they regarded the bond issue as a most promising sign on the economic horizon. It was a definite indication that the Dominion Government felt there was plenty of money ready for investment in sound securities, they said.

"The Government must be pretty confident that there is a great deal of investment money in the hands of the public," one official said. "If conditions were not considered promising for a bond issue, it is certain there wouldn't be one until such time as the bond market improved. The market for high-grade bonds is normal today and I don't suppose for a moment there will be the least trouble in disposing of the present issues."

GREAT REBEL ARMY HOPES TO CAPTURE TERUEL IN 3 DAYS

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Jan. 5.—(AP)—A reinforced insurgent army drove through snow and cold today in a fresh offensive aimed to capture strategic Teruel "within three days."

First result of the revived insurgent attack, the high command said was occupation of two new positions near Villastar in fighting during the night along the Guadalavia river, west of Teruel. A Barcelona communique noted a series of insurgent attacks north and south of Teruel but said all were repulsed.

Snow was waist deep along parts of the 12-mile eastern front where 150,000 to 200,000 troops fought.

Ice-covered roads forced the Spanish fighters to fix special leather shoes on their horses. Ropes, chains and rags were wound around truck wheels in an effort to aid motorized units.

Soldiers drove spikes into their own shoes, wound boots with cords, or used barbed wire to fashion improvised snow shoes—so that they could move into battle.

Have To Heat Guns.

Gunners built fires under gun barrels before firing after the storm-forced period of inactivity.

Eleven government planes were shot down Tuesday, an insurgent communique from Salamanca asserted. Temporary lull of snowstorms permitted aviation again to participate in the fight—"biggest battle of the war" for possession of Teruel, 160 miles east of Madrid and strategic point in operations against or in defence of Spanish government territory. The government listed one insurgent pursuit plane downed.

BILLION NEEDED TO BOLSTER U.S. DEFENCES IN '38

Provision was made for increasing the number of regular army officers by 112 to reach 12,485, which is still 2,174 short of the War Department's objective of 14,659.

The budget provided for the same number of enlisted men—162,000—as in 1938, but an increase in the National Guard from 200,000 to 205,000, which is still 5,000 short of the objective 210,000.

The estimates included funds for training 25,530 reserve officers for 14 days each.

The budget called for increases in navy personnel "chiefly required to man the increased number of ships and planes that will be in operation during 1939, and to increase the strength of the fleet marine force." The goal is 110,570 enlisted navy men by the end of 1939, an increase of 5,570 during that year.

The Marine Corps will be enlarged by 1,000 men until, at the end of the year, it numbers 16,000.

The importance acquired by the Army Air Corps was seen in the fact that almost exactly one-third of the War Department budget was absorbed by the air force. The estimate was approximately $140,000,000 (including indirect charges such as pay, clothing, rations, housing and transportation) and was about 15 per cent. higher than the current year.

The War Department said it desired to reach the quota of 2,320 airplanes set by the "Baker Board." Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, who died recently, presided over this board in 1934.

$150,000 BLAZE SWEEPS FACTORY AT FORT WILLIAM

The concussion numbed me for a moment.

"A slight lull was followed by a second and third explosion. I could hear the sound of breaking glass around me and rumbling echoes.

"Then, from above the plant of the Northern Engineering shot flames 40 or 50 feet high.

"I ran back to Victoria avenue and then to the Avenue hotel to give the alarm. When I got there the night clerk was already sending through a call for the fire department."

Pillars of flame broke through the sides and top of the warehouse, he said, and this part of the plant was enveloped by the time the fire fighters arrived at the scene.

Tenants Flee to Streets.

Meanwhile the area bounded by Myles, Simpson, Victoria and North streets burst into life as tenants of nearby buildings rushed into the streets, many of them in night attire. Braving the weather in this protection was impossible, and they gained shelter in nearby hotels.

Taxi firms on North street, located just adjacent to the wrecked and blazing building, removed their automobiles to a safe distance.

In the face of possible additional explosions of acetylene tanks in the warehouse, James Paton, general manager of the Northern Engineering, and William Paton, his assistant and brother, risked their lives to enter the offices of the plant and save the office fyles. They emerged unhurt with the records intact.

Firemen likewise assumed risks as they mounted ladders to pour streams of water into that part of the warehouse where the tanks were located. After the first series of explosions, however, no further blasts occurred and the fight resolved itself into combatting the flames. The fire was brought under control within an hour and adjoining buildings saved.

became president he faced less, rather than more, governmental income.

To obtain next year's estimated spending slash of $539,000,000, the president cut his estimates for relief and recovery to $1,138,304,000—down $841,356,600 from this year's figures. But he added:

"The economic situation may not improve and if it does not, I expect the approval of Congress and the public for additional appropriations if they become necessary to save thousands of American families from dire need.

Weatherman Is Seldom Out Over Three Degrees

Reports From 250 Stations Across Canada Each Morning Enable Accuracy

By Iris Naish.

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—Ten years ago, a person wouldn't have thought of telephoning the weatherman to see if it would rain the next day.

Nowadays, if a farmer plans to spray his fruit trees, he can find out what the weather will be for the next three days.

And if a merchant is thinking of sending perishable goods on a long journey, he can play safe by getting information from the weatherman as to the temperature along the whole route.

Motorists, aviators, sailors and a dozen other classes of people are guided by the present-day forecast.

Pencil Provides Answer.

And yet Frank O'Donnell, chief forecaster at the Meteorological Office on Bloor Street doesn't bat an eyelid as he says that if he were four degrees out in his forecast he would consider it unsatisfactory.

Now and then the weatherman might be out two or three degrees, but that doesn't happen often.

How is it all done? How does he know rain or snow or sleet will hit Toronto within the next twenty-four hours?

Well, every morning at 7:30 o'clock, 250 stations, scattered all over the North American continent, get busy. Half an hour later, the

JAPANESE TIGHTEN GRIP IN SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Jan. 5 (AP).—Japanese authorities announced today they had taken over all Chinese government functions in the international city of Shanghai and other territory occupied by Japanese armies.

A final step in Japan's drive for dominance was projected censorship of news dispatches. Japanese officials were said to have notified cable companies Japanese censors were moving in to prevent leakage of military information to Chinese.

For more than a month, dispatches had been free from interference. Chinese had maintained some censorship until the fall of Shanghai.

The disclosure censorship would be imposed came after Japanese officials raised what foreign authorities termed a "grave issue" by threatening action in the international settlement itself to halt "anti-Japanese outrages."

Link Five Rich Provinces.

It coincided, also, with new advices by Japanese armies bent on consolidating control of five rich North China provinces and the lower Yangtse River Valley.

The Rising Sun flag was raised at Chufu, birthplace of China's great Sage and Confucius. Chinese were withdrawing toward Suchow, vital railway junction in Kiangsu Province, 180 miles north of Nanking.

Chinese, however, kept up the swift-raiding tactics which General Chiang has declared were the mainspring of resistance.

Chinese advices from mountainous, frigid Shansi Province said repeated detachments of the scattered former Communist army had forced Japanese to bolster garrisons along the two main railways.

Compensation Loss Higher In '37

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP). — There were 70,582 accidents reported to the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board in 1937, as compared with 61,382 in 1936, it was announced today. Fatal accidents were 376 as compared with 375 in 1936.

Benefits awarded in 1937 were $6,129,960, divided, $4,878,112 to compensation and $1,251,848 to medical aid. Benefits in 1936 were $5,643,798. On a basis of 300 working days, average daily benefits were $20,435. Average number of new claims daily increased from 205 in 1936 to 235 in 1937.

There were 5,728 accidents reported in December and benefits awarded amounted to $572,556.

GIRLS HIDE BEAUTY IN MUD COVERING

capture of Nanking. A few looters were shot.

Japanese authorities posted special military police after there had been reports that Japanese had molested Chinese women refugees in foreign-sponsored refugee camps.

Bishop Gets Face Slapped.

No foreigners were harmed, but there were several threatening incidents, including one in which a Japanese soldier slapped the face of a French Catholic bishop. Japanese soldiers entered a Catholic refugee camp and demanded women. The bishop stood out against them, and a soldier hit him in the face with his own hand.

Fortunately just then a couple of Japanese officers came in, beat the soldiers and called in others to take them to headquarters.

Many Chinese girls seeking safety in the refugee camps had their faces smeared with mud in an attempt to conceal their attractions. Hundreds of others are known to have been hidden in churches and the homes of foreigners.

Immediately after entry of the first Japanese detachments Chinese engaged in widespread looting of shops, especially seeking food. Japanese soldiers made no apparent effort to stop them. Some looting continues, but appears confined mostly to new arrivals seeking plunder in already thoroughly plucked premises.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Heavy offerings drove wheat futures down on Winnipeg Grain Exchange late to-day after speculative buying had increased yesterday's five-cent advance to more than seven cents. Final quotations were ¾ to ⅞ cent lower, May $1.25, July $1.16¼.

Lack of new export demand for Canadian wheat and increased sales from Western farmers still holding wheat turned buyers away shortly after the opening flurry.

Trading turned quiet after May wheat climbed to around $1.28 a bushel on purchases credited largely to speculative interests in sympathy with higher Buenos Aires and Liverpool futures.

MODERATE TONES OF ROOSEVELT TALK LAUDED IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Jan. 5—(CP-Havas)—The Times (Independent) to-day praised the "conciliatory" tone of President Roosevelt's message to the United States Congress and viewed it as an effort to still fears resulting from the attacks on big business by some of the President's principal assistants.

"American public opinion will be relieved," The Times said. "Nor will this relief be confined to America, for the whole world knows it would be affected by anything like a fight to the finish between the government and business interests which the Secretary of the Interior (Harold Ickes) and the Assistant Attorney General (Robert Jackson) appeared to contemplate with bellicose eagerness.

"Recovery everywhere would be choked by the stagnation which would be the immediate result of such a conflict in the United States, and the efforts of the American government to promote economic co-operation between nations would be gravely handicapped if they could not secure appeasement at home.

"The main body of his (the President's) speech was a reasoned statemen of justification of his general policy. He claims that it is the duty of all who have faith in democratic methods to do their utmost to co-operate with the government in giving effect to whatever program may be sanctioned by the chosen representatives of the nation.

Hope For Good Results.

"Without venturing to pronounce on internal American issues we hope very earnestly that this address will mitigate the mutual asperities and suspicions which have hitherto prevented fruitful co-operation between the government and business world.

"It is this latent conflict which has been the fundamental cause of the recent setback and is now the main barrier holding back the recovery desired not only by America but the whole world."

The Financial Times declared Mr. Roosevelt's message was one of "vague generalizations which might be made a spring board for almost any action."

This attitude was echoed by the Financial News, which said that after the message "we are still not in a position to see at all how the President stands on the question of relations between Washington and business."

So far as the message "does anything," the Financial News added: "Most people will persist in regarding the status quo as a policy of general hostility towards capital."

"The President's message contains little indication of retreat from or modification of 'new deal' philosophy," said the Financial Times.

United Democracies.

The press as a whole greeted Mr. Roosevelt's remarks on foreign policy as supporting the view of British public opinion in its desire to see the democracies banded together to face the perils resulting from the ambitions of the totalitarian powers.

The President "carefully measured his words when he said, 'World peace through international agreements is safest in the hands of democracies'," commented the Daily Telegraph (Conservative). "This seems to suggest not only the value of international agreements as an instrument of peace, but also the desirability of co-operation between peace-loving and treaties-observing democracies."

"In this country and freedom-loving France any speech by Mr. Roosevelt is now big news," the Daily Herald (Labor) said). "All look for signs of a change in American foreign policy, for evidence that isolationism is a waning faith and that America is moving towards effective practical co-operation with the two big European democracies."

Had Little To Cook

Though his regular job with the survey party called for considerable work, Octave Lapointe, cook for the surveyors, found little to do after the supply of food ran low. Lapointe is shown at the (LEFT) standing in front of the cook tent after an aeroplane pilot had swooped down on the ice covered river near the camp to rescue the lost party. At the (RIGHT) is Alfred Guite, one of the strongest of the missing men. Guite did most of the rabbit hunting for the party and while lost ate a can of boot grease.

CHRISTMAS CAROL GIVEN AT APSLEY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Jan. 5.—On Tuesday, December 28th, a dramatization of Dicken's' Christmas Carol was given at the Apsley United Church by Rev. Mr. Kelly of Lakefield United church. The congregation was not as large as it should have been on account of the very cold night, but all present greatly enjoyed every moment of the Carol which was very beautifully recited by Rev. Kelly.

Rev. Mr. McMullen called upon the Rev. F. McMulkin for a vote of appreciation and thanks for the kindness of Rev. Mr. Kelly in coming to Apsley.

The Carol was divided into four chapters and between each chapter, a Christmas carol was sung by the congregation. Mrs. McMullen was at the organ. A silver collection was taken at the close of the service. The proceeds to be given to the Maintenance and Missions funds.

COURT RULES NAVY BARRED SALVAGE

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP)—The Royal Navy cannot collect salvage fees.

This is the interpretation placed on judgment by the House of Lords sitting as court of appeal. They dismissed an admiralty appeal for £11,000 ($55,000) for standing by the flaming tanker Valverda and then towing her 900 miles to Bermuda.

Five law lords ruled a section of the merchant shipping act excluded the payment of salvage fees to ships of the navy.

The admiralty claimed the section of the act should not be considered in view of the fact they had entered into a salvage agreement with the owners of the Valverda. Alternatively they contended the agreement was not for salvage but for work and labor, thus taking the case out of the law of maritime salvage.

They contended warships were not bound to stand by, were under no legal obligations and might have left the salvage operations to other vessels. It was also submitted the owners of the ship had contracted outside the shipping act and therefore fees could be collected.

Lord Wright, dismissing the appeal, pointed to the section of the act as "clearly imperative and prohibitory."

"It says no claim shall be allowed," His Lordship added. This was a provision dictated by public policy and was imposed not for the benefit of any individuals but for the consideration of the state."

Agreement or not, he declared, the navy could not collect salvage fees.

BRECHIN TRIPLETS SEVEN YEARS OLD

LINDSAY, Jan. 5.—The famous Brechin triplets, Tommy, Wilfrid and Jimmy Scott, had Christmas all over again on Tuesday, the seventh anniversary of their birth. The lively sons of Mrs. P. Scott received numerous gifts, which they added to their Christmas harvest of toys.

While the boys still look much alike, the resemblance ends there, according to their mother. Tommy wants to be a lawyer, Jimmy a farmer, and Wilfrid has mechanical leanings, though he isn't sure he wants to be an engineer.

Mrs. Scott has no trouble telling them apart, but their school teacher had some sleepless nights before she devised a system of numbers which served the purpose. She also seats them in different parts of the room, and that helps a lot. To help their friends identify them, the boys wear different colored caps.

The triplets are in excellent health, and Mrs. Scott attributes this to plenty of good, plain food, regular sleep and lots of exercise and fresh air.

LAY AWAKE IN AGONY WITH NEURITIS

Kruschen Salts Brought Lasting Relief

Ordinary headaches are bad enough, but they are as nothing compared to the awful pains of neuritis in the head, says this woman. Read how Kruschen completely banished the pain:—

"I had neuritis in the head and right arm. I suffered untold agony with my head and I dare not think what might have happened had it continued. Everybody knows what a headache is like, but it is as nothing compared with the awful pain of neuritis in the head. I spent sleepless nights tossing with pain. I began taking Kruschen Salts, and after some months of the treatment I have affected lasting relief."—(Mrs.) L.M.

Neuritis, like rheumatism and sciatica, frequently has its roots in intestinal stasis (delay)—the unsuspected accumulation in the system of harmful waste matter, which leads to the formation of excess uric acid.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients of Kruschen assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channels.—advt.

American toys will be introduced into Zurich, Switzerland.

HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE

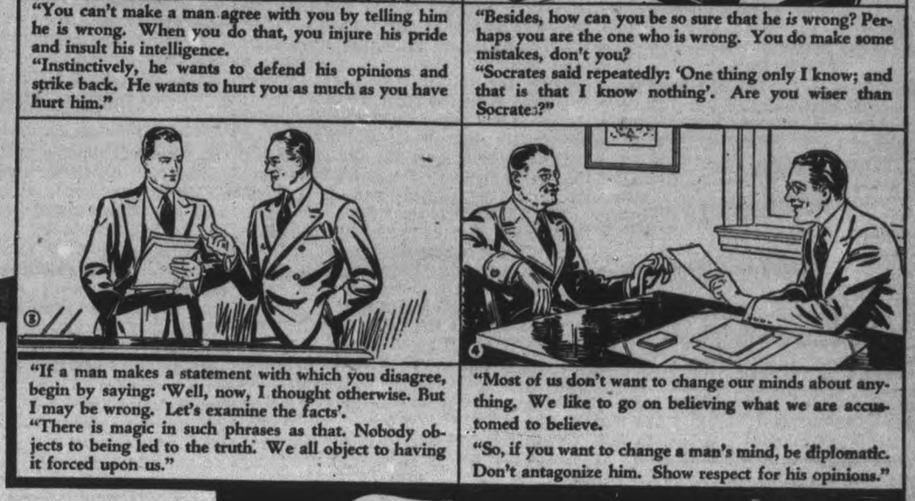
NEVER TELL A MAN HE IS WRONG



"You can't make a man agree with you by telling him he is wrong. When you do that, you injure his pride and insult his intelligence.
"Instinctively, he wants to defend his opinions and strike back. He wants to hurt you as much as you have hurt him."

"Besides, how can you be so sure that he is wrong? Perhaps you are the one who is wrong. You do make some mistakes, don't you?
"Socrates said repeatedly: 'One thing only I know; and that is that I know nothing'. Are you wiser than Socrates?"

"If a man makes a statement with which you disagree, begin by saying: 'Well, now, I thought otherwise. But I may be wrong. Let's examine the facts'.
"There is magic in such phrases as that. Nobody objects to being led to the truth. We all object to having it forced upon us."

"Most of us don't want to change our minds about anything. We like to go on believing what we are accustomed to believe.
"So, if you want to change a man's mind, be diplomatic. Don't antagonize him. Show respect for his opinions."

HAVE YOU SMOKED A TURRET LATELY?

IF you haven't smoked a Turret lately—if you have wandered to other brands—you may have perfectly good reasons but, on the other hand, you may be passing up a good thing. "Let's examine the facts!" Turret, you know, is a distinctive cigarette—made from an original and unique blend of fine Virginia tobaccos which makes Turret just that much different, just that much better. And you can always turn—or return—to Turrets with confidence in their unvarying high quality. So, if you haven't smoked a Turret lately, we suggest that you try a package today. The Better Way

Mayor Gordon of Kitchener told members of the City Council at the inaugural meeting it would be advisable to arrange matters so that the city's share of relief payments would be met from the current year's tax rate. It has been the custom of Kitchener to fund a portion of such payments annually. That of course would call for the issuing of more debentures.

The Mayor of Kitchener has an idea which is sound as can be. Relief became an issue in Peterborough in 1931, and we believe that was the experience of most municipalities. Relief work was considered the way to handle the situation at first, and there were some debentures issued for that purpose, the last of which for $4,200 was authorized in 1933.

Since that date there has not been a debenture of any kind issued by the city of Peterborough.

Direct relief in this city has always been paid out of the year's taxes, and that policy was decided to be the best one at the inception of relief in 1931, and from it there has been no departure.

A city with a constant issue of debentures is somewhat like the individual who indulges in too much instalment buying. In each case there is too much being piled up for future payment, forgetful of the fact that the future will have its own bills.

Peterborough may have selected the hard way of financing in 1931 by putting its payments for direct relief on a cash basis, but it was and is the best way. On that score it has now no bills to pay.

Our Interest In Mining

It is probably quite correct that people who live in districts removed from sections where mining is a great industry have little idea of what is going on. Perhaps one may feel possessed of a commendable degree of knowledge if he is able to quote the ups and downs in the market prices of a few mines, but that tells little enough.

Nor has the average individual adequate idea of the amount of money needed to develop a good mine and keep it in operation. The idea of dividends is about as far as our knowledge goes. All of which makes it interesting to consider figures supplied by Lake Shore Mines of Kirkland Lake. In the year 1937 this company spent $2,452,142 for materials and freight costs, and the wages paid in the year were $2,848,408.

Starting with the year 1918 Lake Shore has spent the following amounts up to the end of 1937:

Materials, including freight	$ 23,339,501
Wages	22.883,613
Dominion, provincial, municipal tax	10,500,000
Total	56,723,114

It is also correct to say that the amount of money spent in wages and supplies by that one mining company has benefited what we refer to as Old Ontario. A mine purchases explosives, drills, pipes and plumbing supplies, electrical supplies, machinery, steel products, oil and lubricants, trucks, etc., and as these are not manufactured in the vicinity of the mine the business would probably come in large degree right into the industrial sections of Ontario. The men who spend their wages purchase food, clothing, furniture, and all things needed for the upkeep of the individual or the home, and that business would find its way to Ontario or Quebec.

Lake Shore is but one of a good many mines in Northern Ontario, and all these mines are actual and definite factors in keeping our industrial establishments busy. It may be a good many people who judge mines and mining by fluctation on the stock market have failed entirely to realize the extent to which the mines of Northern Ontario have contributed to the wealth and business of the older section of the province and of the Dominion in general.

It Cuts Both Ways

It has often enough been said that the three-fifths clause in our Ontario local option provisions has been a handicap to the dry forces. It has also at times been called a non-British way of doing business. But voting this year shows it works just as much to the advantage of the dry forces as it does for those who want beverage rooms or liquor stores in communities.

The village of Blenheim has been dry for 25 years, and the vote there this week was for the establishment of a beverage room. There were 623 who voted for the sale of beer and wine and 427 against it. On a straight majority vote that would have given authority to establish a beverage room in Blenheim, but under the two-thirds vote which is necessary to turn a dry community into a wet one, the village of Blenheim remains in the dry column.

In Petrolia the vote was on the establishment of a liquor store and there were 761 votes cast in favor of the store and 513 against it, so Petrolia will have no liquor store, although that decision was actually recorded by a minority of the voters.

There are those who disagree with that principle, but back of it there is some sound common sense. If a law is going to have its proper place in the community then it must have a majority of the people in favor of that law, and if that law—particularly if it applies to a contentious issue—is going to be changed, then there should be a definite majority in favor of making the change. We believe in a general way that such a provision makes for the easier and better enforcement of local option. The two-thirds majority requirement plays no favorites. If a community is dry then it takes that majority to make it wet, and if it is wet it takes the same showing to cause it to become dry.

He Said "Thank You"

Looking over the election results and finding Joseph Vinette's name last of the six candidates for one year terms brought a little twinge of regret to the Examiner. And the reason for that feeling was the disclosing of a vein of fine sentiment in Mr. Vinette that appeals to everyone even in the impersonal contacts of business.

Prior to the elections the Examiner published statements from the twenty candidates that served to introduce them to the ratepayers. It was simply a matter of routine news, and perhaps that was the reaction of the other candidates to most of whom the novelty had worn off. Mr. Vinette brought a fresh opinion of that service into the interviews, and with manifest sincerity requested that his thanks for the publicity relating to himself be conveyed to the editor. And because it was unusual and natural and appreciative, the effect of that sentiment had a pleasant flavor that lingered while the counting of the votes was leaving Joseph Vinette out of the council picture.

Oshawa's Labor Council

Six candidates endorsed by the United Automobile Workers were elected to office in Oshawa and the mayor-elect is also an honorary member of the same organization. So what is termed the Labor slate is in control of the situation for 1938.

The answer to a question which may arise in the minds of some people is: "Well, what about it?" We take it that the candidates who were elected are average good citizens otherwise people would not have given them the required number of votes to be elected. It is also a fact that they must all have been able to qualify under the provisions of the municipal Act.

A Labor Council is apt to find just about the same problems as any other kind of a council, and it will have to meet them in much the same way. Municipal life and government is pretty well organized, and there is a certain way in which all things must be done. There is not a great deal of latitude allowed for opinions or ideas of any council regarding the manner of operating a municipality. It is all set forth in the statutes.

A Labor council when it takes office will have to legislate for the entire community; it will have the responsibility placed upon it of making wise decisions, and if the decisions are not wise then they will adversely affect all the citizens and the citizens will take the first opportunity to express disapproval at the polls. The citizens of Oshawa will probably be content to wait and see how its Labor council operates. There is no reason of which this paper is aware why such a council should not do a good year's work.

End Of The Little Tree

The Little Christmas Tree which ventured into town for the festive season probably wishes today it had been allowed to remain at home; that is, if Little Trees ever do any thinking or have any feelings. Probably it was quite a change for the Little Tree when it was removed from the place where it stood; before it had seen only other trees larger or smaller than itself; possibly it could not even bend over far enough to see the road. So in that way life may have seemed rather solitary and self-centred.

When it came to town it was not snubbed. People seemed to welcome the Little Tree; it was not asked to go around and wait in the shed. Not a bit of it. It was taken into the best room in the house and there was placed upon it such additional finery as the Little Tree had not known before. It sparkled and it glittered and it was the first in the house to see all the gifts of the happy season. Its little limbs may have bent low with weight and the little Tree may be pardoned if it thought it had become the centre and source of all that was going on.

Today it is different. Here and there one sees the Little Tree standing outside. It may be prone upon the ground or again it may assume a rather rakish angle as it leans and has words with the garbage can. It may be the old and seasoned garbage can can tell the Little Tree a good deal about the ways of life and of living and of the instability of things which glitter for a season but have within them neither permanency nor reasonable length of days.

Possibly the Little Tree is not the first to make the sad discovery that it was an error to leave home and seek the bright lights of the town. In the language of humans it seemed to make quite a hit when it first came in; it was neither snubbed nor neglected. But today it is tasting the dregs at the bottom of the cup—that is, if Little Trees can taste anything.

Ottawa Prepares

The House of Commons will not be in action for several weeks yet, but already we learn that Premier King is going to be asked what he and Hitler had a bit of conversation about in Berlin. Following the Coronation our Premier went to the continent and during that visit the Hitler conversation took place. That was in May of last year and most folk have forgotten about it by now. But not some of the members of Parliament.

One report has it that Canada is planning to establish its own legation in Berlin and also in Rome. There is nothing new in that report because it has come up before. Likewise gone down. There is nothing in the way of constitutional obstacle standing in the way of such a move. The objection is that it will cost more money than it is worth, and also that our voice in international affairs should be the voice of the British Empire.

The New Year's eve blizzard showed that there is one way to control the really fast driver. A few inches of snow well bunched will do the trick.

It has been said that there is nothing quite so useless as a Christmas tree the day after Christmas but we imagine a New Year's resolution the day after New Year's would run it a close second.

A man who wasn't running for the reeveship got 38 votes in the Glencoe election the other day and that is about as good a showing as made by the candidates in other municipal elections who were really trying.

Criticism of Canadian advertising in England is to be banned from the Marketing Report. That may appease the department attacked but what the people of Canada want to know is whether or not the complaints were justified.

UNCLE EBEN

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Uncle Eben's up in years, and pretty bald above the ears, he's rather feeble too; but he is at his work each day, you couldn't well keep him away, and he finds lots to do.

¶ And people come to see him more, than what they ever did before, the number's easy twice; when they get stuck on this and that, and find they're left washed out and flat, they come to ask advice.

¶ In other years they'd stay away, for Eben had a lot to say, their failings he would list; when Uncle Eben talked to them, he'd name them for poor shiftless men, and hammer with his fist.

¶ No doubt what Eben said was true, but he would knock them black and blue, they felt he should be hung; there was no charity in him, stern justice wiggled from his chin, he owned a biting tongue.

¶ But Eben's mellowed much with years, he's moved by people's loads or tears, he's kind behind the brow; he sympathizes with the chap, who's had to take a nasty rap, or lost his brindle cow.

¶ And Uncle Eben's happy too, has more friends than he used to do, and they are staunch and stout; you see it in his face and look, his one regret is that it took—so long to find it out.

POINSETTIAS are plants with inconspicuous yellow-green flowers and five to a dozen petal-like scarlet leaves. Charles P. Madsen, Washington D. C. chemist didn't think they were beautiful enough so growing some of his poinsettias in an artificial soil made of sand, peat moss and nourishing chemicals he added other substances to make the colors brighter. Now he claims his hot house plants are bigger, better and cheaper than natural poinsettias.

On each pot he pasted a label: "My real name is Euphorbia Pulcherrima." I was brought north from Mexico fifty years ago by Major Poinsett U. S. A. and hence am now called Poinsettia. I don't mind the heat but if you put me in one of those horrid steam-heated flats I simply must have a bath with warm water every single day. But I am a terrible cold coward. I cannot stand below 60 degrees for even a few hours and one single cold air blast from a window will put me to sleep until next May Day."

Fish chowder and oyster stews with milk are among New England's proudest gifts to the American culinary heritage."

An observer noted that a large colony of ants brought in 28 dead insects a minute so you can readily realize what a big factor they are in controlling other insects. They make no distinction between beneficial or harmful insects in their choice of food, although it is probably they kill more of the harmful ones.

The Man Who Loves to Live in Country

Thinks the Average Farm is by Far Too Extensive; Cities Do Not Produce Children Who Love the Country

(Letter in Globe and Mail)

TO THE EDITOR of The Globe and Mail: I note the statement that "city youths will not go out in the country and work on a farm" has been made by quite a number of prominent social workers. One of the causes for this condition of affairs is that modern mothers are not giving birth to country-loving children.

Another reason is that many farms are so heavily mortgaged that the occupant is really not an owner of his farm, and he feels discouraged, and has ceased to beautify the old homestead, and its run-down, uninteresting landscape repels city youths who possess a sense of beauty.

Reason three: Renters of farms consider it a stupid waste of time to landscape and beautify land that does not belong to them.

Another reason is that the real male type of man is becoming rare, and fear and trembling take possession of their nerves when shovel, pick, axe, scythe, hoe, pitchfork, long crosscut saw or any real male instrument is placed in their hands. Yes, they hate manual labor.

I well remember in the year 1870 my grandfather, seeing me in his garden, threw up the second-story window and called out to me that he had just bought that piece of land adjoining. I turned around and looked at it. It was an acre of land, without even a weed on it; the hard dry, stiff clay was all that there was. But I danced with joy, and well I did, for my grandfather dug in hard coal ashes and planted it with grapes and beautiful shrubbery, vines and evergreens, and turned it into a most interesting place. As I write this my grandfather's enlarged photograph is looking down on me now.

I so love the earth that I take the greatest joy in planting any one's ground to help make it attractive.

The trouble is that farms are far too large, and only one-tenth as productive as they could and should be.

Just today I received five letters from around Windsor asking for information about rare and valuable trees. For over thirty years the University of Toronto has been endeavoring to get the Province of Ontario to allot it land enough to establish a botanical garden and arboretum worthy of Ontario. But has it done so? As far as I can see, the mass of people are much more interested in listening to Mae West and drinking beer. There are many excellent men in Government offices, but the head men must have vision and do something to advance out of our present stupid system.

American Visitor Has High Place For Eden; Vansittart Has a Close Connection in Canada

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

AMONG RECENT tributes to the ability of Britain's Foreign Secretary, Rt. Hon. Robert Anthony Eden, one of the most interesting is that of Senator William Campbell, of Minneapolis, who said at Ingersoll on Friday that the people of the British Empire might well "thank God on their knees for Eden," who had kept Britain from becoming involved in a European war.

Closely associated with Mr. Eden has been Sir Robert Vansittart who, according to announcement from London at the week-end, has been appointed to a new created post called "adviser to the Foreign Secretary and government," with a commission to devote himself to "prolonged and careful consideration of questions of broad policy."

Sir Robert, now 56, is eldest son of the late Col. Robt. Vansittart, of Driffield and Chuffs, Berkshire. His grandfather was a first cousin of Admiral Henry Vansittart, of Bisham Abbey, Berkshire, who came to Woodstock in 1834 and established his home at Eastwood Park. Robt. Gilbert Cansittart entered Foreign Office in 1914; was secretary to Earl Curzon, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, from 1920 to 1924, and subsequently to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, for whose visit to President Hoover of the United States he crossed the Atlantic to make arrangements. For the past seven years he has been assigned duties of increasing responsibility in the Foreign Office, but not as Parliamentary under-secretary, and much of his work has been of a character unadapted to publicity. An article by a writer in England, reproduced in the Sentinel-Review within the past year, attributed to Sir Robert the direction of secret service activities in connection with international affairs and pictured him as the man behind the scenes in diplomatic incidents of the utmost delicacy and importance. In the Foreign Office great careers have been built—and sometimes wrecked. Its head ranks next to the prime minister. The present chief, of whom we read not so long ago as "Captain" Anthony Eden, M. C., has risen rapidly to world prominence and respect. Sir Robert Vansittart is far on the same road, yet no one need envy him the task of adviser to the British government in the situation which exists in Europe at the present time.

Training of Quints To Be Costly Affair

Are Spending Their Youth in Regular Hothouse; The Rough and Tumble Life Is Not For These Sisters

(Sudbury Star)

TO MAINTAIN the Dionne quintuplets and their household requires no less than $2,000 per month, and if plans for the girls' future are consummated it will require considerably more than this to take care of them in the career the guardians are choosing for them, according to Judge J. A. Valin, one of the official board. Currently the annual revenue from money invested for them is $17,000, plus royalties and income from other things.

The famous children are worth over $500,000 now and their fortune will be increased to a million dollars before they become of age. To the ordinary mortal this is a lot of money, yet to carry out the schedule which the guardians have in view there is little doubt that a large surplus fund will be required.

"Instead of going to public school and having a rough-and-tumble time with the other kids they will have to 'buy their privacy'," observes the New York World-Telegram. "Their school will be a private institution, their classmates 'selected' village children, their 'contacts' guarded as closely as their health to keep them from becoming self-conscious. In summer time extra guards will be necessary to ward away the sightseers.

"What a life for little Yvonne, Emelie, Marie, Cecile and Annette! To save them from living in a goldfish bowl they must spend their youth in the hothouse. Many youngster lucky enough to be born singly will envy them all their wealth and glamor!

"At the age of 3½ years the Dionnes are trailed about by a doctor, teacher, two nurses, three guards, two maids, a housekeeper and a janitor. No wonder they have become so sophisticated that they are said to entertain doubts about Santa Claus."

COLUMNIST ON VIEW.

(J. Butterfield in Vancouver Province)

THIS IS AN invitation to everybody. It has been said that I am an old man with a long white beard, and it has been said that I am a cheeky young punk who doesn't know the score. It has been said that I have done certain things that should not have been done and it has been said that I have left undone things that should not have been left undone.

But come up and see me. I shall be in my office—Room 216 in The Province Building—from 10 till 4 each day this week. I shall talk to you about anything that interests you from the political economy of the Peruvians to the ultimate limit of the necessary coverage of modern female form. I shall speak to you about the Japanese menace or anything that you want to hear about.

All you have to do is to come up and see me—and bring a dollar or two with you for the kids. For the Santa Claus Fund.

It might amuse you to meet me. I am in some ways rather a mess, but when it comes to talking, I can be rather amusing.

JUST WRITE A CHEQUE

(Edmonton Correspondent)

HON. E. C. MANNING has said that the banks in Alberta could easily pay $2,000,000 in taxes a year to the province as it would cost them nothing. Either Mr. Manning is suffering from an illusion or the people of Alberta are. The people of Canada are supposed to own a bank. If Mr. Manning's theory is right, the Bank of Canada could pay off the national, provincial and municipal debts just by writing a cheque. The province could get a charter for the Bank of Alberta and our troubles would be over—debts, dividends and every thing that is needed would be right at hand, just make out a cheque. If real money could be created as easily as that, Alberta would be lousy with money—until the cuckoo-clock struck the time to wake up.

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them: insomuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see: and they glorified the God of Israel.—Matt. xv, 30, 31.

And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath. And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight and glorified God. —Luke xiii, 10 to 13.

WELL, WELL!

(Regina Leader-Post)

THERE IS A queer turn to the following editorial paragraph in the C. C. F. weekly newspaper at Edmonton:

To all those readers of The People's Weekly who took their pen in hand to answer some recent letters, notably that of Dr. Coursier's, we can only say that we think it would not be wise nor in the interests of the cause which they hold dear to publish their letters. They would only provoke reply, which would prolong a controversy, and that wouldn't do the C. C. F. any good.

This looks like shutting of a discussion in the paper because it is feared the argument "wouldn't do the C. C. F. any good."

We had always thought that it was only the vile organs of capitalistic society and the paid hirelings of the old political parties that did that sort of thing.

PEACE

It is soothing to stand on a lonely cliff
With the saltened mist in your cheek,
With the waves below in a lazy drift
And to hear the sea gulls speak.

It is calming to watch the tinge of night
Coming forward to evening mass;
With a sea gull choir and stray stars bright,
And the dreamy clouds stealing past.

And the green ocean stills its restless moan
In the changing evening light,
And the air incensed with bloom cliff grown
For the purple priest of the night.

It is cleansing to watch the clear foamy web
At play with the cliff's aged strength,
'Neath the gulls' cleaving swoop on wings strongly spread,
As they question day now spent.

ALBERTA DISPUTE PLACED IN HANDS SUPREME COURT

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (C.P.). — Two separate references are before the Supreme Court of Canada arising out of Alberta's Social Credit legislation and a conflict between the Aberhart Government and the Federal Government.

The first consists of four questions:

1—Is the power of disallowance of provincial legislation vested in the Governor-General in Council by Section 90 of the British North America Act, 1867, still a subsisting power?

(The Dominion says "Yes." Alberta says "No.")

2—If the answer to question one be in the affirmative, is the exercise of the said power of disallowance by the Governor-General in Council subject to any limitations or restrictions and, if so, what are the nature and effect of such limitations or restrictions?

3—Is the power of reservation for the signification of the pleasure of the Governor-General of Bills passed by the Legislative Assembly or legislative authority of a province vested in the Lieutenant-Governor by Section 90 of the British North America Act, still a subsisting power?

(The Dominion says "Yes." Alberta says "No.")

4—Similar question to No. 2, as to limitation of the power.

The other reference consists of three questions asking the court to rule on whether each of three Bills passed at the third session of the Alberta Legislature last year is intra vires of the Legislature. The Dominion claims all three ultra vires. Alberta claims they are all intra vires.

Measures In Dispute

The bills are:

"An act respecting the taxation of banks," imposing a tax of ½ per cent on paid up capital and one per cent on reserve funds of banks doing business in Alberta;

'An act to amend and consolidate the Credit of Alberta Regulation Act" providing for the licensing of "credit institutions" and the establishment of local directorates to supervise and control the business of such institutions.

"An act to ensure the publication of accurate news and information," requiring newspapers to print statements relating to government policies and objectives upon the demand of the charman of the Social Credit Board and requiring them also, on demand, to furnish the names of the writers of news items, articles and editorials and the source of information contained in news items, articles and editorials.

The affair goes back to an earlier session of the Legislature in 1937 when bills to license banks and bankers, called the "Credit of Alberta Regulation Act," prohibiting unlicensed bankers from taking certain actions in the courts and amending the Judicature Act were passed.

All three were disallowed by the Dominion Government. Then at a special session of the Legislature the three bills now before the Supreme Court were passed. Lieutenant-Governor Bowen reserved his assent and submitted them to the Federal government.

Premier Aberhart challenged the right of the Dominion to disallow bills passed by the Legislature and the right of the Lieutenan-Governor to withhold assent to bills passed and submitted to him.

MEN WHO FEEL OLD

Get Back New Youth, Energy, Vitality

Too many men to-day feel tired out all the time—can't work, hate to get up mornings, haven't the vitality to do the things they used to do. A weak unhealthy liver caused by modern living, soft foods, lack of exercise, is the chief reason. Your liver is the storehouse for glucose or the "energy part" of the food you eat—it supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands. If it is not strong and active no wonder you feel old! Take "Fruit-a-tives", it will build up your liver like nothing else will. You'll be surprised how young you soon feel. 25c., 50c., all Druggists.

JAP FISHERMEN PROBLEM FOR U.S.

FISH HARBOR, Los Angles, Jan. 5.—(AP).—In this picturesque cove of Los Angeles Harbor, the only question about the "Japanese fishing situation" is whether there is any "situation."

Fish Harbor is the home of most of the Japanese fishermen operating in this area. It is also the site of large American-owned canneries which depend almost entirely upon Japanese, Slavonian and Italian fishermen for their supplies, although Japanese are in the minority.

Japanese have been fishing out of here since Great War days, when they were welcomed as aids to the west coast fishing industry.

Recent seizures, however, of two Japanese-operated boats on illegal documentation charges and the perennial agitation over Japanese fishing off Alaska by boats from Japan—a different situation—have focused interest on California coastal operations. Another item is United States Senator Copeland's bill designed to eliminate alien-operated fishing boats from the coast trade.

350 Engaged in Trade.

About 350 purse seine fishing boats operate off California. Most of them are based at San Francisco, some at Monterey ad about 70 here.

Of the 70 based here, supplying most of the cannery products, only 10 are Japanese boats—manned by Japanese skippers and crews legcisco, some at Monterey and about

Most of the remainder are Slavonian and Italian craft, 60 per cent of whose crews are alien but also residing here legally.

In seizing the boats Three Star and Nancy Hawks, the treasury department contended they were illegally documented to United States citizens, while the real owners, or part owners, are alien Japanese. Aliens are prohibited from owning U.S.-documented vessels, wholly or in part, although licensing and documentation are required now only for boats down to 20 tons.

BRITISH POSTAL SERVICE BOOMING

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(CP).—Britain's post ofice declared the second biggest surplus of its history for the financial year ending last March 31. The surplus amounted to £12,250,000 which was £180,000 less than the record figure for 1935-1936.

But transactions amount to £962,000,000, the highest total yet and £61,000,000 more than 1935-1936.

Here are some of the highlights:

2,827,000 telephones in service or 248,000 more than the previous financial year;

7,700,000,000 letters handled—an increase of 350,000,000;

174,000,000 parcels handled—an increase of 12,000,000;

49,500,000 inland telegrams—an increase of 4,250,000;

16,000,000 money orders—an increase of 500,000;

344,600,000 postal orders—an increase of 32,000,000.

Father Facing Death Now Losing Home

Akron, O., Jan. 5 (UP)

EIGHT days ago a physician told Thomas Lloyd, 35-year-old father of three sons, that a rare bone disease would kill him within three years.

Tonight, he bemoaned a second stroke of misfortune. The Summit County Sheriff will sell his home in foreclosure proceedings January 14.

Lloyd, a jobless electrician, has been unable to meet payments on a Home Owners' Loan Corporation lien.

He sat tonight, silent in gloom.

He can't work. His wife said she has "tried everywhere," but unsuccessfully, to find employment. The family's only source of income is $12 weekly payments from a benefit association. In five more weeks, the relief payments stop.

SENIOR PETES OUTPLAY TRENTON FLIERS IN OVERTIME BATTLE

Petes Cop 10-5 Tussle As Trenton Fliers Fade In Hot Overtime Fray

Locals Turn It On Toward End of Exciting Senior "B" Fixture to Get Second Straight Victory

A battling finish gave the Petes a 10-5 overtime O.H.A. senior "B" victory over Trenton Fliers last night before 1500 fans at Belleville. It was the second win in as many starts for Pick Hines' local crew this season and gives them a firm grip on first place, their next three tilts being at home.

McDougall's goal as the gong sounded to end the third period tied up the tussle for the scrappy Petes and they swarmed all over the Fliers—aided by a penalty to Elliott, during which they scored three—in the extra inning. The Petes played a checking, waiting game for two periods against the better-conditioned and flashy Fliers, but they outplayed the 1937 Ontario intermediate "A" champions during the last part of the game.

Lot of Speed.

It was a thrilling fixture all the the way, with both sides battling hard, dishing up a lot of fast, smart hockey and roughing it up in spots as they threatened to resume their feud of last winter. The big crowd kept up a continuous racket and fully half the gathering cheered for Peterborough. There was no score in the first frame, it was 4-2 for Fliers in the second and tied at 5-all as overtime started, and the Petes easily the rest of the way.

Two distinct types of hockey were demonstrated in this first clash between the stronger teams of the group. The Fliers flashed their usual speedy, colorful style and looked like the better team the first two heats. The Petes preferred to check closely and wait for breaks while they let the Trenton team carry play. The Airmen, though in better shape at the start, slowed down near the finish and the fighting Liftlockers tore in on them savagely to rattle home three goals in the third period and five in the 10-minute overtime session. Fans left the rink marvelling at the strong finish by an apparently beaten squad.

First Line Shines

Pacing the Petes' attack, and supplying much of the scoring punch, were Barnes, Calladine, Starr and Vitarelli. The locals' first line turned in a fine game, and the ex-Westerner proved a tower of strength on defence and attack. The local second line was not far behind and proved good checkers all the way, McDougall, Kingdon and Gratton working hard every minute they were on the ice. Williamson and Weir played a powerful defensive game. Clarke shone in goal with a grand performance, kicking out a flock of hard close-in thrusts by the speedy Trenton snipers. The whole team went good—though three of them were playing their first game of the season. There were no individual stars for the losers, all looking good till toward the end.

The first frame saw a lot of speed but no scoring and no penalties. It was hard and even for a time, but the last half of the stanza saw the Fliers flying in for repeated shots on the Peterborough cage, some of them almost getting by Clarke. Both Ernie McNeely and Cowley deserved goals on grand tries inside the defence. The Airmen were checked closely by the Petes' wingmen and received some stiff checks on defence as they swept in on two and three-man rushes. Play was fast all the way through, and only a few times did the Hines' gang look dangerous on the attack, their first line having a few good chances but being unable to get by Gibson.

Open It Up

Action was more open in the exciting middle canto, with the Aviators outplaying the Petes but being checked hard all the way. A rush by Williamson and Vitarelli came close, but missed out. Then Ernie McNeeley got the first one one a scramble near the net in three minutes. The Petes tore back in reprisal and finally Vitarelli battled his way through Partridge to even it up. Clarke stopped two hot tries as the home crew zoomed in. Weir got away on a neat rush and then Lalonde was gated for using a high stick. The Petes pressed hard but couldn't tally. Later Lalonde scored on Lecompte's pass, the puck going in off Kingdon. The latter and Gratton came close but were blocked out. Calladine pulled Gibson out on Barnes' nice rush to again tie it up. Barnes was chased for kneeing Cowley and Eric McNeeley countered on Legrise's pass as they ganged up. Partridge got the finger for tripping but, as the Petes tore up, Ernie McNeeley broke away to make it 4-2.

From the start of the third, the Petes dominated play with a rushing attack as the Fliers gradually faded in the hot going. Starr got through defence neatly to score one. The local second line pressed hard for a time, and then Barnes pulled a lovely fast rush around defence to tie up the count once more. Weir was gated for tripping but Clarke held them off with some fine work in goal. Williamson later was sent off for a trip and again the Fliers ganged up dangerously, but they were checked up tightly. Partridge finally got through the defence to sink what looked like the winning goal. Barnes and Lalonde were sent off for roughing it, and just got back nicely when Vitaarrelli and Lalonde roughed it on defence and were waved to the cooler. Play was hot and rough for a time and the Petes were pressing so hard the Fliers flung the disc down the ice. Just as the gong sounded—before the referee had time to stop play with his whistle—McDougall took Barnes' pass at defence and rifled home the tying counter. An argument followed but the referee ruled the goal was scored in time.

There was no holding the Lick-lock crew in the overtime inning. Barnes pulled another dandy lone rush around defence to blaze an angle shot by Gibson. The Fliers battled back till Elliott went off for tripping. The Petes' first line ran wild within half a minute as they ganged up and scored three quick goals in close. Calladine backhanded home Vitarelli's pass for the first, Starr scored on Calladine's assist for another, and Calladine counted on Vitarelli's pass for the third. Elliott was back but the Petes continued to run amok around the Fliers' hangar, and they rapped in one more before the finish, Barnes tallying at close range with a hot shot. The Fliers looked dazed at the final whistle.

Former Hockey Star Dies At Pittsburg

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.—(AP).—Maynard (Dinny) Manners, 43, one time Pittsburgh amateur hockey star and coach, died here Tuesday.

Manners started his hockey career on the New Edinborough team in Ottawa, and came to Pittsburgh in 1915 as a member of the late Roy Schooley's teams.

He served in the Canadian Artillery during the Great War, returning to Pittsburgh to play with and later coach the Pittsburgh Eastern Amateur League team, disbanded last year.

For several years, Manners had been employed as night superintendent of the Duquesne Light Company.

Gunnar Revenges 1932 Trouncing

This terrific right by Gunnar Barlund in the third round of their New York fight nearly stiffened Alberto Lovell, of Argentina, as they met for the first time since Lovell won a three-round decision over the Finn in the 1932 Olympic games at Los Angeles. Barlund won easily, trouncing the South American in eight of the ten rounds and copping the decision.

California Scores First Touch down In 13-0 Rose Bowl Triumph

Eluding the flying tackle launched by an Alabama defender, Victor Bottari, crack halfback of California's Golden Bears, rounds the end to score California's first touchdown in the second quarter of the Rose Bowl classic played at Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day. The Bears halted Alabama's Crimson Tide to score a 13-0 victory before 90,000 spectators with halfback Bottari starring throughout.

BELLEVILLE HERE IN O.H.A. OPENER

A good sheet of ice awaits the opening of the O.H.A. season here tonight (Wednesday) at 8.30 o'clock when Belleville and the local Colts clash in a junior "B" fixture in the Brock St. rink. It was originally scheduled for last evening here but was postponed one night to oblige the Quinte crew, who were short-handed. The Belleville gang took an 11-3 opening O.H.A. win over Havelock which would indicate a real scoring threat in this machine. Most of the players are experienced juniors and they are said to be big, heavy and scrappy.

The local Colts, managed by Pat Hayden, have considerable beef for kids, too, and have looked quite speedy in practise. They have four of last year's classy team, a couple of highly-rated imports and the rest are former stars of the Junior City League. The team shows a lot of promise and fans will get a good line on the lads in this fray. It promises to be one of those typically junior slam-bang settos with neither side showing any signs of easing up till the final whistle. Lots of speed, action and scoring are indicated as these oldtime junior rivals meet for the first time this winter.

SAILORS ADVANCE TO SECOND PLACE BEAT OSHAWA 7-2

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Jan. 5 (CP).—Port Colborne Sailors counted a good many bruises today from a Senior A Ontario Hockey Association game with Oshawa G-men, but considered them well worth while because of a 7-2 victory that sent them into second place in the league standing.

The Sailors gave as good as they took in a bruising game here last night that reached its peak in excitement in the second period when a free-for-all fight developed after Scotty McAlpine of Oshawa whacked Thompson of Port Colborne over the head with his stick.

Draw Major Penalties.

Both players drew major penalties and Thompson had to have three stitches taken to close the gash. The Tars gained revenge, however, by slamming home four goals in the period to put away the game and break a second place tie with the G-men. The Sailors are now only two points away from the league-leading and unbeaten Toronto Goodyears, who have 10 points.

Wingman Red Reynolds led the Port Colborne attack with two goals and an assist that shot him into first place, with 17 points, among league snipers. He now is three points ahead of Don Metz, the Goodyear ace.

Oshawa scored twice in the first period, with Lex Chisholm getting both goals, and held the Sailors to a score by Doug Rumions. Reynolds scored twice in the second, while Cooney McGowan and Fitzgerald were other Port Colborne marksmen. Then in the final session Jasman and Thompson tallied.

MITT KNOCKOUTS HERE THURSDAY

Knockouts are expected to sprinkle the big fight card at the Armouries tomorrow (Thursday) evening when the seven-bout Riverview A. C. holds its second show, starting at 8.30 o'clock. There was one kayo and all kinds of action on the last program by this club, over 700 fans making an uproar throughout. Several of the bouts ended in arguments over judges' decision, and two of these main ones have been rematched to settle the grudges. With some experienced hard-hitting—and angry—ring gladiators tossed in together, fans can bank on several knockouts. Toronto fighters feel you must hang a K.O. on a local scrapper's chin to win in this town, and the Peterborough pugilists will be out to vindicate themselves. The club is affiliated with the Amateur Union and has received permission for Thursday.

One change has been made in the program, Bill Joiner replacing Jerry Belland against Phil Morris, Toronto lightweight. Joiner won handily here against Packenham last show and should make it a real battle. Redmond and Quirt are the curtain-raisers, with Hobbins and O'Neill going on next. Then Joiner and Morris, with Jordan and Foster fighting the last prelim. Three main bouts feature local and Toronto stars. Bowler battles Darnborough, Minicola has a rematch with Genovese, and Orlando is rematched with Carter. This looks like the best mitt card seen here in years.

Pheasant Experiment Meets No Success

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Jan. 5 (CP).—Officials of the Brockville Rod and Gun Club said yesterday the attempt to introduce pheasants in this area was not successful after five years' experiment.

During the five years the club distributed 300 live birds and set out 5,000 eggs, but T. C. Deachman, a club officer, said he doubted if there were 300 pheasants now.

Deachman said one of the difficulties under which the birds labor is the hard crust which forms on snow. The birds do not roost in trees, and the crust prevents them from seeking shelter in the snow. They fall prey to severe weather or animals.

Bruins Hit Leaf Defense Lines Hard To Gain 6-3 N.H.L. Win; Wings Blank Canadiens 3-0

Americans Gain on Smythemen With 5-5 Tie Against N.Y. Rangers

TORONTO, Jan. 5—(CP)—There's nothing like a good beating to tone down a high-flying hockey team that may imagine it can soar through to the Stanley Cup without hitting an air pocket or two. They all need it and they usually get it.

I was Toronto Maple Leafs' turn last night at Boston. Art Ross' Bruins showed a crowd of 16,000 just where the Leaf weakness lies as they slipped through the Toronto defences to mark up a 6-3 win, their third in as many games against Leafs this season.

The loss was serious for Conny Smythe's team because New York Americans drew up to within two points of them in the National Hockey League's Canadian Division by tying Rangers 5-5 in New York. Red Dutton's team edged into second place alone as Canadiens were defeated 3-0 by Detroit Red Wings in Montreal.

First In Ten.

The victory for Jack Adams' world champions was their first in 10 games and it brought them to within four points of Chicago Black Hawks, in the American Division's third spot. They hadn't won a game since they defeated Boston 3-2 on December 7, and the win was only their fourth in 21 games this season.

While Bruins split the Leaf defence repeatedly at Boston for close shots at Turk Broda, Toronto's three counters were all made while the Bruins played a man short. After scoring two goals in 25 seconds of the first period, Bruins were never less than a goal up on the Smythemen.

Split Boston Goals.

Leroy Goldsworthy and Ray Getliffe split four of the Boston goals, and little Bobby Bauer and Art Jackson got the others. Nick Metz scored twice for Toronto and Gordon Drillon upped his point total to 25 by getting the other.

Hooley Smith must have heard that Tommy Gorman wanted him for his Montreal Maroons. For he justified his job with Americans by scoring two goals in three minutes of the first period against Rangers, sending Dutton's team away to a lead they couldn't hold against the young Rangers.

Americans had the score at 4-1 in the second period but Lester Patrick's men rapped in three counters to tie the score and matched Americans' goal in the third. Besides Smith, Eddie Wiseman, Nels Stewart and Lorne Carr scored for Americans. Alex. Shibicky and Bryan Hextall shared four Ranger goals and the veteran Cecil Dillon got the other.

Helps Detroit Team.

Ebbie Goodfellow's steadying influence on the Detroit defence as he returns to form after his long layoff was seen at Montreal. The wing rearguard stood up well under the speedy Canadian assaults and wing marksmen were able to break away from their Canadien checks often enough for victory.

Johnny Sorrell broke away in the last minute of the second period for their first goal after the Habitants had forced the play for two periods but found the Detroit defence too tough. When Canadiens sent four forwards down in the last period Red Beattie and Larry Aurie slipped through for the Detroit counters that made the outcome sure.

SOLDIER AWARDED LOU MARSH TROPHY FOR HORSEMANSHIP

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (C.P.). — A dashing lieutenant of the Governor-General's Horse Guards, W. Marshal Cleland of Toronto, is the second winner of the Lou Marsh Memorial Trophy, awarded annually to the "outstanding sports competitor" in Canada.

Lieut. Cleland won the award for brilliant horsemanship which brought him prizes in international competitions at New York, Chicago, Montreal, and Toronto. He was a member of the Canadian Army team that competed in riding and jumping contests at various horse shows last year with teams from the Irish Free State, United States, Holland, and Belgium.

First Equestrian.

Announcement of the award, first of its kind ever presented to a competitor in equestrian sports in Canada, was made last night by a committee of judges headed by P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee. It will be presented to Lieut. Cleland on January 15.

Son of a wealthy Toronto distillery executive and a rider since he was six years old, Cleland last year won the military knock-down-and-out competition and was recognized as the best military rider at the New York Horse Show; strung up victories in military pairs and in the three-day team event and won the individual championship at the Chicago Show; and scored wins in the touch-and-out and military pairs events at the Toronto Royal Winter Fair.

Out of Field of 22.

Judges selected the 25-year-old rider from 22 entrants representing a number of sports. Other entrants included Bob Rankine, Preston, Ont., winner of the Crow Memorial Trophy, an award of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, and Syl Apps, Toronto Maple Leaf hockey star, voted the outstanding athlete in a poll of sports writers conducted by The Canadian Press.

Last year's winner was Dr. Phil Edwards, the dusky British Guiana middle distance runner, who represented Canada in three successive Olympics.

COME ON STEVE TRAINS HORSES FOR MORE WINS

LONDON, Jan. 5. (CP).—Steve Donoghue, the one and only "Steve" to millions of British racing fans who headed the list of winning jockeys for 10 straight years and booted home six Derby winners, is well launched on a new career as a trainer.

With 30 hores in his care, the 52-year-old rider, still smiling and spry despite the buffetings of 30 years in the saddle, is busy preparing training quarters at Newbury, Berkshire. Many owners whose colors he wore have promised their patronage.

Since he first answered the bugle call of "Boots and Saddles," at the age of 22, to bring Turkish Delight II home a winner at Phoenix Park, Dublin, the little Irishman has piloted 1,840 thoroughbreds first past the post.

Gordon Richards, successor to the jockeys' crown, has surpassed his figures of "wins" and "places," but Steve's feat of bringing in the winner of the Epsom Derby, premier British classic, three years in succession never has been duplicated.

Made Great Finishes

When he galloped home on Humorist, a rank Derby outsider, in 1921, Steve was in his heyday. He had been champion jockey for seven years and had his pick of mounts. In 1922 he plagued the prophets when he finished going away on Captain Cuttle. In 1923 he rode the year's outstanding three-year-old, Ben Irish's Papyrus, to victory in the classic.

Fans agreed no one could negotiate the switchback Epsom course, with its counter-clockwise direction and crucial Tattenham Corner, like the little Irish wizard. It was a legend that Steve rode around Tattenham corner with one leg over the rail.

In 1928 he journeyed to the United States with Papyrus for a challenge race against Harry Sinclair's Zev, champion American three-year-old. He finished five lengths behind Earl Sande on Zev. Steve offered no excuses, though many blamed the unsettling voyage and the unfamiliar clay track for Papyrus' failure.

At that time Steve was among the most popular men in England. He was received everywhere and numbered among his intimates many of the greatest in the land. Racing crowds forgot his mount in a close finish and yelled: "Come on, Steve!" a cry that became a catchword.

He took the stump for Winston Churchill in a Westminster election campaign and, when he suffered a double fracture of his leg in a heavy fall at Nottingham, King George V and Lord Derby headed the list of sympathizers.

When Steve won the Derby with H. E. Morias' Manna in 1925, rumor said the delighted owner made him an outright gift of £10,000.

But money never stuck with Steve and three years later, when the flow of winners ceased, he was bankrupt. When creditors met to discuss the jockey's debts it was revealed he was riding for three guineas (about $15) a ride, with an added two guineas for a win. He had ridden 108 consecutive losers.

His luck turned at last, and then began one of the episodes which most endeared him to the British public—his partnership with Sir Harry Wernher's colt Brown Jack.

"Steve and Brown Jack" became a "gag" as time and again the combination scored. The pair monopolized the Queen Alexandra Stakes at Newmarket, winning it for six successive years, the last time when Brown Jack was 10 years old.

Brown Jack was Steve's favorite mount and after the horse was retired to pasture, Steve would travel down from London to talk to his old friend. The sight of Steve's stocky figure would bring Brown Jack across the paddock at a canter.

Started at 13

A native of Warrington, Lancashire, Steve first went up on a racehorse when he was 13 years old. He won his first Derby on Pommern in 1915 and his second two years later on Gay Crusader.

Steve Donoghue was entertained by his brother jockeys at a farewell dinner recently. Steve's speech was broadcast, and far away in Brown Jack's stable they fixed up a receiver. Steve had a message for his old pal.

"Hello, old boy," he said. "I can see you now, you beauty. I hope your ears are burning because I'm thinking of you all the time."

INDIAN RIVER BEATEN 5 TO 3 IN FIRST GAME

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Jan. 5.—A double-header at Norwood rink last night featured the opening of the East Peterborough Rural Hockey League. Elgin took a 5 to 3 decision from Indian River for the first game, and the second game was an easy 4 to 0 win for Westwood from South Dummer. Both games were rough and all teams showed lack of practice.

After three minutes of play, in the Elgin-Indian River game, Jim Cavanagh sunk the first goal for Indian River on a pass from Holmes. Jack Preston for Elgin evened up the score at 16 minutes to end the scoring for the period. This period saw much "wood chopping" with hockey sticks, and many players were falling on the ice from stiff bodychecks. George Richardson, for Elgin, served a two-minute penalty.

Second Period Rougher

The second period opened up a bit rougher. Both teams were cheated when they missed open nets several times, but finally at the 8-minute mark Jack Preston scored Elgin's second goal. Lloyd Fleming, on a shot from centre ice, scored again, and the period ended 3 to 1 for Elgin. Clark of Indian River received a cut over the left eye and Lloyd Fleming for Elgin was given a penalty for boarding.

Roy Richardson opened scoring for Elgin after five minutes of play and was followed a moment later with another by George Richardson to end Elgin's scoring. Redpath sunk Indian River's second counter at eight minutes, and on a pass from Redpath, Clarke, for Indian River, scored the final goal. Eldon Preston for Elgin was the standout in this period, as he stopped many shot in goal. Paul Holmes of Indian River was given a penalty for tripping. The game ended 5 to 3 for Elgin.

The line-ups:

Indian River. — Doherty, goal; Shearer and Redpath, wings; Jim Cavanagh, centre; Holmes and Hayes, defence; alternates: Clark, Green, Hogan, Jack Cavanagh, Kelly.

Take Early Lead

Three goals were scored in rapid succession by Westwood players in the first period of the second game by Morris. One penalty was given G. Elliot of South Dummer for boarding.

The second period was very rough with three penalties handed out. Patterson and Elliot of Dummer receiving two minutes each and W. Buck of Westwood getting two minutes. B. Graham of Westwood scored their final goal at eight minutes.

Much stiff body-checking between the husky farm lads provided many laughs for spectators in the third. Penalties were given Morris, Chapman and Joe Elliot. The games ended 4 to 0 for Westwood. The line-ups:—

South Dummer.—A. Lobb, goal; Kelly, centre; G. Elliot and Lagrande, wings; J. Elliot and Patterson, defence; alternates: Moore, C. Lobb, W. Lobb, Gallagher, Webster.

Westwood. — Spencer, goal; B. Graham, centre; Morris and Sargent, wings; Chapman and W. Graham, defence; alternates, C. Stevenson, E. Stevenson, A. Stevenson, Starke, Buck.

Canadian Athletes Like One Family On Board Australian Bound 'Aorangi'

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5 (CP).—The Canadian team bound for the British Empire Games in Australia completed a fortnight on shipboard today as the liner Aorangi proceeded toward Suva.

The first week at sea gave the 78 Canadians a chance to get acquainted, according to a letter written to The Canadian Press from Honolulu by M. M. (Bobby) Robinson of Burlington, Ont. The team's general manager, writing December 29, said: "It is a happy family that looks toward the eight-day jump to Suva, where training ashore will again be popular." The team sailed from Vancouver December 22.

The first two days saw half the team down with sea-sickness due to rough seas, Robinson said. "But on Christmas morning all were up. Church service in the morning, deck games in the afternoon, formed a prelude to hilarious dinner—the evening was spent in dancing, the team being allowed to remain on deck until 11.30.

"Next day the routine of training was instituted with the boxers and wrestlers working out in the ship's gym, the swimmers in the small but useful tank and the others on the top deck."

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

THEY FLY o'er the pond with the greatest of ease, those daring young junior O.H.A. "B's"—ha, poetry it gives! Yeah, tonight the well-known lid prying off takes place at 8.30 by your gold watch and silver chain in the Brock St. Winter Gardens. With an O.H.A. junior "B" fixture featuring Eddie Thomas' junior Bellevilles and Pat Hayden's local Colts. We dunno who will win as the locals are unknown yet and we haven't seen the Redmen's kid brothers in action so far. The latter team took an 11-3 smirk over Havelock in their opener, so they must have something on the ball. Or on the puck. But Peterborough has been noted the past five or six years for turning out classy junior squads, and we like the way the locals are lining up now. Yep, fans can bank on a good team here again in '38.

• • • • • •

WE LISTED the likely lineups of the team the other day—when the tilt was postponed from Tuesday till Wednesday to please Il Duce Thomas. Belleville has such gees as Carson, O'Neill, McCreary, Storms, Rowbotham, Ronsky, Muir, Goyer, Green, Amo and McGuire. And we have McNabb, Heath, Al Clark, Brady, Walker, Berwick, Gee Clark, Jopling, Tompkins, Craig, O'Leary, White and Creighton. It ought to be a typical wide-open speedy junior jamboree with a flock of red flashes as the goals are scored. It rates a big crowd.

• • • • • •

EACH BOUT between local and Toronto fighters tomorrow eve at the fistic show in the Armouries will be five rounds. That is five two-minute rounds, and one extra if the judges so order it. Other bouts will be three three-minute ones, with an extra round if ordered. Amateur scrappers are allowed as much as 12 minutes of actual fighting, but no more. And, y'know, we rather expect that each bout on this promising pug card will see from nine to 12 minutes of actual fighting. Yeah, actual. All the Toronto mitt-slingers are topnotch ringmen, good boxers and punchers—though Carter is an exceptionally speedy boxer with a powder-puff punch. Orlando hopes to kayo him. Ditto Minicola with Genovese, as Len has dynamite in both fists whereas Genovese is a lighter hitter but a better boxer. Both Bowler and Darnbrough are hard hitters, the latter having a deadly right uppercut.

• • • • • •

PAT JORDAN'S joust with the colored Tommy Foster of Toronto ought to provide fireworks and the Irisher thinks he can take the darky ere the final gong. Bill Joiner, replacing Jerry Belland, may have his hands full with Phil Morris, but will slug it out with the Toronto lightweight all the way. Two local lads, around 150 pounds of each, will pound each other hard we imagine—and no mercy shown—when Joe Hobbins faces Jack O'Neill. And the kids' curtain-raiser ought to be lively, too. Little Buddy Redmond won by a technical knockout last time, though you could have knocked him over with a crow-bar—he was that surprised! It is a tasty boxing dish to set before the King and Queen and you and you.

'TIS BLOOD and Thunder Loop night tomorrow (Thursday) in the gloaming at the Brock St. rink, with a twin bill hoisting the curtain on the Senior City Hockey League for this year of grace. Starts at eight bells, between the local entries, Westclox and Southenders—and rumor hath it that the classy Clockmakers will run into a ton of opposition when the southend squad starts skating. Second setto is at nine betwixt the Hiawatha Indians and Bewdley. If the Indians can just keep from barging through the end of the rink—after being used to lots of room on Rice Lake—they may start the season off with a win over their feudin' enemies of Bewdley. At least, fans will see some hair-raising (not scalping, nossuh!) hockey in this tussle and some real battling in the first fixture, too. Westclox goes to Lakefield next Tuesday. This Friday p.m. sees Millbrook and Lakefield open their season on the latter's sheet of ice.

• • • • • •

TRENTON FLIERS limped home from Belleville last night after making a forced landing in a senior "B" fixture with the Petes. The locals grounded 'em with a 10-5 thump in a redhot overtime scrap before some 1500 fans. Many of them cheering lustily for the Petes. A dandy puck tilt, one of the best we've lamped in years. Ye airy Airmen looked like winners for two periods but faded somewhat in the third and blew up like balloons in a typhoon through the 10-minute extra inning. In better shape after six hard games in the Van Horne series—and this being the Petes' second, but the first for Calladine, Kingdon and Weir—the Fliers needed a soft couch much worse than the Petes at the finish! Goalie Gibson got a charley-horse in both arms from fishing out pucks from behind him, and he is thinking of boarding up his goal in future with some of those two-by-fours the Quinte columnist recently suggested our team would need against the Trentons.

• • • • • •

THIS WAS a thriller all right. No score in the first period but Fliers threatened often. It was 4-2 for 'em in the second. Petes got three to one in the third—tying up the game as the last gong sounded. Puck was shot by Shrimp McDougall as the gong went but before Referee Armstrong could blow his whistle to end play. Just the difference of getting the whistle up to his lips, and generally a guy can bend his elbow fairly fast, don't you think? Then, the Liftlockers ran wild in overtime to tally five, though three were scored while a Flier was wrapped up in the sin box for tripping. It was a fast, sizzling game with plenty of players having to dust snow off the seats of their pants after colliding with the husky defencemen on both sides. A bruising battle in spots and these teams will dish up a dandy lot of hockey and some rough stuff, too, ere the group is settled. Well, that's two wins in a row on foreign ice and we're home now for three, Fliers coming here Friday in the first. If the Pete's haven't forgotten how to go on smaller ice they may make it three in a row. It'll pack in the customers.

STARS LAST night? Kind of hard to say, but we'll name the first line of Calladine, Vitarelli and Starr. For scoring and back-checking. Barnes again turned in a beautiful performance, bouncing rivals with teeth-rattling bumps back on defence and pulling several of the finest scoring rushes of the night. Clarke was almost sensational in goal, robbing Fliers repeatedly with great saving. Our second line looked most promising too, McDougall hitting his stride more and playing his usual heady game, Kingdon fitting in as a senior with some speedy work both ways, and Gratton holding his check close all night. Weir and Williamson proved steady, smart defencemen and not hesitating to slow the 1937 intermediate "A" champs up with stiff body blows. Coach Pick Hines had the team playing a checking game most of the way to let the Fliers flash a lot of stuff but wear themselves out finally—with the Petes then turning it on. It worked like a charm. Needless to say, the Petes' dressing-room was a jubilant spot after the game. It was not so noisy in the Fliers' camp.

PICKING 'EM off the grapevine: Barnes got five scoring points and Calladine four last p.m. in Belleville . . . . We only had one spare defenceman, but what the heck! . . . . Southend Loop appreciates Bill Prindible's gift of two goal sticks; we didn't get the dope on this league's games last night . . . . Church Cage Circuit contests Saturday at the "Y": St. John's Bantams vs. St. Andrew's at 6.30 and St. Paul's Juveniles vs. St. John's at 7.15 . . . . To hurry the Van Horne series along, games from here on will count four points . . . . Our Bees have an O.H.A. game in Port Hope tomorrow . . . . C.G.E. Shop Hockey League opens Sat'day at the Brock with four games; dope on it is in elsewhere . . . . Belleville gal cagers play C.G.E. here Friday . . . . Royal Canadians Win In Playdowns

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—Royal Canadian rinks, skipped by Andy Grant and Rev. Dr. Cranston emerged victorious in the Toronto group playdowns of the Ontario Silver Tankard.

The R.C. representatives defeated a pair of Victoria quartets in the finals played at Royal Canadian Curling Club Tuesday night, and qualified for the group winners' playdowns, which will be held in Guelph on Feb. 3.

Grant's quartet toppled Stuart Graham's four by a 15-to-12 margin and Cranston's decisioned Gilbert Chisholm's rink, 16-to-13, to give the Royal Canadians a 31-to-25 advantage in the two games.

Hamilton Collegiate Rifle Team Wins Coveted Earl Roberts Cup And Medals

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 5. (CP).—Word was received Tuesday from the Department of National Defence that the Central Collegiate marksmen had won the coveted Earl Roberts Trophy and bronze medals. The local team is the first in Canada to win the trophy contest, open to the whole Empire.

On several occasions the local team has been second. One year it finished with the highest score, but a slip-up in sending the scores to England caused a mix-up that resulted in the local team being asked to share the trophy with another. The offer was refused and the other team got the trophy.

The collegiate marksmen had a score of 301 in the 1937 competition. The record is 303. W. Christopher was captain of the team. Capt. J. R. Cornelius, athletic and physical director, supervised training.

The team members and their scores were: Leo Christopher, 78; A. Davy, 77; George Christopher, 76; J. Mellon, 70.

"If this team gets to Bisley this year, I think they will do something really outstanding," said Capt. Cornelius today.

Harrow School, England, placed second in the competition with 294 with a team from the Officers' Training Corps.

Denstone, England, College O.T.C. team was third with 286.

WESTCLOX WINS EXHIBITION TILT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 5.—The hockey season opened in Lakefield on Monday evening, January 3, when the Westclox pucksters and the Lakefield hockey team staged an exhibition battle in the Lakefield rink. Both teams are entered in the Peterborough Senior City League, and this preliminary struggle between last year's winners and "runners-up" makes it look as if Lakefield will have to fight to retain her position on top of the league for a second season.

The score on Monday was Westclox 4, Lakefield 2, although some authorities were inclined to give the Lakefield team credit for a goal scored by Chappell after the bell had rung because, they claim, it was scored before the referee's bell rang.

The game was close and was characterized by a great amount of close checking.

Westclox scored twice in the first period to the homesters' single counter. Deeth made the first point for the visitors, with credit for the second counter going to Gardiner. Harry Jewell counted for Lakefield.

Louis Sabatino scored in the second canto to tie the count, and Blewett and O'Leary for the visitors picked the game out of the fire in the last period to end the counting.

Blewett, O'Leary and Gardiner put up a good game for the visitors, and Deeth, Chittick, Chappell and S. Loyst (in goal) turned in some fine work for the Lakefield team.

The line-up:

Lakefield—Goal, S. Loyst; defence, L. Sabatino and H. Stabler; centre, Chittick; right wing, H. Jewell; left wing, G. Charlton; alternates: I. Charlton, B. Johnston, A. Deeth, G. Chappell, F. Loyst.

The first regular game in the Senior City League schedule to be played in Lakefield will be run off in the Lakefield Rink on Friday evening, January 7, at 8.15 p.m., when Millbrook will play the local team. On Tuesday, January 11, Westclox will play Lakefield in Lakefield. The fact that the Lakefield team has lost three players—Blewett, Lennox and R. Deeth—to the Westclox squad should make this first battle a real one.

CELTIC OUSTED.

EDINBURGH, Jan. 5. — (CP Cable.)—Hearts ousted Celtic from top place in the Scottish Football League Tuesday by turning in a 1-0 victory over Falkirk at Tynecastle Park. The decision gave Hearts 36 points for the campaign to date, one more than the Celts, but the latter have a game in hand.

Gets Victory Pass

This pass which Jimmy Coughlin of Santa Clara is hauling in, cost Louisiana State U. a victory in the Sugar Bowl football game at New Orleans on New Year's Day. After taking the pass, Coughlin raced through L.S.U.'s end zone to score the game's only touchdown. Santa Clara won 6-0 to retain an unbeaten, untied record for the season.

U.S. PROVIDES FOR FUTURE IN NET GAME

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Don Budge is in Australia and not yet a professional: Bobby Riggs is on the southern circuit and again winning tournments. So far the present international supremacy of United States tennis appears secure.

But what of the future? That, too, by a more involved process, is being provided for by the officials of the United States Lawns Tennis Association.

The "providing" has taken the form of a nation-wide development scheme that takes in supervision and tournaments for boys (15 and under), girls, schoolboys, collegians, juniors and, above all, junior Davis Cuppers.

Twenty-Eight Squads

The latter, on their title alone, receive the most detailed attention. In the year just past junior Davis Cup squads, with no age limit, but generally taking in youngsters between 15 and 20, were established at 28 major tennis points throughout the United States.

Each of these squads had the benefits of supervision by its own sectional committee and its own qualified coach. Some played matches with rival squads from other cities—Nashville, Memphis and Atlanta held a triangular meet. Others sent teams into near-by tournaments.

All of them were instructed in the aggressive tactics, the "watch-for-an-opening-and-make-the-most - of -it" policy that is the cardinal rule of Walter L. Pate, captain of the triumphant 1937 forces.

2 Teams Drop Out City Basketball

met Tuesday night at the "Y" to deal with several business items, and some changes were made in the tentative entry list. Two teams droped out, Auburns for shortage of playing strength and St. Andrew's because many of their players are on the senior school team. Four teams will comprise the league, St. Paul's, C.G.E. and two teams—unnamed yet—sponsored by downtown stores. Two preliminary games will be played this Saturday to allow managers to get a line on their players, C.G.E. and St. Paul's meeting at eight, with referees being H. Hammell and V. Holmes, and the other pair of squads clashing at nine, O. Weir and J. Jakafby being the referees.

Children's Verse For Anhtem

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP)—A children's verse for use with "God Save the King" was sung for the first time at a Christmas play for children at the Holborn Empire Theatre here.

It was written by Miss Italia Conti and sung when Princess Elizabeth, with her mother, the Queen, went to see the play, "Where the Rainbow Ends."

The verse is:

We who are children weak,
We for the future speak,
Rainbow we bring.
Children of empire rise,
Hope—faith our battle-cries,
Who lives if England dies?
God save the King.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

tion to quash or by action for a declaratory judgment.

While the question of jurisdiction was not stressed to a very great extent, it impresses me as being one of great importance in an appeal of this character, for if there was no jurisdiction in the Court of Revision then there is no jurisdiction in this court.

In substance these appeals are attacks upon by-laws of the municipality and a reference to 7 C.E.D. at page 897 under the heading "Mode of Attack" we find—

"The validity of a municipal by-law may be brought in question in an action before the Supreme Court or upon appeal from a conviction for a breach of a provision of the by-law or by an application to quash under the Municipal Act."

It does not definitely state, however, that there is no other mode of attack, while if we turn to Manning on Assessment, Second Edition, at page 234, and the cases therein referred to, it seems that he suggests that all matters, legal and otherwise are within the jurisdiction of the Courts of Revision. Manning states that it is not clear how far the effect of Section 86 of the Assessment Act goes, and cites a number of instances since the passing of the Section in its present form, where actions have been maintained in the courts. From my reading of the cases it would appear that where there is jurisdiction in the Court of Revision, the Supreme Court will not sustain an action.

The question then appears to be, in the first instance, whether there was jurisdiction in the Court of Revision, for if there was then there was no right to bring an action for a declaratory judgment irrespective of any other plea put up, and the ratepayers generally would be limited to their right under 294 of the Municipal Act, which must have been exercised within one year or an appeal against the assessment.

Court of Revision's Power.

The powers of the Court of Revision are those set out in the Assessment Act and these powers are derived by virtue of Sections 69 and 86 of the Act.

Section 69 in substance is as follows:

"... The Court shall meet and try all complaints in regard to persons wrongly placed upon or omitted from the roll, or assessed at too high or too low a sum."

Section 86 is substantially as follows:

"It is hereby declared that the Court of Revision....have jurisdiction to determine not only the amount of any assessment, but also all questions as to whether any persons or things are or were assessable or are or were legally assessed or exempted from assessment."

In this appeal the question is as to whether the respondent companies were legally exempted from taxation based upon an attack upon the by-laws mentioned.

If one had to refer only to the Assessment Act without reference to the Municipal Act, Sections 4 and 32 would be the guide, and Section 86 would be quite easily interpreted. It is quite possible that many mixed questions of law and fact might be raised as to any particular property referred to in Section 4 of the Act, or questions of law with respect to the assessment of property for school purposes under Section 32, which without the provisions of Section 86 would be beyond the jurisdiction of the Court of Revision. See Toronto Railway vs. City of Toronto (1904) A.C. 809, and other cases referred to in Manning at page 237. Section 86 remedies the situation in so far as such legal questions are concerned.

Not a Precedent.

The appelant relies on the case of Pringle vs. Stratford, 1909, 20 O.L.R. 246 in support of his contention that the Court of Revision had power to deal with this matter. The sole matter raised in this case was a question as to the construction of the agreement and by-law in question, and no question was raised as to the legality of the by-law itself. This only goes so far as to suggest that the Court is competent to interpret a by-law which is in force by considering whether the fixed assessment applied to school taxes. In Ottawa Young Men's Christian Association vs. City of Ottawa (1913) 29 O.L.R. 574 Meredith C.J.O. was considering what the term "occupied by and used for the purpose of the Association" meant and concludes his judgment in the following words: "The Assessment Act now provides ample machinery for determining such questions and I am inclined to think that relief must be "sought from the tribunals which are by the Act charged with the duty of determining all questions as to assessment and not by action in which a declaratory judgment is sought." This opinion coming as it does from such an eminent authority on Municipal law is not to be lightly cast aside, and if accepted, holus bolus, would indicate that the appellant was before the correct tribunal. I am, however, unable to bring myself to the conclusion that in making this statement the learned Chief Justice intended to lay down a principal of law which would make it possible that the propriety of passing a by-law could be brought in question before a tribunal (which in a great many instances is composed of laymen) when the Municipal Act itself provides a simple procedure for determining such questions. Certainly Pringle vs. Stratford is far short from construing Section 86 of the Act as giving the Court of Revision power to exercise judicial functions, which were formerly within the exclusive jurisdiction of Superior Courts of Law. If Section 86 does go that far, in my opinion, it is ultra vires to the Legislature.

See re McLean vs. Attorney-General, 54 O.L.R. 573 and particularly the judgment of Ferguson J. A. at 576.

For these reasons I have come to the conclusion that there is no jurisdiction in the Court of Revision, and accordingly that they were right in failing to make any findings on the merits. I am accordingly of the opinion that the appeal should be dismissed, but without costs.

WEATHERMAN IS SELDOM OUT

office in Toronto has a complete weather report from each one of them.

From then on, a pencil—and not a lot of queer-looking instruments—does the trick. The 250 weather reports are marked on a large map of the continent. Then, with a series of lines called isobars, the pencil joins up points showing equal density of air.

Snow From the East.

A thicker line is drawn to separate the different air masses. Then the forecaster has to figure out from what source will come the air that will pass over a given place for the next 36 to 48 hours—or longer.

That isn't all plain sailing, for a number of disturbances enter into the picture. There's the unequal heating by the sun of land and water, and also the rotation of the earth on its axis.

And it must be determined whether the air masses will increase or decrease in density. They don't as a result remain in a given state, says Mr. O'Donnell. Some which appear feeble and insignificant may develop into severe storms, or vice versa.

Air must pass from west to east—not always directly, however. It doesn't follow that you can measure the temperature, say, in Winnipeg and expect it to hit Toronto with the directness of an express train. It comes by devious routes, conforming with centres of high and low pressure. It's often diverted to the Middle West and then comes back modified by the warmth of the Great Lakes.

And if snow comes with an east wind, don't say it's impossible. Take that storm on New Year's Eve, for instance. The Gulf of Mexico was responsible for it. The mass of air came north and when it met up with the east wind it had to rise—as hot air always does—and condensation took place. So Toronto got snow while there was an east wind blowing.

DR. S. LUMB AGAIN BANCROFT REEVE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, Jan. 5.—One of the closest elections to take place in the village for a number of years was held Monday when Walter E. Wiggins opposed Dr. S. S. Lumb, last year's reeve. The voting was close all day and until the ballots were almost counted it was doubtful which man would be Bancroft's reeve for 1938. Dr. Lumb was elected with a total of 236 votes while Mr. Wiggins had 186 votes, giving Dr. Lumb a majority of 50 votes.

The other members of the 1938 council were elected by acclamation, at the nominations which were held in the Community Hall on Monday, Dec. 27. Those elected were James Maxwell, Theodore Tryon, Dorman Hawley and Dr. O. W. Anderson.

The school trustees were also appointed by acclamation, Charles Plumley, Stanley Walker, Herman Maxwell. Those whose term of office does not expire until 1939, are Fred Peever, Jack Vance and Herman Hawley.

Work Givers Of '29 Said Slackers Now

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—A Labor Department official testified today some firms which sought to combat unemployment in the United States by spreading work in 1929 "are not attempting to spread the work today."

Appearing as the first witness before a special Senate unemployment committee, Isador Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics, said he did not know "whether or not this change was deliberate."

"Perhaps these companies felt they over-did it (spreading work) in 1929," Lubin continued. "There may be a thousand and one reasons for it."

ENJOYABLE RALLY BY YOUNG PEOPLE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 5.—The opening meeting of the year for the Young People's Union was held in the basement of St. Andrew's church on Monday at 8 p.m., with the new president, Mr. B. B. Dawson, in the chair.

A recreational period under the direction of Ken Kidd took up the initial part of the meeting, after which the business items were discussed, with special emphasis upon the meeting of the new executive which is to be held at the President's home on January 7.

During the worship service, the president gave a talk on the objectives of the young people in their association, and included a general view of the objectives of any body of young folk band together for the work of the Kingdom. Following this the pledge was sung, and membership cards signed, all then forming a 'prayer circle,' with joined hands, while Bea and Marjorie McDowell sang "Just as I am," with everybody joining in the final verse, after prayer had been offered by Jean L. Burnham.

Two winter schools will be held in the conference this year, one at Belleville, and the other at Lindsay, the latter being the one where local delegates will attend.

On the eve of the New Year the Y.P.U. held its annual special evening, with a large attendance, when games were played, illustrative of each of the twelve months. In November, with its observance of Thanksgiving, refreshments were served, and in December Christmas carols were sung, with the president, Mr. Dawson, conducting the worship period.

LINDSAY CITIZEN GETS 18 MONTHS FOR TIRE THEFTS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Jan. 5.—"Tubby" Perrin, a local man with a long court record, was on Monday sentenced to eighteen months in the Reformatory in police court on the charge of theft of four tires, the property of the Bell Telephone Company. The theft was committed in Fenelon Falls township some months ago, and the police had been working on the case ever since. The value of the tires and wheels was over $200.00. On a previous appearance in court Perrin pleaded not guilty.

Another Theft Charge

Hector Blair, a local man, was sentenced to three months in jail for the theft of three ladies' coats. Blair gave one of the coats to a woman who was detected by the police wearing the garment.

Kenneth Pollock, who was employed here during the summer on road construction work, was committed for trial on the charge of theft of four tires, the property of the Bell Telephone Company. Pollock was employed by "Tubby" Perrin as a truck driver, and the latter in giving testimony before Magistrate Gee, swore that Pollock had forced him at the point of a gun to drive the accused and Thos. Bryans (a chum of "Red" Ryan) to the theft of the property.

Three months in the county jail was the sentence meted out today by Magistrate Gee to Harvey Windover, of Toronto, and formerly of these parts of passing worthless cheques in Lindsay and Bobcaygeon. His son, John, who was charged with the same offence, was given suspended sentence. Records disclosed the fact that Windover was convicted and sentenced on two charges of false pretences in Hastings county. County Crown Attorney Anderson pointed out that Windover was doubly guilty. He not only passed worthless cheques, but brought his boy in with him.

Damage and other expenses caused by rabbits in England in 1937 totaled over $350,000,000.

MORE ADEQUATE SCHOOL DENTAL SERVICE URGED IN REPORT

Board Of Education Holds Its Final Meeting New Board Meets Thursday

Dental Problem Be One of First To Come Before The 1938 Board

Ways and means of providing more adequate school dental services, promises to be one of the problems facing the incoming Board of Education who hold their inaugural meeting on Thursday night of this week.

In a report he was requested to make to the board bearing on the causes of the high percentage of pupils in the city's public schools requiring dental treatment, Dr. J. C. Green, school dental officer stressed the need of increased facilities for dental services.

"No one realizes the inefficiency of the present system any more than I do," he declared. The dental officer explained the matter was brought to the notice of the Board some years ago. The only recommendation, he could make, he said, was to refer the Board to the report of Dr. Conboy, director of dental services for Ontario. In his report made at that time Dr. Conboy urged the time spent on school dental services should be increased.

Tabulates Reasons

Regarding the percentage of pupils needing dental treatment, which Dr. Green commented, "is very high in all the schools," there were, he said, two important reasons. He tabulated these reasons as follows:

"(1) To complete the cycle of dental examinations and treatment in all the schools takes close to one and a half years. There is a large number of children who do not receive dental treatment except what is provided through the school services. In the interval of one and a half years there is bound to be a certain amount of dental decay develop, and that can only be decreased by more frequent examinations and treatment.

"(2) As far as our records show for the years 1936-37 there were approximately 1,000 pupils needed dental treatment who did not receive it either from the school dental clinic or from their family dentist. This means that only about one-third the total enrollment in the public school are receiving regular dental treatment."

Dr. Green expressed a belief the number receiving dental treatment could be considerably lessened, by the educating of pupils and parents to the importance of dental care. under present conditions, however, the dental officer said, he had not the time to give to this important phase of his work. His aim for the past fifteen years as school dental officer had been to render as great an amount of service as possible to the largest possible number.

So busy have his duties as dental officer kept him, Dr. Green stated, that his work had received the criticism that school dental work was "rough and painful." The fact was Dr. Green declared, "I do not have the time to use local anaesthetics for filling, so the children have just had to take it."

Letter Adds Emphasis

Inspector K. S. Wightman in a letter to the Board lent emphasis to the recommendation made by Dr. Green. The inspector stated that in checking work to be done by the school dental officer he had found a number of cards signed by parents in regular employment.

He had held the applications up, but had hesitated to reject them, because he realized the children concerned would be the sufferers if necessary dental work was not done.

He asked the Board for a definite ruling in this regard.

Inspector Wightman also drew attention to the fact that due to pressure of work the school dental officer was not able to cover all the schools. There were deserving cases, he believed that were not receiving attention.

He concluded with the observation, "There are a great many parents who do not yet regard the care of children's teeth as a necessary expenditure."

Both Dr. Green's report and Inspector Wightman's letter were referred by the Board to the Supervision Committee.

The Rambling REPORTERS

FORGOT TO MAIL

Fumbling idly in his overcoat pocket today, a young man on George street discovered three envelopes. He pulled them out, glanced at them and stowed them back hurriedly before anyone could see. He pulled them out for another look, and his worst fears were confirmed. Three Christmas cards he had forgotten to mail.

One of the Christmas card addressees happened by at the moment so the young man bravely handed over the dog-eared missive.—C.P.K.

BELATED GREETINGS

While it is no reflection on the postal staff, a certain resident of Peterborough only this week received a card of greeting mailed locally three days before Christmas Day. It had been misdirected to an old address. The point of the story is, that while the sender of the card originates from Bruce County (which is predominantly Scottish), he passed up an ideal opportunity to give exercise to the thrift instinct. On the night he prepared the card for mailing, his friend was actually asleep in the sender's apartment, as a notation at the foot of the card reminded him. It read as follows: "At the present moment you are snoring on my chesterfield." Notwithstanding this fact, the sender decided to squander a cent on a stamp, instead of waking the snoring intruder and handing the card to him.

Cadet Hudson Hall Injures His Hand

Gentleman Cadet Hudson Hall, son of Lieut.-Colonel W. Gordon Hall, V.D., and Mrs. Hall of this city, is in Christie Street Military Hospital, it is learned. He was operated on last week for a fractured bone in his left hand, which he sustained during physical training at the Royal Military College, Kingston. Dr. Robertson, hero of the Moose River Mine disaster, was the operating surgeon. Cadet Hall is expected home on leave within a short time. He will have his hand in a cast for the next three months, in all probability.

MORE ONTARIO FIRES

There were 647 barns burned with a loss of $2,169,277; 1,069 stores with a .oss of $1,351,773 and 499 factories with a loss of $1,519,367.

Fire losses in Toronto were the lowest in 26 years. Total loss was $459,253.

School Board Closes Year With Surplus Of $5,406.21

Non - Resident Fees Brought Higher Revenue And Grants Remained The Same

The 1937 Board of Education concluded the year with a surplus of $5,406.21, according to the general statement of receipts and expenditures submitted to the Board by Secretary G. H. Thompson, at the final meeting Tuesday evening.

Made up of credit balances of $2,899.48 on the public schools account, and $2,506.73 on the Collegiate and Vocational School account, the surplus was attributed by Mr. Thompson to several factors unforeseen when the estimates were struck at the outset of last year.

Chief of these causes Mr. Thompson explained were that he had allowed in his budgeting for a possible reduction in government grants, but they had remained unchanged during the past year. Non-resident fees brought a higher revenue than had been anticipated, as also did night school fees, while there was a considerable saving made on the fuel account.

The financial statement which has been sent on by the Board to the city auditor, was presented as follows:

MAKES USUAL GRANT.

The usual annual grant of $75 for the upkeep of the motor car she uses in connection with her official duties, was made by the Board of Education to Miss M. J. V. Jory, school nurse.

MORE OLD COINS.

J. A. Foster, Patterson Street, comes along in the parade of old coins with a notable bit of currency in the form of a Turkish coin of the vintage of 1330 and an old American bank token with the thirteen stars marked upon it.

ONLY ONE MEETING.

A session of the Relief Committee on Friday night is the meeting called for the City Hall this week. The inaugural meeting of Council on Monday will start this year's activities under way.

FRACTURED HIS ANKLE.

Andy Haine of Rutherford avenue is on crutches with a fractured ankle as the result of a fall from a bicycle. Losing control of the wheel on a snowy road surface, he fell to the ground, the weight going on his ankle in the wrong direction.

IS REAPPOINTED.

On motion, L. D. W. Magie was reappointed by the Board of Education as representative to the Public Library Board for a term of three years from the first of February next. Mr. Magie has already served on the Library Board for nine successive years, it was stated.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The total enrolment in Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School during December last was 987, with an average daily attendance of 941, or 96.56 per cent. In the various Public Schools of the city the total enrolment in the same period was 2,787, with an average daily attendance of 2,468, or 88.78 per cent.

STEADILY CLIMBING.

Police court cases in Peterborough are steadily climbing although the greatest part of the increase can be attributed to breaches of the traffic regulations. Last year there were 832 informations laid in city cases, as against 631 in 1936, 536 in 1935, and 439 in 1934. These do not include informations laid in county cases.

TORONTO'S FIRE LOSS DOWN.

Peterborough is not alone among Ontario centres with its record low fire loss total for 1937. Toronto's total fire loss during the year, $495,-253, was the lowest since 1911 for that city. In the province as a whole, the annual fire loss showed an increase over 1936 amounting to $304,623.

IMPROVE PARKING.

Board of Works snow removal gangs concentrated their efforts on the big expanse of the Market Square during the earlier hours of the morning and trucked many tons to the river dumping spot. With the Square again open to motorists for parking, the congestion on George Street will be relieved, it is expected.

RURAL AIR.

The heart of the Peterborough downtown district, the corner of George and Charlotte Streets, had a distinctly rural air to-day with the crowings and cluckings of barnyard fowl resounding noisily. Early pedestrians who passed by the Market Hall when daylight arrived this morning report that every one of the scores of roosters on display in the annual Poultry Show was crowing at once.

GRANTED CERTIFICATES.

Affiliation of the Millbrook Continuation School Cadet Corps with the Midland Regiment of Northumberland and Durham is announced in current orders from Military District No. 3 Headquarters at Kingston. The orders indicate granting of certificates, earned through examinations after the Militia Staff Course at Ottawa, to Major H. G. Mason, Major G. R. E. Melton, and Captain J. G. Armstrong, all of the Prince of Wales' Rangers, and to Major G. H. Free and Captain S. J. Neilson, both of the Midland Regiment.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

Charged in the name of Edward Maybee, a transient, this morning pleaded "not guilty" to a vagrancy charge. He was remanded on application of the Crown until Monday next. Asked by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., what he was doing in Peterborough, the accused laughed, "Wandering abroad, sir." That's what the charge accuses you of doing," the Cadi said, in ordering a remand.

BRIGHTENED CHRISTMAS.

The Nicholls Hospital wishes to thank all who helped to make a cheerful Christmas for patients and nurses. Radios loaned through the Ladies' Auxiliary, by Comstock and Sons, Robert Simpson Co., added greatly to the cheer of the public wards. Each gift or service rendered adds greatly to the spirit of Christmas and the friends who year after year so faithfully render some service have the very sincere appreciation of the Hospital Board, superintendent and staff.

Moore, Marshal West, Norman Evans, C. A. Morris and Arthur Kent. Interment was in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

ROY WHITTINGTON REEVE.

By the retirement of Fred Waterman, the reeveship of South Monaghan passed by acclamation to Councillor Roy Whittington, a change that was overlooked in The Examiner's compiling of the personnel of the new council of Northumberland and Durham. It also might have been suggested that one of the strongest candidates for the wardenship is Reeve R. R. Mallory of Percy Township, but as the election will depend on the political line up in the council and usually the Conservatives are the more numerous.

TRAFFIC COURT.

For failing to produce his license when called upon to do so, Leslie Beare of Markham was this morning fined $5 and $3 costs before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. For operating motor vehicles without driver's licenses, Wesley Johnson, Glenalda and Charles Spiker, 248 Sherbrooke Street, were each ordered to pay fines of $10 and $3 costs. Convicted of a reckless driving charge, Verdun Badgely of Oshawa was fined $10 and $3 costs and his license was suspended for one month. 500 Birds Of Many Varieties Are Being Shown This Week At The Annual Poultry Show

Quality Of Exhibits Very High Comments Noted Poultry Expert

"There are birds to be found in almost all these classes which would take prizes at the Royal Winter Fair," M. C. Wallace, of Iroquois, Ontario, widely-known poultry authority, comented as he completed judging at the annual Peterborough Poultry Show in the Market Hall to-day. "Although the show may be smaller than in other years, the class of birds is very good."

Five hundred birds in their widely-varied feathered splendour are on display in the show. George Paxman, director of the annual event since the first poultry show was afforded the public here thirty years ago, pointed out that the heavy week-end snowfall over the district had the effect of restricting competition almost exclusively to exhibitors of Peterborough city and the immediate proximity. Yet varieties are well distributed and no class is notably weak.

Outstanding Section.

Mr. Wallace chose the Rhode Island Red section as outstanding from the standpoints of both size and quality. "The birds in this class are in line with the best at the Royal except that there are not as many of them here," he commented. He said the fancy classes are unusually strong and that, in accord with the fact Peterborough is a waterfowl district, the waterfowl sections of the show are particularly good.

Edgar Simmons, Ernest Wall and George Buller, all Peterborough breeders, are the principal contributors to the Rhode Island Red section. Always wining a full share of attention from spectators are five Polish varieties shown by Harry Lush and Morgan Brown. Mr. Brown, Mr. Lush and Harry Vanallen along with a comparative newcomer to the Peterborough show, H. M. Foster of Campbellford, are showing most of the birds in the Wyandotte section. J. M. Lowes, new to the show, and R. D. Robson, have the leading entries in the New Hampshire department, which is attracting attention.

Exhibitors Lush, Brown, H. Bowler and Foster are leading contributors to the small fowl department in which the showing of bantams is of note. Mr. Brown is the largest single exhibitor in geese, ducks and pigeon classes.

Exhibit of Pheasants.

A feature of the show is the non-competitive exhibit provided by Finley Meeks, including five kinds of pheasants, three varieties of wild geese. Mr. Meeks was told by poultry and game authorities that wild geese had never been hatched successfully under close captivity so the display of geese which he actually succeeded in hatching at his home in Peterborough, is a demonstration that sometimes authorities can be wrong.

Fred Robson is president of the show this year and Fred Holmes the secretary. The public will be welcomed this afternoon and evening and all day Thursday. Eight silver cups and many special prizes will be presented at closing ceremonies at 9 o'clock Thursday evening.

Reception For Mr. and Mrs. George Stenner.

A delightful event of last evening, attended by about forty guests, was a reception given for Mr. and Mrs. George F. Stenner at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. W. D. Thomas of 271 Thomas street.

Mrs. Stenner received the guests wearing her lovely wedding gown of wine velvet, and Mrs. Thomas was in black crepe.

Mrs. Bob Runnett, who resides next door lent her home for euchre, which was played by a number of the guests. The first prize was won by Mrs. L. Riley and second by Mrs. J. Gordon Harle Addresses Young People.

The Young People's Union of St. Andrew's Church heard an exceptionally fine address last evening from their newly elected president, Gordon Harle.

Speaking on "New Year's Resolutions" Mr. Harle stressed loyalty to the Union from its members and regular attendance at the meetings. The Union aims at training leaders for work in the Sunday School and Church, and by taking part in the meetings young people gain necessary experience. Daily habits of Bible reading should be practiced, said the speaker, who said, "We come here for fellowship and by it we learn a great deal. Some people move us mightily by their personal conduct...We should always be cheerful in relations with others." The necessity for members to develop interest in the various mission fields of the church, was emphasized by Mr. Harle. "Mission study teaches us to sympathize with other races," he said. An ambition of the young people should be to seek a better way of solving the present social problems than has yet been practiced.

The president was in the chair for the devotional and business periods. Walter Morrow presided at the piano. The minutes were read by the secretary, Harry Vass, and the scripture reading given by Miss Margaret Emerson.

Miss Dorothy Ridyard was heard in a solo during the evening, with Miss Margaret Patoine accompanying at the piano. Following the president's address, there was a program of games directed by James Harvey, recreation convenor.

Presentation Made To Mrs. S. A. Oke.

The church parlors of George St. United Church were filled to capacity on Tuesday afternoon when the first meeting of the year of the Women's Association was held. Mrs. Thomas Mark, the retiring president, presided, and in opening read a beautiful poem on the New Year. The devotional part of the program was in charge of Mrs. W. G. Morrow, and consisted of a Scripture reading by Mrs. W. H. Cunningham, prayer by Mrs. Airress, and a solo, "For Every Day," by Miss Gladys Mills.

Annual reports were given by the convenors of the various committees and these revealed a year of much activity by the association. The Sick and Visiting Committee reported 816 calls, Lookout Committee 192 calls, and Fower Commitee sent 120 bouquets and plants to the sick and 33 plants and 20 cards to the shut-ins. Christmas baskets were filled for 50 families.

An interesting event of the afternoon was the presentation of a purse to Mrs. S. A. Oke, who for 22 years has been the faithful and efficient treasurer of the association. Mrs. E. E. Harvey read the address, and the presentation was made by Mrs. Thomas Mark.

Mrs. Oke, although taken by surprise, made a suitable reply.

Mrs. Harris, the new president, was welcomed to the chair, and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Turner-Barrie.

WESTWOOD, Jan. 5. — A very pretty wedding was solemnized on New Year's Day when Helen, daughter of Mrs. George Barrie and the late Mr. Barrie of Birdsall's, became the bride of Mr. George Turner, son of Mrs. Lily Turner and the late Mr. Turner of Roseneath.

To the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March, played by Mrs. J. Gould of Trenton, the picturesque ceremony was performed at 3.30 o'clock by the Rev. F. W. Newell, United Church minister of Hastings and Westwood.

An alcove of evergreens tinted with silver, little silver bells, silver leaves and a large white bell hanging from the centre, was lighted with candles that cast a soft glow over the bridal party.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Donald Cameron, looked charming in a gown of white transparent velvet, made on princess lines, floor length skirt, high cowl neckline caught with gold leaves. Her silk net shoulder-length veil was trimmed with gold sequins, and fell from a gold hair bandeau, wearing gold slippers and carried white carnations and fern.

Her sister, Miss Kathleen Barrie of Leamington, Ont., was bridesmaid and wore a pink silk net frock over pink taffeta with touches of blue and silver, wearing silver slippers and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and fern. Mr. Flex Mc-

The importance of the short fur wrap, both for daytime and evening, has been growing with the season.

The short, chunky jacket of fur was one of the most exciting highlights of the early season. This silhouette is still with us, of course, but there are other types of short jackets that do not use it, and which take their place in the fashion sun besides these bulky types.

Short Ermine Jacket.

The short ermine jacket on the left of our illustration is such a model. Patricia, Bowman, prima ballerina, is the model in both pictures. When she goes stepping out after the theatre, she wears this ermine wrap. It is simply made, with a narrow little collar that is finished with a cluster of ermine tails, just by way of contrast.

At the right she is shown wearing one of the season's pets—a blue fox bolero. This one, designed by Harra, has the collarless neckline and three-quarter sleeves that are so smart this year.

New is the use of daytime furs for evening. For instance, sleek black caracul is made into a model and flared full length coat to be worn over evening dresses. It is dramatized with silver fox scarves. These are wrapped like a stole about the throat.

Afternoon Mink.

A mink coat for formal afternoon wear has a small collar, and perfectly huge sleeves. The waist of this model is molded, the hips slender.

The fur coat worn over the woolen dress makes one of the smartest and most satisfying ensembles of the year.

Seek Way to Permit Marriage

Betty June Lacer, 12-year-old Linton, Ind., school girl is shown (ABOVE) cuddling her 10½ pound son in the home of her parents, while the governor of the state seeks to find some way to permit her marriage to the father of her child, Thomas H. Chapman, 13. The state law does not permit the marriage of persons so young, but because the youthful parents have stated their desire to be married, an Indiana circuit court judge has taken the case under advisement.

Seventy Years Old Never Lost Day's Work

As the years creep on little sicknesses and ailments become harder to shake off than formerly, and evidences of a breakdown appear.

Now is the time when aged people need a tonic, such as Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to help them maintain their health, vigor and energy, and to brace up and invigorate the nervous system.

MR. A. C. BIGGAR, Palermo, Ont., writes:—"I am seventy years of age; never lost a day's work, missed a meal, or took any medicine in my life, but last year I had a nervous breakdown; had headaches; no appetite; hid from people; and was in fear and anxiety; had to have someone sit beside my bed at night until I went to sleep. Hell could not be worse. I began taking Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills, and from the first I became calm and collected, and to-day I feel the same as I did years ago."

You Just Can't Help High-Hatting Folks This Season

Paris has gone for plain gold jewelry in a big way to glitter against the sombre background of black dresses.

Made entirely of black satin ribbon, narrow stuff, and finished with a pert bow at the back is this Suzy model "high level" hat.

Stops Her Train To Find Teeth

LONDON, Jan. 5—(CP). — Every year on the British railways about 200 people stop trains by pulling the communication cord. Common offenders are people who have boarded the wrong train or those who have been carried past the station at which they think the train should stop.

An official recalled the case of an elderly woman who was leaning out of a compartment window calling good-bye to her friends on the platform. As the train moved off she leaned out further and further, calling "Good-bye."

She was shouting her loudest and last good-bye when her false teeth dropped out, and she immediately pulled the communication cord in order to retrieve them. Instances have occurred where foreign passengers pulled the cord thinkng they were ringing for the attendant.

"We sometimes have cases of people pulling the communication cord 'just for fun," added the official, "and when summoned they are quite ready to pay £5 ($21.95), though in my opinion it is a dear £5 worth of fun."

Other cases include: A Welshman who pulled the cord three times to protest against the lighting of the compartment; a man who stopped a train as a protest against a young woman who insisted on smoking in a non-smoking compartment and a woman travelling in the Peak district who thought the train was going too fast.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"The mistakes of the best men through generation after generation has been the great one of thinking to help the poor by alms-giving, and by preaching of patience and of hope, and by every other means, . . . except the one through which God orders for them—Justice!"

—Ruskin.

Dear Friends:

Yes, I truly think that if we had more real justice, the world would be a better happier place. Then there wouldn't be those with so many millions that they cannot count them nor use them, but some of the profits would go back to those who helped to make them.

How can it comfort anyone to preach patience and hope to one, who, through no fault of their own, see their children and wives hungry, cold and worried. How can a man be hopeful if he has no job, nothing to look forward to, who sees himself and his own gradually going down? It cannot be done.

Keeping people from starving is very worthy, but would it not be more worthy if we gave the mayor of a town enough salary with the understanding that he must show none out of employment at the end of the year.

You think it couldn't be done? Nothing is impossible if men will only put their minds on it. Whoever would have thought we could have miles and miles of paved roads all over the world as we now have? Very few.

And I am sure if the same time and effort was put to solving this problem, there would not be so many with millions and billions, and so many with nothing at all.

Men and women NEED work. Even money given for relief, if it were worked for would taste sweeter in the mouth. Then they could hold their heads up knowing they had earned it.

My first vivid impression of Canada was,—no country would ever amount to much UNLESS their men could work all the year 'round. Very few make enough in summer to take care of lay-offs in the winter.

I know it is a job that needs the co-operation of everyone, those who make things, and those who buy them. There doesn't need to be a peak in work and a peak in sickness if it were managed right.

What men and women are clamouring for is not hand-outs, nor relief money, nor baskets at Christmas, but the common justice of being able to earn their own money and buy their own things.

There have been spasmodic attempts to make work by governments all over the world, and it has failed mainly because profits came first. What should be realized is, that no one gets any profit out of unemployed people. It is the biggest waste in all creation.

It breeds inferiority, a sense of injustice, which all the relief and hand-outs cannot down. It takes away people's pride in themselves, in their city, in their country.

Any wise mother knows that her child must be busy to be well and happy. When she sees him sitting around taking no interest, she quickly gives him a physic, and if he gets no better she gets a Doctor.

The world needs a Doctor right now to cure it of the ill of lack of work. It may be a little better, but there are still millions who need work, and income, a sense of decency and fair-play, and the only way it can be done is spread the work over the whole year, and give everyone their share. More later? Maybe.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Millan of Roseneath supported the groom.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. L. W. Scott of Roseneath sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me," accompanied by Mrs. Gould.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the drawing room, the bride's mother wearing navy blue crepe and cut velvet and wore roses, baby-breath and fern. The groom's mother chose black satin-back crepe with blue metallic trimming and a bouquet of roses, baby-breath and fern.

Immediately after congratulations were offered the bride and groom with their relatives and friends assembled in the dining room, where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. The table was very pretty with its flowing white linens and lighted with white and silver candles, centered with the four-storey bride's cake and beside it was a silver candelabra, making a delicate but pretty setting, and continuing the color scheme throughout the home, which was artistically decorated for the occasion, in silver and white.

Rev. Mr. Newell, in his jovial manner, proposed the toast to the bride which was ably responded to by the groom. Mr. Donald Cameron proposed the toast to the guests, which was responded to by Rev. L. W. Scott of Roseneath. In conclusion, the party joined hands in singing "Auld Lang Syne" and "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds."

Several messages by telephone were received from relatives including one from the groom's brothers in Bridgeville, Pa.; Messrs. Elton and Edward Turner, Mrs. Turner and Nancy Faith Turner.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid and groomsman were rings, and to Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Gould, necklets.

The bride and groom were the recipients of many lovely and useful gifts, among them were large sums of money.

Later the happy couple left by motor for a trip and on return will reside in Roseneath. For going away the bride donned navy, with accessories to match, gray fur coat and a chic blue turban.

A host of good wishes is extended by their many friends from this community.

Women Racefolk Have Their Joke

LONDON, Jan. 5. — (CP) — The Canadian colony here has ceased rubbing eyes at headlines proclaiming "R. B. Bennett Fails at Runnymede" or "John Buchan Takes Plate." Its members have passed the days where they excitedly read the first paragraphs only to find "Bennett" and "Buchan" were race horses.

The confusion started when the late Lady Houston named one of her turf string the then Canadian prime minister. One story went the rounds that a Canuck collected a bet on the Conservatives in the last Canadian general election on the strength of a newspaper heading shouting a victory for the Houston horse.

Bu when the English noblewoman died her stable was sold and W. Nightinfall, the new owner, changed the horse's name to "Irish Trout." His best showing this year was fifth to Salopette in the Lewes Spring Handicap, June 8.

The confusion started when John Buchan, a bay colt, entered the field at this time. Many literary followers of Canada's governor-general received a rude jolt from the headline: "John Buchan Heads Reading Nursing List." Mrs. L. Corbett's horse won the Knowsley Nursing Handicap at Liverpool Nov. 11 and the Astley Plate at Lewes Aug. 6; placed second in the Delaval Plate at Newcastle June 24 and in the Berkshire Foal Plate at Newbury June 10.

Jap Schoolgirl Busy on Sewing

MAPLE RIDGE, B. C., Jan. 5.—(CP)—Margot Gordon of Whonnock, B. C., contributes an article to the Meadows Gazette on her experiences in Japan as a guest-teacher of the Japanese government, together with some American women teachers. She writes:

All pupils in Japan wear uniforms. The girls wear dark blue serge pleated skirts and middies, and black stockings and shoes. They do not look at all at home in this type of dress. They must wear kimonos if you are to see them looking smart.

We went into several classrooms where they were cutting and sewing kimonos and haori, as well as western style clothes. Instead of using tailor's chalk they used an ivory marker—just pressing a line into the material where it was to be cut, over a soft pad, on the table. They had beautiful materials, both silk and rayon, and matched the pattern carefully for the kimono, as the silk comes in narrow widths.

They had electric irons and sewing machines and in the domestic science rooms the equipment was equally up-to-date. In most schools you find girls being taught both western and Japanese style cooking. They took some movies of us in many of the schools so you will see these later.

The typically-Japanese things being taught were flower arrangement, tea ceremony and music. The girls copied one of several bowls of flowers, working in groups of two or three, in a regular classroom. The etiquette of the formal tea ceremony was being taught in a beautiful Japanese style tea house which was an adjoining building. The girls still wore the uniform but squatted correctly and walked in stocking feet on the tatami (matting). This ceremony is supposed to teach poise and grace, and certainly all the girls had perfect selfcontrol and unhurried grace of movement.

CHAPTER 31.

My remembrance of the rest of that night of the ball is of an excitement which drove me on and on madly. I danced with one girl after another, girls in pink and girls in blue and girls in green, girls in silver gowns and gowns of gold, but for all I cared for any of them their faces might have been blank masks which made them all alike. Their words were a meaningless jumble, their coquetry was a thing to be met with a mechanical show of gallantry.

It was only the dances with Mimi which counted—the ones I had stolen from Andy!

Oh, the youth of it, and the triumph. I gloried in Aandy's black looks—in the knowledge that it was I who could play on the keys of Mimi's nature. What was he with all of his money? It was not he who drew Mimi, but I—Jerry Chandler, country boy and son of a parson!

At supper, Olga's planning had placed me at the débutantes' table, with Mimi opposite me. My blood ran wildly, I found myself the gayest of the gay, making a ringing speech when toasts were drunk, winning tumultuous applause.

Lighted by that inner fire, I drew the eyes of people who did not know me. My cheeks were red and my eyes bright because of Mimi. I had no vanity, no conceit of myself—this was my hour, the hour she had given me—there was the hope, too, in my heart, that there were many other hours in the future which we would share together.

The supreme moment came at last when Olga and Mimi and I met in the old library—a picture to carry through the years that followed—Mimi's beauty, Olga's opulent loveliness, my own ecstatic youth.

The library had been untouched since the Senator's death, and retained much of the dignity which the rest of the house had lost. Over the mantel was a portrait of Mimi's grandmother. This had not been taken down when Olga had come to reign as mistress. The portrait had been painted when the Senator's first wife was a bride—it had everything that Olga lacked, the delicate poise, the distinction, the pride of bearing.

Yet, there was about Olga a certain attractive reposefulness as she sat by the heavy table, with the light from a massive copper dome falling upon her, setting the diamonds which she wore in her hair ablaze.

She plunged at once into the thing she had to say, "I asked you to come, Mimi, because I have something important to talk over with you and Jerry."

Mimi's smile was charming. "It sounds delightfully interesting, Olga."

"I think it will be." Then in a crisp and business-like manner Olga stated the case; for a long time she had been thinking she would like to do what she was sure her husband would have been glad to have her do. She had money enough and to spare, it would be perfectly possible for her to share it without any hardship to herself.

She ended this preamble with, "I want you to have some of it, Mimi."

I was aware of Mimi's complete amazement. "Do you mean that you are giving me a part of grandfather's money?"

"Yes."

"But—how dear of you, Olga."

I wish I could make you see her as I saw her then, leaning a little towards Olga, her bare arms as white as milk against the dark wood of the table, her eyes lighted. "Are you giving Lion his share, too?" she asked.

"No."

Mimi was frankly puzzled. "Why should I have it if he doesn't?"

Olga flushed. "It is enough, isn't it, if I give it to one of you? I like you better than I do the rest, Mimi. And I want you to marry Jerry."

I saw Mimi's hands open and shut in a tense movement. "What has my marrying Jerry to do with it?"

"I am giving it to you to make your marriage with him possible."

"And it isn't to be mine, unless I marry him?"

"No."

In the dead silence which followed I knew that the thing was done for—Olga's bluntness, Mimi's pride—the two would no more mix than oil and water.

Mimi turned towards me—"Did you know this, Jerry?"

"Yes."

"And you were—willing?"

"Not at first. But there didn't seem to be any other way out."

She stood up. "Oh," she said, "did you think this was a way out? That I should take, as a gift from Olga, that which belongs to me — the money that grandfather meant me to have—so that you might live on it?"

Scorn in every line of her, in her stormy eyes, in her high held head. So might some small duchess far back in her family line have arraigned a lout who had insulted her.

But I had my pride, too. "You can take that back," I said, "you know it isn't true. I don't want Olga's money. I don't want anybody's money. I want you. I'd want you if I had to live in an attic for the rest of my life."

She was white. "Oh, I wish you'd stop talking of attics—I hate them. And I meant what I said. I won't take anything back——"

We faced each other, stormy eye meeting stormy eye. "This is the end then——" I told her. "No man could stand a thing like that and keep his self-respect."

She flung up her hand in a gesture of disdain. "It should have been the end long ago," and before we could speak or try to stop her, she swept her radiant presence from the room and left it dark.

Neither Olga nor I spoke for several moments. Then Olga said gloomily, "Well, we've made a mess of it. But I must say that I tried to do my best for both of you."

I could see that she was hurt, thrown back upon herself, and I was sorry. "You have been more than kind, Olga, "I must seem to you ungrateful, but I'm not."

"All that I can say is that you are both very foolish, Jerry. Such a chance may not come your way again . . ." she rose and stood by the table, "you mustn't think that this will make any difference in my feeling for you . . . And as I told you, I'll be glad to let you have some money any time you need it."

"I couldn't take it. Thanks, just the same."

"But what will you do?"

"My father wants me at home for Christmas."

"And after that?"

"God knows."

She had to leave me then and go back to her guests. I stayed in the library alone. My hopes were shattered, my dreams gone. After a long time I realized that Olga's guests were departing. From behind the curtain of one of the long windows I watched them go. There was a tunnel of striped canvas covering the steps and terrace. The figures which emerged from the end of the tunnel were visible only for a fleeting moment before they stepped into their waiting motors. I had thus a glimpse of Mimi and Andy bending above her. The light shone on her russet hair—and they drove away together.

The next day I started back to my old home. It snowed all the afternoon, and through the night, and the flakes, falling steadily, seemed to bury my dead hopes.

My father met me at the station, his little mare hitched to a small sleigh. As we rode along, the jingle of the bells made a cheerful accompaniment to our conversation.

But I was not cheerful. My mood was melancholy. I at once poured my story into my father's sympathetic ears. "I've lost her."

"You can't be sure of that, Jerry."

"I am sure."

"Youth is always final. It may be only the first act. Tomorrow the curtain may go up, and you'll see the rest of the play."

In spite of my pessimism, I found myself warmed by a faint hope. He was so wise, so steadfast, I was soothed and sustained by the strength that was in him.

I tried to tell him how I felt. His response had a touch of deep emotion. "I am glad you came to me, my boy. I can't tell you how I have missed you." And I knew, even as he said it, that what he had missed was not merely my physical presence, but the spiritual communion, the meeting of mind and soul and heart.

We came to the little house at dusk, and the lights shone out in a blur of orange against the snowy background. As we entered the little sitting room, I was aware of Aunt Mary's taste in the changes which had been made. There was the twinkle of old brasses in front of the open fire, a Paisley shawl thrown over the couch gave a touch of mellow color, there were holly berries in a dull green vase, two comfortable black cats were silhouetted against the blaze.

The table was spread in the sitting room, because the new heating plant had not yet been installed, and the dining room was too cold. My grandmother sat in my mother's place, and my father said his simple grace. Aunt Mary was opposite me, and surveyed me with a beaming countenance.

The life line swinging around the base of your thumb promises a ripe old age if it's long. Fine lines shooting up from it bring success.

The heart line shows warm affection if it's deep-cut; flirtatiousness if chainlike.

A clear continuous head line shows a keen mind; a wavering line lack of concentration.

Looking Back

On This Date

By FRED WILLIAMS

To-day is notable in Canadian history as having seen the birth of four newspapers. It was on January 5, 1781, that John Howe (father of the great reformer, Joseph Howe) first published the Journal at Halifax . . . That newspaper was conducted for 90 years. It was in truth the successor of the famous News-Letter, published in Boston, which had for years espoused the Loyalist cause. It was the only newspaper printed in Boston during the siege. When the city was evacuated by the British, March 17, 1776, the presses and plane of the News-Letter were shipped to Halifax, and with them came young Howe, who had been an apprentice in the Boston office. And after he had made the journal a power in Nova Scotia he was first king's printer and, then the first postmaster-general for the maritime colonies, living until 1835, just when his son was beginning that career which made his name immortal.

The Quebec Mercury was first published January 5, 1805. It flourished for many years and had much influence, but its first editor often got into trouble by his attacks on the French legislators and more than once had to appear at the bar of the Assembly to be chided and made to apologize, though at one time his apology was not accepted and he was a "prisoner of state" for some weeks. The Mercury lived close to a century, and I believe the copyright in its title is held by an Ottawa lady, handed down to her by her father.

It was on this date in 1846 that John Dougall first published the Weekly Witness at Montreal. Ever since it has advocated religion, temperance and good government; but it has not now the wide circulation it once had, more's the pity, for the Witness taught many a boy and girl to lead Christian, sober lives and become powers for good. Its second editor, John R. Dougall, died only a few years ago, as old as the paper which he made so welcome in Canadian homes. The Dougalls lost a lot of money in attempting to get New York to accept a Witness and also failed to make money out of the Daily Witness, which had to suspend in the early years of the world war.

On January 5, 1855, The Stratford Beacon was first published by Peter Eby. Every day thereafter it has served its community well; it is now the Beacon-Herald and one of the best conducted dailies in all Ontario.

And it was on January 5, 1877, that the Canada Farmer, then the leading agricultural journal in Canada, was merged with the Weekly Globe, Toronto, now long since discontinued.

People of Switzerland are protesting against the investment of money in other countries.

TOUCHY SUBJECTS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 5.—(CP).—Only one man can touch dead wild duck, it was established in police court yesterday when William G. Hill, Jr., was fined $20 and costs for having dead ducks in his possession. The charge was laid by Game Warden Roy Muma, who found the ducks in Hill's possession New Year's Day. Hill told the Magistrate the ducks were not shot but had been killed going over the falls. The Game Warden said only J. Carcher of the Niagara Parks staff has the right to handle such birds.

Nearly 3,000 women and girls are now working in the Post Office Savings Bank in London.

Students May Ban Public Petting | ## Dorothy Dix | Girls Getting New Ideas

"I HAVE just come from Charles Blank's funeral," said a woman to me the other day, "and as I looked at his poor, tired, bewildered face, that even in death seemed baffled and frustrated, I found it in my heart to hope that he had gone to some Mohammedan Heaven in which there are no 'good' women.

"For Charles' life was wrecked by two female saints who did things to him out of love that were crueler than malice itself could have invented. We are always talking about men being ruined by the influence of evil women, but believe me, my dear, the influence of a good woman can be just as disastrous as that of a Jezebel.

"And that was Charles' unhappy fate. To begin with, he was as promising a lad as you ever saw. A big, strong, upstanding boy, handsome as they come. Intelligent and sweet-tempered, and with a charm that attracted everybody to him. It seemed as if Nature had dropped all of her choicest gifts in his cradle, but little as we suspected it at the time, she had double-crossed him in one place. She had given him one of those self-sacrificing mothers who devote all of their time and thoughts and energies to their children.

"Maybe if his father had lived, Charles might have had a chance, but I doubt it. For not a regiment of G-men can protect a child against a doting mother who is upheld in her folly by a religious conviction that the crimes she commits against him are done for his own good; who weeps and wails, beats on her breast, talks about her broken heart and ingratitude whenever her poor victim makes an effort to break his shackles and escape.

"Anyway, that was the sort of mother that the stork wished on Charles. Like the woman in one of Bernard Shaw's plays, she was so much mother she was hardly human. From the minute he was born she devoted her entire life to him as she always boasted, and that is about as great a misfortune as can happen to any child. She coddled and spoiled and petted him, waited on him hand and foot and kept him a baby just as long as she possibly could.

"Long after other boys were learning how to play football and scrimmaging with other hellions, she was still holding him by the hand when they took a sedate walk. The most strenuous exertion he was permitted to make was cutting out pictures and pasting them in books. She never let him associate with rude, rough boys for fear they might muss his clothes or hurt him, or that he might learn a naughty word. She had tutors for him instead of sending him to school because she feared its contaminating influence and when at last he had to go off to college she went with him and chaperoned him so effectively that he never made a friend among the boys, or took any part in the games or sports. He always had to run home to Mamma as quickly as he could from every class.

"The result was, of course, that Charles grew up to be a perfect lady, and when at last he had to go out into the world he was as unfitted to meet it as a babe. He had been held by the hand so long he was afraid to try to walk alone. Mother had sapped his strength until he was too weak to stand on his own feet, anyway. She had killed all of his initiative and had made him 'queer' so that he didn't fit in with other men. The result was, that although he had plenty of sense and wasn't lazy, he became one of the men who drift from job to job, without making good at anything, and who are always looking for something that 'suits' them.

"By and by Charles married a nice girl. As good as his mother was. She loved him devotedly, but not enough to make him a comfortable home or to be a thrifty manager. She pitied him when he had to work and sympathized with him when he quit because what he was doing was distasteful to him. So he finally just gave up trying to do anything at all and they lived up the nice little fortune he had inherited. They got poorer and poorer until he finally existed on a small pension from some cousins who had been brought up by hand, so to speak, and made to shift for themselves.

"And so ended poor Charles, whose life was ruined by two 'good' women."

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, January 6.

This should be a very active day, with the mind keyed to high levels of achievement, according to the lunar and mutual planetary aspects. Work of a public nature, such as promotion, advertising, publicity or other progressive efforts, born of a highly-stimulated mentality, should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively, progressive and prosperous year, with the mind pitched to highly-constructive work, probably in a public way, through publicity, advertising, promotion or some well-organized commercial pursuit. It is a time for enterprise but not for dubious gambles.

A child born on this day may have much versatility and talent, with a keen, shrewd and penetrating insight organizing ability. However, it should be directed into lines of restraint and a degree of conservatism, as its "tempo" may carry it into dangerous ways, through gambling and speculative instincts.

A ONE-ROUND HOLDUP

INSTEAD OF holding up an ace until the third round, it is sometimes better to come in with it on the second round of your play for a no trump game. By so doing, you may put yourself in position to throw the original leader back in, so that he will have to pitch right into the jaws of some tenace.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Here South bid 1-Heart, West 1-Spade, North 2-Clubs and South 3-No Trumps. West led the spade K and South at one table held up until the third round, then went in with his ace. The clubs were next tried and the suit furnished only three tricks, instead of the five South hoped for. The hearts were now tried and when they also failed to break, South cashed his diamond A and had to give the lead to West with a diamond. The contract was set one.

Mrs. Humphrey Wagar, Atlanta, Ga., was one of the South players in the duplicate where this deal was played. She went in on the second round of spades, figuring there was not much chance to run East out of spades by a holdup, if West held five. When she tried the club suit and it failed to produce more than three tricks, she attempted to pick up four heart tricks, but when that hope also failed to materialize, she led her last spade to West. It was quite evident that a diamond finesse was futile, as with the overcall, the diamond K was marked. West cashed three spades and then was obliged to lead a diamond.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S APPLE

"Ho, hum!" yawned Mr. Twistytail, the fat gentleman pig friend of Uncle Wiggily. "Ho, hum, ha!"

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Longears who had stopped, in passing the pig's pen house, to see him.

"I didn't sleep enough last night," said Mr. Twistytail. "You see this being still a part of the Christmas holidays, and what with my children, Curly, Floppy and Squeakie Squealer, being at home instead of at school, the pen is rather noisy."

"But your little pigs don't make noises at night, do they?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"No, but they wake up very early in the morning to get ready to go out in the snow and have fun," grunted the fat pig gentleman. "So I awake, too, with all the noise they make, and I don't get enough sleep."

Has an Idea

"You don't sleep soundly enough," said Mr. Longears. "If you get plenty of sleep early in the night you won't mind being awakened early by the little pigs."

"But how can I get plenty of sleep the first part of the night?" asked the pig.

"Do as I do—eat an apple or nibble a bit of carrot or even a bit of turnip," said Uncle Wiggily. "Each night, just before I go to bed," he told the pig, "I go down cellar to get an apple, a carrot or a turnip. Once I have eaten it, I go to bed and fall asleep at once. Try an apple, Twisty."

"I shall," said the pig gentleman.

Uncle Wiggily hopped away, Mr. Twistytail waddled back in his pen house and out from behind a pile of corncobs sneaked the Bob Cat.

"Oh, ho!" mewed the Bob Cat, who had heard what the rabbit said to his fat gentleman pig friend. "So Uncle Wiggily goes down cellar each night to get an apple, a carrot or a turnip to eat before going to bed, does he? Well, tonight I'll be in that cellar when he comes down. And I don't eat an apple, either. No indeed!"

That evening after dark, the Bob Cat sneaked around the rabbit gentleman's hollow stump bungalow until he found a cellar window that wasn't fastened. In popped the Bad Chap and hid himself near the hanging shelves under some potatoes where Mr. Longears kept the Winter apples, carrots and turnips.

"This time I'll get the rabbit!" mewed the Bob Cat. So he waited and waited under the potato pile.

Visitor

After a while Uncle Wiggily's door bell rang.

"Oh, hello, Twitsy!" greeted Mr. Longears.

"I haven't any apples" said Mr. Twistytail, "to eat before I go to bed. Will you give me one of yours?"

"Of course," said the bunny uncle. "Come on down to the cellar and I'll get one for each of us." Uncle Wiggily reached up to take two apples off the shelf when all of a sudden Mr. Twistytail, who was standing near him, slipped on a lettuce leaf and fell ker flop on a pile of potatoes.

"Oh, mew! Oh, meaouw! Oh, get off me!" howled the Bob Cat under the potatoes. "You've made a pancake of me! Wow!"

Out scrambled the Bad Chap and he was so thin, from being sat on by the fat pig, he could easily squeeze through a crack in the cellar window and so he got out that way.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the pig gentleman.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "It is a good thing you came for an apple, Wiggy!" Then they both had a fine night's sleep.

And if the chocolate cake isn't afraid to go home in the dark after it has been to the Swiss cheese party, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's popcorn balls.

New Amazing Episodes From Life Of "Popeye" - Full-Grown At 12

CHAPTER THREE.

By the time our hero was 12 he startled everybody by proving himself a full-grown man. He had to shave after every meal, and this was for the purpose of removing whiskers, not mulligan. His muscles were so hard that he used them regularly as a grindstone for pocket stilettos and picked up a lot of change this way renting them out to friends.

It was about this time that he went to sea. He was shanghaied with knockout drops in his soda pop. When he came to he administered knockout drops to the chins of everybody on the boat, including the captain. So the barkentine Josie Lee drifted out to sea. Popeye was on another craft of the same name. After a few days he discovered he liked the life and spent his time practicing a sailor's walk to use later in his comic strip, "Thimble Theater."

It was on this first voyage that "Popeye" got his nickname "Popeye". Before that every one had referred to him simply as "Popeye." Now they called him "Popeye," after he lost a blinker, and he has never been known by any other name.

Ask any old sailorman what happened back in 1910. All right—that's his story. The real events had nothing to do with the woman called "Marseilles Minnie." She is not concerned in this story at all, because, as every one knows, Olive Oyl is Popeyes' girl. He met her much later. But, anyway, Popeye lost one peeper.

He had just finished shooting a few craps with his trusty trap-gun. The first, second, third, fourth and fifth mates, were stretched out on the deck, and Popeye was making pass after pass—at the money in the middle of the floor. Up stepped the bloodthirsty cook of the Josie Lee, known to his intimates as "The Ape."

"Blow me down," said Popeye, "I'll lay you among the swee' peas."

Popeye cast about him hastily for a handy sweet-pea bed. To his horror, there was not a one on the boat. He could not go back on his promise and lay "The Ape" anywhere else—say, for instance, in the handsome sunflower patch amidships—so all he could do was stand still and take his punishment.

That was how he lost one optic and had his name changed from "Popeye" to "Popeye."

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD.—Year's award to an actor for co-operating with a stoudio should go to Pat O'Brien. He is due to pass through Chicago in a few days and the company's representatives there have invited every O'Brien in the city to come down to the train and shake hands with the star.

Studio reports there are some 800 listed in the telephone book.

For months, as we have reported here, Fay Wray has been annoyed by a woman who pretends to be the film star. She has called Hollywood people, using Fay's name, and has sent flowers as coming from the actress. But her latest stroke was the boldest. She mailed fake Christmas cards to film celebrities.

Saw the preview of Joan Crawford's picture, "Mannequin," and have good news for the faithful. In this film Joan returns to the shop-girl-to-riches formula that made her famous. Result is her most sympathetic vehicle in a long time. Even so, Spencer Tracy steals many of the scenes they have together. He is superbly natural. Let players be artificial in the same scene with Tracy and they are lost.

Watch out for a newcomer in this one, Alan Curtis. He plays one of the year's most despicable heavies, but is too good looking to be typed that way.

Curtis was at R-K-O for a while and they let him go. Warners gave him three week's instruction, made a screen test and gave up. Yet, under Frank Borzage's direction, he turns in a fine performance.

In good old England they honor film stars in a different manner. Ginger Rogers has just been elected as an honorary member of the debating club of Emanuel college of Cambridge. She won out over Evangeline Booth and Marlene Dietrich.

The two youngsters of Edgar Kennedy will have a prizefighter bodyguard while the comedian is making a personal appearance tour . . . In anticipation of the visit of the stork, the Allan Joneses have sent their doberman pinscher to a school to be trained as a watchdog. It will sleep on a balcony outside the baby's window . . . Story goes that Mrs. Stokowski may start a school of dramatic training here. Wasn't able to confirm this, though. . . . En route to New York, Claire Dodd's baggage got switched with that of a vaudeville magician. She turned up with the equipment for sawing a woman in half.

What with the radio and with his screen work in "Sally, Irene and Mary," Fred Allen keeps such late hours that he maintains two establishments, so as not to be waking up Mrs. Allen in the middle of the night. One is at a Beverly Hills hotel and the other is in a Hollywood apartment.

Socialite Jane Frances Mullen and Art Jarrett, the orchestra leader, were a twosome the other night. . . . One of the Yacht Club Boys, Billy Mann, arrived here the other day. The boys were a terrific hit in London. The Duke and Duchess of Kent heard them four times in the five weeks they appeared over there. And the duke's favorite song was "The Royal Mounted Police" . . . Ruth Selwyn is in town for a visit . . . Wendy Barrie and her family have solved the problem of living together and yet enjoying privacy. They've rented a home in Beverley and have divided it into two apartments . . . Harry Mayo, a well-known of the silent days, is now a stand-in for George Sanders . . . And, for the first time in a year, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy were working on the same stage the other day.

Paramount has five Olympic swimmers in "Her Jungle Love" and not one swims a stroke. Studio wanted a shot of an out-rigger canoe being launched in a heavy surf and was taking no chances about drowning anybody.

One brown hat served Robert Taylor all through "A Yank at Oxford" and during his European travels. Fans tore off the band in Stockholm, but Taylor saved the headpiece and is keeping it as a souvenir of his trip.

Gladys George and Leonard Penn are off to Broadway as soon as he finishes "Girl of the Golden West." Talk is they may do a play together. She remains, of course, at the call of M.G.M. . . . Tom Brown is taking the fighter, Pete De Grasse, to Europe and will try to match him over there . . . Pat Wing and Don Alvarado were a twosome at the Clover Club the other night . . . Eddie Selzer has a new job at Warners—head of the trailer department . . . The Dick Arlens saved a boy at San Pedro. He'd been riding in a dinghy behind a yacht and the rope broke. When the Arlens found him, he had been drifting for two hours . . . And Jeanette MacDonald can top you people who have your Christmas tree ornaments from year to year. She has all of hers from the time she with five years old.

Luxury has its innings out on the "Food for Scandal" set at Warners. Carole Lombard and Fernand Gravet are doing a scene in a boudoir, one of those boudoirs that are to be found only in the movies.

They are fighting about marriage. Carole is an American movie star who has fallen in love with an impoverished young man who is working as her cook. The audience knows that Gravet really is an aristocrat, Carole won't learn it for a number of scenes yet.

The quarrel goes on until Director Mervyn Le Roy says cut.

Then an amusing thing happens. A woman comes on to the set carrying a baby. She is the wife of Property Man Eddie Edwards and she and her husband have named their baby after Le Roy.

Everybody crowds around the baby. Carole Lombard and Fernand Gravet try to make up to it and Le Roy takes it on his lap. He makes the same kind of faces that everybody makes at babies and the baby is about as pleased as usual.

First grave, then suspicious, he finally begins to wail.

Miss Lombard, Mr. Gravet and Mr. Le Roy, who entertain millions of movie fans, can't get to first base with this baby.

HOLLYWOOD.—Lights! Camera Action! Tiring of the threadbare Broadway scene, Hollywood musicals are now going back to the farm.

Shirley Temple

Shirley Temple started it in "Rebecca" and even "Radio City Revels" is going hayseed for one big number.

R-K-O has converted a whole sound stage this week into a rolling cornfield with a cluster of farm buildings in the background and with rows of golden pumpkins adding color to the scene.

The set is one of Hollywood's better illusions. It is laid out in perspective, 100 feet of sound stage representing a three-mile vista. The cornstalks in the front are five feet high. Those in the back dwindle down to five inches. Up towards the camera are real pumpkins. The things that look like pumpkins in the distance are tangerines. Tangerines are used rather than oranges because they are flatter, like pumpkins.

Director Joe Santley, aided by Dance Director Hermes Pan, is shooting a number called "Swinging in the Corn."

Buster West and the gangling Melissa Mason, late of "White Horse Inn," are doing a specialty in front of a chorus dressed like farm maids and yokels.

The boys and girls are the same who do the sophisticated numbers in the Astaire-Rogers pictures. But in their tight suits and muslin gowns, you'd never recognize them.

Bob Burns is standing with us, watching the scene.

"You can't hardly believe it's Hollywood," he says. "In fact, there's only one thing lacking about this farm to make it seem real. They forgot to put a mortgage on it."

The shadow of Will Hays hovers over every movie set. At R-K-O Irene Dunne and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., are doing a scene for "Joy of Loving."

Irene Dunne

Miss Dunne has spent the night in her bedroom and Fairbanks has slept on a couch in the adjoining room.

As Director Tay Garnett shoots the scene it is evident from the dialogue that everything has been perfectly proper.

But the movies takes no chances. Under the knob of the door separating the two compartments, a chair is firmly propped. It is final assurance to movie audiences that the situation has been an innocent one.

If Tyrone Power wasn't kidding, his statement to interviewers rates an item. That he will not marry until he's 30. That makes seven years to wait before the gossips could be right about him and Janet Gaynor . . . If he wasn't kidding.

Up to now, unlisted tragedy of the recent windstorm was the Paul Muni trophy room. The Munis were away and their butler called up Jack Warner's office so excited he could hardly talk. One of the three servants left in charge of the house had forgotten to close the windows in the star's den. The devil was to pay, for the walls of the room were covered with the various whiskers and wigs that Muni has worn in his screen career. They were blown all over the place, some of them were mixed up and others were lost entirely.

Studio finally sent Perc West-more out to look over the damage. He'll duplicate the lost disguises and Muni will never know anything about the accident unless this item tips him. Anyway, the story was too funny to keep.

Rather grim, the way things work out.

In "Hollywood Hotel," Ted Healy taps Louella Parsons on the shoulder and says: 'How about a break in your column?"

The day after the preview she carried an item mourning the actor's death.

How about naming the year's best performances by child actors? Judy Garland picks 10 and you can make corrections to suit your fancy. Judy's list is: Freddie Bartholomew in "Captain's Courageous"; Shirley Temple in "Heidi"; Deanna Durbin in "100 Men and a Girl"; the Mauch twins in "The Prince and the Pauper"; Jackie Cooper in "Boys of the Street"; Mickey Rooney in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry"; Jane Withers in "Forty-Five Fathers"; Bonita Granville in "Call It a Day"; Gabriel Dell in "Dead End" and (getting facetious are you, Judy) Fannie Brice's "Snooks" in "Everybody Sings."

Joe E. Brown, who is crazy about baseball, couldnt wear a glove for months because of broken knuckles. Now he's solved the problem with a special glove containing springs. The inventor, believe it or not, is Lucien Littlefield, the character actor.

Robert Taylor's Christmas present to his mother was a trip to Idaho Falls, Idaho, to spend the holidays with relatives Before she left, however, s... and Bob and Barbara Stanwyck jumped the gun by having a turkey dinner and unwrapping presents under the tree.

MUSKEGON TEAM KEEPS FRANCHISE

DETROIT, Jan. 5 (CP)—An attempt by Michigan-Ontario Hockey League Clubs to expel the Muskegon, Mich., team from the league was defeated last night when officials of the Lake Michigan town team posted $1,000 in cash, at a meeting of the league's Board of Governors, to be divided among clubs making the long train trip to Muskegon.

At the same time, Fred Haner, Detroit, league president, announced the Board of Governors had agreed to allow a London, Ont., team to enter the loop in the 1938-39 season.

Synthetic Vitamin R-1 Boon For Lengthy Hangovers

Found To Aid Where Appetite Has Faded Along With Nerves And Eyesight

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. — (CP). — Cheering words for those revelers who drink too often and too deeply from the punch bowl came to-day from the medical science. They expressed both hope and sympathy, depending chiefly on what form a reveler's hangover might take.

Sympathy, with virtually no hope whatever, was offered those merry-makers whose overflowing enthusiasm induced merely the morning-after big head.

But for that section of the celebrating public that found itself for days on end unable to unhook its collective chin from the neighborhood bar, and now experiences paralysis of the motor nerves, fading eyesight and agonizing muscular pains, some hope.

Dr. Norman Jolliffe, chief of the Medical Service of the Psychiatric Division of the New York City Department of hospitals, announced a few cents' worth of synthetic Vitamin R-1 had been shown in 1,000 cases treated at Bellevue Hospital to be helpful in the acute cases.

The vitamin treatment, Dr. Jolliffe explained, had been found to be useful in the case of those persons whose continued consumption of alcohol left them indifferent to food. For those drinkers who also eat their usual quota of food, there is never a vitamin deficiency, although there may result some major hangovers.

Asked what medical science had to offer in this respect, Dr. Jolliffe replied:

"Plenty of fluids, such as water or milk, some sort of an alkaline, and well, moderation."

He thought it does no harm to get "boiled" for social reasons now and then, but he warned against "pick-me-ups" because one leads to another.

JAPS TO CONTROL FOREIGN PRESS

SHANGHAI, Jan. 5 (CP-Havas). —The Japanese authorities to-day demanded censorship over foreign-language newspapers in Shanghai and a larger measure of control in the administration of the city's International Settlement.

Accompanied by representatives of the Japanese Army, Navy, and Foreign Office, Consul-General Suemasa Okamoto called on Stirling Fessenden, Secretary-General of the Shanghai Municipal, and presented specific demands.

Simultaneously Japanese plain-clothesmen took up posts in the offices of the Radio Corporation of America and negotiators indicated their intention of establishing Japanese control and censorship, if necessary, over the radio administration in which foreign interests are heavily concerned.

The Japanese said they expected to take over control of radio communication formerly exercised by the Chinese Government radio administration.

Asked if censorship would be imposed at once on papers, the Embassy spokesman said the Japanese would wait to see what the Settlement authorities intended to do. He said they had promised to conform to the demand for press control.

Pass Up French Area.

The spokesman said no similar demands had been made to the French Concession authorities because no anti-Japanese activities had been observed in the French area. He declined to say whether the newspaper measures would apply there.

Establishment of censorship over radio messages would depend largely on the attitude of newspapermen filing their despatches, the spokesman said. He made it plain that the Japanese intended to assume "complete control" over the share in the radio administration formerly held by the Chinese Government. R.C.A. had taken over the service entirely following the Chinese retreat from this area.

Why Use A "Sissy" Laxative?

Chronic constipation has to do with the colon or large intestine. Unless the large bowel is thoroughly emptied from time to time you become a victim of chronic constipation and poisoning of the system which results in colitis or other serious diseases.

Mild or "sissy" laxatives merely cause a movement of the bowels without effecting a thorough cleaning out of the colon or large bowel. For this reason you are misled into thinking that you are doing all you can to overcome a constipated and poisoned condition of the system.

Those who know Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills appreciate the value of a real medicine which not only effects a thorough cleansing of the colon or large bowel but also arouses the liver and kidneys to activity in filtering poisons from the blood.

Once you have proven the merits of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you will never return to the use of "sissy" laxatives. Used regularly once a week this medicine ensures pure blood and freedom from constipation and the pains, aches and serious diseases which accompany it.
